MERT TARDY FOUND DEAD AT HOME

Wife On Vacation At Time Of Death Of Frisco Porter

Memphians were shocked when they learned of the sudden death of Mert Tardy, Pullman porter who was found dead Sunday morning at approximately 9:30 at his home, 1491 South Parkway East by a friend Mr. Outlaw. Mr. Tardy called him at 9:05 Sunday morning saying that he would meet Mr. Outlaw at the Outlaw residence in twenty minutes. After thirty minutes had expired, Mr. Outlaw who lives two doors from the Tardys called but got no response. He then walked down there and looked in a back window. There he found Mr. Tardy stretched out across a bed. Mrs. Tardy immediately called a near-by physician who pronounced him dead.

WIFE ENROUTE HOME FROM VACATION

At the time of Mr. Tardy's death, his wife, Mrs. Grace King Tardy, was enroute home after vacationing in Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago, where she motored with Mr. and Mrs. O'Farrell Nelson friends and neighbors. She arrived here Sunday at 11:30 p. m., when she was informed of her husband's death by her pastor, the Reverend A. E. Andrews and Mrs. Andrews of the Parkway Gardens Church, Rev. and Mrs. Andrews sat in their car to wait Mrs. Tardy's arrival after she could not be reached by phone in Chicago.

Services were held at the Parkway Gardens Presbyterian Church with Reverend Andrews giving the eulogy. He was assisted by the Rev. J. W. Golden and the Rev. Robert McRae.

Mr. Tardy was a native of Amory, Miss. where he attended school. He moved to Memphis in 1945 after having served 4 years in the Armed Forces.

He was married to Miss Grace King, popular young teacher and a social and civic leader in the community. Mr. Tardy was well known as a fisherman and loved gardening. He was loved by his neighbors with whom he was kind and helpful at all times. He had been employed by the Frisco Railroad Company since he was 19 years old as Pullman Porter.

After not being able to reach Mrs. King, neighbors notified her sister, Mrs. Marie King Hicks, at her Los Angeles home Sunday morning. Mrs. Hicks flew to Memphis from the West Coast arriving here at 12:30 a. m., one hour after Mrs. Tardy had arrived home by car Sunday night.

Mr. Tardy is also survived by a brother-in-law, Mr. James King, a prominent civic leader in Memphis for many years, who now resides in Los Angeles, and who came to Memphis for the funeral.

T. H. Hayes and Sons Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements. Pallbearers were Mr. S. W. Robinson, Mr. Howard Simon, Mr. John Denman, Mr. E. H. Simon, Mr. M. L. Wood, Mr. Horace Ingram and Dr. I. A. Watson, Jr.

Registration of 11th and 12th graders will be completed Aug. 29. After a Labor Day week-end eighth and 10th graders will register on September 2nd. Youngsters in the first through the seventh grades and ninth grade will register Sept. 3rd. On Thursday, Sept. 4, teachers will prepare class records before classes begin the following day.

NEW YORK BOUND—Lee Cunningham, 26-year-old blind singer, and Harry Luby (middle) of the Mallory Knights, showed smiles of anticipated success as they boarded this train this week enroute to New York for Cunningham's audition for Ted Mack's "Original Amateur Hour." Before the New York audition, Cunningham, who is a former student of Memphis' Mme. Florence Talbert, McCleave, of operatic fame, was scheduled to stop at Philadelphia for two appearances before the National Bureau Association of Musicians. Unidentified porter looks on.

Mr. Evers is the postal employee who instigated the recent bus suit against the city of Memphis.

Woman, Evangelist Complain About Police Beating Here

A woman complained to the Memphis World this week that she was beaten and robbed by two local police officers, who, she said, dragged her behind Sam's Spaghetti Shop at Poplar and Main where they allegedly committed the offense.

Mrs. Sarah Taylor of 291 November 6th Street said she was "minding my own business" in the cafe when the policemen allegedly came up and told her to get in the police car. She said instead of taking her to the police station, they took her behind the spaghetti shop where they beat her and robbed her of $12.

She said the policemen had "a pick against me" because she had knowingly sold some beer to a minor while working at a shop last year. She said the officers "passed up three or four drunks to come over to my booth to get me." She said she was not under the influence of alcohol.

An evangelist, Rev. Lucious Newsum, who had just completed a tent revival meeting in West Memphis, Ark., made a special trip to the Memphis World office to complain about the alleged beating and robbing. He said he was going to the Ministers Conference to see what could be done about it.

Mrs. Taylor was fined $12 for "disorderly conduct and resisting arrest." The protest against the police officers, who denied beating the woman, was dismissed.

Atty. Farris Installs Officers Of Junior Chamber Of Commerce

Members of the Memphis Jaycees heard a forceful speech Monday evening when Atty. William Farris, past administrative assistant to four Memphis Mayors who is now administrator over 6,000 employees in the city of Memphis, spoke to members and their guests just before he installed officers to serve the Junior Chamber of Commerce for 1958-59.

Mr. Farris, who is also president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Tennessee, spoke out of appreciation for the invitation extended him to install officers. Instead of the usual doubling up on praise, Mr. Farris gave a bit of constructive criticism: Tony's dinner club, started off the city administrator, should be running over tonight with young men. Leadership training is an important thing but you need more members to train.

President Vows Use Of Troops To Bar "Anarchy"

By DAYTON MOORE
United Press International
WASHINGTON. — (UPI) — President Eisenhower made it abundantly clear Wednesday that he again would use federal troops to enforce court-ordered public school integration if it was necessary to avoid "anarchy."

The President told his news conference the federal government must and will enforce court integration rulings if the states fail to do so.

He said his feelings "are exactly as they were" last fall when he ordered paratroopers and federalized National Guardsmen to maintain order at newly-integrated Central High School at Little Rock, Ark.

Although he did not specifically mention the use of troops, Eisenhower made it perfectly clear that he would use them again as a last resort in Little Rock or any other locality where violence and mob rule threaten public order.

The President opened his news by reading a prepared statement which he said was aimed at answering questions raised by the U. S. Court of Appeals decision reinstating integration in the Little Rock high school.

"Every American must understand that if an individual, community or state is going successfully and continuously to defy the courts, then there is anarchy," he said.

The President said it was the duty of each state to "suppress unlawful forces" and maintain order "to permit compliance with the final orders of the court."

"Defiance of this duty would present the most serious problem, but there can be no equivocation as to the responsibility of the federal government in such an event," he added.

The President said his feelings were unchanged from last Sept. 24 when he ordered federal troops in to Little Rock. He quoted a paragraph from his nation-wide television speech at that time which

Justice Department Views Little Rock; Action Possible

By LOUIS LAUTNER
WASHINGTON, D. C. — (UPI) — While top Government officials declined Tuesday to comment on the decision in the Little Rock case, the position of the Justice Department was ferreted out of a speech made earlier this summer by Assistant Attorney General W. Wilson White.

The Eighth United States Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis Monday set aside the order of Federal District Judge Harry J. Lemley granting a delay of two and a half years to the Little Rock Board of Education to carry out Federal court orders for integration of Little Rock public schools.

The 6-1 decision led in effect the preliminary injunction issued by Federal District Judge Ronald N. Davies on Sept. 20, 1957, enjoining Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, Major Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, Adjutant General of Arkansas, Lieut. Col. Marion E. Johnson, unit commander of the Arkansas National Guard, and all persons in active concert or participation with them from obstructing Federal court orders for desegregation of Little Rock's Central High School.

Initiative Needed
According to the views of Mr. White, if the school board does not comply with the orders for desegregation of Little Rock public schools and re-admit the eight of the nine colored pupils who were enrolled there last year, the initiative must be taken by the colored pupils and their parents, or the N. A. A. C. P. acting on their behalf, to compel compliance.

The Little Rock Board of Education may be cited for contempt of court if it does not comply with the desegregation orders. Members of a mob who seek to intimidate or prevent qualified colored children from attending Central High likewise can be cited for contempt for violation of the order of Sept. 20, 1957.

FAUBUS WON'T USE MILITIA FOR MIXING

By BRYCE MILLER
United Press International
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — (UPI) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said on Wednesday that President Eisenhower need not expect him to use the state militia to enforce integration at Central High School Sept. 2.

Position Unchanged
"If it is the purpose of Mr. Eisenhower's statement to reaffirm his position last fall, that it is my duty as governor to use the militia to enforce integration in any school district in this state, then I must say that my position of last fall is unchanged," Faubus said.

"I do not interpret my constitutional duties to cover any such theory as that advanced by the President. I do recognize my duty to preserve the peace of my state and I shall continue to do so to the best of my ability.

About Your Home

We are told that the chemise influence has spread to chairs. As in ages past, what a woman wears determines the chair she sits in. This year's knee-hugging silhouette has raised the sitting level and shortened the depth of the seat cushion of at least one chair. Quite the contrary was true in the eighteenth century, when the paniers of the French distaff aristocracy widened and lowered Louis chairs. In the last century, Victorian women sat in chairs with arms. They were designed so that her hoops would not become enmeshed with the limbs of the furniture.

The ladies should go far in their newly-formed organization and will be reporting on their activity in a few days.

Floyd Patterson Climbs Off Canvas To Kayo Roy Harris

LOS ANGELES—U. P. Heavy-weight champion Floyd Patterson climbed off the canvas Monday and came on to floor Roy Harris four times for a 12th-round knockout and his first defeat in their gory title fight at Wrigley Field.

Game but blood-smeared Harris, of Cut and Shoot, Texas, was so battered at the finish of action in the 12th round that his trainer, Bill Gore, asked referee Musky Callahan to stop the bout. Callahan did that before the bell rang to start the 13th and he ruled it a 12th-round knockout under California rules.

Harris, seeking his 23rd straight victory and the world title, floored Patterson with a right to the chin for the count of four in the second round and buckled his knees twice later in that session. Then Patterson, weighing 184 1-2 pounds to Harris' 194, began to work on the challenger's head and body. In the third round, he gashed Roy's left eyelid and brought blood to the nose.

Harris fought back bravely in the Texas tradition but took a terrific battering thereafter. He suffered a gash at the corner of his right eye in the fourth round that was bleeding profusely before the finish. He also suffered a cut in the fifth round further back on the right temple.

Harris bled so profusely that even Patterson's white trunks were stained crimson before the finish. In the seventh round, Patterson floored the dark-haired challenger with a right to the chin for a count of eight. The bell rang almost instantly thereafter and may have saved him.

In the eighth round the bobbing and weaving Patterson, fighting from behind the defensive gloves at both sides of his head, dropped Harris twice. A left-right combination sent him to the canvas for a count of seven and shortly thereafter a right to the head dropped him for the count of three.

Although Harris was weakening from the head pounding and the terrific smashes to the body, he continued fighting back and poking at Patterson with left jabs and now and then shooting in a sneak-right to the head.

Almost as soon as he regained his feet, a left hook staggered him and knocked him into the ropes. After that, he was nailed with a succession of rights and lefts that hammered him about the ring. Near the end of the round a left-right combination to the chin sent him staggering backward and then
