

Hamilton High Students Win First Prize In State Contest!

Students of the advanced 12th grade English classes at Hamilton High have brought a top honor to the school. They won first prize ($500) in the 12th annual Health Project Contest sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Tennessee Medical Association.

Deborah Greene is chairman and Mae Byas, co-chairman, of the victorious students. Miss Martha Flowers is the instructor and Harry T. Cash is principal. Miss Flowers and two students, Miss Greene, 17, daughter of Mrs. Lora Greene, 1338 Gleason, and Sandra Simpson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson, of 1920 Kendale, will attend the association's annual meeting in Chattanooga, April 11-13.

They will be presented the $500 check at the President's Banquet on the night of April 13. All expenses for the instructor and two students will be paid by the association. The trio will stay at the Read House in Chattanooga.

VOTING BILL
There are indications that a tougher voting rights bill, than the President asked for, will be passed. By a vote of 77 to 13, the Senate required the House Judiciary Committee to act on the bill by April 9 or it will automatically return to the Senate.

Engineering Dean At A&I Is Dead

NASHVILLE — Napoleon Johnson, 55, Tennessee State University Dean of the School of Engineering, was buried last Wednesday afternoon here in Greenwood Cemetery.

Dean Johnson, who joined the University's faculty in 1952 and was elevated to the Engineering School Deanship in 1960, died in his home last Monday evening of cancer.

Born in Louisiana County, Virginia, Johnson was the only son of Rev. and Mrs. T. Pendleton Johnson.

Dean Johnson earned his first college degree from New York University. As a technician in NYU's Physiology Department, he went to Africa with an expedition set up by the Rockefeller Foundation. Later Dean Johnson earned a bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering at Howard University and a master's degree in Civil Engineering.

Slain Civil Rights Worker: Mrs. Liuzzo's Funeral Attracts Many From All Walks Of Life

By ROBERT IRVIN (United Press International)

DETROIT—(UPI)—The civil rights movement paused briefly Tuesday to pay homage to a white woman slain along "a highway of hate" near Selma, Ala.

The top leaders of the Negro drive for equal rights were present as Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, 39, the mother of five, was laid to rest following simple services at a Roman Catholic Church. Mrs. Liuzzo was shot to death along a lonely highway last Thursday, Mar. 25 as she shuttled civil rights marchers between Selma and Montgomery.

She was entombed at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery following celebration of a high requiem Mass at Immaculate Heart of Mary Church. KING HEADS MOURNERS

The delegation of civil rights leaders attending the services was headed by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who led the Selma to Montgomery march that culminated in Mrs. Liuzzo's death; Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; and James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality.

U. S. Dist. Atty. Lawrence Guibow represented President Johnson at the funeral and Gov. George Romney was represented by Lt. Gov. William E. Milliken. United

NAACP's College Unit Plans Cabaret

NAACP Intercollegiate Chapter, composed of students from Christian Brothers, Henderson, LeMoyné, Memphis State, Owen and Southwestern, this week announced results of a recent election.

Kenneth Cox of MSU is the new president of the youth group. Others elected: William Earl Stanback of CBC, vice president; Phyllis Rose of MSU, secretary; Lennie White, assistant secretary; and Bob Hall of Southwestern, treasurer.

The chapter announced plans for its first annual benefit cabaret, April 15 at Club Paradise. The show will feature Booker T. and the MG's David Porter, Sam and Dave and Rufus Thomas. Admission will be $2 in advance and $2.50 at the door.

The chapter meets at 3:30 on the first, third and fifth Sundays at NAACP headquarters on Hernando. President Cox said young people are invited to become members.

The group plans petitioning the City Commission to reopen city swimming pools. Members of the chapter also are among those picketing downtown banks.

Membership Drive For NAACP Starts

The NAACP's annual spring membership campaign is about to begin, and all members and campaign workers are invited to a kickoff meeting on April 1. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. this Thursday night at Mt. Olive Cathedral Church, Linden and Lauderdale.

"A gala evening for all" is promised by membership committee chairman, Rufus Jones. There will be prizes and refreshments, as well as drive reports and instructions for workers.

Plans this year include the organization of workers into special divisions—church, city schools, barbershops and beauty shops, post office, social clubs and each division will be headed by a coordinating committee. The various divisions will compete against each other, with a prize being offered to the division that gets the highest number of members.

Prizes will also be awarded to individuals who get the greatest number of memberships (over 100).

Plan Big Reunion, Annual Meet For LeMoyné's Alumni

LeMoyné's Alumni Association, national president of LeMoyné College's General Alumni Association, this week announced plans for the association's annual meeting and reunion of 50 classes.

Reunion activities will get underway Friday, May 28, and continue through Saturday, May 29. The annual meeting is scheduled for May 29.

Mr. Briscoe said alumni from all sections of the country are expected here for the joint events.

He said Miss Eunice Carruthers, city school teachers and hat designer, is general chairman of the reunion, and the her co-chairman is Mrs. Letitia L. Poston, county school teacher and fraternal and church worker.

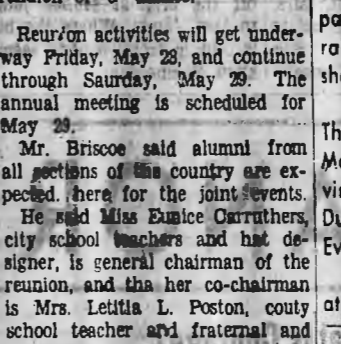

Elmer L. Henderson, first vice president of the association, is program chairman.

Miss Carruthers has released the names of three of the class reunion chairman — Mrs. Poston, 1955; Mrs. Ann L. Weathers, 1946, and Mrs. Rosa N. Murrell, 1936.

Potato Chip Sale Starts This Week

A worthwhile project for Y-Teen activities gets underway this week as Memphis Y-Teen girls launch their annual sale of potato chips.

Starting April 2 and continuing through April 12, the sale will be under the direction of Miss Barbara Neal, Teen-age director of the Sarah Brown Branch YWCA.

Proceeds from the sale of the chips will aid in the many activities and special programs carried on by the Y-Teens. Special programs will include a regional conference in Bristol, Va., the National Y-Teen Conference in Washington, D. C., and the educational tour to Nashville, Chattanooga, and Mammoth Cave.

Approximately 500 Y-Teens throughout Memphis and Millington will participate in the competition.

A $200 and $100 check will be awarded to clubs where the most bags of potato chips are sold on an average basis.

Former Memphian, Dr. Browne, Gets 'Math' Fellowship

DURHAM, N. C. — Dr. Marjorie Lee Browne, professor of mathematics and chairman of the department of mathematics at the North Carolina College, has been awarded a National Science Foundation science faculty fellowship for study during the 1965-66 school year.

This is the third post-doctoral fellowship received by the NCC mathematician. In 1952-53 she was a Ford fellow at Cambridge University, England. In 1953-54 she studied as a National Science Foundation fellow at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Provisions of the 1965-66 grant include the matching of her salary at NCC, round trip travel, funds for travel to professional meetings, and a cost-of-education allowance which covers all tuition and assessed fees at the university of her choice.

Cage Champions Honored By WDIA

Memphis State's head basketball coach, Dean Ehlers, laid down some important rules for athletes during his talk Thursday night at WDIA's Basketball Awards Banquet.

"Athletes must study and make passing grades," he said, "and they should have character and establish goals in life."

Finally, he said: "You must have faith in yourselves and faith in God." He said every athlete should be a church member and should attend church regularly. "Going to church and having faith in God will make you a better man," he pointed out.

WDIA sponsored the banquet at Hotel Peabody to honor the city basketball champions, Carver High, and the county cage champs, Mitchell Road.

Bert Ferguson, general manager of the radio station, was the toastmaster.

Each member of the championship team and coaches received handsome trophies.

Also attending the banquet were members of the press, several WDIA personalities, high school reporters, MSU assistant basketball coach Bob Stephenson and principals of the championship schools, Alonso Weaver of Mitchell and Richard B. Thompson of Carver.

NEGRO SPIRITUALS

Text: "Sing us one of the songs of Zion." Psalm 137:3
 "And they sang a new song" Revelation 5:9
 "By the Rivers of Babylon, there we sat down: Yea, we wept... for there they that carried us away captive required of us a song."
 Let us go from the captivity of the Jews to the slavery of the Negro. Three hundred and odd years ago there came by force to this land of ours groups of black men... slaves, if you please... to work in the tobacco fields of Virginia, the cotton fields of Georgia, the malaria-infested rice fields of South Carolina.

These African slaves found a religion beautifully adapted to their needs. The folklore of the old testament gave a rich outlet for the emotion and devotion of the Negro slave. Jesus retook His place as the bleeding lamb, a Saviour who bore all suffering and wiped away all tears. The Negro religionist created a heaven as a miraculous escape from a cruel world, a lush compensation for earthly suffering.

They, too, were natural musicians, great trombones of God, with music in their souls, rhythm in their bodies and melody in their voices. Their music was like melted pearls and liquid amethyst. They sang with the tenderness and sweetness of a vision and the strength and beauty of a mighty pine organ.

Today their melodies hang in our minds and haunt our memories. There is history, there is religion, in those grand old spirituals. May we treasure them. May we sing them today.

Hear the slave as he pours forth his soul in such a song as this: "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen, Nobody Knows, But Jesus." Again the trouble was inward. It had to do with the inner experience of the soul itself, but again relief was sought in Jesus. Their lips sang:

"I'm troubled, I'm troubled, I'm troubled in the mind."
 If Jesus Don't help me, I sho'ly will die."

The darkest hour is just before dawn. The shadows in the valley but prophesy the mountain heights. Surely this is true with the spirit of man also. The refuge of the cross, or of the Christ, is the only safe refuge then. So the slaves sang: "Steal away, steal away, steal away to Jesus."

In the message of these spirituals coming from the hearts of the singers, there are sermons for us. Every heart has had its burdens. Every soul at times is in the valley or despair and grief. Each of us may say, "Nobody knows the trouble I've seen." All of us can testify that when we "steal away to Jesus" we find rest and peace.

Therefore, let us cry out of our hearts to our heavenly father, that our burdens may be lifted and peace may come into our souls.

Finally, the great secret of it all is, the cross, and what happened there on that black Friday on that foul spot, "Calvary." The poor slave could weep his sins, and hear the knock at the heart's door as they sang:

"Were you there when they crucified my Lord?"

Let us pluck our harps from the willows or harp and sing the songs of Zion in this, our own land. Yes, let us sing those grand old jubilee melodies.

Let us sing, too, the new spirituals of a new and better day. Sing as the "Freedom Marchers" sing, "We shall overcome someday." Rising from the hearts and pouring forth from the lips of the new Negro in a new day are new spirituals pregnant with a determination to be free. Yes, sing and treasure the old spirituals but fall not to sing the spirituals of an old day for "We Shall Overcome."

When we hear our Negro youth singing the new spirituals we get vision of a new world a-coming and hear the Jericho walls of bigotry a-tumbling.

THE SOUTHSIDE MEN'S CLUB is shown as it pays the final installment on its NAACP Life Membership. President James Mitchner presents a check to Jesse Turner, president of the Memphis branch. Members of the club include William Burke, vice president; Theodore Walton, secretary; John Gibson, assistant secretary; William Gillard, treasurer; Edward Stewart, financial secretary; Fazell Brooks, Gus Hill and Isom Wilson. Members not in the picture are Joe Reed and Arthur Woodson.

Know Your NAACP

(The first in a series of articles about the history, structure and programs of the NAACP.)

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) is an interracial organization which was founded to insure equal citizenship rights for all American citizens. In January 1906 Mary White Ovington, William English Walling and Henry Moskowitz met in New York City to talk about problems of discrimination against the American Negro. As a result of that discussion the famous Niagara Conference was held in the same year. "For the discussion of present evils, the voicing of protests, and the renewal of the struggle for civil and political liberty."

The NAACP was formally organized on May 10, 1910, and W. E. B. DuBois, the outspoken Negro orator and author, was named executive of the organization and editor of the Crisis magazine. Since that time the NAACP has pioneered: (1) to eradicate lynching and mob violence, (2) to abolish unjust laws and legal procedure, (3) to secure passage of a Federal civil rights bill, and (4) to insure the right - to - vote of all American citizens.

Among the major accomplishments of the NAACP have been its success in organizing a national campaign against lynching, in establishing the rights of Negroes to attend universities in the South, in working to equalize the salaries of Negro and white teachers, and in organizing voter registration drives throughout the South.

Perhaps the most outstanding contribution of the NAACP is its work on behalf of public school desegregation; for the arguments presented by NAACP Counsel, Thurgood Marshall, resulted in the historic 1954 Supreme Court Decision affecting desegregation in the public school. Since 1954 local NAACP branches throughout the nation have gone to court to test compliance, on the part of local school boards, with the Supreme Court Decision.

The NAACP, both on the local and national levels, carries on programs against police brutality, and against voting restrictions designed primarily to prevent voting by Negroes; and it conducts programs for fair employment practices, legislation, education, housing, health and other legislation. It campaigns in Washington and works locally for passage of such bills as the Equal Housing Opportunity Act and the Voting Rights Act.

Members of the NAACP have organized and have participated in direct action campaigns, while the organization has lent its financial and legal resources to break down discriminatory practices in public facilities, as well as in government and private employment.

N. A. A. C. P. Officials Meet With Local Pepsi Bottler

Mr. Jesse Turner, President of the local branch of the NAACP, and Mrs. Maxine Smith, Executive Secretary, along with the Public Facilities Committee, met with Mr. Roland Ball, Vice - President and General Manager of the Pepsi-Cola Metropolitan Bottling Company, Inc., of Memphis, to discuss the discontinuing of helpers on all Pepsi trucks. After reviewing with Mr. Ball the Company's policies regarding this change and the Company's record relative to its Negro employees, it is the opinion of these officials of the local branch of the NAACP that discrimination in regard to race did not play a part in this change of the Company's policy.

As a result of this change in policy, it will be necessary for the Company to employ additional salesmen, of which at least half will be Negro. Pepsi-Cola now has the largest Negro sales force of any bottling company in the city.

Thirty-four employees were affected by this change, of which twenty-one Negroes have been re-assigned to other positions in the Company. One of the reasons for this change in policy was because of a desire on the part of the Company to increase earnings and benefits provided to its employees. This program of increased wages, hospitalization insurance, life insurance, sickness benefits and pension plan has already been instituted for all employees.

Annual Health Contest

Main purpose of the contest was to alert the people of the Hamilton community and possibly Memphis as a whole to the "Values of Immunization and Re-Immunization."

At the outset the students did extensive research and conducted group discussions of causes, effects, cures, and immunization against diseases that fit the category. The group, accompanied by drummers from the school band, marched through the Hamilton School area carrying placards and leaving pamphlets at each residence.

A newspaper carried an article which alerted the community to the march. Daily health messages were given the Hamilton student body over "inter-com" and during assemblies, WLOK radio station gave sort reminders to its listening audience. Other activities included a demonstration, address, and the distribution of pamphlets and questionnaires that a joint parent-teacher meeting of Magnolia, Dunn, Cory, Norris, Walker Avenue and Hamilton schools.

The group submitted their project for judging in the form of a written summary and a scrapbook containing photographs, drawings, press clippings, charts, maps and reports of the various activities. The project was evaluated on the basis of enterprise and achievement.

Gramps Did 'Em Too

"Gramps Did 'Em Too" is the euphemistic title selected for the 1965 version of the famed Booker T. Washington High School "ballet," the school's top talent show for its huge student body.

This year's ballet under the direction of a faculty committee, is designed around the simple theme of contrasting the popular dances of the past with the current dance crazes. The objective is to show that the dances of today had almost their exact counterparts during the youth of the grandparents of today's youngsters, more or less.

The presentation is slated for April 9th at 8 p.m. in the Music Hall of Ellis Auditorium.

The schools most talented dancers, vocalists, and instrumentalists, as well as drama and speech majors will hold the spotlight. The dances are being coordinated by Mrs. Arvene Gunn, Physical Education teacher. Working with Mrs. Gunn are: Mrs. Lillie Williamson, Mrs. Martha Galloway, Mrs. Norma Griffin, Mrs. Wilma Sueing, Messrs. Alexander, Williams, Jordan, Martin, Pender and Miss Cathrine Johnson.

The school's long-time "ballet" giver, Nat D. Williams, is serving more as coordinator for the various phases of the show. A publicity committee, headed by Mr. Ray Thomas and Mrs. Telma Harris is promoting the show. This year's show is geared toward more adult entertainment with the hopes that more parents and other adults in our community will attend.

The traditional Washington display of original dance routines, sparkling costumes, fine vocal renditions, and good music will be the ingredients for the '65 presentation, "Gramps Did 'Em Too."

Mt. Olive CME Church, Linden at Lauderdale, has chosen for its Women's Day theme on Sunday, April 25: "Christian Women Take A Look at Current Concerns."

Mrs. Grace Horner is the chairman and Mrs. Velva P. Williams, co-chairman. Rev. T. C. Lightfoot, pastor.

Long-Time Employee

Robert Allen, assistant manager and long-time employee of S. W. Qualls Funeral Home, died Friday, March 26, at John Gason Hospital after a lingering illness.

Funeral services were held Tuesday night in Qualls' chapel with the Rev. L. O. Taylor officiating. Burial was in Hollywood Cemetery.

A faithful and dedicated employee, Mr. Allen had been associated with the firm for more than 30 years.

During his 2-year confinement at another hospital, he continued to assist his employer, S. W. Qualls, Jr., from his bedside, handling some of the clerical work. After being discharged from the hospital he returned to work where he remained until about two weeks prior to his death when he again stricken and rushed to the hospital. An emergency operation was performed. He died about 8 days later.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Audrey Jones Allen, and other relatives. The couple lived at 1357 Ridgeway Ave.

Booker T. Washington Observes Career Day

By Mrs. Carlotta Watson, Counselor Booker T. Washington High School observed one of the most informative, impressive and we hope most effective Career Days in the history of its observance, March 28. Mr. J. D. Springer, principal of the school was a perfect host. He went above and beyond to make the visit of the consultants a memorable one. Mrs. F. W. Ross of the Home Economics Dept. and her committee prepared breakfast for 14 out of town consultants who arrived early. Mrs. Thelma G. Milton of the Art Department and her committee were responsible for the Theme "The Great Society and Where you Fit" being visibly displayed in a most unique manner throughout the school, while Mr. J. T. McAfee distributed the appropriate literature in each room used for consultation.

Mrs. Catherine Johnson was general chairman and Mrs. Jas. G. King co-chairman. Mrs. Bernice Harris was coordinator. Mrs. Christine Robinson and Mrs. B. Roby served as telephone receptionists for the consultants and Mrs. Martha Galloway of the Commerce Department and her committee did a herculean task of keeping the entire faculty and student body well informed of the happenings of the day.

Because of our Building Program, there were two assemblies, simultaneously. Mr. E. L. Pender and Mr. William Martin were responsible for the music. Mrs. Arvene Gunn was chairman of the tenth grade assembly in which Dr. Jamie Williams, Professor of Speech at Tennessee State was guest speaker. She discussed "Opportunities Unlimited" bringing out three basic points: 1. Know Thyself, 2. Know the World of Occupation; and 3. Be Educationally prepared.

Young people of today have opportunities unlimited... opportunities undreamed of by their parents and many of their teachers. Today's youth will be limited only on the basis of ability. They should, therefore, prepare themselves for the numerous careers which are opening up to them as members of a minority group.

Mrs. Mary Nichols was chairman of the Junior and Senior Assembly and Mrs. Anna G. H. Sasser, Associate Professor of Mathematics and director of Placement Bureau was guest speaker. Mrs. Sasser spoke from the topic "The Challenge of Opportunity." She stressed 1. Be Aware of your Environments; 2.

Know what is happening, and 3. Know the Forces Operating in your behalf. She elaborated on Plans for Progress, the voluntary program developed through the president's committee on Equal Employment Opportunity, established by the late President Kennedy in 1961. President Johnson, as chairman of the President's committee the advisory council last year in order to further implement Plans for Progress under Industry. "Many persons have said that young people will prepare themselves for possibility when they know that positions really exist." Mrs. Sasser proceeded to cite instances where young people who were qualified Negroes had recently secured responsible positions. Among those positions filled by Negroes recently included an accountant with the United Air Lines in San Francisco, "those positions filled in San Francisco. Accountant with the Caterpillar Tractor Company in Illinois. The Finance Staff of Ford Motor Company, Chemist with Eastman Kodak Company. "These students took advantage of Opportunities Unlimited... the only one in your way is YOU" said Mrs. Sasser. She made special mention of a Memphis girl, a recent graduate of Douglas High School, Miss Ernestine Henderson, who is now working with the Western Electric Company in New Jersey. She is a Math Major.

Both speakers were received enthusiastically. Both speakers admonished students for lack of application to the serious business of getting and education. It seemed as if a dormant giant of enthusiasm was awakened in the students after the assembly periods. They seemed more than anxious to go their various areas of interest. The consultants commented on their genuine interest and the intelligent questions that were asked.

The out of town consultants, included Dr. W. N. Jackson, Dean of the Faculty at Tennessee State University and Dr. Malcolm Williams, Dean of the School of Education. Dr. Jackson served as consultant for those who were interested in Science and Research, and Dr. Williams served as consultant for those interested in Secondary Education.

Immediately following the consultation period, the consultants were escorted to the dining area for repast and social hour. Lunch was served those who remained for a later flight.

Manassas Alumni Club Makes Trip To Hot Springs

The Manassas Alumni Club, in keeping with tradition, made its annual trip to Hot Springs last weekend. The Pythian Hotel was headquarters for the group.

Several members went ahead of the chartered bus and had already made plans for a party Friday night. The next day was spent sightseeing, along with other activities, including a trip to the race tracks, where they saw a large number of Memphians "Watching the races."

Among guests making the trip along with members of the club were: Miss Irene Lane, Mrs. Ethel Smith, Mrs. Margaret Scott and Mrs. Ollie Johnson.

Miss Clemmie Bosley was chairman of the trip.

Moles Induct Chicago Chapter In Impressive Ceremonies; Mrs. T. R. M. Howard Is President

It was Mrs. T.R.M. Howard, popular Chicago matron and civic leader, who organized a new chapter of Moles in the Windy City. The socially prominent matron, who has served as a national officer of Links, Inc. and the Medical auxiliary, is also the new president of the Chicago Moles.

Moles were founded in Norfolk in 1928 by women who were prominently identified with civic affairs.

INSTALLATION — Notable for their beauty of setting, perfection of detail and warm hospitality, the installation festivities in which nine attractive Chicago socialites were inducted as the 20th chapter of the exclusive women's organization, drew a record number of chapter representatives to Chicago last week end.

Beauty and hospitality were the keynotes as the social pace was set on Friday evening with a Get acquainted Froop-In in the Howard's lavishly and newly decorated apartment in the Luxury Building and it was in this swanky living area that guests had conversation corners as they viewed an Italian grouping of chairs around a low marble table — an Italian painting, a French scene (in the far off northern sections set off by an Ebony baby grand piano in the center, took the eyes of many of the guests.) Upon arrival of guests were announced by the ground floor doorman and for sure Dr. Howard was as gracious as his charming wife.

A COFFEE SIP during registration on Saturday morning preceded the installation luncheon held in the luxurious setting of the Kingsholm Theatre Restaurant on Chicago's Godd Coast.

MOLES AND MULES (spouses of new members) entertained at a gala affair at the House on the Roof at the Sherman Saturday evening with a formal dinner, a formal dinner dancing party on the Starlit terrace of the House on the roof followed by cocktails.

NATIONAL OFFICERS SERVE

Presiding over the impressive installation rites were four national officers: Mrs. Rosalyn Dixon, national president who went to Chicago from Dee Dee — Mrs. Gladys H. Johnson, president of the Detroit chapter and chairman of publicity — Mrs. Beatrice Clemons Preston, national vice-president who hails from Detroit and Mrs. Florence Bailey, national secretary who went from her home in Detroit.

MOLES AND MULES

Inducted as charter members of the Chicago chapter were: Mrs. Theodore R. Mason Howard, organizer and first president, who was escorted to all events by Dr. Howard — Mrs. Theodore R. Hawes, secretary and Mr. Hawes (another gracious couple) — Mrs. Louise W. Hancock, Jr., financial secretary and Mr. Hancock — Mrs. Robert Johnson, treasurer and Mr. Johnson — Dr. Helen Fleming and her spouse, Dr. John A. Fleming, Dr. Virginia Lewis and her spouse, Dr. Robert Lewis — Mrs. Otho Robinson and Dr. Robinson — Mrs. Stanford M. Smith and Mrs. Lowell M. Dollar and Dr. Dollar.

The glittering lights of downtown Chicago, we are told, could be viewed from the penthouse, was glimpsed by dazzling gowns, many by named designers, studded in rhinestones and bugle beads. Chic hostesses added iridescent sequins to their right cheeks, a national symbol shown in the lavish bids.

Honored as sponsors were members of the Detroit chapter and the Detroit delegations included: Mrs. James Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Whitney, Mrs. Lawrence Haskey, Dr. and Mrs. J. Keemer, Mrs. Lillian Duplessis, Mrs. Beatrice Preston, Mrs. Bruce Davis, Mrs. Oliver Smith, Mrs. Harold Brawley, Mrs. W. J. Moore, Mrs. Mary Helen Loving, Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Marie Poston, and Mr. and Mrs. James Stinson.

MEMPHIANS ARE LOOKING FORWARD to welcoming Marjorie Ulen home from Central Hill next week. Mrs. Ulen will be in Mr. Griders office here a few days before returning to the national capitol.

Had a chat last week-end with the charming and attractive Mrs. C. C. Russell, who joined her son, Mr. Melvin Conley here and went on to Hot Springs for a rest. Mrs. Russell is a mortician in Alton, Ill.

Youngsters seen home for the Spring Break are Charles Brantley — Linda Johnson from Columbia — Billy Speight, Yale, and Jean Latting from an Easter school.

Manassas High Corner

Hello: This is Claudene Cooper Cooper and Sylvia Coleman with the latest happenings around the campus of Manassas.

Spotlight: This week the Gold and Blue extends back to the freshman class, where an outstanding young lady is a member. Sandra Childress is a member of 9-11 homeroom class. Since this is Sandra's first year at Manassas, she hasn't acquainted herself with any organization other than a member of the Junior Classical League which is an organization for students studying latin. This organization is under the leadership of Mr. L. Brooks and Rev. W. Bell. Sandra is also a member of a new program conducted around Manassas by Mrs. G. Harvey. This program is named the college tutorial program.

In religious life Sandra is a member of the Vance Avenue Church of Christ. She resides with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Childress Sr., at 369 Myers Street and her brother, Lorenzo Jr. who attends Southwestern College here in Memphis. Like her brother, Lorenzo, who is a graduate of Manassas, class of 1963-64, Sandra also maintains a position on the honor roll System. Sandra is also a very intelligent and attractive young lady around Manassas. She is uncertain to what college she will resume her studies but she would like to become a Restered Nurse. So hats off to a very excellent young lady.

PLAY OF THE YEAR On Monday night, March 22, a comedy - mystery play entitled "Stranger In The Night" was presented by the spreaders and writers Club under the direction of a very fine teacher of Manassas, Mrs. B. B. Fingal.

The cast of the play included Regina Mabone, Sheryl Galloway, William Jackson, Normal Henderson, Edith Greens, Terry Harris, Cellustine Lloyd, Calvin Cleaves, Jeanette Cummings, Dearth Barber, Sylvia Jefferson, Ruby Wells, and Sylvester Oliver. If you don't attend the play, you missed finding out who the stranger was.

Citizens Association Annual Meeting Set For Wednesday, April 7 At Hardie Auditorium

The annual meeting of the Citizens Association will be held on Wednesday, April 7, 1965 at 7:30 p. m. in Hardie Auditorium at Southwestern at Memphis. Byron Morse, former mayor of Little Rock, will tell how his city has benefited from a change in the form of municipal government in a speech at the annual meeting of the association. Mr. Morse will be accompanied by Harold Henson, present mayor of Little Rock, the city manager and others.

"The Citizens Association's No. 1 objective is simplification of the city charter and improvement of the form of government under home rule procedure," said James D. Collier, vice president of the 300-member group. "The association feels that the time has come for a general public discussion of this question, and we have arranged this program to further that aim. Representatives of other cities have ing others forms of government will be invited to future programs." Edwin Dalstrom invites all interested Memphians to attend the general meeting, beginning at 8 p. m. Members will hear reports on the association's objectives and programs. Several of these have been attained or are nearing attainment. These included: Complete reappraisal of assessments Consolidation of city and county assessor's office Consolidation of city and county tax collectors' offices Enactment of a mapped street law. More equitable representation of Memphians on the County Court. A Civil Service merit system to protect government employees from political pressure. (A private act for the sheriff's office was passed.)

"We tried a pilot BONUS DAY on Wednesday, March 24. We found the day was popular with the customers of our Bellevue Goodwill Store, and a means of extra money for Goodwill's program of work and wages for the handicapped workers," states Mrs. Frances Church, Goodwill's merchandising director. "It is our plan to continue this popular promotion feature indefinitely, and perhaps extend the day to our other stores."

"Samples of BONUS DAY offerings for those who help the handicapped by shopping in the Bellevue Goodwill Store include an our where furniture is discounted 20 per cent; also toys; and records sell for five cents; and books for ten cents.

Those who give discards to Goodwill Stores, located at 94 N. Second; 245 S. Main; 266 Lamar; and at 1169 S. Bellevue help to provide training, work and wages for a hundred and thirty-five handicapped Goodwill Industries workers.

KNOW YOUR LIBRARY

By MAUDEAN THOMPSON SEWARD

Many people have been aware of instances of humor in Christ's teaching. It is doubtful whether many have realized the full extent of His use of this element. Dr. Elton Trueblood has placed biblical students in his debt by his splendid manner in which he has developed this facet of New Testament study.

Christ made use of humor to give force to His message. Attention is called to some of the subtleties in his employment of it. For example, when He referred to Herod Antipas as "that fox" it is important to know that "fox" in the Greek is feminine in gender.

The humor of Christ is universal in character; He makes use of irony, ridicule, the absurd and the preposterous. There is humor in some of the parables and in a few instances of dialogue. An appendix lists 30 humorous passages in the Synoptic Gospels. Call by the library and get the book "The Humor of Christ," by Dr. Elton Trueblood.

Two more books you might like to read this week: "Concise History of Israel" by M. A. Beek and "The Patriarchs of Israel" by John Marshall Holt.

Klan Over Plays Its Hand

After 100 years of terrorizing innocent citizens, the Ku Klux Klan has finally aroused the conscience of the nation.

We refer, of course, to the murder on March 25 of Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo of Detroit, a white mother of five children.

This criminal act was the grim finale to a headline-catching mass civil rights march from Selma to Montgomery.

Although it is difficult to understand how Mrs. Liuzzo's murder could have been any more hideous than the wanton slayings of other Klan victims, the act immediately triggered the combined wrath of the federal government.

The President's strong and forthright stand against the Klan as well as the nation's expressed indignation are commendable.

We ask this question, because we think it should be asked, but quest for a plausible answer in no way mitigates our profound sympathy for Mrs. Liuzzo's family nor our appreciation for the federal government's efforts to curb, or better yet, eradicate the Klan for the face of the nation.

The voices of the nation's Klan leaders are still defiant and threatening. However, the hand writing on the wall, tells us, that at last the Klan has over played its hand.

Reveals More About Fair Hiring At AID

WASHINGTON—(NNPA)—Unlike many Federal agencies and departments, the Agency for International Development (AID) is making an effort to comply with Federal equal employment opportunity programs.

As revealed in Capital Spotlight last week, AID has achieved significant "breakthroughs" in providing jobs for non-white personnel, especially overseas.

Of course, many will admit including the personnel folks at AID that much remains to be done to "even the score" for colored employees, but the point is AID's hiring and promotion program is well ahead of others in its class.

How well the fair employment system is working at AID can be seen in a breakdown of the number of colored persons appointed, transferred or promoted in other than overseas bureaus, since Sept. 1963.

Jobs held by the following non-white professional people represent what one AID official calls "an initial professional presence" in the office to which they are assigned (all rated GS-12, FSR-5 and above—$10,250 to $24,500 annually):

Robert Kitchen (FSR-1), director, Office of International Training; Frederick Senior, (GS-12) digital computer systems analyst, Management Planning Office; Edward Irons, (GS-14) private enterprise officers, Office of Development Finance and Private Enterprise; Nina Hardon (GS-12), special assistant, Administration Office.

Also, Joseph Brooks (GS-13), statistician, Office of Personnel; Alven W. Walford (GS-12), business analyst, Financial Review Division; Harold Keith (GS-14), press officer, Information Service; Delmas Escoc (GS-13), information specialist, Public Affairs Division; Irving Coker (GS-12), systems accountant, Accounting Division.

Also, Lloyd C. Martin (GS-12), statistician, Office of International Training; Thomas Posey (FSR-3), labor education advisor, Office of International Training; Martin Goins (FSR-3), chief, support services, Office of International Training; Edward M. Payne (FSR-4), public safety advisor, Office of Public Safety; George Roberts (FSR-4), excess property officer (Germany); and Denis Baron (FSR-3), AID coordination officers (Paris).

Others hired by AID for its Washington office since Sept. 1963 include (except four who have since resigned): Marion Johnson (GS-13), special assistant, Office of Management Operations; Gloria Gaston (GS-13), development resources assistant, Latin American Bureau; John Robinson, program officer, Far East Bureau; John Roxborough, attorney advisor, General Counsel's Office; and John Bulls (GS-14), deputy chief, Agriculture Division (transfer pending).

Professionally, he was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, The American Society of Engineering Education, The American Society of Military Engineers and the National Society of Professional Engineers.

Socially, Dean Johnson held membership in the Sportsman's Club, Frontiers International, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity and the Holy Name Society of St. Vincent De Paul.

Johnson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Thelma Thomas Johnson; seven-year-old daughter, Carolyn Ann; a sister, Mrs. Margie Williams of Jamaica, New York, and a niece, Mrs. Trudy Haynes of Detroit.

History In The Making

Demands For Arrest And Ousting Of Ala. Officials

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—The White House announced March 26 that half of the Alabama National Guard units which escorted civil rights marchers from Selma to Montgomery will be defederalized by midnight Saturday.

It said remaining regular Army and Guard units would be returned to their home stations "as soon as practicable."

The White House said in a statement that the Alabama National Guard units and regular Army troops, called into federal service March 20, will be defederalized on an "orderly" basis.

"They have successfully completed their mission," the statement said.

Press Secretary George E. Reedy, in response to questions, said that he expected some troops to start leaving Alabama some time Saturday.

The units were ordered to duty by President Johnson "to insure that the recent federal court order with respect to the march from Selma to Montgomery, Ala. would be carried out without obstruction and without prejudice to public order and safety," Reedy said.

Americans showered sympathy on the family of a slain white woman civil rights worker Friday and vented anger against snipers who ambushed her on a lonely Alabama highway.

Many civil rights leaders, clergymen and legislators urged speedy federal government action to bring the killers to justice and demanded continued federal intervention in the South to protect Negroes and whites pressing for Negro voting rights.

There were demands for arrests and impeachment of Alabama officials, and a warning that Negroes may not remain non-violent in the civil rights campaign "if there isn't some response from the other side."

Michigan Gov. George Romney offered his condolences to Anthony J. Liuzzo, husband of the victim, and the five Liuzzo children.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama said in a televised interview NBC "Today" that "of course, I feel badly about anybody getting killed." But he said:

"It's still safer on Highway 80 in Alabama than riding the subway in New York."

The Rt. Rev. William F. Creighton, Episcopal bishop of Washington, said the President and Congress had been "unbelievably slow to act." He said Alabama Highway Patrol Chief Al Lingo and Dallas County Sheriff James Clark "certainly should be put under arrest."

Birmingham Mayor Asks For "Bomb Reward" Gifts

The six dynamite bombs, the mayor said, were "intended to kill and maim, destroy houses of God, create citywide chaos and make a mockery of all the efforts for peace and understanding which have marked these last two years."

Gov. George Wallace put up $1,000—the maximum state reward—for information leading to arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the bombs.

They were planted in the Negro area where a bomb killed four young girls in their Sunday school class in 1963. Another $1,000 was donated by the Downtown Action Committee, and $1,000 came from the Birmingham News and Post-Herald.

Un-American Activities Committee To Probe Klan

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities voted unanimously Tuesday to investigate the Ku Klux Klan—the hooded order upon which President Johnson has declared all-out war.

At the same time, the Justice Department assigned one of its top civil rights lawyers to confer with Klan officials in Alabama and Georgia. The Klansmen had asked for a conference with President Johnson.

Robert Shelton of Tuscaloosa, Ala., imperial wizard of one Klan group, said he would welcome a congressional investigation but would "strenuously object" to the presence of Georgia Rep. Charles Welfer at any committee hearing. The Atlanta Democrat first proposed the Klan inquiry last month.

Cool 'N Breezy At Hamilton Hi

WITH BARBARA

Hi, boys and girls, I am back with the best of data around our "Alma Mater."

Spotlight This week the spotlight is on Miss Madeleine Cooper of 12-3A Class.

Miss Cooper resides at 1917 Freemont Avenue with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leno Cooper.

Madeleine is a member of Mt. Nebo Baptist Church. At the church she is secretary of the Sunday School and a Sunday School song leader.

Around Hamilton she is chaplain of the Debutante Society, Y-Teens, N.H.A. and Social Science Club.

Madeleine is also a fashion editor for the "Hamilton Newsette," reporter for the Kings and Queens, and assistant secretary for the Honor Society and N.D.C.C. sponsors.

Off campus she is chaplain for the Baons and Baronesse and Kappa Alpha Psi debutante.

Miss Cooper plans to further her education at Spelman College. She plans, as her vocation, to be a fashion consultant.

Madeleine, we salute you and wish you success and happiness in the future!

Featire: The club for the week is the Student Council. The advisors are Mrs. Snowden, Mr. Lacy and Mr. Frank Williams.

The officers of the club are, president, Patricia Simpson; vice president, Barbara Tabor; secretary, Barbara Ann Thomas; assistant secretary, Irma Keith; treasurer, Deborah Greene; parliamentarian, Errol Johnson, and chaplain, Harvey Jackson.

The student council of Hamilton High School was reorganized in 1953 under the sponsorship of Mr. Henry A. Neale. The first president was Ernest McNeil. Ernest made exceptional progress the first year by establishing a cafeteria monitoring staff. Much good has been done in the way of teaching good citizenship, participation in the management of the many school activities and campaigning for school programs.

The council organizes and administration was founded on the principles that the whole school must have some share in the function of the council and that it is not just another club. It acts as a practical clearing house for most, if not all, students and their activities.

The council operates on a home-room type basis where it consists of one or more representatives from each homeroom selected for the student council.

The council is now in the process of organizing a student court. The president of the council will serve as the judge. The jury will consist of the six officers and six representatives.

This is Barbara saying B.C.N.U. and remember, "All men are created equal."

The Western Regional session will meet with First Church, Brownsville, Rev. E. L. Currie, pastor, April 28-29. Rev. J. R. Halliburton, moderator, Mississippi Valley District Association, is regional vice president.

Dr. Owen and Mrs. J. C. Woods, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, will attend the meetings. Emphasis will be placed on missions, education, and stewardship. Dr. C. L. Dinkins, president of Owen, Jr. College, the convention's school, will appear at each meeting.

Brooke Says Voting Bill Is 'Too Weak'

WASHINGTON—(NNPA)—Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward E. Brooke said Friday the Administration's voting rights bill is "too weak" in its present "piecemeal" form.

The highest elected colored state official in the country, Brooke, a Republican, suggested at a news conference that voting guarantees should go into effect whenever 25 people in a locality complain they have been denied the right to cast their ballots.

He joined the ranks of a number of Republicans whose criticism of the lack of "teeth" in the White House bill threatened at the weekend to complicate House hearings on the measure.

Rep. John Lindsay (R.-N.Y.) a member of the House Judiciary Committee, which opened public hearings on the voting proposals last Thursday, said the bill should give the Attorney General broader authority to institute court action.

The measure could be strengthened, he added, by permitting the Justice Department to go to court to eliminate a pattern of denial of voting rights "anywhere" in the United States, instead of in certain Southern States.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas deB. Katzenbach spent several days and evening sessions with Rep. Emanuel Celler's House Judiciary Committee last week, and was scheduled to appear Tuesday at the beginning of Senate Judiciary Committee hearings.

The House unit last week heard the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dames University, endorse the Administration's bill. But he cautioned the committee against making attempts to register necessary before the bill's registrar process can be triggered.

"In some States, just attempting to vote is tantamount to suicide," he said.

John W. Macy, Jr., chairman of the U.S. Civil Service Commission, explained that the registrars would be appointed by his agency, and no political tests would be permitted. He said they will be required to process "the highest qualifications."

BIG PUSH ON

NINTH: All neighborhoods in the city must be provided equally with essential city services. The quality and amount of police and fire protection garbage collection, streetlights, streets, and traffic control signals must not vary from one part of the city to another.

Traffic lights are needed at the corner of Rust and Memphis Streets and at the corner of Valley and Memphis Streets. A public telephone is needed on Memphis Street near the two college campuses.

All streets and alleyways in the city must be paved—not just streets in so-called "white" areas.

TENTH: Adequate public recreational facilities must be developed—on an unsegregated basis.

ELEVENTH: All business establishments in Holly Springs should have freedom to remain open for as many hours of the day as they desire. The ten o'clock curfew ordinance must be repealed if the city's businesses, particularly its restaurants, are to serve the public fully.

TWELFTH: All the power and prestige of your office must be laid on the line in support of fair and speedy registration of all adult citizens who wish to vote. Undemocratic poll taxes in local elections must be abolished. Registration facilities must be enlarged to permit the processing of at least a dozen applicants at one time.

Probe Kluxers

(Continued From Page One) since I endorsed the suggestion of my Southern colleague, Charles Welfer of Atlanta, that the House Committee on Un-American Activities look into the Ku Klux Klan," the Memphis congressman said.

"If this committee does not act soon, I am going to urge Rep. Emanuel Celler (D., N. Y.) the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, on which I serve, to take appropriate steps to turn the spotlight of investigation on this organization.

The Ku Klux Klan has been a blot on our nation's sense of justice and fair play for too many years."

Mr. Grider's remarks came in the wake of a denunciation of the Klan by President Johnson, who announced that four members of the Klan had been arrested in Alabama in connection with the murder of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo of Detroit.

"The Ku Klux Klan is clearly a threat to the concept of American Government," Mr. Grider added. "An investigation of this ridiculous and extremely dangerous organization is long overdue.

"Any American who truly loves his country will support such action."

Nuclear Scientist Says

Russia Has Out-Distanced U.S. In Civil Defense Preparations

ALABAMA SNIPER VICTIM—Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, the civil rights march worker slain by a sniper in Alabama...

by RANDOLPH PENDLETON

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — (UPI) — A Nobel prize winning physicist and noted nuclear scientist Thursday warned that Russia has far outdistanced the United States in civil defense preparations.

Dr. Eugene P. Wigner, of Princeton University, who headed a recent civil defense survey team, said, "They the Russians have more shelters and better shelters — but principally, the population is trained what to do in the case of a disaster."

Wigner, who held a news conference before addressing a meeting of the Florida Civil Defense Association, stressed an educated populace was integral to a civil defense program.

"People must know where they shelter are and how to use them," he said.

He said Moscow subways are "unreasonably deep" and "could provide shelter for about one-third of the city's population, whereas subways in New York City are shallow and "not much good as shelters."

Wigner said Switzerland, one of seven nations with a law requiring every new building that houses more than one family must have a shelter, has perhaps the best civil defense program.

He added that in his opinion, a similar law would be to an advantage in the United States.

Wigner said he believed no type of attack now possible would cause more than 20 per cent casualties if a proper civil defense setup were in operation here.

The scientist declined to estimate what the casualty percentage would be in the present state of preparedness. "It's not good to think about," he said.

An adequate civil defense program would serve as a deterrent to attack since it would lessen what could be accomplished by an attack, Wigner said.

He said while his present philosophy appears to be to rely on the threat of retaliation as a deterrent to attack "the most effective thing we can do is to protect the civilian population."

"It doesn't do much good to be able to destroy the enemy if we are destroyed ourselves."

Wigner's speech to the civil defense specialists concerned primarily the "problem of recovery from a nuclear attack, which he said was less frequently considered than the problem of immediate survival."

Wallace earlier Friday absolved himself of any blame for the recent acts of violence in his state.

WALLACE INTERVIEWED

He was interviewed from Montgomery on a nationwide television program "Today," NBC. He asked if he thought his own antagonistic statements about civil rights marches and demonstrations had created an atmosphere conducive to violence.

"You can't blame any one individual for the things that happen in Alabama any more than you can blame Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller for the murder of Malcolm X in New York," Wallace asserted.

Gov. Wallace Calls Slaying An "Outrageous Crime"

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace of Alabama Friday night called the slaying of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo an "outrageous crime" and vowed the state would make all efforts to bring the guilty party or parties to justice.

The governor, in his first direct comment on the slaying of the civil rights worker from Detroit, described the crime as "a cowardly act" which "will not be tolerated."

The governor said if necessary he would employ additional investigators to solve the crime, which he said "works against the state of Alabama and all its citizens."

"ANGRY STATEMENT"

The statement was issued by Wallace's press secretary, Bill Jones, who described it as an "angry statement."

"It was a cowardly act committed Thursday night when a woman was murdered on Highway 80."

"Anyone who would participate in any such deed works against the state of Alabama and all its citizens."

Such acts of cowardice will not be tolerated.

"I have ordered all appropriate state agencies to continue around the clock investigations of the death of Mrs. Liuzzo, and, if necessary I will employ additional investigators to see that the guilty party or parties are brought to justice."

Wallace earlier Friday absolved himself of any blame for the recent acts of violence in his state.

Sanders, Talmadge Endorse Religious Overseas Aid

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Governor Carl E. Sanders of Georgia and U. S. Senator Herman E. Talmadge have given warm personal endorsement to the current appeals of America's wretched religious faiths for support of their worldwide overseas relief programs.

The appeals are the Protestant "One Great Hour of Sharing" and the Catholic "The Bishops' Relief Fund" appeal, both of which will be observed in churches in Georgia and elsewhere on Sunday Mar. 28, and the "United Jewish Appeal," a continuing effort with special emphasis at this period of the year.

These independent but common purpose efforts make it possible to provide relief and rehabilitation for millions of hungry and destitute persons overseas — victims of war, flood, famine, earthquakes, hurricanes and other disasters refugees fleeing oppression and political upheaval, and the chronically undernourished and underdeveloped.

In letters to Church World Service and Catholic Relief Services, the overseas relief agencies of Protestant and Catholic faiths, and to the United Jewish Appeal, made public simultaneously in New York today, Governor Sanders said:

"This is the season when America's three great religious faiths make their appeals for support of their efforts to seek relief for the homeless, hungry and destitute throughout the world.

"These assistance programs provide not only the physical needs of our less fortunate neighbors abroad but, through the voluntary gifts of love, we in America are creating a lasting bond of goodwill and brotherhood toward all mankind.

"As Governor of the State of Georgia, I urge all citizens, each through his own faith, to actively express their concern by contributing a share of their abundance to those who have so little."

Senator Talmadge said: "The overseas relief programs of our religious faiths are indeed worthwhile humanitarian efforts to help clothe and feed the world's unfortunate who are without shelter, food or home.

"Americans, by helping to support these programs of aid through their faith, can contribute to the well-being of their fellow men abroad and help build a better world for all."

"The three great faiths, through their programs of overseas assistance supported by the current appeals, distribute food, clothing, bedding, medicine, and self-help materials to millions in need, give aid to orphanages and hospitals, tuberculosis clinics and other health efforts, and carry on widespread projects of resettlement and rehabilitation for refugees.

Washington — (UPI) — The White House Sunday announced an intensive anti-poverty drive in the nation's poorest counties.

The drive was disclosed in a White House statement naming 182 counties — all but 11 in the South — which are too poor to pay 10 per cent of the cost of anti-poverty programs within their borders.

Special teams from the Office of Economic Opportunity OEO will be sent to the counties to launch community action programs to help stimulate regional economies, the White House said.

The law creating the OEO permits it to determine what counties cannot pay part of the costs of local anti-poverty projects. The OEO said the federal government will pay all costs in counties where per capita income is less than $750 a year. Other counties must pay at least 10 per cent of the program costs.

The government will pay all costs in the counties named, which also had to show that they could not raise the matching funds through public or private financing.

The White House said 25 million persons live in the 182 counties and called the announcement a new "leap of hope" for them.

It aimed as the ten poorest, with their average annual per capita incomes: Wade Hampton, Alaska, $424; Wolfe, Ky., $435; Mayfield, Ky., $455; Fayette, Tenn., $470; Cowsley, Ky., $474; Webster, Ga., $475; Hancock, Tenn., $490; Leslie, Ky., $487; Jefferson, Miss., $491; and Issaquena, Miss., $505.

"Free Movies" In France To Protest Against Government

PARIS—(UPI)—French movie theater operators have set March 30 as the target date for what could be France's most popular strike of the year.

Movie theaters all over France — from the 40 cent basement operations in the slums to the $2 palaces on the Avenue des Champs Elysee—will let spectators in free as a protest against the government's 27.74 per cent tax on admissions tickets.

"No admission charge, no tax" is the theater managers' theme. The theater managers will be joined by workers in all branches of the industry—including, of course, their own ticket sellers. The bizsuburban studios outside Paris will shut down for the day.

Secretaries in the Champs Elysees district distribution offices will not type letters. Technicians in film studios will close down their developing tanks.

Only movie projectionists will be on the job during the one-day strike.

Rene Clair, Henri-Georges Clouzot, Yves Climp, Jean-Luc Godard, Alain Resnais and other movie personalities will preside over a public meeting March 30 protesting the ticket tax.

Their protest will hinge in part of the fact that German movie tickets are only taxed 10 per cent—and German exhibitors are complaining. The British are not taxed at all on ticket sales.

The industry claims that it has lost one spectator in seven during the past four years because of the tax-inflated admission charges and comparison for television.

Producers and distributors have been steadily losing money except on about 10 or 15 hit films a year, they say.

Admission prices will be frozen since 1958 while movie-making costs have continued to rise. Paris movie fans are adopting a "wait and see" attitude.

Another group by the same firm are Easter "thought of you" greetings, daintily designed and as friendly as the first warm day of spring.

Beautiful cards for Easter cost from five cents to a dollar. In the most expensive category is the Hallmark Book of Easter Poetry, approximately titled "The Promise of Easter." The 18 poets included in the anthology range from Iowa University's Paul Ringel to William Blake and the subjects from Walt Whitman's "To Him That Was Crucified" to Emerson's "April and May."

All share a joy and exuberance of the coming of spring and in the triumph of Easter — the Christian resurrection that gives the season its significance.

SPORTS OF THE WORLD

BY MARION E. JACKSON

Ernest Fears, who starred at Florida A & M University, under the styled coaching of Edward Oglesby, and presently head basketball coach at Norfolk State College, was recently named 1964-65 CIAA Basketball Coach of the Year...

Major league baseball has turned quick as a cat on pops. Feller writes: Joe Gordon, second baseman (47-50) was a great clutch hitter. The ex-Yankee could do it all in the field and was a great leader in our 1948 dash for the pennant...

The news break was a self-concession from Inglehart, who revealed recently that he had placed his CBS stock in trust to resolve a possible conflict of interest. However, Dan Topping, owner of the Yankees, retains a 10 per cent interest in the Bronx Bombers.

Therefore, John W. Galbraith of the Pittsburgh Pirates and John Fetzer of the Detroit Tigers, the latter a wealthy speculator in radio properties, will have to take a close look at the successor to retiring Commissioner Ford Frick.

Frick, who is 70 years old, has agreed to remain as commissioner until after the '65 World Series to midnight, Oct. 31. His present contract was supposed to expire on the final day of the World Series. Frick has also agreed to stay on a day-to-day basis after that, if the 20 major league owners have no objection to his successor by then.

The job of baseball commissioner is one of the most lucrative in American sports. For the record, the commissioner's post has a salary of $65,000 and a liberal expense account. Frick is expected to receive a pension of $25,000 annually when he retires. This kind of loot isn't hay.

Baseball riches have never been so truly exposed as through its present day traffic in radio, television, shaving cream, elevators, beer, and razor blades. The sport seems to go hand-in-glove with this merchandise.

SPORTS BEAT — Eyre R. Satch, who played for the unforgettable Harlem Renaissance, and was a national tennis champion, was recently appointed assistant to the Vice-President — Marketing of the American Safety Razor Company. A native of Bermuda, Satch attended Willerforce University.

Bob Feller, who spent 21 years with the Cleveland Indians of the American League, has picked an all-time Tribe team he believes would stand up for the club's entire history.

His selections are Jim Hagan, catcher; Hal Trosky, first base; Joe Gordon, second base; Lou Boudreau, shortstop; Ken Keltner, third base; Earl Averil, outfielder; Larry Doby, outfielder; Joe Vasmataz, pitcher and a pitching staff that includes Johnny Allen, (most consecutive victories — 13 in 1947) although he used to avoid the New York Yankees; Bob Lemon (seven 20 game seasons) and Early Wynn.

Feller insists the fastest Indian would be George Case '46, the strongest arm Rocky Colavita ('55-'59) and the most powerful hitter would be Luke Easter ('49-'54) Luke was in his 40's when he hit one that bled catcher Dick Welk caught high against the bleacher wall near the 465-foot wall.

Feller also notes that Larry Doby, whose career span (47-'58) covered the most ground and made the most spectacular catches of any outfielder. Doby had that famous wild swing but finished his career with a .283 average.

Jim Hagan, catcher ('41-'57) was by far the best overall receiver who caught Feller, he tells. Hagan holds the Cleveland Indians' defensive record (.977), was sure-handed and

TODAY'S SPORTS PARADE

FORT MYERS, Fla. — (UPI) — This could be Bill Virdon's last spring training session in a major league camp, but if he lives to be 100 he'll never forget his first one. Virdon isn't that old as ball-players go. He's 33, he's being counted on for regular service with Pittsburgh this year and he's still regarded as one of the finest defensive center fielders in the National League.

But he doesn't want to push his luck. "If I have a good year, I'll try one more," he said, still breathing a little hard from chasing fungoes off coach Johnny Pez's bat. "If I don't do too well, this will be the last time around for me."

"Maybe I can get a job managing the minors. I think I'd like that. Then maybe I'd get a chance to manage in the majors eventually."

Virdon, who is starting his 11th year in the big time, has tolled mostly in the background during his entire career because he's an unassuming, workday type who isn't liberally endowed with color. All he does is get the job done.

General manager Joe Brown once paid him the supreme compliment. "Virdon could hit 320 and still be an asset to our ball club. No one has ever yet come up with a box score showing how many games he won for us with his glove alone."

Originally, the bespectacled, left-handed hitting Missourian was the property of the New York Yankees and reported to them for the first time in spring training in 1944, as a center fielder. His assignment was a cinch. All he had to do was beat out Mickey Mantle for a job.

He never quite made it. Virdon now laughs when he talks about that experience but he didn't at the time. "That was a spring to remember," he smiled, pounding a baseball into his well-worn and discolored glove. "Casey Stengel played me in a number of exhibition games and I went zero for 19 that spring."

"Then I dropped a fly ball in center field late in one game behind Whitey Ford and it caused us to lose, 2-1.

"To cap it all off, I hit Casey in the ribs with a relay from the outfield. The ball had a lot on it and it really knocked the wind out of him. This happened before a ball game and when I saw what I did I tried to duck in among the other outfielders so maybe he wouldn't know who hit him.

Ferguson-Brown To Captain '65' Panthers

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — Percy Ferguson and Lucius Brown, two members of the all-city football team picked last football season, have been elected captain and co-captain of the 1965 edition of the Carver High Panthers eleven.

The announcement of their selection to lead the maroon Panthers through next year's grid wars was made recently at the annual football banquet honoring the one-time city champions. Ferguson is a junior fullback and Brown will be a senior end. Both saw extended service last season.

Some ten individual awards were made at the banquet, including one going to the most valuable member of the "B" team and the most valuable member of the eighth grade squad.

The Panthers, finished with a 4-3-3 record, an ending which was not the best in Carver history and on the other hand not the worst. They finished first in their own I-A region and third in the city race.

The converted "most valuable player" award went to Edward "Butch" Brown, a high-rated end who is credited with playing a major role in maintaining the Panthers as a major contender in Class AA competition. Other outstanding varsity awards went to William Whitaker, an end who was voted best lineman, and Roy "Put Put" Ferguson, a safety man, who was selected best back. Ronald Perkins was named best defensive player. He plays end.

Fort Valley State Batters M'Brown Wolverines, 20-3

BY JAMES ANDERSON FORT VALLEY, Ga. — Behind the pitching of Starter Douglas and Bellefer Jenkins, who came on after two and two-thirds innings, the Fort Valley State College Wildcats worked over the Morris Brown College Purple Wolverines, 20-3. When Douglas left the mound, the score was tied, 1-1; and although touched for five hits and walking three, Jenkins limited the Wolverines to only two runs in six and one-third innings, he worked.

Haynes, right-fielder for Fort Valley State blasted a home run to help the Wildcats pile up the score. The Wolverines sent five hurriers to the mound in an effort to halt Fort Valley State's crushing batting attack. Bobby Griffin pitched five and a half innings and was followed by Willie Carter, William Morgan, Charles Phlips and Richard Harden.

The Wolverines left 15 men stranded on base. Credited with RBI's for Morris Brown were Carter, Beuben Bussey and Roosevelt Russell.

Jackson State Coach Named To Century Club

JACKSON, Miss. — Harrison B. Wilson, veteran basketball coach at Jackson State College, was named an award winner recently by the Sports Trail Century Club, an organization maintained by the Nike Division of the Kendall Company, to recognize the contributions of dedicated coaches throughout the nation.

Coach Wilson was made a member of the Century Club for his record of 279 victories in baseball. The club is an honorary group open to all college and high school coaches whose teams have won 100 or more contests in any sport. Originated several years ago by high school coach William Matthei, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, the Century Club is based on the concept that good coaches help make good citizens.

Matthei, a high school coach, wrote to SPORTS TRAIL, a newsletter published by Nike, makers of athletic tapes and supporters, and trainer's supplies. He suggested that coaches in smaller communities, and even at some schools in large communities, were often not recognized for their persistent and selfless efforts in training youth.

This was the germ of the Sports Trail Century Club. Since that time thousands of coaches have been honored before their community, and stimulated to continued good work, by the adoption of this award. "Successful coaching of athletic teams develops in young men a fine competitive spirit, an early appreciation of fair play, and a sense of responsibility," said R. H. Nelson, director of the club and a Nike executive. "The characteristics that make a winning team are the same ones that build better citizenship."

SOUTHERN JAGUAR CATS PILE UP 14-GAME WINNING STREAK

By BENNIE THOMAS BA. min. the umpire at the start of the '65 city swing into action, and they haven't let up yet. In fact, the Jaguars have run up a 14-0 record with the season only four weeks old. And the team has belted to the front in the Southwestern Athletic Conference races with a 12-0 mark. Southern has been effective both at home and on the road. The conference (11) has been evenly split, six at home and six in opponent parks, but this hasn't bothered the Southern University nine at all.

The Jaguars opened up at home and took three games from Alcorn College. They hit the road and did a repeat performance over Texas Southern, all in SQAC lay. Braving 37-degree weather and warding off the effects of sleet, the Jaguars discounted the polar-like climate and added three more victories at the expense of Jackson State College.

Southern's last series was against Prairie View here Tuesday and Wednesday, and the script didn't undergo a change. The Jaguars kept on winning. Getting in a double header Tuesday, Southern wracked up the Panthers 10-8 in the first game then had little trouble in taking the night cap by an 8-0 shut-out.

The Jaguars wrapped up the series Wednesday by hanging a 4-0 thrashing on the Prairie View team. Immediately following the win over the Panthers Wednesday, the Southern University team packed

Atlanta University Reveals Winners Of Annual Art Award

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — Floyd Coleman of Atlanta received the John Hope Award for the Best Landscape in the 24th Annual Atlanta University Exhibition of Painting, Sculpture and Prints by Negro Artists. Mr. Coleman, who is an instructor in the Department of Art, Clark College, won first prize in water colors last year for his "Before the Mayflower." He also received an honorable mention this year for his graphic "Poetic Landscape."

Charles W. McGee of Detroit, Mich., received the award for the Best Portrait or Figure for "Moods of Martha," and Gilbert Hatcher of New York was awarded the purchase award for any subject in oils for his "Gold Paddy."

The first award in water color went to Jimmie Moseley of Edinness, Anne, Md., for "Protest," and the second award was given to John Payne of New Orleans for "Mr. Mardi Gras." Payne also received honorable mention for his oil, "Oklahoma Impressions."

The following artists received honorable mention: in oils, Harry Vital of Texas Southern University, Houston, for "A Change is Going to Come" and John Payne for "Oklahoma Impressions"; in water colors, Phillip Hampton, Savannah State College, for "Bring Home Some Fish"; and in sculpture, Sam W. Johnson of Stillman College, Tuscaloosa, Ala., for "Seated Figure" and Rod M. Taylor of Washington, D. C. for "Rejected."

The judges were Miss Judith Alexander, Robert Westervelt, department of art, Agnes Scott College, Decatur, and J. H. Hatch, fine arts coordinator at Spelman college. They also selected 87 works for exhibition.

Southern Flashes To New Mark At Memphis Civitan Relays

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Southern University's one mile relay team — running with a strange new combination, flashed to a new Civitan Relays record of 3:11.8 here Saturday afternoon.

Richard Ross, Southern's high jumper of seven feet distinction also set a new record, jumping 6'9 3/4" to erase the old mark of 6'4" set in 1962 by Dale Kent of Arkansas State Teachers College.

The Jaguars ran into trouble for the second straight week, but unlike the incident in the Texas Southern relays of a week ago which they were forced to pull out because of sanction problems, they hurriedly put together an alignment which could compete but which excluded the freshmen members of the team.

Southern was entered in the college division of the meet originally, but the Jaguars were arbitrarily switched into the University division, "because your team has some of the best times in the nation," as the meet directors put it.

Southern Coach Dick Hill, refusing to place a year of freshman competition for each of his 18 team members in jeopardy, pulled the frosh performers and went along with a nine-member working unit.

Setting the new Civitan Relays mile relay record for the Jaguars were Henry Brown and Ernest Moses, both half milers, Fred Moss and Leon Lewis.

The old meet record of 3:15 was set by Northeast Louisiana in the 1962 meet.

Ross, in addition to winning the high jump in record time, also anchored the shuttle-hurdle relay team into second place behind Loyola of Chicago, a new event in the relay meet.

Running to second place for Southern were Joe Warner, Howard Jones, Gil Williams and Ross. Ross was nipped at the tape by Loyola's Tom Bremm of the Chicago team, with Northeast Louisiana finishing third and Miami of Ohio finishing fourth.

Southern finished third in the 440-yard relay which was won by Northeast Louisiana in 4:12, a new meet record for Dalton LeBlanc, Roger Morgan, Fred Vogel and Ronnie Fountain, with Kentucky State running second.

Kentucky State won the University Division Title with 79 points, Northeast Louisiana was second with 68, Loyola was third with 45, Miami fourth with 33 and Southern fifth with 31 points.

Memphis State logged 29 points while Oklahoma City University, Mississippi State and Western Kentucky didn't register a point.

SOUTHWEST SPORTSCOPE

HOUSTON, Texas — (UPI) — The biggest track and field carnival of the spring — the 14th annual TSU Relays, slated for "Space City" last Friday and Saturday, ended up as a big bust.

Texas Southern didn't get the meet approved by the NCAA, thus Southern, Grambling, Florida A. and M., Prairie View and several other schools pulled out just before the first running event. TSU ran as the Wheeler Street Track club, but didn't get any competition from Langston, Bishop and Mexico City colleges.

The Tennessee State Tigerbells were on hand and put on a good show that was highlighted by a record 105 100-yard dash by Olympic Game champion Wyoming Tyus. John Hatfield cleared what was announced at feet in the high jump, but when the sag in the bar was measured, it proved to be a meet record of 8-11 3/4.

Bob Hayes, property of the Dallas Cowboys of the NFL, was on hand to pass out a bushel of watches to the winning performers as a gift from Royal Crown Cola and the "fastest human in the world" told this writer:

"Just watching Coach Jake Gaither and the boys in spring training gives me that old itch. You know, it is football that I really love. I track is O. K., but I'll take a football game any day over a track meet."

"Do I think I can cut it in the NFL? Why not? I did O. K. so far in every kind of competition, haven't I? So why won't I do as well with the Cowboys?"

Well, one thing for sure, Dallas will have the fastest rookie in the league for world that matter, if not the most talented.

Fans who will come from all over Texas this summer to see the Houston Astros in the fabulous, Dorned stadium, will be seeing the player voted the best in the Texas league last year.

He is Joe Morgan, who has an excellent chance of being one of the three Negro starters with the Astros on opening day.

Walter Bond and Jimmy Wynn will be the other two. Look for a feature on the wonders of the Dome in this column soon.

18th Georgia Band Clinic, April 15th At Fort Valley

FORT VALLEY, Ga. — The 18th Annual State Band Clinic will be held at the Fort Valley State College, April 15, 1965.

The guest conductor will be Dr. Edwin C. Christian, Head, Music and Fine Arts Department, South Carolina State College. Dr. Christian is a Fort Valley State College graduate. Consultants for the clinic will be: C. V. Troup, Jr., Director of the Marching Band, South Carolina State College; Reginald Thomasson, Director of Bands, South Carolina State College; T. Marshall Jones, Director of Band, Albany State College; Wayman C.

Three Negro schoolboys will be on the Texas squad that will play Pennsylvania in the Big 33 game this summer. Coach Bobby Lane will get super-star George Danford of Waco, Jerry Levis of Beaumont and James Harris of Brownwood. Levis is a 9.5 sprinter and Harris, an All-State cager, in addition to their talents on the gridiron.

"Intoxicated Pilot" From Savannah Held 'n Fault Of Crash'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board, Tuesday found an intoxicated pilot responsible for the fatal crash of a private plane near Grand Junction, Tenn., last Nov. 7.

The pilot, James T. Wade of Savannah, Ga., was killed along with his only passenger when their plane crashed on a night flight from Memphis to Savannah in rainy and foggy weather.

The CAB said although Wade was not qualified to fly on instruments, he attempted to continue a visual flight into adverse night weather conditions. The board said a post-mortem examination of the pilot revealed an alcohol blood value sufficient to cause "loss of critical judgment, disorientation and mental confusion."

Efforts Being Made To Settle Glass Bottle Blowers Strike

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) — Management negotiators made a new offer Sunday in an effort to settle the 11-day glass container strike.

Labor representatives met separately to decide whether they accept, reject it outright or come back with a counter-offer. Officials of the striking Glass Bottle Blowers Association and the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute held joint and separate negotiations all day Sunday after federal Mediator William Rose had ordered the bargaining stepped up.

The latest management offer was a counter-proposal to a union demand made Saturday. "There are many modifications and issues to be settled before we can count on being home safely," Rose said.

The key road blocks to settlement were union demands for higher wages, a guaranteed amount of work each year and relief time for machine workers.

The strike has shut down 61 plants of 22 companies. It has threatened to diminish sharply the nation's supply of food containers. Some 32,000 workers were idled by the strike.

Pitts, who has been living in Little Rock, Ark., will shortly move his family to Chicago and eventually to Milwaukee, he said. The 215-pound back will enter his fifth season with the Packers this spring. His wife, Ruth, is an e-school teacher. The Pitts have a two-year-old son.

39th Annual Tuskegee Relays Set For April 30th And May 1st

100's of Prep, College Stars To Compete

By JOEL W. SMITH

The 39th Annual Tuskegee Relays will be held on Friday and Saturday, April 30 and May 1 and the companion 37th Annual Junior and Senior Women's Sports Day will be held on Friday, April 30, Relays Manager R. C. Owen announced last week.

Hundreds of college and high school cinders, from all over the South, are expected to converge on historic Tuskegee Alumni Bowl to compete in the two-day relay carnival, now the South's oldest and greatest track and field meets.

The annual Tuskegee Relays Carnival, founded in 1927, is a living monument and tribute to the foresight and ingenuity of the late Major Cleve L. Abbott, who was a master in directing first-class track and field carnivals.

Sports observers will also recall that for years many of the top stars competing in the Tuskegee Relays have gained national and international fame in AAU meets and the Olympic Games.

Last year more than 350 athletes from colleges and high schools in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas competed in the event, in spite of a driving rain.

SOUTHERN SPIKESTERS DOMINATE 1964 RELAYS

Last year baton-passers from Southern University, Baton Rouge, La., swept all of the relays to completely dominate the two-day track and field meet. Southern fourtimes won the 440, 880, sprint medley, one-mile and two-mile relays and carried home the beautiful Allen W. Gambrell Memorial Trophy, awarded annually to the winners of the two-mile relay.

Sparked by Patricia Pittman and Louise Hayles, the women of Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga., won top laurels in the Senior Women's Division of the annual Women's Sports Day.

The Booker T. Washington High School cindersmen, from Atlanta, Ga., stole the spotlight in the Junior Boys Division of the Relays Carnival, scoring "firsts" in the sprint medley, one-mile and two-mile relays. Charles L. Harper High School, also of Atlanta, won the 440-yard relay; while Western-Olin High School, of Birmingham, Ala., captured the 880-yard relay.

The Central High School lassies, of Newnan, Ga., rolled up a total of 70 1-2 points to wrap up the crown in the Junior Women's Division, and was followed by the Washington High and Turner High School girls of Atlanta in second and third place respectively.

A total of four meet records were shattered during the two-day sports carnival. Julia Coleman, of Campbell High School, Daytona Beach, Fla., set a new record in the 75-meter run; Robert Celestine, of Southern, broke the record in the javelin throw; while one of his mates, Richard Jackson erased the old records in the shot put and the discus throw.

For information write to R. C. Owen, relays manager.

Princeton's Bill Bradley has been cited as college basketball's outstanding performer during the 1964-65 season by the National Association of Basketball Coaches. Bradley, in All-America balloting conducted annually by the coaches of the Wheaties Sports Federation, edged Cassie Russell of Michigan for the top spot. Joining the Ivy League and Big Ten standouts on the All-America team are Gall Goodrich of UCLA, Fred Hetzel of Davidson, and Rick Barry of Miami (Fla.). The late Wayne Estes of Utah State, who finished sixth in the voting, was named an honorary first-team member.

Tenn. State To Open '65 Season In Ala.

NASHVILLE — Tennessee State University's baseball coach, Raymond Whitmon, will pare his squad to 25 this week as he prepares the 1965 season's opener March 30 in Huntsville, Alabama.

Coach Whitmon's diamond crew start their season with the first four games on the road. The Big Blues initial contest is against Alabama A. and M. nine, followed by Tuskegee Institute March 31 and two games with Alabama State in Montgomery April 1 and 2.

Thirty-eight hopefuls turned out at Coach Whitmon's first call for baseball players interested in making the squad.

"We are going to depend heavily upon new crop of performers this year," Coach Whitmon confessed. "There are seven veterans who returned, but only five of them are lettermen."

The Big Blues returning lettermen are senior Lewis Thomas, catcher; Elias Cooley, outfielder; and Bob Smith, infielder; and junior, Joe Mays, infielder and Jimmy Baker, outfielder.

Judge Fines Self For Illegal Passing

McALISTER, Okla. (UPI)—Daniel Boone passed a car illegally on his way to work Tuesday.

There was no accident, and no officers were around. Boone went on his way.

When he got to work, city police Judge Daniel Boone fined himself $6.

Pepsi-Cola And The Negro Market

Most companies selling consumer products in major urban markets having heavy concentrations of Negroes are asking themselves two questions: "What are we doing about Negro employment?" "What are we doing about the Negro market?"

The Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company here in Memphis is no exception, and because they feel that perhaps no company has done all it should do in regard to either employment or market development in the Negro community, they had not seen fit previously to call attention to their strides in these areas. However, due to recent developments, the Pepsi-Cola Company feels that many of their friends in the Negro community should be made aware of their strides in these areas.

In 1962 Mr. Roland W. Ball became Vice-President and General Manager for Pepsi-Cola here in Memphis. He is a native of Pennsylvania, where he worked with the Philadelphia bottler for nineteen years. Having witnessed the tremendous strides made there in the Negro market through the use of Negro salesmen and representatives, he was aware of the tremendous potential in the Memphis area. He was also aware of the local attitude toward the upgrading of Negroes. However, when in 1963 there was a move in the community to initiate an upgrading program of Negro personnel, he affirmed his willingness to do so immediately.

HIRE FIRST NEGRO SALESMEN

In April of 1963 Pepsi-Cola was the first bottling company to employ Negroes as salesmen. These salesmen, Mr. Benito Casem of 407 Jensen Cove and Mr. Murray Reid of 1780 Edmondson, are still doing a fine job for Pepsi-Cola. Mr. Willie Wells was promoted to salesman in May, 1964, but is no longer with the company. Mr. Tommy Sanders, 1286 Staten, was promoted to salesman in November, 1964, and Mr. Howard Wilson was promoted to salesman in March, 1965. Pepsi-Cola took the lead in employing Negro salesmen and has maintained the lead in the number of Negro salesmen now working for a local bottler. Pepsi-Cola has plans for hiring additional Negroes in the sales force in the immediate future. 40 PERCENT OF TOTAL EMPLOYEES NEGRO. At this time an in-plant upgrading program has been instituted by the Company. Mr. Gordon Carter of 2311 Pratt is presently being trained for a supervisory position. Over half of the in-plant personnel are Negroes and 40 percent of the total employees are Negroes.

In August, 1964 Pepsi-Cola scored another first in this area of Negro employment. Mr. Joe Purdy, Jr., 1338 Chadwick Circle, was hired in a middle management position. Mr. Purdy, a graduate of Memphis State University and Manassas High School, became Manager of Special Markets. In this capacity he is in charge of public relations, market and advertising activities in Shelby and Tipton County, with special emphasis on the needs of the Negro market. Mr. Harvey Russell (Negro) is Vice-President in charge of Special Markets with Pepsi-Cola in New York, which is the home office of the Pepsi plant here in Memphis.

Since Mr. Purdy has been with Pepsi, some of the Company's efforts have been:

Presentation of the "Adventures in Negro History" record at a banquet at the Chisca Hotel — with Mr. Russell in attendance — before some two hundred of our community leaders and educators (another first).

The presentation of Mr. Jim Brown (a Pepsi executive) at the All Sports Banquet at the Chisca before an integrated audience.

Mr. Abner Haynes, pro-footballer for the Kansas City Chiefs and Pepsi executive, was here for two weeks speaking at the various high schools encouraging our youth to stay in school.

There has also been establishment of a thousand dollars in scholarships at LeMoynes and Owen Colleges with work assistance during the summer for our local youth.

Pepsi-Cola emphasizes the fact that it is not trying to beat its own drums, but merely wishes to clarify for its many friends here in the Memphis community its position in regard to the Negro market.

Along The Sports Trail

BY SAM BROWN

The Prep League continues to produce some outstanding athletes, and this year's production rivals previous seasons in the number of star performers. Several football players as well as basketball standouts have received numerous offers to attend various colleges throughout the country.

With more and more colleges in the south becoming interested in Negro athletes, some of the all-Negro colleges may feel the results of the inroads these college recruiting drives will have on their own recruiting. Few of the latter can compete with the offers and inducements of the larger schools.

The question has often been pondered as to the calibre of play among the smaller colleges if the best of the athletes join the larger or integrated schools. Will there still be enough top players to give the all-Negro colleges first rate athletes. Will schools such as Southern, Grambling, Florida A. and M., Tennessee State and others still be able to field teams as good as those in former years.

We note many of the offers received by some of the young stars in the past few years. We recall the fanfare and furore over the performance of Richard Jones and Charles Paulk of Lester a year ago, and of others from other schools. Many of them accepted the offers they considered best, with all things considered. Paulk is at University of Tulsa and Jones is attending Illinois. Many coaches from other schools would have wanted them.

Among the top players who will graduate from high school this year are Bobby Smith of Melrose, James Johnson and Freddie Brooks of Booker T. Washington, Leonidi Brown and James Jackson of Carver and others from other schools, who have received many offers to attend college on the strength of their basketball ability.

The question is asked how many will be seen in action in games of all-Negro colleges. Will the play of other youngsters offset the performance these players are likely to produce.

Another outstanding basketball player of the local scene is Robert Roberson of Mitchell Road High A fine prep star indeed, and one that will likely be an outstanding player on some college squad. According to reports, Roberson and Bobby Smith of Melrose have been approached by Memphis State scouts to be the first Negro players to play for Memphis State.

Although, many of the top players are being induced to attend integrated schools, we believe the all-Negro colleges will still be able to produce teams that will continue to play a good brand of ball, whether basketball, football or baseball.

Speaking of baseball, it is only a short time before the pennant races in the major leagues will be underway. Fans are now attempting to predict the outcome of the races. The consensus is that the Yankees will again take it all in the American League, while many state it is too early to conclude on a winner in the National, and add that any one of six clubs could come home the winner, St. Louis, Cincinnati, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Philadelphia or Milwaukee-Atlanta.

Overheard a few days ago as we made our round, "The New York Mets are going to lose some of their patronage if they keep on
