Peeping Into The Wardrobes Of Memphis' 10 Best Dressed Women

Miss Ida Mae Walker, another of 1958's "Best Dressed Ten" is a business woman and secretary for Universal Life Insurance Company. She is a member of the prominent Walker family. She is a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority and Mississippi Blvd. Christian Church.

Being a business woman, Miss Walker must be able to dress for a full day without many changes. To do this, she must include in her wardrobe, a dark basic suit and a dark basic dress — blue or black.

A quick change of accessories with a basic black suit or dress is a morning into evening attire.

Since Miss Walker purchases her wardrobe in accordance with her work, we readily can see why her taste centers around tailored and sport clothes. Her wide variety of these allows her to portray that well-dressed look at all times.

She likes a wide selection of shoes, hats and accessories to complete her wardrobe. Her taste for evening wear varies, but always to include a cocktail dress in back.

MISS IDA MAE WALKER

Whenever Miss Walker is present, a smartly dressed woman is seen.

1959 "HOLIDAY ON ICE" WAS A HUGE SUCCESS

Zetas Present Follies For Third Consecutive Year
If a packed house and applause are any indications, the Zeta's third presentation of Holiday On Ice was again a sensational hit Sunday evening when approximately eight thousand Memphians attended the show given in North Hall of Ellis Auditorium.

The lobby of the auditorium resembled a huge reception room was swarming with fashionably dressed guests who stopped briefly to greet friends, with lovely gowns, furs and jewels much in evidence as early as 7:30.

Almost first to be seen near the box seat entrance (before the performance) were Mrs. Onzie (Mildred) Horne, basses of the graduate Zetas, wearing a stunning "after five" number and she was with husband and their young son, Onzie, Jr. A few steps away were Mrs. Carlotta Stewart, general chairman of the show; Mrs. Bernice Calloway, chairman of publicity and chairman of the Pan-Hellenic Council and Mrs. Bertha Ray, all smartly dressed with pink stoles casually thrown around their shoulders. They were being greeted by friends as they welcomed hundreds upon their arrival.

During intermission Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Calloway stood by as Mrs. Maggie Jordan (Zeta woman) presented a large bouquet of red roses to Miss Doris Owen, "Queen of Ice" (chosen because of her high scholarship at LeMoynce College), during the time she was presented to the audience by Frankie Sawyer's star of the "Ice Follies."

The show this year portrayed the "Wizard of the Oz." Speaking of beauty, elaborate costumes were prettier than ever and the performance was superb. A snappy orchestra provided music for the show which has proved so popular in this area and added to the grace and beauty of the show. It takes stamina to be an olympic star, but it takes an equal amount of energy to be a top flight professional ice skating star, along with beauty, charm and grace. And the stars had all of that. One marvelled at the number of stars to be found in a single show, and the scenery. Many thought the mirrored dress (worn in the last scene) stole the show. At least it was a climax of beauty.

MEMBERS
Among the out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. Julia Polk, the Zeta's South General Regional Director who came from Jackson, Miss.; Mrs. Myrtle Williams, another Zeta woman who came from Little Rock; Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Burke (she's a Zeta woman) and with them were Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Bonds and Mrs. Tollie Purifoy of Forest City.

CARVER HIGH GIVES SECOND ANNUAL TEA SUNDAY

Hospitably, a new building, a pretty cafeteria and beautiful flowers were the ingredients for Carver High's second Annual Tea held Sunday, when hundreds of patrons, friends and teachers met at the school.

One of the outstanding events that led up to the brilliant tea was a "Choir Festival" with many churches in the South Memphis area taking part, under the direction of William H. Townshend, one of Carver's instructors.

presentation. Gifts went to Mrs. Viola Clark, Mrs. Frances Walton, Mrs. Gearlean Fletcher, Mrs. Lula White and Mr. Cuba Johnson. A deep purple orchid was presented to Mrs. Ro. B. Thompson, the principal's wife for which she graciously thanked the group.

Large groups of spectators went through the school to see large displays done by students in the work rooms, in the Art Department, the Shop, History rooms and in the Home Ec. rooms... after which Mr. Thompson thanked the community for the success of the school and for making the tea a success again. In his talk he told how the new city high school has its beginning in 1957 and has grown to a faculty with 43 instructors and 1600 students who have as their motto: "A forward step each day is our goal."

MANASSAS HIGH SCHOOL MAKES ELABORATE PLANS FOR "RAINBOW TEA"

Palm Sunday is the day set for the Manassas PTA Tea... to be given in the school auditorium from 5-7. Highlights of the annual affair will center around a fashion parade showing the newest and high styles to be worn this spring by the young and the old. Decorations will feature a rainbow with a pot of gold at the end. Mrs. Lula Smith, PTA president, Mrs. Geneva Wells, chairman and Ramelle Eddins, co-chairman along with the principal, Mr. L. B. Hobson are making strenuous efforts to make the evening a pleasurable one. You and your friends are invited out for an evening of entertainment. Manassas graduates, patrons of the school and friends are expected without a special invitation. Your presence and efforts will help build a better PTA and a better Manassas. The event is not only a tea, but a reunion for old friends and alumni of the school.

CO-ETTES WILL COMPLIMENT NEW MEMBERS AT RECEPTION

Friends of Memphis Co-Ettes have been invited on Sunday, March 22nd to a beautifully planned reception that will compliment new members made into the sub-deb group in Memphis this fall by Mrs. Edward Davis, prominent Detroit matron who founded the organization to enrich the social and civic status of teenage girls.

Lynn Marie Howell, daughter of the G. T. Howells, was hostess to the Co-Ettes at her pretty Hartauer Street home where the little auser "Prissies" (probationers) were pledged Sunday. Names will be revealed at the reception men-

MISS MARY JEAN COOPER IS MARRIED TO CHARLES B. CRAIG IN HAWAII

Of much interest in Memphis is the recent marriage of Miss Mary Jean Cooper, daughter of Mrs. Mary Cooper of 644 Stephens Street, to Charles B. Craig, son of Mr. Vance Craig of Los Angeles and the late Mrs. Corintha Craig of Memphis and Los Angeles and grandson of Mrs. Zetta Miller of 1392 James Street with whom the groom makes his home in Memphis.

The couple pledged their marriage vows with Chaplain Robert M. Rutan officiating February 1, 1959 at AF Hickam AFB-Protestant Chapel in Honolulu, Hawaii with a few couples from the United States attending. Mrs. Leona Lindsey of the United States was matron of honor. Best man was Pharnell Lindsey.

The attractive young bride was graduated from Booker Washington High School and was a student at Butler U. in Indianapolis prior to her marriage. She was an active member of the Mississippi Blvd. Christian Church.

The groom was graduated from Hamilton High and attended Tennessee State U., where he was a music major before enlisting in the Air Force. He is an active member of Greenwood C. M. E. Church here.

UNA Vocal Club In Annual Dance; Election Of Officers Monday

A large crowd danced to the "soft-to-hot" music of an orchestra when the Una Vocal Social Club recently held its annual formal dance at the Flamingo Club.

During intermission, each member was introduced to the guests amid a blare of trumpets and sounding of drums. As each member came to the dance floor, a semi-circle was formed and they were bathed in spotlights before husbands and escorts were called to the floor for the "Club-members-only" single dance.

President of the club, Mrs. Jerry Smith, was presented a dazzling set of costume jewelry by the club's sweetheart, Allen Segrest. Mrs. Smith was attired in a long green

Young Groaner Here For Brief Stay With Parents

MELVIN KIMMONS
A 17-year-old rock and roll singer, Melvin Kimmons of 2158 Dublin, has returned here after performing with Nappy Brown's troupe in Detroit, Mich.

The groaner is here on a four-week vacation, he says. He is staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kimmons, Sr. at the Dublin address.

Nine months ago Melvin was a sophomore at Booker T. Washington. He spent time before school taking voice lessons from Miss Georgia P. Quinn, a teacher at Magnolia School. He also sang with the Teen-Towners, a popular group of youngsters who have a weekly program on WDIA, and was a news carrier for the Memphis for four years.

HIGH BREAK CASE
Melvin got his big break into show business when his cousin, C. C. Scott of Chicago, came here to visit. Scott told Melvin that he had an opening there for young talent, and Melvin decided to take him up on it.

At Chicago Melvin entered the Veterans Administration Talent Search as a singer and dancer and topped third place. He was given a position in the "Little Rock n' Roller" band for this performance. While the aggregation was playing at the VFW Coliseum in Joliet, Ill., he met Nappy Brown, Nappy Brown amazed at the boy's talents entered him in another contest - and this time he took first prize, which included a trip to New York for a special performance on July 29.

"MY FAIR LADY"
Melvin will perform at two entertainment spots while here in Memphis - the Palace Theater and Castalia Inn. He sings rock and roll and classics, says singing of the Blues is his specialty. He comes from a singing family - his mother and his sister, Miss Rosetta Kimmons, both sing in the Castalia Church choir. Melvin says he likes show business, but warns that it's "hard work. I put in 35 to 40 hard hours per week." The singer's manager has predicted that he will be a star "in a couple of years from now." Most of the critics who have raved over the Memphisian have said that if he doesn't make the grade, it won't be because of a lack of talent.

Melvin says he got a lot of his tips from Beale Street's rags-to-riches Blues Singer B. B. King. "I learned most of my singing from him, Melvin says. He also gives credit to local disc jockey Nat D. Williams and Theodore Educhamp, two instructors at Booker T. Washington, and Teen Town advisor A. C. Williams for helping him develop his talent.

SMOOTH, CLEAR VOICE
Melvin has a clear, smooth voice, slightly better than that of the average Negro Blues singer. He also has plenty of rhythm something else essential in his field - plus a sparkling personality.

Melvin has a recording which will be released under the "Globe" label. A new recording company at Chicago, Ill. will be "My Fair Lady," taken from the Broadway hit and movie of the same name. He also plans to bring out a revamped version of "Landlord Blues," which was a bit bit back in 1952-'53.

Melvin says he has "no intentions of leaving show business. I definitely intend to make it a career." He says he doesn't believe his young age (17) will hurt his chances. "If the people of Memphis are behind me, then I feel confident that I can make a success of myself," he said.

TO HER STUDENTS at Morgan State College, Mrs. Winder-Gilkes points out that Carnation is the safest form of milk for baby's bottle.

Morgan State child-development teacher tells why doctors Recommend Carnation for baby feeding

Professionally, Mrs. Winder-Gilkes is known as Dr. T. Vivian Winder. Her doctorate is in home economics. She teaches nutrition, marriage and family life, and child development at Morgan State College in Baltimore, Maryland. Dr. Winder is definite about Carnation's superior qualities for infant feeding as well as for cooking.

"Carnation is the most digestible and the most nourishing form of milk for infant formulas," Dr. Winder states. "It is used in more hospital formula rooms than all other brands combined. And this milk that is best for babies is best for cooking, too. That's not surprising when you realize that Carnation is double-rich."

Dr. Winder says no other form of milk will do for "creamy" recipes, like the lump-free cream sauce opposite. She uses it for creamed chicken, tuna, chipped beef and casseroles. Dr. Winder is the wife of Dr. Evan Gilkes, M.D., a gynecologist and obstetrician in Baltimore.

"COFFEE isn't coffee without Carnation," Mrs. Winder-Gilkes declares. "There's nothing better." Double-Cream Carnation in the red and white can is the world's leading brand of evaporated milk, by far.

Recipe: CARNATION CREAM SAUCE (makes about 2 cups)
2 Tablespoons butter
2 Tablespoons flour
1/4 Teaspoon salt
1/4 Teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups (large can) undiluted CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK
Blend butter, flour, salt and pepper in saucepan over low heat until smooth. Gradually add undiluted Carnation. Continue stirring until thickened and smooth.

Bermuda Visit Of Virginia Gov. Is Challenged

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — A Negro member of Parliament Saturday challenged an invitation to segregationist Gov. J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia to attend Bermuda's birthday celebrations in May. The Trade Development Board announced that Almond had accepted an invitation to stay at Government House May 29-31 as a guest of Bermuda Gov. Sir John Goddall during Virginia Week. E. T. Richards, in a parliamentary debate on expenses for the anniversary, questioned whether it was wise to invite Almond when he had defied the constituted authority of the Supreme Court of the United States even though he later withdrew from his stand. The board went ahead with its plans anyway.

REPORT ON DETROIT'S INTEGRATION PROGRAM

Detroit (AP) — Apparently the Detroit Police Department's integration program is moving too slow for members of the Detroit Police Officers Association. Donald Livermore, president and Francis Foucault, vice president and Gerald Willard, secretary-treasurer of the DPOA met with Police Commissioner Herbert W. Hart last week and requested that the integration program of work assignments be made department wide. In the meantime, Commissioner Hart made it plain to the representatives of the DPOA that the department will not be pushed into full integration any faster as a result of the Detroit Police Officers Association's request. The commissioner said study of the integration program started at Hunt Station Sunday for the next 30 days, with Negro and white officers assigned to scout car crews without regards to race will determine how fast other precinct stations will be included.

Newark Judge "Reserves" Decision On Prophet Jones

NEWARK, New Jersey. — (ANP) — Magistrate Harry Hazelwood reserved decision on 'Prophet' James Jones, here on Monday, on the charges of "pretending to tell destiny." Following the judge's decision, a patriotic songfest was held on the steps of the Municipal Court Building, led by the Prophet, in the singing of "God Bless America," "The National Anthem" and a pledge of Allegiance to the flag. Before leaving, Jones followed the Prophet imparted a final "blessing" to all. Arrested a few weeks ago after a Mrs. Dolores Robinson, 31 of this city claimed that she had paid $10 for a private interview with the Prophet, Jones did not take the stand in his own defense. Mrs. Robinson testified on Monday that Jones told her during the interview that she would die if she went through with an operation. (She was scheduled to have an operation for a breast tumor) ADVICE IGNORED She ignored his advice, and the operation was to have been a successful one. At the court, Jones wore his familiar attire, including his white cashmere overcoat, his green suit, and bedecked with his familiar

Blood Clot Fatal To Dr. W. A. Adams

CHICAGO (ANP) — Funeral services were held March 11 at St. Edmund's Episcopal Church for Dr. Walter Anderson Adams, 58-year-old chief of the Provident Hospital Medical Counseling Clinic for narcotics addicts and chairman of the hospital's division of psychiatry. Dr. Adams, who died March 7, had undergone an operation at Michael Reese Hospital the day before for removal of a blood clot on the brain. The clot apparently was the aftermath of a fall he suffered on the stairs of his home Feb. 11. HOWARD GRAD A graduate of Howard University's medical school where he received a B.S. in 1923 and M.D. in 1926. Dr. Adams was called the South Side's first trained Negro psychiatrist. He believed that dope is often linked to mental problems. With this purpose in his mind, he treated addicts with the theory that the drug habit is a "historical accident in the life of an inadequate personality." In 1931 he won a Rosenwald Fellowship and spent a year at Boston Psychopathic Hospital studying clinical psychiatry. He practiced general medicine in Cleveland and became a member of Western Reserve University medical faculty.

Courts To Decide On 'Speed,' 'Good Faith Compliance'

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NNPA) — Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Arthur S. Flemming wants the responsibility for determining what constitutes "all deliberate speed" and "good faith compliance" with the Supreme Court decision against segregated schools left with the Federal courts. "Frankly, we are opposed to any action which would shift this responsibility to the Executive branch," Dr. Flemming told a House Judiciary subcommittee March 11. "We believe our role should be the role of assisting states and communities to comply with the court's decision," he added. The subcommittee is holding hearings on 31 civil rights bills. Several of them would give the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare authority to draft desegregation plans for local communities. If a local community rejected a plan that Dr. Flemming had drafted and approved, the Attorney General would be given authority to sue in Federal courts to compel its action. Dr. Flemming said it was clear that the Supreme Court had placed upon the Federal district courts the responsibility of determining what constitutes compliance with the anti-segregation decision. COURT RESPONSIBILITY "I think the responsibility should continue to be vested in the courts," he added. "I do not think it should be shifted under any circumstances to the Executive branch." "Why do you speak of the shifting of responsibility to the Executive?" asked Representative Lester Holtzman, New York Democrat. "Do you not feel that the Executive has prime responsibility in every facet of this problem?" Dr. Flemming replied that he certainly felt that the Executive branch has the responsibility of focusing attention on problems that arise out of failure of local communities to comply with Federal court decisions. He said he had tried to do that in connection with the closing of schools. "I felt that was an indefensible situation and so stated on several occasions," Dr. Flemming said. The Secretary of HEW said he did not think his agency should go beyond the Administration's proposal of furnishing assistance when local communities request aid. REDSTONE, ALA., CASE Representative Peter Rodino, New Jersey Democrat, directing subcommittee chairman, asked Mr. Flemming's attention to a reply from the Department of the Army to Clarence Mitchell, head of the Washington NAACP bureau, concerning the transfer of 21 acres of surplus land at Redstone, Ala., last year to the Huntsville, Ala., school district as the site for an elementary school. "The school built on the site was segregated," The Department of the Army said it was powerless to prevent the segregated school from being constructed. Mr. Flemming said he thought the Army's reply to Mr. Mitchell accurately stated the existing legal situation, but under the Administration's proposal, the commanding officer, if he found that it was impossible for the community to provide educational facilities, could apply to the Commissioner of Education for funds to be used to build desegregated facilities for children of military personnel.

$2,500,000 Goal Of 1959 Negro College Fund Drive

NEW YORK — Goal for the 1959 nation-wide United Negro College Fund campaign is $2,500,000, Bruce Barton, national campaign chairman, announced here today. Mr. Barton is chairman of the board of Batsen, Barton, Dursine and Osborn. "When divided among 33 member colleges, $2,500,000 is a small sum," Mr. Barton said. "But it will provide 10 per cent of their yearly operating costs. Since the Fund's first campaign in 1944, these colleges have depended on the annual appeal for this important percentage of their budgets." The colleges use the money to provide scholarships, improve faculty salaries, buy library and laboratory equipment or wherever it is most needed. The 16th annual College Fund appeal will open April 1. Organized campaigns are conducted in more than 125 communities throughout the country. Where there are no formal campaigns, appeals are made by letter, TV, radio, newspapers and magazines. UNCF has raised more than $37,500,000, both for capital and current-fund purposes, over the past 15 years. The colleges and universities—all but one located in the South—have a combined student enrollment of more than 24,000.

Delay Powell Trial Until March 23

NEW YORK (ANP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell's income tax evasion trial was delayed again Monday in Federal court. The trial was postponed until March 23. Judge Edmund L. Palmieri granted the postponement with the consent of both sides. A government aide said that U.S. Atty. Arthur H. Christy who was prosecuting the case, will be tied up with a narcotics case and will not be free to attend to the Powell matter for at least two more weeks.

Studio Fined $400 For Refusing Student

BOSTON (ANP) — David H. Crawford won a suit against Robert L. Kent, Inc., dance studios because the management refused to permit him to take dancing lessons from white hostesses. Judge Jennie L. Barron awarded $400 to Crawford for his "injured feelings." However, the studio has appealed the decision to the appellate division of the municipal court.

FT. VALLEY, Ga. — A Georgia Rurban Council on Human and Natural Resources formed on the Fort Valley State College campus early this year met in third session March 6 in the college's agriculture building with Dr. W. W. E. Blanchet, presiding. The Rurban Council is interested in the following areas as they relate to agricultural agencies including the Division of Agriculture of the Fort Valley State College: population changes, job opportunities and training programs available in terminal areas for migrants as well as in places from which they leave, farm marketing practices and problems, farm management practices and problems, home management practices and problems, farm mechanics practices and problems, special needs of farmers and scope and variety of vocational training programs. Member agencies in the Rurban Council on Human and Material Resources are Agricultural Extension, Farmers Home Administration,

Juvenile Delinquency

By the NNPA News Service Juvenile delinquency problems arise when juveniles from states bordering Mexico crossed the border into that country. California, Arizona and Texas are confronted with substantial numbers of juveniles between 13 and 18 years age going unescorted into Mexican border towns such as Tijuana, Juarez, Laredo and Nogales, seeking recreation, thrills, and excitement. These cities or border towns beggar description to the average person in the United States. Prostitution, drunkenness, sale of narcotics, obscene material, perversion, and all forms of vice flourish openly. Conditions existing in Tijuana, Baja California, Mexico, which is when the Coronado (Calif.) police about 25 miles from San Diego, department started a narcotic investigation and rounded up some 18 juveniles, all of whom were involved with narcotics and marijuana and barbiturates. Particularly on weekends—teenagers from the age of 11 to 21 were going across the border and coming back at will. UNDER THE INFLUENCE In a number of instances, these teen-agers were very obviously under the influence of heroin or bleary eyed from smoking marijuana. Dear Eleanor, I am a young man 21 years of age, and I am getting married in July. My future wife and I have decided to spend our honeymoon in New York City as she has never had the opportunity of going there. I have not been to New York since childhood. What I would like to know is how should I go about making reservations at the hotel, Broadway brothel night club on the south side of Tijuana. It was a sort of old place built like a motel. They employed about 50 prostitutes. At precisely 3 o'clock Saturday morning, the prostitutes would all go outside and a band of colored musicians would come in and they would hold a jam session that was known far and wide. Narcotics could be purchased on the spot. Another place that did pretty well was the El Serape, next to the bull ring. It was a nightclub enclosed by a wall. You could go to this nightclub or brothel, and purchase anything you wanted. In the restrooms of the nightclub there is a man attendant; who sells filthy books and contraptives and all sort of things like that, and he always peddles a little "junk" (narcotics) on the side. Their chief market is young sailors or trade. Every time a sailor goes in they know he is not a cop so they can hit him up for anything. An investigator who looked into prostitution at Kilometer 8 outside of Tijuana, where there had been established a new red-light district known as Zona Tolerancia, said he found out definitely that the prostitutes working in this particular section are urged to distribute narcotics to their young customers to get them started on it. A careful estimate is that there are 3,000 prostitutes operating in Tijuana and that there are at least eight abortion rings.

Dear Eleanor, I have twin daughters who, since my divorce, have lived mainly with me and my second husband. Now they are planning a church wedding. Is it at all permissible for my two husbands to participate in the double ring ceremony? Could their own father escort one of the girls and my present husband escort the other? Mrs. J. of Savannah

Answer: No, both of your husbands may not take part in the ceremony. Your first husband, the father of the girls, could escort the first-born twin, and they may be followed by the second daughter escorted by another male relative, an uncle or an older brother, a cousin or a close older male member of the family. Or the father may escort the first daughter, then refer to the second, remaining to give both away if the ceremony calls for this. Your present husband remains with you in the pew.

Dear Eleanor, My teen-age son often comes home from various public places with ash trays he has taken as souvenirs. He tells me all the other boys and girls his age do likewise. I tell him that no matter what they do, it is still stealing; and I won't permit him to keep these things in the house. He thinks that I am unreasonable. What do you think? Mrs. T. R.

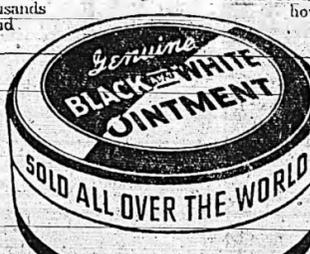

Answer: I think he is unreasonable. The purloining of other people's property is nothing other than stealing. However, some restaurants and night clubs do expect a certain amount of this "lifting" of such things as ash trays, and they consider it good advertising for these things to be taken out of clubs and into people's homes. ## Wallace-Rapier Match Looms As Hottest Bout

Hard-hitting performances mixed with the enthusiasm of record-breaking crowds are expected to dominate this year's Tri-State Boxing Tournament which will be held March 24-27 at Church Park Auditorium on world-famous Beale Street.

This marks the 24th year of the annual event, and anxious pugilists from all over the Mid-South area are training feverishly at boxing centers to get in best possible shape for their opponents. Their efforts are for a worthy cause, too. As usual, proceeds will go to the Shelby County Health Department to help supply milk for undernourished children.

Spearheading the event again this year are Prof. Harry Cash, Hamilton High School principal and president of the Tri-State Boxing Association, the organization which annually sponsors the fights, and Dr. R. J. Roddy of Millington, TBA secretary.

WALLACE-RAPIER BOUT HOT MOST AWAITED bout is the contemplated showdown between the Elijah "Jap" Wallace of the Abe Scharf Branch YMCA and Big Bobby Joe Rapier of Hamilton High School, two hard-hitting heavyweights. In last year's tournament the 180-lb Wallace sank the 253-lb Rapier to the canvas in a matter of seconds in the first round as shocked hundreds looked on. Rapier didn't recover.

Blondie Trent, whom Coach Cox has predicted will be a national champion in a few years, is actually on the comeback trail. In a television bout last summer, the heretofore invincible Blondie was thrashed soundly by "Tiger" Tom Harris, a vicious little boy being trained by Roscoe Williams at the YMCA. Tommy Davis is expected by many to dethrone the more fashionable Blondie.

HARRIS "FIVE OF EIGHT..." Church Park Co-manager Tom Harris now has eight regulars training out of a contemplated total of eleven. "If I field eight boxers, I intend to win five out of eight," Harris said. The Church Park squad is training daily after school and all day Saturday. Principal Cox's pugilists' hours are about the same, as are those for Williams' boxers.

Herbert Hunt, Williams' co-manager, will fight in the middle weight class this year. Williams' other open boxer is Lightweight Floyd Mitchell who displaced Clayton Palmore, now with Church Park.

Weighing in for the tournament will take place Monday. Last year more than 75 pugilists participated.

Press Blamed For Failure Of Dixie's Publicity Plan

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Gov. J. P. Coleman said March 14 some news reporters have named a proposed 11 million dollar publicity campaign to sell the South to the rest of the nation.

Coleman, chairman of the Southern Governors' Conference, said the press has "closed a lot of ears" to the plan of Florida State Rep. W. H. Reedy by "playing up the segregation angle."

Coleman, who has endorsed the proposal, said he has received many letters from other parts of the nation from persons who have read news stories about it. "Many of them say if we had in mind to change their view of integration, we may as well save our money," he said.

Representative Reedy's idea was to advise the nation of progress being made by the South in education, economics and racial progress," said Coleman. "But not many persons will ever pay any attention to it because the press has played up the segregation angle."

Reedy's proposal calls for each southern state to put up one million dollars over a four-year period and hire a top advertising firm to buy space in northern newspapers and TV and radio stations, to tell the "true story" of the South.

WILL TEACH INDIANS — These three LeMoine College seniors, left to right: Gail Caple, Claesia Washington and Faye Coleman, have qualified as teachers for the Indian Reservation at Gallup, New Mexico. Starting salary is $4,000 a year. Miss Washington has decided to accept the position. The other two young ladies are undecided.

Along The Sports Trail

BY SAM BROWN

We join with a large group of basketball fans and followers of the Melrose High School team in extending congratulations for a job well done in the way they represented Memphis and Region III in the State Tournament at Nashville last week.

Coach Frank Lewis had all praise for his boys on his return home, and stated that he was satisfied with the showing the team made. He continued, "We didn't win the state title, but we were the only team that came away with two trophies, third place trophy and the Sportsmanship Award. That's more than Pearl High, the champions, and Howard High, second place winners accomplished."

In losing to Pearl High in the semi-finals, many of the spectators feel that with just a little more luck, Melrose would have upset the defending champions, and moved into the finals battling for the title themselves. But, as fate would have it, the Pearl High boys were able to turn back the Melrose bid for the championship, albeit with the hopes of their hundreds of supporters.

Perhaps, Pearl High boys had a bit of an advantage as it is possible that they were more familiar with their surroundings, they had witnessed the mighty Tennessee A. and I. State University Basketball Tigers in action, and probably had rubbed shoulders with the National Champions. All this could have had its psychological effect, which has its place where youngsters are concerned.

SPORTSMANSHIP — The Melrose team is to be commended for exemplifying the greatest sportsmanship to be selected for the Sportsmanship Award. It is a credit to Coach Lewis as well as the boys to be the recipients of the award. Winning the title could mean a great deal, but after all,

French Cameroons Prime Minister Visits Washington

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NPA) — Prime Minister Amadou Ahidjo of French Cameroons, which is scheduled for independence next Jan. 1, arrived here Monday for an unofficial visit.

Prime Minister Ahidjo has been in New York attending the resumed session of the United Nations General Assembly, which has been concerned with the ending of the French trusteeship over Cameroons.

Ahidjo and his party were met at the airport by the Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs, Joseph Satterthwaite, the Acting Chief of Protocol, Clement E. Conger, the Deputy Director of the Office of Middle and Southern African Affairs, George D. Lamont, and the desk officer for the Cameroons, William C. Canup.

His Washington program included a call on Deputy Under Secretary Robert Murphy at 11:15 a. m., Monday, a luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel, at which Mr. Murphy was host, and a call at 3 p. m. on Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter.

Prime Minister Ahidjo laid a wreath at the Tombs of the Unknowns (with Honor Guard) in the Arlington National Cemetery Tuesday morning.

He was accompanied to Washington by Daniel Kemajou, president of the Cameroons Legislative Assembly; Gaston Behle, Minister of Labor and Social Law and Jean Belayeme, director of the Prime Minister's Cabinet.

The UN General Assembly voted Friday to grant independence to the French Cameroons next Jan. 1 without further elections. The vote was 86 to 0.

Cards Have Eleven Negroes On Roster

By SIMON WILLIAMS Special to the Memphis World ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Who's on second? No, who is not on second. He (Mus) is on second. And there he was, Solly Hemus manager of the National League St. Louis Cardinals' hitting the dust with a belly drive to rob the Cincinnati Red's B team of a double.

Hemus was playing second base with his rookies, backing 6-6 two-time All-American basketball player from Duquesne University up neophyte righthander, Dick Ricketts. Ricketts fired 64 pitches, walking two men, and gave up four hits, in three innings. The Cardinals lost the B team game, 2-0.

Julio Gotay, rookie second baseman showed a lot of color and talent in short stop. In three dashes to first base he had the best time on the team running the 33 feet in 4.2.

The grapevine of the Grapefruit league reports the fact that Solly would like to bring out a couple of "rookies" of the year. Veterans of the St. Pete scene tell us that there is a new emergency. We can't resist for other years, but Solly is strictly behind his "new boys." Although the Cards regulars were playing the New York Yankees in a one third game at Al Lang Field, Solly was in Tampa helping the boys with their problems.

The Cards have eleven Negroes on the roster this year, the largest in Red Bird history. In 1953, August A. Busch, Red Bird owner told reporters that there would be no color line on the team. He vowed to have players "on ability to play." The Cards have jumped from nine in 1953 to 11 in 1959.

President Eisenhower Reassures The Nation

The President of the United States brought to the hearts and homes of the American people the critical situation arising from the Berlin crisis and the repudiation of certain agreements arrived at with the Soviet Union.

At the outset was the consolation of the President's expression of willingness to attend a conference of heads of government with Russia, if preliminaries offer prospects of worthwhile results. At the same time the President served notice that the United States would not try to purchase peace by forsaking two million free people of West Berlin; neither would this government submit to any permanent and compulsory division of the German nation.

The President approached the situation with calmness and expressed the hope that a conference would iron out affairs on a reasonable basis.

His proclamation that we would never negotiate under a dictated time limit or agenda, or other unreasonable terms, was sound and in keeping with American tradition.

The President's arrival upon three points coming out of a careful appraisal to the situation would be (1) outright surrender, (2) going to actual war, (3) settlement by arbitration.

This arbitration the President modified could not mean sacrifice of the principles which prompted our being in Berlin in the first instance, nor to repudiate our obligations and agreements with other nations.

While the situation is precarious, it does not pose a condition beyond the reach of sound and unselfish minds.

On Monday night, the die was cast; the President representing the American people and the general overall policy of the free world, once again laid down before the Soviet cold war experts a new manifesto; that manifesto sets up those cardinal principles by which this country will be guided in coming up to the threats and counter threats relative to Berlin. And as it appears from this sound document, that the only reasonable and logical way out would be some such arrangement by which all the four powers might come out of Berlin, leaving it under the protectorate of the United Nations. This would be a step toward the eventual union of the whole German state under a safe and sound protectorate which would see to it, that while a people be allowed to work together once more as a united people, there would be no possibility of their bringing to the world the blood red fruit of world calamity as was done twice before in a single generation by German leaders.

Surely the German people could not ask more and neither could the four powers afford to ask for less.

Is Your Home Dangerous?

We have called attention many times to the danger that lurks in the average American home, pointing out that statistics show that about half of all the accidental deaths in the nation are due to mishaps within the home.

One survey of a large city reveals that more than half of such deaths are caused by falls. Analysis reveals that nearly half of the falls occurred on the same level, more than one-third of them on stairs, and about one-sixth from one level to a lower level.

The safety experts suggest that the number of accidents caused by tripping over objects and rugs on floors is of such size as to suggest caution in every home. Moreover, the need for well-lighted stairways is important, and everyone should exercise care and patience in using stairs.

We call these facts to the attention of other readers in the hope that we may help prevent accidents in the home. It will take only a few minutes to look over your home and eliminate some of the accident hazards. Parents who do this may save their children from suffering and themselves from unnecessary medical expenses. In addition, they may save their own lives.

It is of great importance where infants and young children are kept, to see that nothing is in reach that cannot be put into the mouth. Children and even babies are fascinated by the manner in which they see the elders turn on and off the gas, light the jets or the striking of matches to kindle fires.

They have a tendency to imitate their elders when they are left to themselves, with the result of serious damage done to their persons as well as to other objects within the home.

Older people are apt to slip on the slick bottom of the bath tub, or lose their balance in climbing out. Care should be taken to fasten firmly to some static object until one is firmly on the floor or the rug.

It is better to avoid these dangers than to run the risk of trying to get to a hospital to have a limb set, a wound sewed or a burn treated.

Remember, all the dangers are not out in the street where bouncing trucks and shrieking automobile tires are crying beneath the stress of the brakes.

N. C. Ban On Students Hit By Alexander

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—Total exclusion of Negro students from participation in the exercises in connection with the special session of the North Carolina General Assembly here has been scored by Kelly M. Alexander, president of the North Carolina State Conference of NAACP branches. The entire legislature and other state officials, including Gov. Luther H. Hodges, were flown from the capital city of Raleigh for the special session here on March 4. The junket was sponsored by the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce which secured the cooperation of the Board of Education and other municipal agencies.

Some 2,000 white students participated in the ceremonies. Mr. Alexander promptly protested to the Board about the failure to invite Negro students. "As young Americans, these students have a strong desire to participate in governmental affairs and are entitled to such opportunities on the same basis as white students," he said.

The Board denied discrimination saying that only those students attending schools in the vicinity of the ceremonies or who had available transportation were invited to participate.

Man Convicted In Attack Of Girl

DECATUR, Ga. — A 42-year-old DeKalb County white man last week was sentenced to two to three years in prison in the rape of a mentally deficient 8-year-old Negro girl.

The man, Almond Leon Johnson, was judged guilty of the crime by a jury in DeKalb Superior Court after the second trial on the charge. The first trial, last September, was declared a mistrial when the jury failed to agree on a verdict.

Seek Answer

(Continued from Page One) wrong reason," he said, but the more important issue is whether the church has something for those who seek it out for the right reasons.

Douglass expressed deep concern over the fact that at a time when all over the nation's occupants are church members, there is a major juvenile delinquency problem—"one cause of which is parental irresponsibility."

CITES EDUCATIONAL CRISIS He said there also is an educational crisis, an interracial conflict and an international situation in which Americans are feared and hated by a large proportion of the peoples of the earth.

All of this comes, he said, at a time when more than 100 million Americans are listed as church members.

On the brighter side, Douglass said that if a person looks under the surface for evidences of an authentic religious revival, he will find much to give him heart, including:

A new interest in essentially theological questions, such as "why are we here?" "Does life have a purpose?" "What is the meaning of existence?" "What may we hope for?"

A recognition that religion should have a bearing on a man's daily work and vocation. Thoughtful religious leaders are beginning to distinguish between "church work," involving serving as an usher or cooking church suppers, and "the work of the church," which involves carrying religion into daily life.

RELIGION REAPPEARS ON CAMPUS The reappearance of Christianity on college and university campuses to compete with rival views of life such as materialism, hedonism, scientism and moral and spiritual neutrality.

The concern of responsible church representatives over the problem of communication. They are recognizing that they no longer can remain aloof from culture and society.

On this last point, Douglass added: "They must take their place within the frustration and agonies of our period of history, admit that they do not have pat answers to our problems, and try to show how religion can illuminate the dilemmas of our time and point the way to finding adequate answers."

Hays Says Griffin, Harris Responsible For Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Former U.S. Rep. Brooks Hays reviewed the fateful days of the 1957 Little Rock integration crisis in a new book out Saturday entitled: "A Southern Moderate Speaks."

Hays said integration of Central High School in Little Rock apparently would have been peaceful had not then Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin and Georgia segregation leader Roy Harris of Augusta appeared in Little Rock to turn the minds of the people.

Hays said that Sherman Adams, who was then presidential assistant, asked him to serve as a sort of intermediary in Arkansas between the state and the White House during the critical stages of the explosive incidents at Central High.

Hays, who was defeated in a bid for reelection to Congress by Dr. Dale Alford, a segregation leader, said it was one of his telephone calls to Adams that set up the conference between Gov. Orval Faubus and President Eisenhower at Newport, R. I.

He said the President told Faubus he did not criticize the governor's calling out the National Guard at the high school but that Mr. Eisenhower said he should have given them "different instructions."

"At this stage," the governor need only have instructed the Guard to admit rather than exclude the Negro students."

Race Is Not A Cause Of Crime, Hungry Club Told

By WILLIAM A. FOWKES (WORLD Managing Editor) Of The Atlanta Daily World

The chairman of the Mayor's Crime Commission declared Wednesday that deliberations of this group had concluded that "race is not a cause of crime," although statistics may show one group arrested more frequently than another.

Attorney Morris Abram gave the Butler St. YMCA Hungry Club a synopsis of the findings of the commission which was created to find out why Atlanta has such a high, recorded crime rate. At the outset he pointed out that Atlanta police report every complaint and offense to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, whereas this may not be the case of other cities. He lamented, however, that Atlanta's crime rate "is much too high."

Comparing census tracts, the commission chairman said it was found that there were some Negro areas with high juvenile delinquency along with white areas showing the similar tendency. On the other hand, it has been found that there are Negro areas with little juvenile delinquency and crime, comparable similarly to some white areas.

The commission has found that "repeater" criminals are usually persons who do not regard themselves as members of society, youths who grow up without the restraints of those who feel they are part of it. Troublemaking has come from some persons moving from the rural areas to the cities, where the requirements of society are different.

The Crime Commission head said that his group has come up with several recommendations, some of which have been presented in the form of proposed legislation in the Georgia General Assembly. Mr. Abram said it was recommended that Georgia create a statewide fingerprinting agency and that the national government form a prisoner recovery service, since it is relatively easy for criminals to skip bonds and move. The commission seeks the end of Georgia's custom of allowing prisoners to make unsworn statements to trial juries and to leave sentencing of convicted persons up to judges.

In connection with the rehabilitation of prisoners, Dr. Abram said the commission had found that law enforcement authorities were admitting that the biggest job facing the courts is what to do after a man is convicted. Among other things, the speaker recommended an honorable discharge for prisoners with good records and the establishment of a bureau of employment for prison-discharged men and women, many of whom are forced to practice their "profession" because they can't find anything else to do.

The Hungry Club speaker said that discussions by commission members pointed out the need for solution of many of the problems facing the courts and criminals can be helped by Community Chest and social work agencies, along with churches.

The commission has thoroughly discussed the problem of juries which treat lightly crime of Negroes against Negroes.

Dean Whitney Young, of the Atlanta University School of Social Work, was moderator of the Hungry Club session.

Other persons speaking briefly were: Milo W. Henke from the campaign headquarters, who said "it will mean a great deal to all of Memphis for us to realize our goal. More than 800 men are needed to carry out the organizational plans. For many of us, this is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity."

Stephen Grant, one of the campaign directors, said the YMCA

Dr. Burney said. No significant increase in total deaths or in deaths from influenza and pneumonia has been reported from any of the areas in which influenza has been prevalent. Total deaths in the 14 large cities that report mortality data to the Public Health Service at weekly intervals have not increased.

In past years, influenza B outbreaks have usually peaked in February or March and have run their course by early April.

CHAPTER 16

WHEN PRICE REGAN was in town Sunday morning, he made it a practice to call at the Madden house at 10:45 to talk to Laura to church. Usually he father went with them. As Price rang the bell this morning, he nervently hoped Barry Madden was going anywhere—but to church his hopes were immediately dashed, for Madden, dressed in his Sunday best, opened the door.

"Come in, Price," Madden said. "I think Laura is almost ready."

They waited in the hall, silence a barrier between them, Madden's face very grave. Price glanced at him and turned his gaze away, wondering, as he had a good many times, how far the banker would go in backing Cole Weston. Apparently they had gone down the line together so far, but last night Weston had made his intentions clear. The ruthless brutality which characterized Weston the rancher did not seem to be in Madden the banker. If they could be separated.

His thoughts were broken into by Laura, who came down the stairs, wearing a sailor hat and a prim blue dress which gave her an oddly subdued appearance. It was not Sunday morning only. Price thought, an appearance which she would shed when she would take off the dress.

"Good morning, darling," Laura said, and passed halfway down the stairs for him to admire her. The spot where she stopped was carefully chosen. The sunlight, pouring through the stained glass of an east window, touched her with the colors of the rainbow. Price smiled, thinking this bit of vanity was quite apart from the mature Sunday-morning manner she assumed.

"You're beautiful," he said. "As beautiful as an angel with the glory of the Lord upon her."

"A very pretty compliment," she said, and came on down the stairs. "I thank you for it."

Madden snorted. "She sure fooled you. She's no angel. If you'd heard her talk to me at breakfast, you'd know she wasn't."

"You deserved it," she said. "Anyhow, Price wouldn't want to marry an angel."

"I'm surprised she even looks like one," Madden said, "with you keeping her up all night dancing."

Price kissed her, being careful not to disturb her hat that was perfectly placed atop her curls. As she went out with Price, she said, a little spitefully, "It's better to look like an angel on Sunday than act like the devil."

Her father said nothing to that. He closed the door behind her and Price, and they moved slowly toward the church through the hot morning sunlight, Laura walking between Price and her father. Something had happened. Price thought, for he felt the parbed edge of her hostility toward each other. Later he would learn what it was, but he couldn't ask now.

The church service dragged. Now and then Price glanced at Laura, who sat with her hands folded decorously on her lap, a set smile on her face; that looked past her at Barry Madden, whose face was more grim than Price had ever seen. "He knew it was wishful thinking, but he couldn't keep from hoping that Laura would prove to be the lever by which Madden could be prised free from Weston and his friends."

Price stood up with relief while the final hymn was sung, then the preacher lifted his hand and gave the benediction. He had barely said, "Amen," when the sound of running horses and the rattle of a wagon came to Price, then a woman's voice, "Regan! Regan!"

Price ran down the aisle and out through the door, forgetting the dignity of the place and time. Jean Potter jumped down from the wagon seat, hurrying past the lathered horses. She cried, "Regan, they hanged Walt Cronin this morning!"

Price stood motionless, shocked by what he had heard, yet at the same time he realized this was exactly what he had expected. He even had warned Cronin that he'd better leave the country, but Cronin had not been capable of taking a warning.

The congregation ran outside behind Price, the preacher with them. All of them were shocked into immobility, just as Price had been. He walked to the girl, asking, "Do you know who did it?"

Before she could answer, Barry Madden rushed up, saying, "You don't know for sure, do you, Miss Potter? You weren't there when it happened, were you?"

Price glanced at Madden, realizing he shouldn't be surprised at this interference, either. It must have been decided last night. Barry Madden looked as guilty as hell. Price thought, He knew exactly what was going to happen.

Price showed him back with a thrusting elbow. "Do you know who did it?"

The girl was almost hysterical. Tears were in her eyes, she was trembling and her face was so pale she looked as if she were about to faint. Finally she said in a barely audible voice, "No, I wasn't there, I don't know for sure who did it."

Laura tugged at Price's elbow and Price, and they moved slowly toward the church through the

"All right, take care of her. I'll be along in a minute," Price swung to face Madden. "You let her alone, Barry. Understand?"

Madden nodded as Laura walked away with Jean. Madden said, "I've never been sure whether you had a thimbleful of brains or not, but looks like I'm going to find out."

Price walked away. He had to or he'd have lost his temper. The preacher called, "Is there anything I can do? Or any of us?"

"I'll see the body's brought to town," said Price. "You can give Cronin a Christian burial."

He stepped into the wagon and drove away. Mrs. De Long came to the preacher and said, "You can't hold funeral services for a man like that, can you, Mr. Dolan? Not here in the church, anyhow?"

Price left the team at the livery stable. "Barney, soon as you get these horses rubbed down, get 'em up another team to the wagon. Walt Cronin was lynched this morning. I want you to go help me cut the body down and fetch it into town."

Barney De Long, the liveryman, backed away. "No, Mr. Regan, I ain't having no part of that kind of business. I can't get away today . . . ."

Price grabbed a fistful of De-Long's shirt. "You'll go! I'll deputize you if I'll make you face any better, and I'll twist your skinny neck if I have to! I won't be gone more'n half an hour. When I get back, you'd better have that team ready to go."

He wheeled and sprinted down the runway and out into the street, feeling the urgency of time. It was too late to save Cronin, but Rose might still be alive. If there was any evidence left at the scene of the hanging, he'd have to get there ahead of everyone else or it would be tramped out. But maybe no one else would be there. The settlers up the Yellow Cat wouldn't. They'd be milling around like a bunch of sheep. Walt Cronin had been the only leader they had.

Price took a minute in his hotel room to change clothes, then he buckled his gun-belt around him and, picking up his Winchester, left the hotel and hurried to the Madden house. He found Jean lying on the couch, still pale but reasonably composed.

"She'll be all right," Laura said. "She was just excited. I guess anybody would be who had to bring news like that."

"It was seeing him," Jean said. "I took just one look, and that was all, but I'll dream about him the rest of my life."

A few words were spoken, and there's all-but war. Continue "The Lone Deputy" here tomorrow.
