VIRGINIA SCHOOL SUIT WILL BE HEARD MONDAY

NORFOLK, Va. — (SNS) — A panel of three federal judges will hear the first of three suits initiated by the parents of a group of Norfolk white students challenging Virginia's massive resistance laws here Nov. 19, U. S. District Judge Walter Hoffman announced Monday.

Hoffman announced the date of the hearing after attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, submitted a supplemental motion listing Gov. J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., and other state officials as defendants in another suit on behalf of seven Negro students who applied for admission to two state closed schools here.

Hoffman denied a motion that the hearing be postponed until a test case of the same anti-integration laws can be heard before the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals.

The state administration asked the state's high court several weeks ago to rule on the constitutionality of the laws, under which nine Virginia public schools — six of them in Norfolk — have been closed to avert integration.

Leonard Davis, city attorney, asked Hoffman to postpone the Nov. 19 hearing but the judge denied the motion and said Virginia's attorney general would have to submit the request to Judge Simon Sobeloff of the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY SHADOWED BY FEAR OF STRIFE WITHIN PARTY

IKE HITS AT 'LOOSE SPENDERS'

By ROBERT BARKDOLL
WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Democratic leaders pledged Wednesday to use their sweeping congressional election victory in a "constructive manner" during the next two years of divided government in hopes of winning the White House in 1960.

But they conceded the overwhelming majorities they picked up in the House and Senate posed strange new problems for their party. Party leaders warned against any tendency by Democrats in the liberal-tinged 86th Congress to "divide and contest" among themselves.

They also were confronted by a warning from President Eisenhower that he intended to lead a crusade against any wholesale government spending programs by "radical" Democrats. He said the people voted for "spenders" and that "it is going to be the real trouble now."

The Democrats, surging to their greatest congressional triumph since the Roosevelt New Deal, emerged from Tuesday's balloting with a crushing 62 to 34 margin in the Senate and an equally impressive score in the House.

With returns virtually complete, the United Press International tabulation gave these overall standings (including results of the Sept. 8 Maine election):

SENATE		(necessary to control, 50)
	Dem.	Rep.
Elected	36	8

NEW POPE CROWNED JOHN XXIII

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press International
VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII Tuesday ascended the throne of St. Peter and was crowned supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church in ceremonies of matchless medieval pageantry.

Standing at the gold and gleam of the temporal possession of the Church in the Basilica of St. Peter's, the Pope delivered a coronation speech that stressed his desire to be a humble servant, a pastor rather than a diplomat. He begged the world to pray that he might reach "perfection in meekness and humility."

Precisely at 1 p. m. 7 a. m. e. s. t. he was crowned with the silver and gold triple crown of the papacy on the balcony of St. Peter's before a crowd of 200,000 massed in the square. With one voice the people shouted "Viva il Papa" — Long live the Pope. The bells of almost 500 churches in Rome pealed the tidings.

The 76-year-old pontiff, son of a north Italian — sharecropper appeared to bear up well under the strain of 4 1/2 hours of traditional ceremony, despite the weight of 50 pounds of coronation robes on his robust frame.

DEMOCRATS DEFEAT GOP, INDEPENDENTS IN TENN.

The overwhelming power of Democrats proved too much for Republicans and Independents in Tuesday's general election.

Burford Ellington swamped former Gov. Jim McCord 4 to 1 for the governor's seat while Senator Albert Gore ran away from Republican Hobart 6 to 1 in county and state-wide results.

All four Negroes in the race were defeated, with Former Opera Star Mme. Florence Cole Talbert McClave compiling the most votes among the four Mrs. Mc. Clave received 7,175 votes. Other Negro citizens running on the GOP ticket were Sam Qualls, Jr., W. R. Bradford and Dr. R. Q. Venson, who was unsuccessful in his bid to win a delegate's post from this county to the state constitutional convention.

White College Dean To Come South To Work For Integration

A white ordained Presbyterian minister and also a dean at University of Chicago, announced today he plans to devote his time to working for integration in the South.

The man identified himself as Dr. John E. Thompson who has been dean of Rockefeller Chapel at the University of Chicago for the last 10 years. He said he will also devote time to writing a history of the Highlander Folk School, located at Monteagle, where he taught 25 years ago.

Dr. Thompson, born at Harrison, Tenn., has also taught at the College of the Ozarks in Arkansas and at the University of Oklahoma. He graduated from the University of Edinburgh.

Dr. Thompson said, "I have decided to devote my time and energies in the immediate future to the task of helping the brave Southerners who are seeking peaceful and creative methods of achieving desegregation and integration in the southern schools and other institutions. The resistance to the Supreme Court decision of 1954 has created the most serious domestic crisis in our society since the Civil War."

Birmingham Bus Protest Ineffective

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (UPI) — A proposed boycott of city buses by Negroes over the segregation issue apparently has been ineffective so far, a check of some bus routes indicated Monday.

The Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, Negro integrationist, announced last week that the boycott was voted unanimously at a mass meeting of several hundred Negroes Friday night.

Shuttlesworth said the boycott was retaliation for "mistreatment" of Negro passengers, segregation and the refusal of the Birmingham Transit Co. to discuss the issues with Negroes.

But although the boycott was supposed to start Saturday, Negroes rode cars throughout the city. Negroes were observed as usual in the rear of the buses with no apparent decline in numbers Monday.

Private, State Schools Can Use Defense Education Aid

By LOUIS LAUTIER
WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NNPA) — Private as well as state-supported institutions of higher education will be eligible to participate in most of the programs authorized by the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

This means that institutions like Howard, Hampton, Tuskegee Institute, Atlanta University, Morehouse College, Fisk, Dillard, and the church-supported schools scattered throughout the South, as well as state-supported institutions like Morgan State, Virginia State, West Virginia State, Kentucky State, Savannah State, Prairie View and Lincoln University at Jefferson City, Mo., may qualify for such programs.

Dr. Arthur V. Flemming, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, at a press conference Monday, called the National Defense Education Act "one of the most exciting developments which has taken place in my lifetime."

He said it will have significance in the field of education far beyond that envisaged by its most enthusiastic supporters.

EFFECTIVE PROGRAMS
The United States Office of Education is in the process of putting into effect the many important programs authorized by the Act. Dr. Flemming said he is "pleased with the heartening progress being made," although a multitude of detailed plans and arrangements must be worked out before Federal Funds are actually paid out to states and educational institutions.

Funds will be available to states and educational institutions by January or February for most of the new programs under the Act, Dr. Flemming said.

Included in this timetable, Dr. Flemming listed funds for loans to college students, for area programs in guidance, counseling, and testing in elementary and secondary schools.

Also funds to help purchase equipment to strengthen science, mathematics, and language instruction in elementary and secondary schools, for research in the educational use of television and related media, and for improving statistical services.

Dr. Flemming believes that the provisions in the Act for graduate fellowships, and aid for the purchase of additional equipment for science, mathematics and language instruction are going to be more significant than some of the other provisions in terms of the kinds of incentives and leadership they provide.

"What we need in our country," he said, "is to give everybody an equal opportunity to reach his or her potential."

He also believes that more will have to be done in providing better salaries in order to attract and retain A-No. 1 teachers.

TO ACCREDITED SCHOOLS
Private schools of the type being set up in Little Rock will not share in any of the programs for secondary and elementary schools. Dr. Flemming reiterated what he said in a previous press conference that any school sharing in any of these programs must be accredited.

Four new branches have been created and a number of important personnel appointments have been made in the Office of Education to help put the Act into effect.

A new Financial Aids Branch will be headed by Dr. Homer D. Babbidge, former director of financial aids at Yale University and, more recently, Assistant to the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dr. J. P. Elder, professor of Latin and Greek and dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at Harvard, will be in charge of the graduate fellowships section.

Dr. Kenneth W. Mildnerberger, now on leave from his post as associate secretary and director of the Foreign Language Program, Modern Language Association, will

Kasper Runs Afoul Of Tenn. Police

By O. B. TAYLOR
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — (ANP) — Widely known white race agitator, John Kasper, was escorted by Athens, Tenn., police to the city limits Tuesday when he appeared at the McMinn County court house to speak. The citizens resented his presence, thus forcing actions by officers. At the city limits, county officers escorted him to Bradley county; local officers immediately accompanied him to Hamilton county (Chattanooga) where he finally was permitted to speak to an audience said to number 75, 25 of whom were police officers.

Kasper and Lee Foster, a candidate for Governor, Knoxville contractor, and well known here as a fiery racist had planned afternoon rallies at Athens and Cleveland. Their plans were frustrated by law-enforcement agencies in these two East Tenn. cities.

Athens chief police Ray Johnson was waiting for them at the court house with McMinn County Deputy Sheriff Riley Reynolds.

Hero At Goldsboro, N. C. Awarded By Carnegie Fund

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — (ANP) — Henry L. Skinner, 54-year-old Goldsboro, N. C., man, last week was the lone Negro among 27 persons receiving Carnegie Hero Fund annual awards at the Winner of Award No. 4102 in the 2,127 awards issued by the Fund so far. Skinner was cited for extraordinary bravery in saving the lives of an indeterminate number of persons while working as a maintenance assistance at a Goldsboro hospital Feb. 6, 1958.

Skinner and 25 others received bronze medals. The lone silver medal went to Stephen J. Herbert of Fairbanks, Alaska; a student at the University of Washington in Seattle.

RESCUE DESCRIBED
The Fund gave this description of Skinner's heroism:
"After repairing a valve on a tank of oxygen in the children's ward utility room at a hospital, Skinner opened the valve to test it; and the escaping oxygen burst into flames, igniting his shirt and two walls of the room Skinner ran from the room into a hall, where a nurse and a man helped him to extinguish the flames of his clothing."
"Fearing that the tank might explode and create a larger fire which would endanger the children in nearby rooms, Skinner, who was in considerable pain from burns, ran back to the utility room to shut-off the oxygen. He shielded his face with his jacket as he stood within two feet of flames on the tank, on which the valve was very hot and some connections had been melted, by the heat."
"Sustaining additional burns as he turned the valve a little at a time, Skinner succeeded in closing it enough to extinguish the flames from the tank. He then placed his jacket over the valve and closed it tightly. Firemen arrived and extinguished the remaining flames, which were confined to the utility room."
"Skinner, who had sustained burns to his hands, face, and upper body, was hospitalized five weeks and recovered within four months."

Editorial Says Negroes No Longer Weep

CHICAGO — The moral climate in which Negroes created blues music in answer to suffering has passed, and although interjection has its problems, "they don't cry no more," according to an editorial in the current issue of Ebony Magazine.

According to one of the last of the shouting blues singers, Big Bill Broonzy, who died recently: "Back in my day people didn't know nothing else to do but cry. They couldn't say about things that hurt 'em. But now they talk and get lawyers. They don't cry no more."

Today's Negro, says Ebony, is too busy getting an apartment in the project to sing. He is too intent upon qualifying for a job in the plant to be blue.

Talking, which Broonzy said Negroes will mean five state championships for the Wildcat machine.

Should Operas Be In English

ITTA BENA, Miss. — A theory that the average person would like and appreciate opera if presented in a language that he could understand has been proven by the National Grass Roots Opera Co. and its founder, A. J. Fletcher.

The troupe will appear at Mississippi Vocational College Auditorium in a performance of "Die Fledermaus" in English, on Nov. 12, at 8 p. m.

Fletcher, a Raleigh, N. C. attorney and businessman, formed in 1938 a concert except group to tour North Carolina with programs of Operas in English. This proved so popular that the following year Fletcher engaged the services of a professional opera singer and director, Robert Bird, a native of Ohio. Since the first full performance in 1950, nearly 600 performances of 25 works have been given.

Each season's tour brings new comments about the Company such as "audience delighted," Sarasota, Florida, "enjoyed it by far more than any other production of the year," Troy, Ala. "Well pleased enough to warrant a return engagement for this group of performers," State College, Miss.

The operas this season are directed by a brilliant young singer and director from Mannheim, Germany, Gert Muser, a veteran of over 2,000 operatic performances, including a large number of performances with the Vienna State Opera.

Nov. 11 Honors Dead By Service To Living-Huiet

"Patrick Henry's 'Give me liberty or give me death' has real significance for the nation's war veterans to whom we pay homage this November 11, Veterans Day," Georgia Commissioner of Labor Ben T. Huiet said here on the eve of the national holiday.

"It is humbling to know that the veterans we shall see in the Veterans Day parades have known first hand the lottery of war: who shall live and who shall die. Weary in battle, they have seen their buddies fall at the hand of Liberty's enemies. Like spirits of their fallen comrades in arms, the eyes of every living war veteran seem to reflect the thought: 'Thank God, the cause of freedom-loving people still lives in America, the Beautiful.'"

LeMoyn College Announces New Athletics Director

LeMoyn's new athletic director, Jerry C. Johnson, an All-American end from Wiley, has drawn up a four-sport program for the college.

Johnson will coach basketball, baseball and track. The golf team will be under the tutelage of Floyd L. Bass.

Top emphasis, however, will be placed on basketball.

"Give me two years and I'll give LeMoyn and Memphians a winning team," said Coach Johnson.

The new mentor will be working with limited material this year, but eager observers are of the opinion that Coach Johnson will be able to floor a respectable team when scheduled time rolls around.

The LeMoyn basketball team will open against Lane in Jackson, Dec. 1, and return here for the home opener against Tougaloo, Dec. 3. The LeMoynites will be on the road Dec. 4-6 playing Fisk, Knoxville and Alabama A&M, and will return to Memphis for home games with Jackson State, Dec. 13, and Rust on Dec. 15. Following the Christmas holidays, Memphians will be able to see LeMoyn against such teams as Tuskegee, Dillard, Talladega, Knoxville, Pikeslander Smith, Lane Alabama A&M and Fisk.

Johnson comes to LeMoyn with a shining record. He was outstanding in high school sports in his hometown of Tulsa, Okla., and later earned All-American honors at Wiley College in Texas where he played under Coach Fred Long.

He left the coaching staff of Maryland State College to accept the position on the LeMoyn campus. His biggest success as a coach was in high school sports in North Carolina. He won five high school state

South's Interest On School Bonds Grows

Pope John XXIII May Appoint Negro Cardinals

Survey Shows Problems Have Not Affected Cost

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The South has been paying an increasing rate of interest on its school bonds but not because of its segregation-desegregation problems.

Dr. John Cuff Dies In Nashville

NASHVILLE — (ANP) — Dr. John P. Cuff, professor and chairman of the department of pathology at Meharry Medical College died here last week. He had a distinguished record in his profession. He was a Diplomat of the National Board of Medical Examiners, a Diplomat of the American Board of Pathology and was the author of a number of papers which appeared in medical journals.

That is the majority view of people who buy and sell the bonds in a survey conducted by Southern School News.

The rising costs of borrowed money for the South as well as the rest of the nation, they explained, is reflected by the general state of the economy — meaning the availability or the unavailability of cash.

Some of those interviewed said they had found some reluctance in the East to buy Southern school bonds but that this had been offset by increasing bond purchases in the South itself.

Southern School News published in its November issue a table showing bond sales from July, 1956 through September, 1958 by the 17 southern states. For purposes of comparison, school bond issues for New York state for the same period were included in the table.

The table showed that Kentucky, a border state essentially integrated, and Louisiana, a Deep South state completely segregated, were the only states where interest rates ran consistently higher than in the non-South. Oklahoma and Maryland, border states, were the only ones drawing bond rates consistently below New York. Others varied.

Bond men said that while they considered the segregation-desegregation issue had not yet been a factor on many rates, the situation could change if there were wholesale school closings, as in Little Rock and Virginia.

Meanwhile dynamites and opening of the first private schools as a substitute for those closed in Little Rock and Virginia highlighted October developments in the South.

The Clinton, Tenn., high school, integrated by federal order in 1956, was wrecked by a three-chamber dynamite blast Oct. 5. A week later the Temple of the Hebrew Benevolent Congregation in Atlanta was similarly bombed.

Bomb hoaxes harassed numerous other southern communities. A new tabulation showed a total of 796 of the South's 2,896 bi-racial districts have desegregated schools. This was an increase of six, resulting from new Kentucky figures showing 123 of that state's 175 bi-racial districts with mixed schools.

38% Would Vote For Negro President

PRINCETON, N. J. (ANP)—George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion has disclosed that on a national scale 38 percent of the American electorate indicated that they would vote for a Negro if he were nominated by the party of their choice.

Taking regional considerations into account, the Gallup showed that in New England 51 percent of those queried indicated a willingness to vote for a Negro; Middle Atlantic states, 48 percent; Midwest, 35 percent; the South, 32 percent; the West, 47 percent.

Other indications showed that the adherents of the Catholic and Jewish faiths tended to be more inclined to vote for a Negro for the Presidency than their Protestant brothers.

The poll also indicated that in 3144 adults questioned those who favored voting for a Negro President were under 50 years of age and had received at least a high school training.

Sunday School Lesson

THE MARKS OF A CHRISTIAN International Sunday School Lesson for November 9, 1958.

MEMORY SELECTION: "You are the salt of the earth. You are the light of the world." (Matthew 5: 13-14.)

LESSON TEXT: Matthew 5 through 7.

This lesson discusses the meaning of the Beatitudes in order to show how the ideas expressed in them can enrich our lives. The Beatitudes are listed directly from the Sermon on the Mount—the God-given instruction on how to lead a full and Christian life. The Beatitudes are a list that Jesus himself drew up, and can be divided, roughly, into three parts: the first four Beatitudes "blessed are the poor in spirit, blessed are those who mourn, blessed are the meek, blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, emphasize the not-too-evident inner character and longing of the God-possessed life, and might rightfully be called the personal beatitudes.

The second set (blessed are the merciful, blessed are the pure in heart, blessed are the peace-makers, might be described as the social beatitudes. They contain the virtues of attaining kindness, possessed by the merciful, the outgoing affection found in the pure in heart, and the outgoing reconciliation practiced by peace-makers.

The third and final set of beatitudes for the scattered—blessed are those who are persecuted, blessed are you when men revile you and persecute you, how many early Christians found these particular beatitudes a comfort as they struggled against tyranny and persecution brought upon them by pagan emperors? How many of us can draw comfort from them today?

The Beatitudes present paradoxes. Teaching the paradox was a practice of Jesus. He taught that whoever seeks to save his life may lose it, but whoever loses his life for the sake of the gospel may save it. Looking around us, how many people can we name who make a direct search for pleasure, and find it? How many people do we know who consciously seek to live selfishly, who find enjoyment in that selfishness? Very few!

Search as we might through the Scriptures, nowhere else will we find the personal and social elements of the gospel more perfectly blended than in the Book of Matthew, chapters five through seven. And nowhere are they given more nearly equal emphasis than in these same chapters.

In instructing the people of his time in the Christian faith the meaning of Jesus' words went deeper than the mere face value of the terms he used. Jesus began the Beatitudes with the word "blessed" which means "happiness." When Jesus referred to a happy person he was not thinking in terms of quality nor quantity of pleasure, nor of satisfaction. He was thinking of a quality of life and character which was free from hate, greed, selfishness and bitterness. When he referred to the "poor in spirit" he was referring to those who saw the poverty of their souls. The man who sees the poverty of his soul will be shamed by it, and will do something about it. The man who never knows of his spiritual poverty is, indeed, a poor man.

When Jesus said, "Blessed are those who mourn," he was referring to those whose souls were troubled by the misery surrounding them, troubled enough to do something to right the wrongs that bothered their consciences as Christians. Jesus, in referring to "meekness" meant a man who had good will toward his fellow men, and a ready obedience toward God. All these are truly the marks of a Christian.

Here, in the beautiful words of the Beatitudes, is the essence of a Christian life. All of us have at some time or another in our lives harbored resentments against our fellow men, refused forgiveness for a thoughtless act that has wounded us, or dealt ungenerously with those who have offended us. We have given little thought to the fact that when we do these things they war against the kind of person Christ wants us to be when he commands: "Be reconciled to your brother, and then come and offer your gift." (Matthew 5:24.) and: "If any one strikes you on the right cheek, turn to him the

Lena Horne Urges Early Integration For Respect

NEW YORK — "Integrate the kids right at the kindergarten and grade school level. Let the races grow up together and you can bet they'll respect each other," said Lena Horne in a rare interview for DATEBOOK, a magazine for teenage girls.

The interview, "Lena Horne Talks Frankly About Integration," is in the current issue of DATEBOOK, on the stands Nov. 4. Publisher Arthur Unger, feeling that teenagers in the U. S. have a common problem in the school desegregation issues, went to Miss Horne, mother of two teenagers herself, following the tremendous response to DATEBOOK's fiction piece on integration entitled "Them," which appeared in the November issue.

Those responses indicated, Unger said, that teenagers want to come to grips with the problem of integration and, with responsible guidance, attempt to solve it. Miss Horne, however, would not offer advice. She said, regarding the Negro students at Little Rock's Central High: "Talk to those wonderful kids who went back to school day after day, to face what they had to face. I can't give them advice. They've done beautifully. I don't know where they got the courage. I couldn't have done it."

Miss Horne, star of "Jamaica," a musical currently on Broadway, has a daughter, Gail, who is a senior at Radcliffe and a son, Ted, a freshman at the University of Southern California. Insofar as the white students were concerned, the beautiful singer blamed their attitudes on the way they were brought up. A good part of their activities, she characterized as juvenile delinquency.

Decrying gradual desegregation, Miss Horne said, "How gradual can you get? If you've got to do something, you do it. School integration is not only a principle — it's a law."

NEW YORK. — (ANP) — In these days of dwindling box-office attractions since the decline of rock 'n' roll, singers Lavern Baker, Jackie Wilson, Clyde McPhatter and jazz organist Bill Doggett still retain a potent wallop commercial, two of the nation's top promoters disclosed.

Both Howard Lewis, of Dallas, and B. B. Beamon of Atlanta, who buy over two million dollars worth of talent yearly to play ballrooms and auditoriums in their territories, say they rated the above quartet as performers who always cause lines at the boxoffice when their names are put on the marquee. They also pointed out that one of the reasons why they cause cash registers to jingle is that they aren't strictly rock 'n' roll, but artists who appeal to all types of crowds, the teenagers, the college groups and persons over 40 years old.

In this day of one-shot record hits, many performers make the circuit once and when their records die out so do their ability to attract a crowd, Beamon said. He blames this on their failure to develop an act that will outlive their disc hit.

Highlight of the meeting was the presentation of a newly designed plaque to Jacob S. Potofsky, president of Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, who was cited at last year's EOD observance for his contribution in furthering the Urban League goal of equal opportunity.

Purpose of the day, is to focus attention on the importance of equal opportunity in American life, and it will be observed on the 95th anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Housing Bias Discussed By FHA Advisors

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Commission on Civil Rights has discussed problems of discrimination in housing with eight zone intergroup relations advisors of the Federal Housing Administration.

The FHA advisors on racial matters, in Washington for a weeklong conference, were accompanied by Dr. George W. Snowden, special consultant, and by Assistant to the Director of the Office of Complaints, Information and Survey, Norman P. Mason. The roundtable discussion was held in the offices of the Civil Rights Commission last Thursday.

Staff Director Gordon M. Tiffany and other members of the Civil Rights staff participated. They included George M. Johnson, director of the Office of Laws, Plans and Research, and A. H. Rosenfeld, director of the Office of Complaints, Information and Survey.

Also taking part were Eugene Jackson and Harris Wofford, legal assistants, and Robert H. Amidon, supervisory attorney. The conference was arranged by the Civil Rights Commission staff as a part of its program of collecting information about legal developments and appraising Federal laws and policies with respect to equal protection of the laws. Other discussions with housing officials are planned for the future.

The intergroup relations advisors, representing eight FHA zones, were DeHart Hubbard, Cleveland; A. Maceo Smith, Dallas; Reuben Clay, Richmond; William E. McKinney, St. Louis; Napoleon Dotson, Chicago; Al Thompson, Atlanta; John McDermott, New York City; and William Stansbury, Philadelphia.

Court Ponders Appeal Of Accused "Sex Psychopath"

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NNPA) — Shall Federal officials turn loose a "sexual psychopath" in the District of Columbia or commit him to a mental institution?

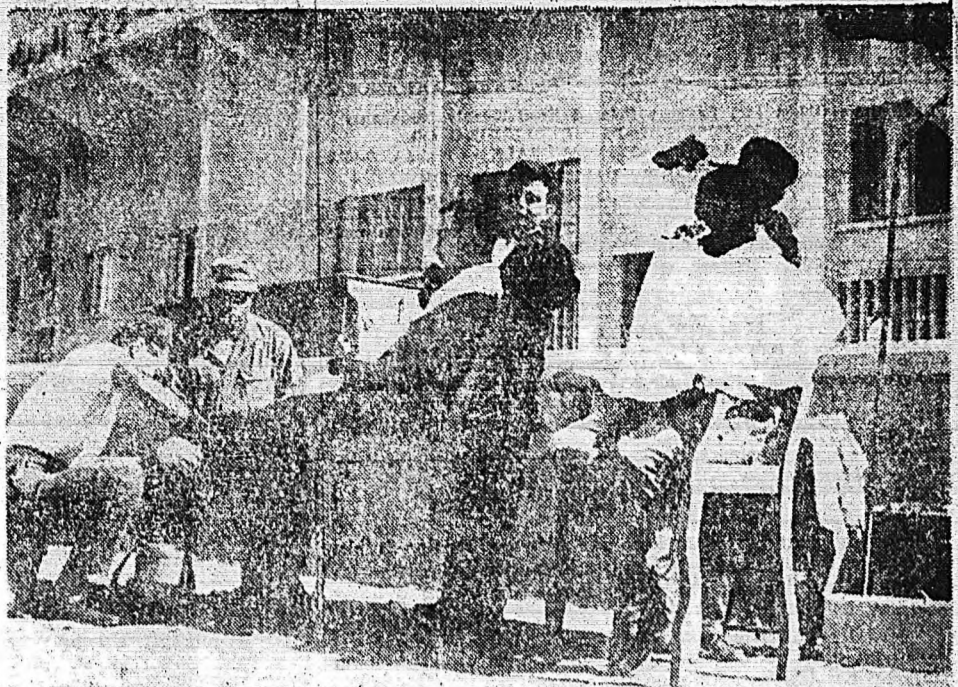

That question is still unanswered after the United States Court of Appeals Thursday denied the petition of James E. Clatterback for a rehearing by the full court on his motion to vacate his prison sentence and permission to prosecute his appeal in the form of a pauper.

The court split on Clatterback's petition. Judge Wilbur K. Miller favored granting the petition for a rehearing by the full court of nine justices.

Judge David L. Bazelon also favored granting the petition and set out his views in a lengthy statement.

Judge George T. Washington voted against a rehearing by the full court and also filed a statement of his views.

How the other six members of the court voted was not disclosed, but a majority were against a rehearing by the full court.

Devotions

No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main; any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind; and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee. (From Devotions XVII by John Donne)

Dear Eleanor, Please advise me as to what I can do to get my thirteen-year-old daughter to obey me. She also habitually prevaricates. My husband and I are separated and I have to work hard to make ends meet and try to support the children. My husband is supposed to send $15 per week for their support, but he usually responds only about three weeks per month. All the children are of school age, except the baby.

This daughter will not even do her own laundry — she won't wash a single piece for herself unless I stand over her and force her. She won't do the dishes or anything else. I think that she met some fellow during the Summer and has gone over board for him. One night out of each week since school has opened, she comes in late. Punishing her doesn't do any good, and she seems to care nothing for her mother or sister.

I have tried to talk carefully to her but nothing that I say reaches her. Police tell me to take her to Juvenile Authorities. But I have seen several boys and girls of a similar disposition who were sent off only to return and do just as they previously did. They usually become worse and are bitter.

I am praying and hoping that this daughter will soon come to her senses before it is too late.

Devoted Mother Answer: I can understand exactly how you feel about both problems. Vig. — that of the disobed-

NEW YORK CITY OPERA TO PRESENT NEW "CARMEN"

NEW YORK CITY — On Saturday evening, November 8 (postponed from October 25), the New York City Opera, the first major New York opera organization to recognize Negro talent, will present in debut, young Doretta Brown, Negro mezzo-soprano, in a performance of Georges Bizet's "Carmen."

Miss Brown hails from Louisiana, a state noted for its extraordinarily rich and beautiful Negro voices. She is Creole, her white mother being of French origin, and her father an American Negro.

The music debutante began her career in New Orleans as a pianist, but later pursued voice amounting to 4 years under Sister M. Elise, who enjoys also the distinction of presenting locally, Negro singers in grand opera with symphony orchestras. Being on the faculty of Xavier University, Sister M. Elise encouraged her pupil to attain a B. S. degree in music education at that institution.

CURTIN INSTRUCTION After completing her college work, the young singer went under the tutelage in voice of Phyllis Curtin (herself a member of the New York City Opera Company) at the Aspen, Colorado Summer School of Music; and later under Norman Treigle, also of the New York City Opera Company, in acting and singing. But to Maestro Armando Giarola of the New Orleans Opera Company goes the credit for preparing her for the role of Carmen.

As a contribution to Negro musical organization, she became a member of the B. Sharp New Orleans Branch of the National Association Negro Musicians Inc.

When there is time for relaxation, Miss Brown indulges in such hobbies as horse-back riding, painting and poetry.

Three "Musts" For Integration Speed

LOUISVILLE — (ANP) — If Negroes want to "hasten all forms of desegregation" they must do three things — be equipped to hold any job, take advantage of all educational opportunities, and show interest in and take part in all civic activities, a Chicago newsman said recently.

Fletcher Martin, Sun-Times reporter and former city editor of The Louisville Defender gave the following advice following his talk on "Segregation-Northern Style" at the opening of the Louisville Pan-Hellenic Council forum. An estimated 300 persons attended the meeting.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (ANP) — Word from Accra, Ghana, indicates that the Governments of Ghana and Guinea, the newest African nation, have agreed on diplomatic relations on the ambassadorial level. Final details as to the nature of the assistance from Ghana will be worked out later by Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana and Premier Sekou Toure of Guinea.

Labor Secretary Outlines Reform Legislation Plans

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said labor reform legislation, to be effective, must include provisions against secondary boycotts and "blackmail picketing."

He promised the Administration would deal with these practices in its labor reform bill to be submitted again to Congress in January.

In an address to the Hennepin County Bar Association here, the Secretary said that direct criminal violation of the law is a comparatively simple matter to deal with, if you have a lawyer to the books with teeth in it, and enforcement officials who do their job.

The reason, he said, for the labor reform bill that failed in the last Congress did not provide relief from these practices, one of the reasons it could have provided on.

When there is time for relaxation, Miss Brown indulges in such hobbies as horse-back riding, painting and poetry.

National YWCA Board Elects Members, Hits Race Bombing

NEW YORK — The National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association of the USA announced Monday the election of five new honorary members, who together have a total of more than 100 years of voluntary service in the National YWCA.

The five elected at the week-long meeting of the 120-member National Board which ended last Friday, are Miss Margaret P. Mead and Mrs. William Walker Rockwell, both of New York City; Mrs. William Spencer Bowen, of Westfield, New Jersey; Mrs. Henry E. Corner of Baltimore, Maryland, and Mrs. Charles A. Rosenberg, of New Orleans, Louisiana.

In other major actions of the week, the National Board voted: 1. To support legislation designed to make bombing related to racial and religious bigotry a federal offense.

2. To send a message to the United States, signed in Geneva for the Conference on Suspension of Nuclear Weapons, expressing prayers for success of negotiations, and the hope they will lead to cessation of all nuclear weapons, but explosions.

3. To establish a National YWCA Committee on R. O. Inclusion, to study interracial practices in all phases of YWCA program and to make recommendations to the National Association for future action.

4. To convey the YWCA's cooperative role in community service, including evaluation of YWCA-YMCA cooperative experiences in various sections of the United States.

At the official board dinner during the week, Mrs. Mildred H. Esgar, new interim general secretary for the YWCA, said the YWCA which has a record of pioneering for more than 100 years, needs to "march off the map" — in other words to move into other uncharted areas where the YWCA's philosophy and spirit could help mold the future.

The Election And Its Implications

It is well that the much heralded off-year election is history, and now that account is being taken of the results which may not be as clear as one might think in drawing a hasty conclusion.

This off-year election ran true to pattern. As before, while it betrayed a Democratic sweep, let the powerful determining factors be not lost in taking up the chips.

In the first place, it is never a matter of surprise that all off-year elections show a tendency to vote against the party in power.

As recent as 1946, another off-year, with President Truman in the presidency, the Republicans swept in to control the Congress.

The Dewey upset, let the Democrats through in 1948, but in the ensuing off-election year the Republicans picked up seats in the Congress again.

This off-year election, therefore showed pro-Democratic tendencies. The tensions and unsettled conditions in the making, often irk the patience of the voter who is constrained to change his politics in favor of the outs over against the ins.

Here and there in two-party areas, the labor question played a big stake. The Republican Party, being in power, naturally would be made the whipping boy in many sections which took it out on the candidates bearing that label.

At any rate the Republican Party in this off-season did add another strong potentiality to its wealth of political timber. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who has appeared in the political drama in key places of diplomacy and commercial arbitration, brought up to rout the rising star of W. Averell Harriman, Democrat, for the governorship of New York. This is a key spot in itself to leap into the presidency of the United States!

With the Harriman star floundering in eclipse, there must be consternation among the Democrats for somebody to take up the leadership of that party in 1960.

The Republican Party since its foundation, when the slavery question was menacing this country, has always had several men of presidential possibility.

While there is rejoicing among some on the Democratic side of the fence, others deplore the possibility of retaining such persons as Senator Eastland in key chairmanships of the Congressional committees.

The Democrats picked up substantial gains in both Houses of the Congress, but the Republicans either won or held on to the top prizes of this election—namely top places in the two leading states, New York and Pennsylvania.

This off-year election made some discoveries, some pronouncements and posed some questions over which the American people will have plenty of time to ponder ere comes the final roundup of 1960.

A Fine Gesture That Could Bring Good Results

Maurice Ruddick, the Negro miner who survived a mine cave-in out in Nova Scotia, happened to be the lone member among the miners rescued to be offered a vacation in the state of Georgia.

The governor of Georgia finding that Ruddick was a Negro modified his invitation to include Ruddick on a segregated basis.

Apparently, the other miners who did not quite understand what it was all about, hesitated in agreeing to an invitation with one member of their crew conditionally accepted. Ruddick, took a lofty vision of the affair and agreed to come on a segregated basis in order not to prevent the trip of his fellow white miners who had indicated their rejection of the offer if it did not include Ruddick.

The gesture of extending the invitation to these miners to visit Georgia was an excellent one; the high spirit and that lofty position of unselfishness on the part of Maurice Ruddick after all might bring into the spotlight at least one of the conditions ever so often complained of and is in the process of treatment at the hands of the federal government.

Whether the other miners all back down in repudiation of the altruism of Ruddick and decline the trip is not known. But it is good that the invitation has been made. The wide publicity given it, especially since it was discovered a Negro was among the miners, brings to attention of all Americans the needlessness of legal segregation and the inconvenience it can bring to both racial groups.

Institutions are required to match $1 for every $9 in Federal funds. This program will provide funds to public and non-profit private colleges and universities for long-term student loan funds to enable needy and able students to complete their higher education. STATE SUPERINTENDENT Funds for this program are apportioned among the states on the basis of their relative full-time enrollment in institutions of higher education.

But the Democrats suffered a stinging defeat in New York where a new GOP vote-getter, Nelson A. Rockefeller, flashed on the scene with important implications for the presidential race two years hence. Pledges of "responsible" Democratic action came from a variety of party leaders as they studied the returns. Among them were Adlai E. Stevenson, Chairman George Smathers (Fla.) of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, and Chairman Theodore E. Green (D. R.I.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Such sums are necessary to award 1,000 fellowships are authorized for the current fiscal year, and for 1960, 500 fellowships, with an initial stopgap appropriation for the current fiscal year of a sum sufficient for about 160 fellowships. Green said his committee would devote itself to a constructive foreign policy "with no thought of partisanship." He promised to "support the administration when I think it is right and to voice my objections when I think it is wrong."

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler predicted the new Congress, convening in January would be "more progressive and liberal" than its predecessor. He foresaw a "substantial revision" of the Senate filibuster rule and a "very good" chance for passage of a labor reform bill. Butler also refused to rule out Averell Harriman as a Democratic presidential possibility despite Harriman's defeat by Rockefeller. He further predicted that the 1960 Democratic presidential candidate would run on a strong civil rights

GREEN IS CONCILIATORY

He warned that the large Democratic House - Senate majorities offered "a temptation to divide and contest among ourselves." He said "such a course would cause the public to lose confidence in us and would greatly diminish our chances of success in the 1960 presidential election."

Miami Manhunt A NEW SUSPENSE NOVEL BY WILLIAM FULLER

CHAPTER 15 JOAN MORRIS and I walked side by side across the patio, then down the walk through the matted grass to her kidney-shaped swimming pool. The lights had been on the first time we'd been out. Somebody had turned them out with the others had left. We sat close together in the deck chairs the other two had vacated. Joan sipped her coffee. "What were you doing in the Caribbean, Brad?" "I'd told so many lies that day that I figured a few more wouldn't hurt. Marta had figured me out for an engineer so I'd use that. 'I'm a civil engineer, Joan. The company I work for has been building a dam in the Republica de Guayra. I've been down there most of the time for the past five months.' She sighed. "Must be wonderful to be a man and do things like that."
