SENATE KILLS BILL TO CURB SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Thursday night killed legislation designed to nullify some recent Supreme Court decisions.

By a vote of 41 to 40, the Senate climaxed two days of debate by sending the legislation back to the Senate Judiciary Committee. Members said the action killed for all practical purposes all pending bills to offset court rulings.

The fight over the bills once threatened to hold up plans for a congressional adjournment Saturday.

Directly killed by the Senate was a bill by Sen. Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) to reinstate state antisubversive laws ruled invalid by the high court in 1956 and its controversial Steve Nelson decision.

Also scuttled was a broader amendment by Sen. John L. McClellan (D., Ark.) which would have nullified state laws on the same subject only if Congress specifically said so or there was a direct conflict between the two.

Opponents argued that the legislation would lead to endless legal confusion. The House already had passed legislation even more sweeping than the Bridges and McClellan proposals.

The move to send the bill back to committee was led by Sen. John A. Carroll (D., Colo.). He and others argued that the committee did not hold adequate hearings on the legislation.

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings, Jr. (D., Mo.) also contended that the bill would lead to "chaos" and litigation compounded by an "endless labyrinth of uncertainty and indecision."

Miss Dykes, Mr. Blayton United In Double Ring Rites

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Miss Reida Bell Dykes and Jesse B. Blayton, Jr., were married here August 9, 1958 at 5:30 p.m. in the beautiful flower garden of her parents' home on Dandridge Avenue. The bride's father performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. DeWitt Sandford Dykes, Sr. of Knoxville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. Blayton, Sr. of Atlanta, Ga.

Given in marriage by her brother, the bride was attired in a gown with needle point sleeves made of Chantilly lace posed over pure silk tulle which fell into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was draped from a crown of seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a string of Delaunay pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Miss Bettey Blayton of Williamsburg, Va., cousin of the bridegroom was maid of honor. She wore a light blue waltz-length gown of chiffon whose bouffant skirt flared over tulle. Her accessories were of matching color. Her bouquet was of white roses with blue ribbons.

Bridemaids were Mrs. Virginia Jenkins, Miss Alderforth Lewis, both of Knoxville, Tenn., Miss Inis Dula of Lenoir, N. C. and Miss Julia Boyer, Rehoboth Beach, Del.

They were attired in rainbow waltz-length gowns with matching accessories. Their bouquets were of white carnations with matching ribbons.

The bride's mother wore a dress of champagne over tulle, a multi-colored feathered hat and black faille accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a green chiffon dress, a white feathered hat and black accessories. Her corsage was also a white orchid.

Virgil Banks, of Atlanta Ga. was best man. Ushers were Edward L. Goodlett, Haynes Pressley, Dr. C. M. Smith, John G. Glover and William Bell all of Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Mary Ella Ciny directed the wedding. Miss A. Z. House was the organist, and Mrs. Mamie Julian was soloist. Both are residents of Chattanooga, Tenn.

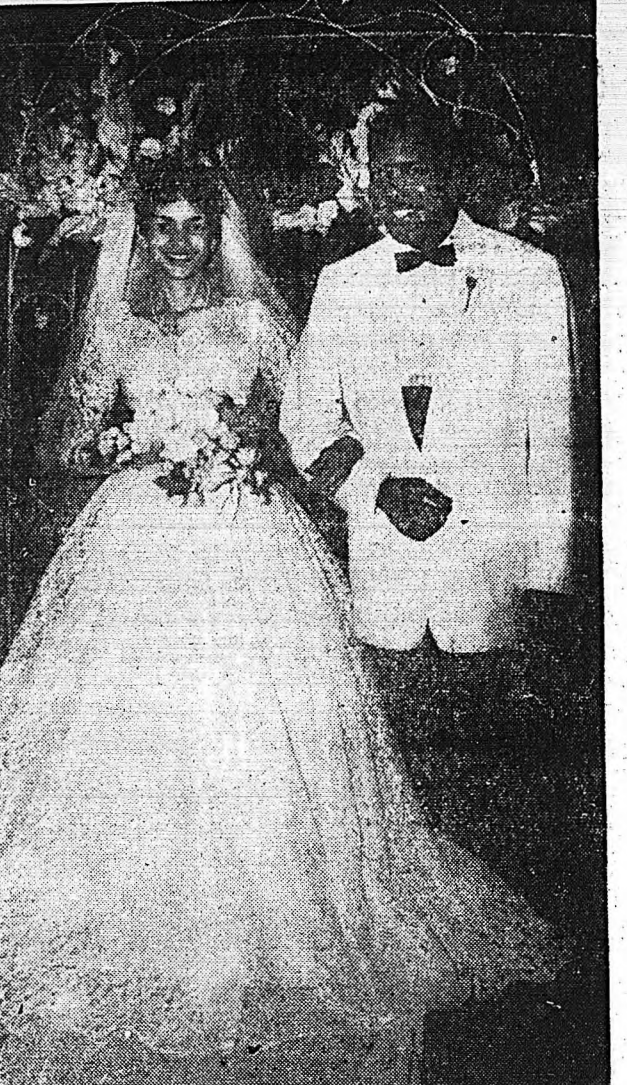

RECEPTION ON LAWN Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given on the lawn. The bride's table was beautifully decorated by the hostesses. They were Mrs. Mary Brown Atwell, Mrs. Mable Bryant, Miss Bessie Brice, Mrs. Essie Hannon, Mrs. Janet Birch, Mrs. Glosie Cole, and Mrs. Henrietta Prigmore.

Buff City Society

BY JEWEL GENTRY

ACTIVITIES the nation over center around school this week. Bells will ring all over the country next week for the youngsters. They rang this week for teachers in Memphis, bringing together hundreds of Negro teachers Tuesday morning for a meeting at Ellis Auditorium. According to Superintendent E. C. Stimpert, the meeting established rapport and is traditional in the city of Memphis. The meeting of the school head said serves to get us together and establishes a feeling of belonging among teachers.

The atmosphere was beautiful in the newly decorated air-conditioned Music Hall of the auditorium. George Siler of the Memphis Commercial Appeal gave the main talk (a masterful one) bringing out the importance of the teacher to the community. Teachers Mr. Siler said are essential to prepare our children for life and are bridge builders between one generation and the next. They mold character. As a result they deserve much respect from the public. The teacher in turn he said should be worthy of the charge laid upon him. Most people, he continued, are too unappreciative of our Nation's teachers who are entirely respectable for preparing our children for world leadership.

Mr. Stimpert then presented Mrs. Merts Ewell, concert artist who has had several auditions in New York and teacher at Riverview School who sang beautifully. She was accompanied by Mrs. Meryl Glover of a city school. They received a wealth of applause which told the story of the music record.

The superintendent then presented Dr. Graves, head of the Memphis Health Department; another physician spoke on X-Rays; Miss Willa A. McWilliams from Manassas who gave an announcement on the Pre-School child program; Mr. Freeman, Asst. superintendent who explained briefly the Saving Aest., with the Teachers Union; Dr. Henry Packer who offered examinations for the Prevention of Glaucoma to teachers; Mrs. Anna Jones, new principal at Klondike was introduced to the group.

Superintendent Simerly, lately presented Administrators from the Central Office... who sat on the sat on the stage. Among them were Miss Margaret Williams, director of personnel and research; Morgan Christian, Asst. superintendent; in charge of Guidance; Mrs. Shirley Ray, Captain Glisson, director of safety and his assistant, Lt. Forrest O'Kelley; Miss Lucille Hansborough, Supervisor of Negro Elementary School; Miss Melville, Elem. Supervisor; Miss Lorena Wesson, Elem. Supervisor; Mrs. Elizabeth Moss, Home Economics Supervisor; Miss Lola Stephens, Elementary Supervisor; Miss Jim Ella Cotton, new Elementary Supervisor in the Negro Schools.

Among the other members of the administrative staff were Wm. McGinnis, Director of Vocational Guidance; Harold Perry, Director of Retarded Children; Dewey Orr, Director of Educational Materials; Wm. O. Butler, who is in charge of Records of Attendance; John Freeman, Deputy Asst. Superintendent; Robert Davis, Director of Accounting; Miss Nichols Ward who is in charge of Testing and several new supervisors.

PARTY HONORS MISS ANN CARNES BARTHOLOMEW AND HER FINANCE. Phillip Booth, Jr., Shares Honors. A tall and beautiful tropical stood out in the elaborate and huge bluish pink living dining area at the South Parkway residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Ray Monday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Ray, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Gilliam and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Booth, Sr., entertained with a champagne Sip for Miss Ann Carnes Bartholomew and her finance, Mr. Walter B. Harris who flew in at 11:30 Monday evening from Washington where he was still at the University. Sharing honors was Phil Booth, Jr., who left for the army Tuesday morning.

The table in the dining area, centered by a large bouquet of flowers was over laid with an exquisite white embroidered linen cloth and the unusually pretty centerpiece and a beautiful full size bride drawn by the bride-elect's brother (Billy Bartholomew who is an art student) were flanked by bluish tapers in crystal candelabra. The beautiful bride (that looked much like Miss Bartholomew) was made to wear a finger-tip veil and a queen's crown.

Dancing was in the back den where many of the guest sat. I must tell you just this one time what the pretty menu consisted of for the youngsters set (that included the bride party for the most part) Radish Roses, Carrot curls, Celery curls, Stuffed celery, Black olives, Ripe olives, Burr gherkins, Salted nuts, Pastel mints, Champagne and Sparkling Burgandy. Car loads of the group went to the Airport at 11:00 to meet the groom-to-be.

Miss Bartholomew, a charming, sophisticated and beautiful, bride-elect, wore a radiantly beautiful, look frock that featured a deep flounce and long lines. Her mother, Mrs. Bartholomew who was accompanied by Mr. Bartholomew, wore a smart pale pink cotton with a black detail. Mrs. Booth wore a pretty pink skirt covered in rhinestones and a blue top. Mrs. Gilliam wore a very lovely black early fall frock.

Assisting in receiving at the door was Polk Puryear, Mr. and Mrs. Ray's nephew, Miss Tommy Kay Hayes, "Art" Gilliam, Mr. and Mrs. Gilliam's son who leaves next week for school in Connecticut, and Miss Angela Owen all Junior hosts and hostesses.

Members of the bridal party attending were Avis Lattin of Memphis who is in Detroit now attending the Detroit Law School and living as a groomsmen, Miss Peggie Ann White, William ("Billy") Bartholomew, Miss Adaline Pipes, Miss Gloria Clark, Augustus White, Holie Price, Jr., Miss June Billips, and Miss Rose Thomas.

MRS. JOHN D. BROWN

Miss Thelma Jean Tennant Weds John Brown In Boston

The Twelfth Baptist Church in Boston, Mass., was the setting for the recent wedding of the former Miss Thelma Jean Tennant of Atlanta and Boston, to Mr. John D. Brown of Buffalo, N. Y. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Simuel Tennant of Atlanta and the late Mr. Tennant. Mr. Brown is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Brown of Buffalo, where The Reverend Mr. Brown is the Priest-in-charge of St. Phillips Episcopal Church.

The bride is a graduate of the Washington High School and the Reed Business College in Atlanta and attended Clark College before going to Boston where she studied at an eastern business school. In Boston she resided with a sister, Mrs. James Johnson. In Atlanta, during her school days, she resided with another sister, Mrs. Bertha Gresham on Vanira Avenue. She is also a sister of Mrs. A. G. Shields of Memphis.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the Bostonian Hotel after which the couple left on a wedding trip to New York City and Niagara Falls. Upon their arrival in Buffalo, where they will make their home, another reception was given at St. Phillips where the bridegroom's father has pastored for 30 years.

'Politics Civic Duty Of Teachers', Editor Says

The editor of the Memphis World told the social science teachers of this city Wednesday afternoon at Booker T. Washington High School that "politics is the civic duty of a teacher (since) it is one of the greatest influences in the American democratic way of life."

Thaddeus T. Stokes, speaking on "What Teachers Should Do About the Civic Outlook," said, "I am fully aware of the fact that many teachers will say 'reading, writing and arithmetic is our business, not politics. But I would like to say that politics should be the concern of every teacher and every citizen. It has tremendous effect upon our lives. We look to politics to maintain our individual freedoms."

Politics established our school system, our police departments, our water and sewerage system, our aviation departments, our streets, our parks, recreation facilities, our public health department, etc....

"In fact," Stokes said, "not any one can be a good citizen without dealing in politics. I cannot see how anyone could be so naive as to advocate non-participation in politics."

OTHER DUTIES OF TEACHERS
This duty of teachers was the most emphasized by the editor. The other duties he outlined were: (1) teaching youth how to work with their hands, heads, and hearts; (2) teaching youth to obey laws; (3) planting the seed of civic mindedness; (4) supplying leadership in civic projects; (5) teaching patriotism; and (6) initiating steps to implement educational opportunity.

"Educational opportunity is implemented fundamentally by teachers," Stokes said, "and teachers have the opportunity to make it as great or as limited as their civic outlook dictates. I call upon teachers to be opportunists and wisely calculate the best approach to prepare our young men and young women to meet future situations with knowledge and how to handle their civic duties with dispatch."

Diaper Service Now Available To Negro Mothers

The first diaper service available to Negro Mothers is the San-Care Diaper Service which recently opened its doors for business. Owner of the diaper service J. H. Walker said that Negro mothers have not availed themselves of the service because "we feel that they haven't learned how economical and safe these scientific washed diapers are for their babies."

He went on to say that science has proven home washed diapers cause diaper rash.

LaVern Baker Is Loyal To Friends

DETROIT—La Vern Baker who has gained quite a reputation for her loyalty to her friends did it again. While appearing here at the Flame Show Bar she dashed out between shows to put in an appearance at Club El Sino where a benefit show was being held for agent-manager Rollo S. Vest. She also did a number.

When she returned to the Flame, she was approached by the frantic manager, Chuck Selk, who raved, ranted, and proceeded to advise she was late. After listening to the excited man for awhile, LaVern quipped: "O. K. I went to the benefit and I did one lousy number what ya want to do, fire me?"

This floored the irate Selk and all was promptly forgiven.

YMCA To Rendezvous: 'Lets Be Friends'

BY MELVIN GREER
The Abe Scharff YMCA boxing club (this week called on the rival Rendezvous Athletic Club to cease its attacks on the "Y" constituency this week in an apparent bid to end the feud that has been roaring between the two outfits for more than a month now.

The statement asking the Rendezvous Club to bury the hatchet was made by the YMCA boxers. They said that it was a voluntary action, and the coaches Roscoe Williams and Herbert Hunt has nothing to do with the statement.

"Alright, so you did manage to luck up and beat us on television 2-1," the YMCA pugilists said. "But to look our defeat" in stride, and the essence of sportsmanship was exemplified by us. We have nothing against your club, your coach, Blondie Trent or anybody connected with you. We don't believe in grudges."

Arab Leader Says MRA Could Solve Crisis In Middle East

MORAL RE-ARMAMENT SUMMIT CONFERENCE, MACKINAC ISLAND, Michigan—A leader of the Arab world strongly presented here what he called "the one hope" for solving the present Middle East crisis.

"If Moral Re-Armament becomes the ideology and policy of the West she would discover an immediate response from the Arab world. Believe me, it is the one hope" declared the Prime Minister of the Sudan, Sayed Abdullah Khalil in a message to Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, initiator of MRA.

Saying that MRA was "more urgently needed than ever" in the 1950's critical world situation, the Prime Minister referred to the "statesmanship" of the "humble heart" initiated by Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan through MRA. "It has effectively brought healing between the peoples and the nations of the Orient."

The Prime Minister said that if the West practiced Moral Re-Armament, "instead of intensifying bitterness she would cure it. Instead of multiplying hatred and misunderstanding for she would heal them. Instead of suspicion and fear as her motives she would find that justice and an honorable understanding can be born. Our great friend, Frank Buchman, has for a generation selflessly courageously pioneered the way and shown it can be done."

NEW POLICIES WANTED
He said it was "his deep desire" that "new policies" would emerge from the Summit Conferences of MRA at Mackinac and Caux.

Dr. Buchman said "MRA is bringing the East and West together. He spoke of the recent visit to Mackinac of Professor N. S. Fatani, former Iranian representative at the United Nations. He pleaded with use to send a force of Moral Re-Armament through the Middle East because it could bring the answer," said Dr. Buchman. "That challenge has been taken seriously by leaders in Europe. The visas for an MRA force to visit the Middle East have come through and an advance force is in Cairo now."

Dr. Buchman said that consultations have been held with Middle East diplomats representing their countries in Europe and they were unanimous in their approval. He said that the Tunisian ambassador to France, Mohammed Masmoudi said that this initiative represented the "last chance" for the Middle East leaders to get together with the West.

Dr. Buchman concluded that the convictions of these Arab leaders was born out by a recent statement of the newly-elected president of Lebanon, General Fouad Chehab, who stated, "Without an ideology in the West that will enable an honest nationalist to be friendly with the West we cannot remain longer an ally of the West."

"The Impossible Made Possible" In South Africa By MRA Forces

Expect War Orphans To Seek Schooling

WASHINGTON — Between 9,000 and 10,000 young men and women are expected to apply for schooling this fall under the two-year old War Orphans Education program. Veterans Administration announced this week.

The education program for sons and daughters of deceased war veterans became effective in Oct., 1956.

War Orphan students generally must be between 18 and 23 years of age. VA said they either must have completed or have been a pupil in a regular high school. They may receive up to 36 months of education, with VA paying an allowance $110 a month for each month they are at school.

Before they start school, they will be given vocational counseling to help them select a goal and the proper course leading to the goal.

To be eligible, their veteran-parent must have died from a war-time-incurred disability.

Houston Teens Held For Violence

HOUSTON, Tex. — (NNPA) — Teen-agers and pre-teenagers were responsible for a large portion of the blood spilled here last week as one was killed, one shot, and a third stabbed in one of the most violent teen-age outbreaks of the summer months.

Charged with murder was an 11-year old boy, who beat a three-year old child with his fist when the child refused to commit an unnatural act on him.

Stabbed was a 16-year old boy, who was in serious condition in a hospital with a deflated lung.

Shot was a 10-year-old boy who received a gunshot wound in the neck when a 13-year-old friend pulled the trigger of a stolen gun with which he was playing.

The 11-year-old boy is being held for the murder of the three-year-

CAUX, Switzerland. — "The impossible made possible." This was how South Africa, with white, black and colored speaking together, described the healing of racial antagonisms in their country through Moral Re-Armament.

Parliamentary leaders from countries young and old whose very survival may depend on their finding racial and tribal unity listened intently this morning as a uniting ideology was demonstrated. "No other force but Moral Re-Armament is even beginning to bring an answer in South Africa," said Roland Kingwill, "and nothing is changing public opinion there more than the all-African film 'Freedom.' This South-African farmer said he was grateful to apologize before the representatives of so many African nations - Ghana, Nigeria, the Cameroons, Rhodesia, Uganda and Somaliland - for the way he had treated the African people in South Africa. Describing how an African couple at Caux had helped him and his wife to find an answer in their lives, he said, "We Europeans cannot find the full dimension of change without the help of the Africans. I have decided to work with men of all races on the basis of MRA so that South Africa may become, in the words of Dr. Frank Buchman, 'a sound-in-god of the answer for the whole world.'"

FOR OTHER RACES

His wife added that their daughter was in Nigeria helping to look after the children of an African couple who were bringing MRA to Europe, and that their sons had contributed money towards the MRA center in West Africa. "We want to live to make other races great," she said.

An African teacher and a colored headmaster stood with the white farmer on the platform. Mr. Fezile Dlepu said, "I hoped for the chance of a bloody revolution to wipe out the white man, but I have learned that the only revolution that mat-

A six-inch blade, wielded by 18-year old Ed Fugillie caused the puncturing of one of Calvin D. Mester's lungs.

Master, 18, lives with his parents. He and Fugillie were involved in a fight, which was described by Fugillie as an "old feud."

After the stabbing, Masters was rushed to a hospital in a private car, and Fugillie was arrested and charged with burglary and assault.

After stealing a gun from Essie Mae Veal, 23, a 13-year old boy shot one of his best friends in the neck.

Freddie Ewing, 10, suffered gunshot wounds in the neck when the gun was fired by the older boy. The youngster said he was showing Ewing how to cock the gun when it went off, striking him in the neck.

Ewing was rushed to a hospital and treated for the wound while the older boy was arrested and charged with burglary and assault with a deadly weapon.

COURT CURB BILLS VIEWED 'HOSTILE'

NEW YORK — The chairmen of the Democratic and Republican national committees have warned that enactment of legislation designed to curb the United States Supreme Court would be viewed as an "extremely hostile act" by Negro citizens throughout the nation. (The Senate defeated the move in a final vote last week.)

The warning was dispatched on August 18 by Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary. In telegrams to Paul Butler, Democratic chairman, and Meade Alcorn, Republican chairman, Mr. Wilkins reminded the political leaders of the beatings and shootings of Negro prisoners in recent weeks in Georgia and Mississippi which resulted in acquittal of their attackers.

These cases, he told Mr. Butler, demonstrate the "necessity of more not less federal protection. Any legislation which throws Negro citizens to the state wolves will not make friends."

Mr. Alcorn was warned that "Republican assistance to southern Democrats who support bills to curb Supreme Court would be regarded as unfriendly. Negro citizens, Mr. Wilkins said, "cannot regard as friends those who join Dixiecrats in restricting their access to federal authority."

The NAACP leader also wired 73 strategically located branches of the Association calling upon to wire their senators protesting "this blackjacking the rights of Negro citizens." The local units were also urged to inform their state and county Democratic chairmen that enactment of legislation to curb the Supreme Court "by Congress controlled by Democrats will be viewed as hostile act by Negro citizens over entire nation."

Road Gang Escapee Fights For Freedom In Illinois

CHICAGO. — (ANP) — A hearing will be held in federal district court this week to determine whether an escapee from an Alabama prison road gang must return to Alabama where he faces life imprisonment.

The escapee Earl Puryear, 32, was sentenced on his plea of guilty to murdering his first wife in Birmingham in 1950. Puryear was arrested Monday by FBI agents on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid detention.

Puryear will be supported in court by fellow employees of the Ideal Printing company where he has worked for four years as a shipping clerk. He and his present wife have a three year old son.

In legal maneuvering last Thursday, his attorney, Albert Sheppard, charged he was "railroaded" in his Alabama trial, and signed a confession without knowing what he was signing. He contended that his wife was accidentally stabbed.

Juvenile Delinquency

By the NNPA News Service

Each year, four out of every 10 American teenagers drop out of high school before graduating. The youngsters who fail to finish high school seriously limits his own job opportunities -- and he also reduces the quality and effectiveness of the American work force.

Despite periodic fluctuations, the long term trend in the United States economy is for growth. And the long-term need in the American labor force is for men and women with a strong basic education on which working skills can be built.

In the years ahead, the demand for skilled, professional and technical workers will be on the increase, while the demand for unskilled workers will decline. By 1965, United States industry will need 137 professional and technical workers, 124 skilled craftsmen, 122 semiskilled workers for every 100 it had in 1955.

Increased emphasis on skills in the years ahead is a result of the increasing complexity of machines and methods, but also of the Nation's growing appetite for goods and services. Between 1955 and 1965, the gross national product will increase by 40 per cent to provide for a population increase of more than 25 million.

PRODUCTION NOTED

In 1955, the average American worker produced $6190 worth of goods and services. In 1965, he must produce $7500 worth.

Improved machines and techniques will help us to make the necessary increases in production with only 10 million additional workers. But these new workers must be quality workers.

By 1965, this country will need 3,000,000 more engineers, scientists and other professional workers. It will need at least 5,000,000 additional skilled and semi-skilled workers, and several million managerial and other white collar workers.

It will need to train 250,000 additional craftsmen each year just to maintain the present work force, without allowing for any expansion.

Of 200 large firms surveyed by the Labor Department, one-half said they were unable to hire enough research scientists and engineers. One out of three said they had substantial shortages of such personnel.

Of every four qualified specialists needed by the armed forces, only three are currently available.

In a democracy, no one can be forced to complete his education or follow a certain occupation. But every young person should know how important he is in the big pattern of a world-wide contest of ideas and economics.

spent on advertising to sell liquor? (4) What is the responsibility of Christians to understand those who drink and make them feel wanted in the Christian fellowship? How can Christians achieve this?

When we have answered these questions, and done something concrete towards answering them, then, and only then, can we consider ourselves worthy of the name "Christian."

(These comments are based on outlines of the International Sunday School Lesson, copyrighted by the International Council of Religious Education, and used by permission.)

Following the death of four young people in an automobile accident a few months ago, the father of one of the ill-fated youngsters swore that he would kill the man who had sold whisky to the members of that party of young people. Imagine his shock and surprise when, on going to get a shot of whisky stored away in the cupboard, he found a note in his daughter's handwriting: "Dad, we are taking along some of your good liquor. I know you won't mind." Can you imagine how that father felt? Unwittingly, he had set an example for his children.

We must, indeed, be on our guard against making our brother stumble.

In accepting our Christian responsibility regarding the consumption of alcohol we would do well to pause and ask ourselves the following questions: (1) How can we help to remove the factors in community and social life which cause people to drink? (2) What is the responsibility of Christians to correct the circumstances which make drink so easily available? (3) What is the responsibility of a Christian to help others maintain a Christian standard when so much is

Sunday School Lesson

TEMPERANCE AND SOCIAL JUSTICE

International Sunday School Lesson for August 31, 1958

MEMORY SELECTION: "So each of us shall give account of himself to God. Then let us no more pass judgement on one another, but rather decide never to put a stumbling-block or hindrance in the way of a brother." (Romans 14: 12-13.)

LESSON TEXT: Proverbs 23: 29-35; Habakkuk 2: 9-16; Romans 13-11 through 14-23.

Today's lesson shows that temperance, as a just concern of individuals or groups for others, is our Christian obligation.

The stress in the verses we are studying as our lesson text for today is that of example, and most particularly the tragedy that can come about from the setting of an evil example. The responsibility of every Christian is to set a good example. The verses in Romans deal specifically with the custom which was prevalent in Paul's day of offering for sale the flesh of animals that had been offered as sacrifices to pagan gods and idols. To many Christians this made no difference in the meat. They knew there were no gods except the Father of Christ. Some, however, felt that eating such meat made them participants in pagan worship, and that therefore it was a sin. Paul was appealing to his fellow Christians to be examples to their fellowmen. He urged them to abstain from eating such meat, not because they thought it was a sin, but because those who did think it sinful might see them and be led, by example, to do what they regarded as sin.

Our problem today is not that of eating, but of drinking. The use of alcohol enjoys wide acceptance in this country today. When one stops to realize that the expenditure on drink in America last year was ten and a half billion dollars (representing an expenditure of more than $20,000 every minute during 1957) one is staggered. Add to the economic cost the figures on crime in these United States which can be traced to the consumption of liquor, the loss to industry each year through accidents and time-loss because of drunkenness, in efficiency on the job, the annual cost of rehabilitation of alcoholics, the destruction of property in the large percentage of auto accidents in which alcohol is a contributing factor, the cost of arrests and the correction of law violators which are directly related to alcohol, and the toll of broken marriages and broken lives, and the thinking Christian will realize that consumption of alcoholic beverages is a problem of the first magnitude, and a costly one not only in money, but in the toll of human lives and human misery.

We must, as Christians, take a lesson from the verses we are studying. We must, each one of us, individually, set a good example for our fellow men. How important this example is can be illustrated by a story published in a Florida newspaper.

Following the death of four young people in an automobile accident a few months ago, the father of one of the ill-fated youngsters swore that he would kill the man who had sold whisky to the members of that party of young people. Imagine his shock and surprise when, on going to get a shot of whisky stored away in the cupboard, he found a note in his daughter's handwriting: "Dad, we are taking along some of your good liquor. ## Defense Secretary Lauds Labor's Role

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy, in a Labor Day statement issued here, praised American working men and women for their contributions to national defense.

He said: "Labor Day is an appropriate occasion for the Department of Defense to note the vital role played by the working men and women of America in producing the weapons and supplies needed to strengthen our Nation's security and the security of the Free World."

"This role makes labor an indispensable partner of the Armed Forces. The military and industrial strength of our country must be linked in order to maintain an adequate level of preparedness and to keep abreast of swiftly moving technological advances."

"The Department of Defense welcomes the opportunities to acknowledge the loyalty, skill and tremendous contributions of American labor to national defense."

YOU, WORK, AND GOD

By Joseph A. Breig, editor of the CLEVELAND UNIVERSE-BULLETIN

Is going to work something like going to church? Well, if it isn't, it ought to be. The Church has been trying for a long time to get us to realize that it ought to be.

WORK glorifies God because it perfects nature. Work takes the raw material of creation and fashions it to the service of man.

When we see a man working, what are we seeing? Well, we are seeing the image and likeness of God, taking things that God created and forming or adapting them in such a way that they become useful to other images and likenesses of God.

A MAN goes into a steel plant. Let's say he works on the open hearth. He and other men dump in the scrap, the ore, the dolomite and whatnot—all the things that go into the making of a certain kind of steel. In the flaming heat of the furnace, everything is turned into a bubbling brew. Then out it comes to be made into ingots, into bars, into sheets.

From the steel plant it goes to a fabricating plant and pretty soon a mother is cooking breakfast for her children on a stove made of the steel, or a father is taking the kids for a ride in an auto made of it. If it's a very special kind of steel, maybe a surgeon is operating to save a life or to relieve intolerable pain, using instruments made of that steel.

Thus, work enables raw material by fashioning it to meet the special needs of certain images and likenesses of God. All that is good—very good. But there's more to work than that.

WORK IS WORK. It is tiring, it demands of a man effort, attention, concentration, perseverance, patience, ingenuity, sometimes inventiveness or even creativeness. Work develops man's powers. It tends also to develop virtues in us.

We should work for the glory of God and for the service of God's children—especially for His children who are our children too. We should work honestly and conscientiously. We should try to remember, as we work, the nobility of work, and how it can elevate us in God's scheme of things.

WE MUST take pains not to let work degrade us. If there are conditions connected with our work that are brutish or bad, we should, see to it, through our unions, that they are corrected.

Remember, Christ worked as a carpenter, His apostles labored at various trades and skills. All honest work is dignified in God's sight. The better we understand the real nobility of work, the better we will be able to make work serve us, and serve God and His images.

Office-machine operators and cashiers are employed in almost every type of business, including finance, real estate, insurance, banking, stores, and government--Federal, state and local.

The majority of cashiers are employed in retail trade. The largest numbers are working in food stores, restaurants and other eating and drinking places. Additional numbers are employed by theaters and motion-picture houses, hotels and lodging houses, insurance companies, and banking and credit agencies.

Many of the working conditions which secretaries, stenographers and typists enjoy are also provided for office-machine operators and cashiers.

However, some office-machine operators, and also some typists, work in large rooms where many machines are in use. Unless the ceilings and walls are soundproofed, the noise of the machines may make it difficult to talk or to hear what others say.

DIFFERENT WORK

Cashiers may work in the box-office of a theater, in a restaurant, a grocery or other retail store where the surroundings are quite different from an office.

For some jobs, they may have to work at night or be on their feet most of the time. Since opportunities for employment exist in a wide variety of businesses, a competent worker may be able to choose the kind of surroundings which best suit her.

Many aspects of office work are the same for all employees, and girls interested in becoming office-machine operators will want to consider the advantages of office work and the usual office practices with regard to working hours, holidays, vacation, sick leave, and health and insurance plans.

In any city, beginning pay rates for office-machine operators would be lower, and top rates would be higher than the average wages of from $50 to $60 a week.

Office-machine operators usually enter Government employment at the grade 2 level, which has a starting salary of about $3,000 a year and goes to over $4,000. Some supervisors of office-machine operators receive even higher pay.

Southern Churchwomen And Ministers Back Integration

NEW YORK—Under the leadership of churchwomen, church leaders, and southern newspapermen, the South may within the next fifty years move further than the North toward integrating the Negro into society, the current issue of McCall's magazine states.

"With the backlog of guilt for its past treatment of the Negro, the South... may build up a momentum which carries it far past the North," the magazine said, adding that you can rarely find a more aggressive believer in any cause than a recent convert.

In a comprehensive report on the desegregation issue, McCall's stated that throughout the South, southerners—and particularly white newspapermen, churchwomen and their ministers—are lining up on the side of integration.

SMALL GROUPS

Few Americans realize that pro-segregationist organizations like the White Citizens Councils "are surprisingly small groups that... lack even the passive support of the majority of southerners," and that they know they are fighting a losing battle. Deltas Elect Dr. Noble President

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Delta Sigma Theta Sorority climaxed its week-long 25th national convention centered around public service projects—by electing as president of the Greek-letter organization Dr. Jeanne L. Noble, a professor at the City College of New York.

Elected as first vice president was Dr. Geraldine Pittman Woods, a former instructor at Howard University, Washington, D. C., who is now a Los Angeles housewife.

The new second vice president is Miss Gloria Randall, a junior at the University of Indiana. Secretary is Dr. Ann Lucille Campbell, chairman of the department of English at Prairie View A. and M. College, of Prairie View, Texas and treasurer is Mrs. Vivian E. Washington, a social worker in the Baltimore public school system.

All of the newly-elected officers had received the unanimous endorsement of the Sorority's nominating committee which met last June.

The more than 1,000 delegates to the convention held at the Statler-Hilton Hotel had settled down to a heavy schedule shortly after the August 17 welcoming ceremony during which the Sorority received the "Key to the City" from Robert E. McLaughlin, president of the District of Columbia Board of Commissioners.

After being briefed on working in convention by Roger M. Shaw, of New York University's Human Relations Center, the delegates were to embark on a program of activities ranging from a daily review and revamp of Delta's public service projects to speeches, tours, reports, concert recitals, panel discussions, a fashion show, luncheon sessions, balls and banquets.

The convention theme was "The Challenge of Changing Patterns of Living."

CASH PROGRAM IN MORALS URGED

Speaking to "women who have not only the capacity to change this Nation, but to alter the course of human history," Carl T. Rowan, young author and Minneapolis Tribune staff writer who has covered Europe, Asia Africa and the United Nations and won numerous coveted awards for reporting, said:

"... There can be no peace in Cairo or Damascus until there is something closer to democracy in Arlington and Birmingham, and Little Rock."

Stating that the "People of color," who comprise a majority of the world's population, distrust the West as long as it mistreats colored people at home, Mrs. Rowan said America needs a crash program in morals rather than missiles to give all her own citizens the equality she preaches for the rest of the world.

He was addressing the August 20 joint meeting of Alpha Kappa Alpha and Delta Sigma Theta Sororities on "How the World Looks at America."

Four panelists representing the nation's press through the use of mobs.

Working as individuals through their churches and other organizations, great numbers of white southerners are aligning themselves with the young southern Negro leadership that is rapidly remaking the South, the magazine noted.

McCall's survey is entitled "The Stroy Nobody Tells You" and was written by reporter William Peters who traveled 9,000 miles through the South to obtain background and data for this story.

Despite the headlines and mobs he reported, segregationist groups are slowly losing ground because of the effective resistance of "thousands upon thousands of white southern women, organized in local churches or in national religious groups."

PROFOUND INFLUENCE

Organizations such as the United Church Women "are having a profound, if quiet influence on the South in general and ministers and churches in particular," said Peters.

These are the same women, he noted, who concerted campaign against lynching in the thirties, drastically reduced the mount of mob violence against Negroes.

Sen. Kennedy Charges Bombings Part Of Interstate Conspiracy

Says Defiance Of Law Follows A "Pattern"

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA) Defiance of law and order by the bombing of homes, churches and schools is part of an interstate conspiracy, Senator John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat, charged Saturday.

The bombings follow "a discernible pattern," he told the Senate, "and they seem to be directed at those of our citizens who have expressed their constitutional right to free speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of religion, and freedom of vote."

"In some instances," he added, "there have been only a vague connection between the object of the attack and civil rights, but my telephone calls and other devices, the attackers have indicated that the explosions were designed as threats."

This was Senator Kennedy's second speech denouncing defiance of law and order as evidence by a series of bombings in which homes, churches and schools have been damaged. His first speech was on May 23. Since then, he noted, there have been two additional bombings, making a total of 47 instances "of such outrageous conduct."

Regardless of differences in views on civil rights, Senator Kennedy said, he knows all Senators and all citizens "condemn this use of force and violence."

He pointed out that state authorities have been unable to take effective action because of the interstate character of the bombings. The Federal Government, he noted, has indicated that it lacks authority to investigate until it can prove the interstate nature of the offense.

He introduced a bill to make it a Federal offense to transport in interstate commerce explosives for use in the illegal bombing of homes, churches and schools. He said he hopes hearings will be held early next year on his proposal.

Powell May Run For Borough Post

NEW YORK—(NNPA)—Representative Adam Clay Powell, Harlem Democrat, in the flush of his victory in the Democratic primary of Aug. 12, is reportedly eyeing the Borough Presidency of Manhattan.

Dear Eleanor,

I married into a family of super-housekeepers. My mother-in-law and two sisters-in-law keep spotless houses with everything in place and the children either confined to their playground or outdoors.

They work at house-keeping practically all of their working hours and have very little time to give to their outside interests.

I like for things to be clean but I also like to take a part in community affairs. Don't you think that house-keeping can be carried too far?

Young G. Wife

Answer: There is a "happy medium" in keeping house as well as everything else. No one enjoys living in a cluttered up, dusty house; but it is almost as bad to live in one where you feel that everything must be kept exactly in place where you are afraid to come in the front door or walk on the rugs.

Dear Eleanor,

We had a very interesting discussion about Procreation etc. One person in our group said that it is possible to foretell the sex of a baby!

I have inquired of medics and read several books along this line but I haven't found the answer.

Can you answer this question?

Answer: According to Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam in Sunday magazine, June 6, 1954, page 35, the answer is yes it is possible to determine the sex of a baby even months ahead.

Chicago Doctors Rapp and Richardson, have found the baby's saliva floats through the mother's blood to her saliva. If it contains more male than female hormones, it's a boy. If it contains more female hormones, a girl. It's as simple as that. It proves true 98 times out of 100.

Dear Eleanor,

I am writing you for reference to a real seamstress in your city, one who can cut and sew anything without a pattern.

If you can be of service in securing this information for me I will appreciate your doing so at my enclosed address.

Howard Football Captain Crushed On Summer Job

PLAINFIELD, N. J.—(NNPA)—Kenneth E. Washington, Jr., 23, captain of Howard University's football team, was crushed to death Friday while working on a summer job at a South Plainfield (N. J.) steel warehouse.

Selected last year as the best Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association end, Mr. Washington was killed instantly when a four-ton beam toppled from a stack, crushing him against a pile of other beams.

According to fellow workers, a crane had just set the 40-foot steel piece on the stack in the yard of the Harris Structural Steel Co. Police said the crane's tongs accidentally hooked the beam and toppled it off.

One of Howard's most popular football and basketball stars, Washington had been elected by his teammates to be their captain for the 1957 football season. He would have been a senior this fall.

He lived in Middlesex Borough, N. J., and was a graduate of Round Brook High School. In 1953 he was voted Round Brook's most valuable athlete.

Veterans Corner

Here are authoritative answers from the Veterans Administration to questions of interest from former servicemen and their families:

Q. As a veteran, may I get a GI loan to go into business with a friend who is not a veteran?

A. Yes, you may join with a non-veteran in obtaining a loan. However, the amount of the loan on which VA guaranty or insurance can be based will be in proportion to your interest in the loan only.

Q. I'm about to start on-the-job training under the Korean GI Bill. How many hours a week are considered to be full-time training?

A. Full-time training is considered to be the standard work-week of the firm where you are taking training. However, it generally may not be less than 36 hours a week.

Q. I am eligible for training under the War Orphans Education program. Can I use my right under the program to take a correspondence school course in cartooning?

A. No. The law does not permit you to receive benefits for correspondence school training. Also prohibited, under the War Orphans Education program, are courses in dancing, personality development, and bartending; on-the-job and on-the-farm training; training given by radio or television; and training in foreign countries.

Q. Who receives the monthly VA allowances under the War Orphans Education program—the student or his parent?

A. If the student is under 21, his living parent or guardian will receive the allowances. If he is 21 or over, the allowances will be paid directly to him.

POWER-A HOMEPLATE THEFT!
Two thefts of home in one game deserve at least a milestone for the Indians' Vic Power. When Power accomplished this feat, August 11, to give the Indians a 10 to 9 victory over the Tigers, he became the first player in the history of the American League to steal home twice in one game.

Manager Joe Gordon calls Power "one of the five best players in the American League." He has been hitting close to .350 for the Indians and his matter where Gordon plays him in the infield, he has been exceptional.

SILENCES CRITICS
Mays silenced his critics with the sweet part of the wood on his bat by hitting homers and extra base blows in trying to revive the sagging hope of the Giants fans for a 1-2 finish. Mays is having a normal good year, but if fans would just take the trouble to examine his record closely, they can reach only one logical conclusion: Willie is having a normal good year, that is, if you go strictly by the books.

The only difference in the National League race has been the first place Braves ability to slaughter the second place Giants. And usually when the first place team whips the second place team they are a cinch to win the pennant.

BANKS-A THREAT TO RUTH RECORD
Ernie Banks star shortstop of the Cubs and a really serious challenger for Babe Ruth's home-run record, still has his best years ahead of him. However, many sluggers, great ones have tried and failed, but Ernie has the best chance of anyone swinging today.

Though Banks twice has hit 43 or more homers and twice has driven in more than 100 runs, he has never led the league in any dept. Banks said he believes one of the reasons he has been having such a good year is that "I'm concentrating more than before. I don't know why, but it just seems that way."

WDIA All-Star Game At Lincoln Park Today
The WDIA League will celebrate its third year with its annual All-Star game today (Friday) at Lincoln Park beginning at 4 p. m. The senior all-stars will play the junior all-stars.

There are 57 teams in the WDIA league. A substantial scale is a development of the last half-dozen years only. Aside from the sums being spent by pharmaceutical industry and others on the development and testing of new drugs for the treatment of mental illness, about $25 million a year is currently being spent in the United States for studies designed to obtain information on the origin and other fundamental aspects of mental health.

About half of this sum is represented by research at the National Institute of Health—the great research center of the U. S. Public Health Service at Bethesda, Md., or grants by the N.I.H. for research at other institutions. The second largest contribution to the total, and the largest from a private source, comes from the Ford Foundation.

However, in order to put the financial needs of basic mental-health research in perspective, it should be noted that the "25 million a year available for such research in 1957-58" is still a modest sum. It amounts to no more than two per cent of the direct cost of caring for the mentally ill.

Warrior-Hardwood Battle Case Of Youth Against Old Age

BY J. D. WILLIAMS
The Hardwood Stars fought doggedly in the bitter end, they went down in defeat but not in spirit. It was a case of youth against old age and experience, and, needless to say, the youth prevailed. The Stars held up as long as they could, and it would be hard to pinpoint any single factor for their downfall. Playing three nights in one week is no easy thing for fellows who work every night. Nothing must be taken from the Warriors, however, for they were alert on every play, taking advantage of every Hardwood mistake and capitalizing on them to perfection. They had good hitting, pitching and fielding, and what's more, a smart manager who knows his stuff. The Stars had it at first but didn't have enough of it. As I predicted earlier, the Warriors would take 2 out of 3 for the championship of Divisions 1 and 2.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT AT A 45 MILLION RECORD

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U. S. Office of Education said Wednesday that an all-time high of 45 million students will enroll in the nation's teacher-short schools and colleges in the coming school year. Lawrence G. Dertnick, commissioner of education, said that one out of every four Americans will be attending school or college. The 1958-59 term will mark the 14th year in a row that enrollments have risen.

"The shortage of qualified teachers," Dertnick said, "will continue this school year." Dertnick reported that enrollments next month will run about 1,750,000 higher than the 1957-58 record of 43,150,000 students who entered school and college last year.

Public and private school enrollments in classes from kindergarten through the eighth grade are expected to total about 3,125,000. This would be a gain of more than a million over last year's elementary school enrollment. In addition, an education office survey reported that a jump of almost half a million is expected in high school enrollment, bringing grades 9 through 12.

Dertnick placed high school enrollment at 2,884,000 in the new school year compared with 2,412,000 during the 1957-58 school year. According to estimates, every

Harlem Magicians To Play 215-Game Slate In 1958-59

By EDDIE L. MADISON, JR.
(For Associated Negro Press)
SAND SPRINGS, Okla.—Another successful season of top-notch basketball, combined with fun-making and a million laughs, is just around the corner for the famed Harlem Magicians.

According to owner-player Marques Haynes, the team will open the 1958-59 cage season on Oct. 15, in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada. This will be the first of a 215-game schedule which will take the Magicians from coast-to-coast in the U. S. and to Old Mexico, Alaska and other parts of Canada.

BOASTS PHENOMENAL RECORD
Going into their sixth season of play, the Harlem Magicians boast a phenomenal record of 781 consecutive games, losing only five. The Magicians have not lost a single game in the past three seasons.

This feat has not been accomplished against "sand lot" competition either. Most of their encounters have been against college all-star teams and several of the independent professional teams, giving the Magicians a variety of capable opponents.

Haynes, world's greatest dribbler, said 178 of the expected 215 games for the forthcoming season are already scheduled. This number, he explained, includes some double-enders.

Haynes recently left his home here in Sand Springs. Haynes will return to his central headquarters at Las Vegas, Nev. The team maintains branch offices at Sand Springs, Waterbury, Conn., and Springfield, Ill. The Waterbury location was one of Haynes' early headquarters when the team was first organized.

Marques disclosed this week that the team will work out for the coming season either in Tulsa or in St. Louis.

Joining the squad this year is Mack Doss, 6-foot, 8-inch center and 1958 graduate from Alcorn College, Miss.

Tommy Gibson, former Tulsa Hornet and Tennessee State University standout player, will begin his fifth year as a Magician. Like Haynes, Tommy is a former Harlem Globetrotter. He spent four years with the Trotters, joining them while Haynes was still with that organization.

Eugene Johnson, 6-foot, 7½-inch forward from Wiley College; Paul Martin, 6-foot 7-inch forward of Atlanta, Ga., in his fourth year with the Magicians; Sam Wheeler, forward and pivot and top comedian from Philander Smith College now of St. Louis; Josh Grider, former Tennessee State University star and also a former Trotter, all will return to the lineup.

Leon Hilliard, guard from Chicago who joined the team during the latter part of last season, another former Globetrotter standout, Hilliard played eight years with the Trotters.

Allen Davis, forward from Joplin, Mo., and Paul Quinn College grad, is now in his third year with the team. Haynes, of course, plays guard and is undisputedly the champion among dribblers.

"The Harlem Magicians," a 15-minute sports short narrated by veteran sportscaster Bill Stern, was released by Columbia Pictures about a month ago. The film, made last year at Dartmouth College, shows the Magicians in some of their basketball antics.

Last time we had noticed Senor Lopez's gang they were in last place and we had counted them out for the year. That Lopez talking about his great pitching this spring, that the thought he could give the Yankees of fight, we recalled with a smile.

Then the Sox won about twelve out of fifteen. Meanwhile the Yankees were dropping most of those fifteen. All of a sudden one morning the Sox were 11½ games back. And while that is quite a distance back, a continuation of such events as mentioned in the fifteen game streaks of the two clubs (in opposite directions) could suddenly create a contender.

Chances are ten-to-one against it. But still, it is remarkable how far the Sox have come. And they can find consolation in the fact that the Giants came from 13½ games back in mid-August to win the flag. So they have a mathematical hope, at the least, to find themselves in second place—instead of last.

Undoubtedly, the Sox have great pitching. Pierce, Wynn, Moore, Donovan, and some other capable veterans and one or two new faces make-up the best stuff in the league, outside of New York. The Yankees have the best, Ford, Larsen, Turley, Sturdivant, Kucks, Shantz, etc.

But the Sox are good enough to make trouble if the Yankees stay as cold as they got in the first three weeks of August. They probably won't remain so chilled.

Over in the National, Milwaukee knew just when to draw away, and hiked its lead to eight games during the Yankee slump mentioned above. The Pirates knocked off the Braves twice in a row and they stayed hot—only to see the Braves stay hot longer. When the Pirates lost twice to Philadelphia on August 17th, the gap opened to eight—probably a commanding lead for the world champions.

Most ball fans are now wondering about the score of the World Series—whether the Yanks will get their revenge on the Braves and Lew Burdette.

Bailey Headed Louisiana Way With Ricks Mason

(SEE PICTURE)
BY MELVIN GREEN
A former Booker T. Washington High School tackle who waged one of the most ruthless campaigns against quarterbacks of opposing Prep teams that this city has yet witnessed has announced that he will matriculate at Southern University, Baton Rouge, La., in the fall.

The tackle is Walter Bailey, who gained local fame last football season by mauling every enemy field general that any other lineman in the 11-year history of the six team circuit. Going down to Southern with him will be his sidekick and teammate, Ricks Mason, and William Harden, a former Melrose player. All three have four-year grid scholarships.

"I will continue my attack on quarterbacks while at Southern," Bailey jokingly said this week. "Once you knock the quarterback out of the game, your team has a better chance to win."

BAILEY A BIG GUY
Bailey is a big guy. He weighs 175 lbs., is six feet tall, an ideal size to thrive on many quarterbacks. Records show that he knocked out every opposing quarterback with the exception of one who finally outsmarted him.

"I missed that tricky quarterback in the Melrose game last November," Bailey said. "One of them finally outsmarted me. I wasn't going to hurt him. I was just going to cripple him up a little bit so he wouldn't shine and cause any trouble."

The Melrose quarterback Bailey has in mind is Charlie Lee who would take a powder every time the huge tackle would thunder down on him. Under Melrose Coach Joseph Westbrook's orders, he had been warned: "Charlie whatever got do-stay away from that big Bailey tackle." And Charlie did, except the line when Bailey struck charged across the line before the ball had been snapped and grabbed the little quarterback.

HIS HARDEST GAME
"That was my hardest game," Bailey said. His team lost by four points and dropped another city championship.

Bailey started a sandlot career at Lakeside under the auspices of G. Currier. From LaRose he went to Washington where he played first string for the full four years. In the fourth year, he was captain of his team, a unanimous choice for "All-Memphis" and winner of the "Gridiron Great" contest sponsored by WDIA.

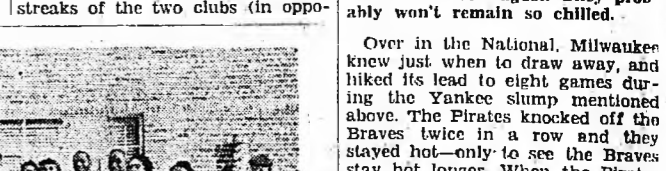

The big tackle turned down offers from Tennessee State, Grambling, Arkansas State and Mississippi Vocational for the Southern grid grant. "I also heard from Michigan State, Arizona State, and Lincoln University," Bailey said.

BROTHER OF D'ARMY
Walter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bailey, 969 Ford Place. He is the brother of D'Army Bailey, WLOK Teen DeeJay, of the same address.

Big Bailey is an active member of centers around listening to "the center around listening to the sounds Dakato Station and people like that."

Bailey will leave for Southern soon with his inseparable companion, football, track and basketball man Ricks Mason, son of Mrs. Mollie Mason on Lauderdale.

"We run together," Bailey said. They will continue to do so at Southern. Bailey reportedly has talked Mason into going along with those attacks on quarterbacks in Southern's league.

Mental Illness High On List Of Ailments Of Modern Man

At the beginning of the twentieth century infectious diseases were the leading health problem in nearly all parts of the world. Fifty years of scientific advance and public health effort have reduced their toll on human life and happiness.

Remarkable progress has been made in the control of tuberculosis, yellow fever, malaria, and diphtheria, to name a few.

However, even in the countries where the advance has been greatest, the success achieved has altered the problem of health, rather than disposed of it. As the great scourges of the past have receded, other ailments have taken their place: cancer, heart disease, arthritis, mental illness.

LONGER LIFE
DIFFERENT AILMENTS
The latter diseases are often described as "ailments of modern man." But they are not new. They occur more often and have become more prominent largely because there are more candidates for them now and other diseases, so to speak, no longer block them out. Populations are greater and a larger proportion of people live to an age when these ailments appear; the public is more aware of them and physicians are more adept in recognizing them.

This is quite the situation with mental illness. Mental illness is anything but a new human affliction. Moreover, when proper allowance is made for population and other changes, it is doubtful that there has been a real increase in the amount of mental illness in this country over the past century, although the contrary is often asserted. There are studies indicating that there has been no increase in at least two important forms of mental illness: the acute mental disturbances termed psychoses, and psychosomatic illness (bodily illness that is emotional in origin).

MENTAL ILLNESS HIGH ON LIST
Mental illness has nevertheless emerged as a commanding problem of our age. As a study committee of the Ford Foundation observed in 1949, "no census can show how many persons in our society labor under the disabling effect of inadequate emotional adjustment."

A variety of studies indicates, though, that at least as many as 10 persons in every 100 may suffer from some form of mental illness severe enough to make treatment desirable, if not mandatory. Another two or three persons in every 100 are believed to be mentally retarded.

In the United States alone, there are at any one time nearly three-quarters of a million mental patients who are sufficiently ill to require hospitalization; they occupy more than one-half of the nation's 1,400,000 hospital beds. An additional 113,000 people are in institutions for the mentally retarded.

The diverse forms of mental illness affect all levels of society and all ages. Mental illness is a factor in numerous serious social problems: delinquency (adult as well as juvenile), chronic alcoholism, the break-up of families, so-called "minor" mental symptoms not only play a part in psychosomatic illness but also often complicate purely "physical" ailments. Neither the economic nor the human loss, nor the suffering chargeable to mental ill-health can be tabulated; the direct costs for hospitalization and treatment of the mentally ill in the United States exceed a billion dollars a year.

CHICAGO.—H. R. Jefferson, veteran CIAA coach and athletic leader, was honored during the annual meeting of the National Athletic Steering Committee for "thirty-five years contribution to the development of youth through athletic coaching and administration."

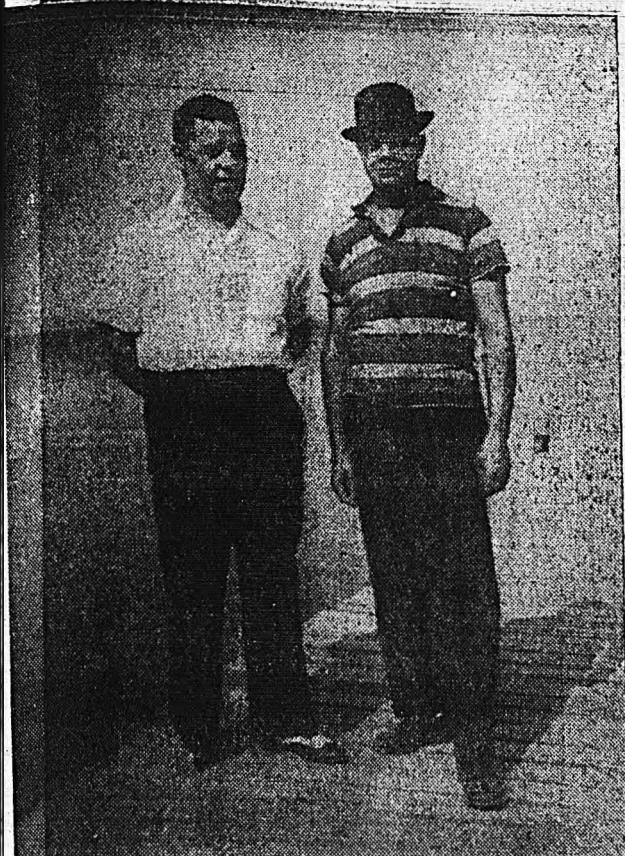

Jefferson, who has been employed since leaving the coaching ranks, at Berean Institute, Philadelphia, is honorary chairman of the NASC and an honorary president of the CIAA.

In other sections, the NASC noted continuing progress in intercollegiate athletics depends upon informed and dedicated faculty members who are willing to press the case for racial minorities.

The National Athletic Steering Committee, meeting at the Washington Park YMCA, voted to continue its efforts to democratize completely the entire sports scene in the United States. This is the group credited with the trend toward integration in major athletic associations at national and regional levels.

National Urban League Conference September 6-11

NEW YORK—The 1958 annual conference of the National Urban League is expected to be one of the most important forums on race relations ever held by the organization, president Theodore W. Kheel said this week.

The conference will be held September 6-11 at the Sheraton-Fountain Hotel in Omaha, Nebraska. More than 600 professional and volunteer workers from 63 cities and 32 states will attend the meetings during the 6-day conference. The guiding theme and emphasis will be: "Expanding Opportunity in the Changing American City."

Delegates will include professional social workers and specialists in industrial relations, vocational guidance, housing and community organization.

The non-profit, non-political, service agency founded in 1910 in New York City, is interracial. It seeks to improve the economic status of Negroes and to promote race relations.

League professional staff and volunteers will meet on Saturday (Sept. 6th) and Sunday (Sept. 7th) to discuss administrative and supervisory problems of the organization.

On Monday (Sept. 8th) the morning 2-hour general session will hear specialists in various fields present papers on: "Developing Effective Use of Negro Manpower," "Expanding the Housing Supply for Minorities," "The Meaning and Significance of School Integration," "Developing Adequate Health and Social Welfare Services for Families and Their Children." These papers will then be discussed in workshops during the rest of the day.

Headline speaker of the closing general session at 7:00 p. m. (Sept. 11th) will be WINTHROP ROCKEFELLER, League trustee and chairman of the Commerce and Industry Council. His speech will deal with the conference theme.

LAST PLANE DEPARTS

BOHN, Germany—U. P. I.—The last of 14 chartered Super-Constellation airliners in an emergency "air bridge" to Johannesburg left here Tuesday carrying special insecticides to combat a plague of plant lice in South African grain fields. The plague was said to have been the worst in South Africa's history.

Congress Passes Scholarship Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress sent to President Eisenhower Saturday a space-age federal aid to education bill aimed at meeting Russia's scientific challenges.

The bill, finally approved by a 212 to 85 House vote, was hailed as a "landmark" in American education. It was an outgrowth of alarm felt when the Russians hurled their first Sputnik into space. There also were reports the Soviets were outstripping this country in education.

The legislation authorizes and 887 million dollar program featuring loans to college students. Congress eliminated an outright scholarship provision advocated by President Eisenhower.

OFFICER REFUSED
RAMMUNUOM, Korea (UPI)—The United Nations command Tuesday dismissed as a "big propaganda stunt" a communist proposal to send "relief" goods to South Korea through the military armistice commission.

The North Korean Communists offered at a meeting of the joint commission to send food and clothing to South Korea.

U. S. Air Force Maj. Gen. Albert T. Wilson Jr., chief negotiator for the United Nations side, dismissed the offer as a propaganda stunt.

He was the only shooter to break 100 straight targets.

Althea Gibson Draws Top Berth In U. S. Singles Championship

By STEVE SNIDER

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (UPI)—Defending champions Mal Anderson of Australia and Althea Gibson of New York drew the top-seeded berths Tuesday in the U. S. tennis singles championships starting Friday with a field of 192 players from 15 nations.

The surprise seeding list in the men's division completely ignored Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, America's No. 1 player in the 1958 rankings, and only three U. S. players were seeded in the first eight.

Following Anderson on the men's list were Ashley Cooper of Australia, Wimbledon champ and runner-up to the slugging cowboy in last year's final; Ham Richardson of Arlington, Va.; Neale Fraser of Australia; Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio; Alex Olmedo of Peru; Kurt Nielsen of Denmark and Dick Savitt of South Orange, N. J.

Without a seeding to protect him, Seixas promptly drew a real roughie for his first rounder—the stylist, but temperamental Nielsen.

"Vic hasn't been playing enough this year," said USLTA official Harcourt Woods of New York. "He simply has no record that rated a seeding."

MISS GIBSON ON TOP
 In women's singles, Miss Gibson drew the top position off her victories at Forest Hills last year and at Wimbledon this year. Next came Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, Ann Haydon of England, Maria Bueno of Brazil, Janet Hopps of Seattle, Sally Moore of Bakersfield, Calif., Christine Truman of England and Mrs. Beverly Baker Fletz of Santa Monica, Calif.

As if things weren't tough enough for the Yanks in the effort to repel the invading Australians, the leading U. S. players—Richardson and MacKay—wound up in the same quarter of the draw along with Herb Elam of Beverly Hills, Calif., Sammy Giammalava of Houston, Tex., John Cranston of Sun Marino, Calif., and junior champ Earl Buchholz of St. Louis.

In addition to Nielsen-Seixas, several other hot first round matches were pulled out of the hat. ANDERSON DRAWS PERRY

Anderson opens his title defense against Bob Perry of Los Angeles; Budget Patty, of Los Angeles and Paris, starts with Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., a tough campaigner; Billy Knight of Great Britain meets Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif.; Buchholz plays Cranston, who scored a victory over Cooper in the Eastern championships, and Bernard Bartzon of Dallas drew Kosei Kamo of Japan. Miss Gibson opens against Carole Wright of Brooklyn and before she can reach the quarter-finals she'll have to dispose of Miss Truman, the towering Briton who upset her in Wightman Cup play.

Miss Bueno, Brazil's new star, drew Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., in the women's first round feature.

Included in the field are members of Davis Cup teams from the United States, Australia, Canada, Argentina, Israel, Denmark, Sweden, Great Britain, Japan, Chile, Bolivia, and Peru. Also represented are Cuba, Brazil and Mexico.

CIAA Championship Talk Nixed By Head Coach Bert Piggott

GREENSBORO, N. C. — Talk about CIAA football championship prospects at A&T College for this season were promptly discounted by Head Coach Bert Piggott as his boys began training on Monday of this week.

"We are still in the process of rebuilding," Piggott told reporters, "and if things go well as we hope, a conference flag is, at least, a year away."

Of the 63 candidates reporting on Monday, 18 of them were lettermen and 11, chiefly sophomores, are carryovers from last year's squad who showed substantial improvement during spring drills.

Among the lettermen on hand are: quarterbacks, Paul Swann, Washington, D. C., and Howard Smith, Fayetteville; halfbacks, Charlie DeLoe, Gainesville, Fla.; Joe Council, Waterboro, S. C., and Edward Godbolt, Greensboro; fullbacks, Edward Nesbitt, Georgetown, S. C., and Lloyd Oakley, Greensboro; center, James Black, Asheville; guards, Thomas Sumlin, Washington, D. C., and Harvey Stewart, Richmond, Va.; tackles, Tommy Day, 230 pounds, Washington, D. C., senior; Melvin Richardson, 275 pounds, Johnstown, Pa., sophomore; Lorenzo Stanford, 240 pounds, Englishtown, N. J., sophomore; Sterling Smith, 215 pounds, Roxboro, senior, and Lavon Coefield, 215 pounds, Kinston, senior; ends, Burnie McQueen, 201 pounds, senior; Johnny Wardlaw, 196 pounds, Asheville, junior, and James Toon, 207 pounds, Dunn, senior.

Two former lettermen, returning to the squad this season are expected to give the Aggies additional power. They are Donald Boone, 195 pound quarterback from Burlington, described in 1956 as the "most promising" signal caller in the CIAA and William Fowler, 195 pound Wake Forest guard.

Lester Granger Gets Elks' Lovejoy Award

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NNPA) — Lester Granger, executive director of the National Urban League, was presented the Lovejoy Award by the Elks grand lodge at its civil liberties program in Metropolitan Baptist Church here Monday afternoon.

The award, named for Elijah Lovejoy, an abolitionist, is presented each year to an American who makes an outstanding contribution in the field of civil rights.

Mr. Granger was the ninth recipient. The award was established in 1949. Since then it has been given to former Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, Ralph Bunche, Under Secretary of the United Nations; Branch Rickey, who broke down the color line in major league baseball by bringing Jackie Robinson into the Brooklyn Dodgers organization.

Other recipients were the late Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, educator; Marian Anderson, world renowned singer; Thurgood Marshall, NAACP counsel; the Rev. Martin Luther King, leader of the Montgomery (Ala.) bus boycott, and A. Philip Randolph, vice president of the AFL-CIO.

APPRECIATE CITATION
 In all of the citations he has acquired, Mr. Granger said in accepting the medal, "none means more to me than this one coming from a group which is more typical of colored people in this country than possibly any other group that could be named."

Mr. Granger also said the award was "solid proof of what I have been feeling for several years—that objective and responsible colored leadership has come to see what it did not see 15 or 20 years ago that the Urban League is part of the great fight for 'all civil rights'."

In the fight for freedom, the Urban League director asserted, that colored people in this country have three big advantages over those who fight for freedom in other parts of the world:

1. "The Constitution to which we can constantly return for interpretation."

2. "The fact that we have access to a free ballot." He said people in this country can go to the polls to vote their approval or disapproval of what has been done.

3. "People in this country read newspapers and magazines and listen to the television and radio."

"Therefore, we have what is probably the best informed general public anywhere in the world, and that informed general public is an ally of ours."

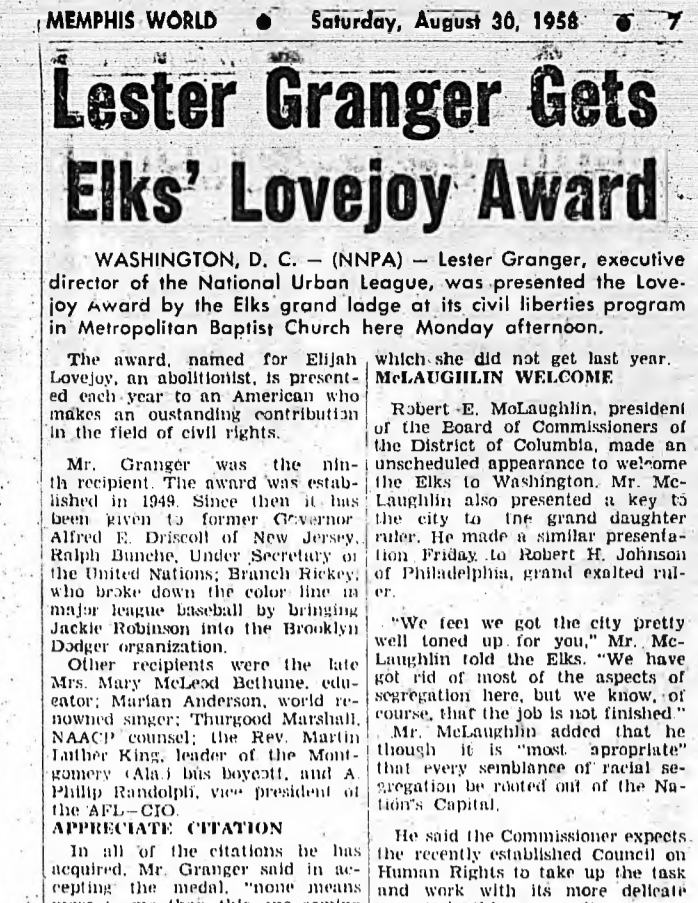

Mr. Granger urged that a job be done of indoctrinating intelligent white citizens, who may be uninformed or misled.

Hobson R. Reynolds, grand director of the Elks civil liberties department presented the award to Mr. Granger and presided at the meeting.

The J. Finley Wilson Foundation, sponsored by Seagram's Vanguard Society, made presentations to the "Borther Elk" and "Daughter Elk" of the year, who were chosen by committees.

The "Brother Elk of the Year" is Dr. L. W. Williams of Valdosta, Ga., state president of the Georgia Elks Association and a grand trustee, and Mrs. L. Marion Poe, an attorney of Newport News, Va., state daughter president of Virginia.

The presentation to Dr. Williams, a dentist, was made by Mr. Reynolds. The presentation to Mrs. Poe was made by Mrs. Nettie Carter Jackson of Staten Island, N. Y., grand daughter ruler of the grand temple (women's auxiliary).

which she did not get last year. McLAUGHLIN WELCOME
 Robert E. McLaughlin, president of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, made an unscheduled appearance to welcome the Elks to Washington. Mr. McLaughlin also presented a key to the city to the grand daughter ruler. He made a similar presentation Friday to Robert H. Johnson of Philadelphia, grand exalted ruler.

"We feel we got the city pretty well toned up for you," Mr. McLaughlin told the Elks. "We've got rid of most of the aspects of segregation here, but we know, of course, that the job is not finished."

Mr. McLaughlin added that he thought it is "most appropriate" that every semblance of racial segregation be rooted out of the Nation's Capital.

He said the Commissioner expects the recently established Council on Human Rights to take up the task and work with its more delicate aspects in this community.

Mrs. Daisy Bates of Little Rock, chaperone of the nine colored students who attended Central High School there last year, and one of the pupils, Miss Gloria Ray, were introduced to the audience.

All Quiet! On The Mt. Herman Front

FORT LAUDERDALE—Bishop S. L. Greene of Atlanta, Georgia gave Rev. J. W. Burroughs his walking papers to a new church yet to be announced. It was stated that the facts that pertained to the move stemmed from the act of tearing down the annex of the church against the majority members pleasure in an attempt to begin construction on a new church.

Shortly after the demolition began there was a crew on hand with an injunction to stop the wrecking crew.

Only a few days before the court had ruled in favor of releasing some $20,000 in the building fund to the pastor's faction to begin the new $120,000 church.

Bishop Greene nor Rev. Burroughs were available for comment at this writing. However one of the stable members who does not wish to be identified stated that he felt the controversy was over and that on the arrival of the newly appointed pastor by Bishop Greene on or before the first Sunday in September would begin a whole-some day for the Church as a whole.

Uncle Moe Conor Corner

Hello, good folk, I just walked back from a 2 year vacation, and am I tired? You know, I did not know how tired one could get until I cut them 92 miles without a pickup. The last time I remembered doing this much walking was a full 19 years ago.

I am now 72 years young, and I feel that I am good for another 40 years if I can keep out of the way of flying lead and razor sharp knives, notwithstanding the fact that I do not get around as fast as I used to.

I sure would hate for my 27 children to visit me and I would not be able to talk back to them. Well, good folks I am just too tired to say more at this time, but I will see you all next week.

Rockefeller, N.Y. GOP Gubernatorial Choice

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI)—Eisenhower administration.

Nelson A. Rockefeller, millionaire grandson of the late John D. Rockefeller has been nominated for governor by acclamation Monday night at the New York State Republican Convention.

Rockefeller, making his first bid for elective office at the age of 50, will oppose another multimillionaire, Gov. Averell Harriman, in November. He promised a hard-hitting campaign dedicated to "progressive Republicanism" and a whole-hearted endorsement of the Rockefeller administration.

In accepting the nomination, Rockefeller emphasized he "fought" for the nomination and was not "drafted." He praised the work of Republican legislative leaders and said the Harriman administration record is "shortsighted, vacillating, and indecisive."

He said the Republican Party's program was "aggressive, forward-looking and dynamic."

Rockefeller, backed by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, locked up the nomination several weeks ago when he soundly beat veteran politicians in a heated contest for delegates. His nomination by the convention was a formality.

VOICE IN CHOICE
 Rockefeller was given a strong voice in picking his running mates and the only obstacles he faced was the reluctance by some to give up their present offices and fight for a state job. Selection of a candidate for U. S. senator appeared to give him the most trouble.

Rep. Kenneth B. Keating of Rochester, was the second choice of the Rockefeller forces after Assembly Minority Leader Joseph Carlino took himself out of the race.

Carlino said he thought he could best serve the people in his present office. To run for a seat in the U. S. Senate would also endanger his own political future as some of his backers hope he will run for governor some day.

It was learned that the Rockefeller camp has picked Assemblyman Malcolm Wilson as its choice for lieutenant-governor. The candidate for this post is to be nominated officially Tuesday.

Louis J. Lefkowitz was unopposed as a candidate for attorney general. He has been serving in the post since U. S. Senator Jacob K. Javits went to Washington.

Rated first, second and third, respectively, were Zora Folley, Eddie Machen and Willie Pastrano.

N. C. College Eagles Must Rebuild Two Forward Walls

DURHAM, N. C.—Herman Riddick's football problem at North Carolina College on September 1 will be to rebuild his first and second team football walls.

As Riddick starts his 14th year at NCC he faces the tremendous problem of replacing these 1957 standout linemen: John Baker, Baxter Holman, Joe Allen, Charles Duke Sanders, Francis Roberts, Eugene Coleman, Thomas Stith, Deral Webster, and Charles Baron.

Eagle followers may get some comfort out of the fact that NCC is virtually four teams deep in the backfield. Only Ed "Magic Eye" Hudson, last season quarterback, is missed by way of graduation.

From the looks of things at this point, the 1958 line will certainly be smaller than last year's. It may prove faster and it may become more mobile.

The big name on the NCC front line on the eve of practice is James "Buck" Forbes, 220 lb. guard from Norfolk, Va. Forbes has the unusual distinction of having been an All CIAA lineman during his freshman year in 1955. Hampered by injuries much of last season, he nevertheless rose to stardom in the Eagles post season finale with Florida A. and M.

Tommy Faust, Burlington senior, is rated a good prospect to team with Forbes.

The three chief contenders for the starting tackle slots are James "Stem" Williams, 260 lb. Trenton, N. C., junior and James "Champ" Brewington, 270 lb. Greenville sophomore. These two are expected to receive plenty competition from Martin Clark, 250 lb. Reidsville senior.

At center the Eagles seem to be counting on Ernest Barnes, 225 lb.

Long Live The Eighty-Fifth

The closing of the 85th Congress at the high tide of the Eisenhower administration seals one of the most important moments in the history of that law-making body.

It will go down as a harmonious session despite the minority in representation of the party faith of the administration. The firm hand of the President was seen in the cooperation of liberal Democrats, which bespeaks their faith and high regard for the leader of this nation.

There were those in the beginning who nursed a grudge because of the Little Rock affair; the manifesto signers took the strut, and in spite of speeches and restures made for home consumption, the skies did not fall. No State Rights legislation meant for the curbing of the executive power was able to get off the ground. So strong was the faith in the executive, one Southern senator advanced publicly the opinion that it might be futile to appeal to the Supreme Court for a reverse ruling of its own decision.

With pride we point to the admittance of Alaska as the 49th state. That brings into the union family a representation which will flavor our national compact with more tolerance.

With this act, the chances for the making of Hawaii a state comes closer. That important tropical country with its huge agricultural output and raw materials will place on state level those legions of natives who have long been ready for statehood. These will give added color to the representative bodies.

From our point of view, the most notable action taken by the Congress was the passage of the Civil Rights Bill which we think will not only advance our racial group, but will give strength and vitality to the whole democratic processes.

The 85th Congress is also a feather in the cap of Richard M. Nixon upon whose shoulders much of the real performance rested. He has been seen as the super statesman, the tall man of the crisis occasioned by the State Righters of Arkansas claiming too much as their right.

Thusly the troubled waters of the nation and the confused air of missile failures, remain after all the servant of Him who calmed the waves and tamed the tempest on toward the shores of national normalcy.

Long live the 85th.

JAMES KEENE'S powerful new novel JUSTICE, MY BROTHER!

CHAPTER 31
DID YOU ever have an unbearable weight lifted from your mind? Cord lifted one from mine. "I'll go and see the judge and we'll put Overland back on the stand," he told me. "We'll wring him like a chicken, Smoke. Likely Overland's been rustling and using us as a blind."
Late in the afternoon, when it came time to go back to the courtroom, I felt refreshed after a nap and relieved and very confident that the judge would reverse the jury's verdict.
The place was jam-packed as usual, and I took my place behind the defense counsel's table. The judge rapped for order and the room grew very quiet. He cleared his throat and said, "After careful and due deliberation of the evidence presented, and allowing for certain inconclusive elements, I am prepared to render a sentence. Will Luther O'Dare please rise and face the court."
Luther did; he looked squarely at the judge.
"This court, having found the defendant guilty, now imposes the sentence of twenty years at hard labor in the federal penitentiary at Fort Smith, Arkansas."
The Grange Hall became a bedlam of sound and some of the people even cheered. Luther looked like a man stunned mortally; he would have fallen had not the defense attorney caught him. Edna, who sat a few seats to the right, walked once and clasped both hands over her face. I looked for Cord. He sat stone-still, his face absolutely expressionless.
Marshal Bud Ledbetter took charge of Luther then and took him directly to the depot, locking him in the express room. I suppose he figured the hotel was no longer a safe place; Cord and I might try to break him out.
Battering my way through the milling crowd, I grabbed Cord by the coat. "What went wrong? Wouldn't the judge listen? Cord, talk to me!"
"Not now," Cord said, shoving my hands away. "Leave me alone, Smoke."
He got up and shoved and pushed until he was outside. The defense attorney was stuffing papers into his briefcase when I sided him. "A lot of good you did for him," I said.
"There wasn't much to work with," he said. Then he looked at me and added, "You made a tight case for the prosecution."
Edna remained in her chair, crying. I took her out of there and back to her hotel room. She lay on the bed and buried her face in the pillow, her shoulders shaking. By rights I suppose I ought to have left her alone, but the truth was, I needed company myself pretty bad.

"I was so sure the judge would let him off," I said. "What went wrong, Edna?"
She turned and looked at me. Tears made a slick smear on her cheeks and her eyes were red-rimmed. "Wrong? The whole rotten thing is wrong! Is God punishing me for loving a decent man? Oh, Luther, Luther, what have I brought on you?" She fell back on the bed, crying anew.
This made very little sense to me, so I waited until the crying died out to a few sniffling. "What's the matter with you, Edna? Or is there something the matter with us?"
She shook her head from side to side. "I don't care about you or Ma or anyone but Luther. Stop them. Smoke! Don't let him be taken from me!"
"Hell . . ." I began, then closed my mouth. What did she expect me to do? Back East they'd have thrown the case out of court for lack of evidence, but this was Oklahoma, where justice was rough and sudden and final; Luther was lucky he wasn't hung.
A crying woman is not my idea of a conversationalist so I left Edna alone. I stayed in my own room for a while but found the loneliness unbearable. The traffic on the main drag had thinned astonishingly; the farmers had all gone home and the boardwalk idlers had dwindled to a dribble of townsfolk who never did much but stand around anyway.
From the east end of the street I saw Ma's buggy approaching. Bill Hageman was driving and Julie was sitting in the back seat. My first thought was to get out of sight so Ma wouldn't see me, but then I couldn't hide the rest of my life. While Hageman tooted the rig to the hotel, I went down the stairs, arriving on the porch as he dismounted to tie up.
He said, "Lige Bingham stopped off with the verdict. Smoke's Luther being held?"
"At the express office, Tram's due in an hour or so."
I stepped under the hitch rail to help Ma down but Bill shook his head. "Better let me, Smoke."
He was right. Ma would likely hit me if I got that close to her. Judging from her eyes, all puffed and red, she'd been doing more than her share of crying. She seemed so much older now and I felt guilty because I was responsible.
Julie came to the sidewalk to stand. She didn't say anything, just touched my hand then squeezed it gently. From across the street Cord emerged, from Lanahan's, saw Ma and ran over, his arms outstretched. Ma wailed and hugged him and said, "My boy, my dearest boy, going to prison!"

"Now, Ma," Cord said, patting her shoulders. "Let's stay steady now."
"You're so strong, Cord. So much of a comfort." Her hand came up and brushed at the dangling lock of hair. "I'd die without you, son. I'd just up and die."
"Don't talk like that, Ma. Please don't." His glance swung to me as though this was my fault too.
"If you want to see Luther," Bill said, "you'd best get on to the depot. There isn't much time."
"I just couldn't," Ma said, her eyes tear-filled. "Seeing him with his hands locked together, I just couldn't." For a moment her crying was uncontrollable, then she took a renewed grip on her emotions. "I'm an old woman; I'd be seeing him for the last time."
"You should go, Ma," Cord said. "You'd be a comfort to him."
"If you think that's best," she said. "You always know best, Cord."
He put his arm around her and they walked slowly down the street. The sun was down now and deep shadows built beneath the building overhangs. A few lamps were lighted and by the time we reached the other end of the street, Ponca City had settled down for the night.
The depot sat alone, a hundred yards beyond the street. When I stopped, Bill looked at Julie, then me. "I think I'll get a drink. A stiff one."
He retraced his steps toward Lanahan's. Julie asked, "Aren't you going on to the depot, Smoke?"
"No," I said. "I couldn't face Luther now, having failed him."
"You did what you thought was right," she said. "Smoke, you can't spend the rest of your life blaming yourself."
"But he's innocent!" I was angry, unreasonably so. Particularly at the judge who wouldn't listen to something that made sense. "I've changed my mind. I'm going to the depot, but not to see Luther."
I left her standing there and trotted toward the main railroad building. I knew that the judge had already checked out of the hotel, so I figured he'd be waiting to take the train . . .
"For a moment I thought the judge was lying, then I knew that he wasn't. Didn't my brother Cord talk to you? I demanded." — Smoke's story reaches a climax tomorrow in this paper.

REAL-TIME MELODIES!

Here are two culinary cues that you can keep for easy reference and you will be glad you did.
Caraway seeds mixed with cottage cheese and sour cream add that old world touch. Try it.
Cucumbers are plentiful and cheap and prepared as a relish they go well with fish or chicken dishes. This relish can be refrigerated for ten to fourteen days. Of course, your family will eat it all long before then. Make it like this:
CUCUMBER SLICES IN CREAM
12 medium size cucumbers
2 tablespoons salt
1 cup thinly sliced white or yellow onion
2 cups cider vinegar
1 1/2 cups dark brown sugar, tightly packed
1 1/2 teaspoon white pepper optional
1 pint heavy cream
10 or 12 bay leaves, optional
Wash, wipe and pare the cucumbers. Score lengthwise with a fork or serrated edge of potato peeler for scalloped edge, then slice thin. Place in alternate layers with the thinly sliced onion, in an earthenware crock or covered glass container.
Sprinkle with salt, cover loosely with cheesecloth or muslin and place a heavy plate to weigh down contents. Cover with a kitchen towel and let stand 6 to 8 hours (or overnight) in a fairly cool place in the kitchen.
In the morning drain off the liquid which has formed. Combine vinegar, sugar, pepper, and stir in the cream until combined. Turn this mixture over the slices, place bay leaves on top, cover and refrigerate. These slices will be crisp and crunchy as soon as they are thoroughly chilled and can be served at once. Makes a delicious accompaniment for hot weather main dishes.

an immigrants now in Britain they are coming in at a rate of between 100 and 800 weekly.
GRAVE BURDEN FORESEEN
A government spokesman told the House of Commons recently they could become "a grave burden on the country," if the influx continued.

They include about 110,000 Negroes from Jamaica, Trinidad and other islands of the West Indies — 69,000 Indians and Pakistanis and the remainder mostly West Africans.

and ready at all times in a spirit of cooperation to consult with state officials in a search for solutions consistent with the decisions of the court.
Mr. Rogers told the gathering of leading lawyers from all sections of the country that the ultimate issue is "whether the law of the land is supreme or whether it may be evaded and defied."
"There is no state granting the will, which cannot maintain law and order and at the same time permit a final decree of a court to be carried out."
He reiterated the view that the primary responsibility for maintaining order lies with the states and localities. He said all Americans "solemnly hope" that no state will ever again obstruct a federal court order.
Rogers said that injunctions against mob leaders "will ordinarily prove effective" when "a group of private persons engages in a concerted effort to obstruct the execution of a court decree." But he questioned the value of injunctions when "local law enforce-

THERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every 11 day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
