Atty. Gen. Backs Coleman As Judge, Despite Liberals

WASHINGTON — UPI — Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach Monday endorsed former Mississippi Gov. James P. Coleman for a Southern federal judgeship. But civil rights advocates continued their flat opposition to the controversial nominee.

Katzenbach, lead-off witness at a Senate Judiciary subcommittee confirmation hearing, said Coleman in his political career has shown "genuine courage" and a "consistent stand for law and order."

The attorney general conceded that the Mississippi plan made segregationist statements while running for office in Mississippi. But Katzenbach added: "He has stood up time and time again for the law and against extremism. One act of that kind is worth 100 campaign speeches."

PEPSI-COLA is using helpers on its trucks again. When the local softdrink firm dropped helpers from its 30 or more trucks two or three months ago, because of economy reasons, it not only suffered severe criticism but also found out it was too much work for a route salesman to drive, sell, load and unload.

RUFUS THOMAS was given a big buildup in Washington this week during his five-day appearance on the Howard Theatre stage.

OWEN JUNIOR COLLEGE'S 1965 Support Effort brought in an additional $1,500, pushing the total to $7,500.

DR. HOLLIS F. PRICE, president of LeMoyné College, has been receiving an average of 15 congratulatory letters a day since his July 1 election as moderator of United Church of Christ's General Synod. He also has received nearly 100 telegrams from well-wishers.

MAIDS AFRAID TO WORK LATE

Not many women working as maids and cooks in Memphis homes will venture out after dark because of rowdy, rock-throwing teenagers who roam the streets looking for targets.

Most domestics refuse to accept jobs if their employers expect them to remain on duty for night work, such as serving the evening meal and baby-sitting afterward. They are afraid of being hit with rocks or even robbed if they have to stand on corners at night waiting for a bus.

Police have been told of several incidents of teenage boys giving maids and cooks trouble in white and Negro neighborhoods. They have been rocked, yelled at and molested in other ways.

The Memphis office of the Tennessee Department of Employment Security complained this week that the situation in Memphis is bad.

"The rowdy, rock-throwing teenagers are responsible for the shortage of maids in Memphis, reasons Mrs. Louise Darvalics, supervisor of the department's female division.

She said there is no shortage of maids and cooks who will work from 8 to 5.

In some cases, domestics who do night chores either live on the premises or employers drive them home.

Domestics work for about $5 a day and bus fare.

Bury Boy Killed In Gun Accident

Funeral services were held Sunday at noon for 16-year-old Johnny Lee Cummings of 1109 Raymond from Mt. Gilliam Baptist Church, 1029 Raymond.

The deceased was struck in the heart by a single shot at 2372 Saratoga where he was being shown a friend's 22-calibre pistol, police said.

The shooting took place Sunday night a week ago. No charges will be placed against the boy who accidentally shot and killed Johnny Lee.

Both boys were members of Mt. Gilliam which is pastored by the Rev. E. Bates. Johnny was buried in National Cemetery.

The dead boy was a member of the No. 3 Choir at his church and the Youth Department of the Shelby County District Association. He was also a Boy Scout and attended Melrose High School where he played in the band. He was a newsboy for the Memphis World several years.

Johnny Lee was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cummings. Mr. Cummings works at the Army Depot. He was the brother of Miss Delphine Cummings and foster brother of Willie B. Patterson.

Witnesses Expect 15,000 For District Assembly

Wille L. Dixon, presiding minister of the West Junction congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, announced that instead of the anticipated 10,000 delegates they now expect 15,000 at their "Word of Truth" District Assembly at the Mid-South Coliseum in Memphis, July 29 through August 1.

About 550 local Witnesses are spending hundreds of hours finding accommodations for the visiting members of their faith.

At their organizational meeting a graphic demonstration on the importance of hospitality was handled by James Rayford, assistant minister of the South unit congregation in West Memphis.

"Hospitality" was spelled out on the stage by eleven children, each holding one letter of the word. Then, a two-fold application of hospitality was discussed, showing the importance of the local Witnesses exercising hospitality toward visiting members of their faith by obtaining accommodations for them, and also affording Memphians the privilege of showing hospitality by opening their homes to these paying guests.

Mr. Dixon pointed out that already much hospitality has been shown, and that the cooperation of newspapers, radio, television, hotels, motels, and Memphians in general has been truly gratifying.

He explained that many have no doubt heard of the exemplary conduct of Jehovah's Witnesses at their large assemblies, as they probably remember reading headlines such as "Witnesses Termed City's Best Guests," so they know that the assembly will be an asset to Memphis.

A striking example of the response concerns a Memphis lady, who will be gone on her vacation, but would like to have some of the delegates in her home. She arranged for the paying guests to obtain the keys, and said "please leave the money under the planter on the coffee table." Such trust has been earned by Witness conduct over a period of many years.

The new attendance estimate was determined by the many mail requests for rooms received by the Watchtower convention headquarters at 3849 Elliston Road. Those interested in helping to fill these requests can call 323-3414.

The peak attendance of 15,000 at the Coliseum meet is expected for the main address, "World Government on the Shoulder of the Prince of Peace," to be given on Sunday, August 1, at 3:00 p. m. by Nicholas Kovalak, Jr., district supervisor of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society. All sessions are open to the public.

For City Council

City Commissioner Hunter Lane Jr. addressed members of the Bluff City Council of Civic Clubs last Sunday at the Sarah Brown Branch YWCA and declared Memphis needs a city council of probably nine to 15 districts to give people a more direct contact with municipal government.

One of the chief drawbacks of Memphis' government is the division of authority among the commissioners, he said.

Negro voter strength is reported gaining in three nearby counties — Haywood and Fayette in the southwestern tip of Tennessee and just across the river in Arkansas' Crittenden County.

A benefit dance at Club Paradise, Thursday night, July 29, is being sponsored by local Elks to raise funds toward paying cost of sending the Manassas High School band to Philadelphia for the Elks' national convention, Aug. 14 - 20.

They also found a government check for $45.40 and a man's diamond ring.

She was the sister of Mrs. Freddie Green of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Beulah Jones of Memphis. She was also the aunt of Wilber L. Brewer of Detroit.

His Action Keeps 8 Sit-Ins From Going To Prison

Fines and jail sentences hanging over the heads of eight former college students since 1960 have been erased by Governor Frank Clement upon recommendation of the State Parole Board.

Each of the former students was fined $200 and sentenced to 60 days in prison for attending an all - white church assembly in tax - supported Overton Park Shell five years ago.

They had been free under bond since their arrests.

Governor Clement commuted the fines and jail sentences last Thursday after noting that "it is doubtful that the incident would provoke the same action if repeated today."

He made known his decision after the parole board recommended by unanimous vote that the jail sentences be commuted and voted 3-2 in favor of cancelling the fines.

The eight former students appeared before the board in Nashville last week with their NAACP attorneys — Democratic leader Russell Sugarmon Jr., and State Representative A. W. Willis.

Action taken by the parole board and the Governor to keep the eight young people from paying the fines and going to jail stands as a victory for Sugarmon and Willis who carried the case to the U. S. Supreme Court on two occasions.

Governor Clement's decision also won him many friends in the state.

The eight former students breathing easier this week are Miss Johnnie Mae Rodgers, a bookkeeper for Mutual Federal; Evander Ford Jr., manager of a local club; Alfred O'Neil Gross, who has done graduate work at University of Pittsburgh; Charles E. Patterson, formerly with the U. S. Army in Germany; the Rev. Edgar Lee James, a minister in Washington, D. C.; Miss Katie Jean Robertson, a teacher in North Carolina; James Harrison Smith and Mrs. Ernestine Hill Carpenter.

Action taken last week by the State Parole Board and Governor Clement was just about the last hope for the eight young people. Attorney Sugarmon won extended freedom for the civil rights demonstrators last January when he filed a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of the defendants. Federal District Judge Bailey Brown denied the petition but signed a stay order authorizing the young people to remain free pending appeal of his denial for their petition.

Attorney Sugarmon requested the stay in filing notice of his intention to ask the Sixth United States Circuit Court in Cincinnati to review the case.

The defendants were fined and sentenced in a Shelby County

Senate Passes $7.5 Billion Medicare Bill

By JACK C. VANDENBERG (United Press International)

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Senate pushed toward final passage Friday night of President Johnson's $7.5 billion program of health care for the elderly, the most sweeping federal welfare legislation since Social Security was enacted 30 years ago.

Defeated toward the end of the fourth day of debate were two Republican attempts to gut the heart of the bill — the plan to provide compulsory hospital and voluntary medical insurance through Social Security for persons 65 or older.

The administration's big fight at the end was to keep senators from tacking on more and more costly amendments, a threat that was reported to have had the White House concerned.

The Senate bill already was swollen by changes to $1.5 billion more than the House had approved on April 8.

REJECTS AMENDMENT

Under White House pressure, the Senate rejected a $335 million Republican amendment that would have extended Social Security benefits to persons 72 or older even though they were not covered previously.

But late in the day, plans to put on the brakes were ignored when senators voted an addi-

Rev. White Back From Baptist World Alliance

The Rev. James White, pastor of St. Jude Baptist Church, who left Memphis on June 24 by Eastern Airlines to attend the Baptist World Alliance in Miami, makes the following report:

"This was a great experience for me. I left Memphis at 7:30 a. m. Eastern's flight 277 and arrived in Miami at 11:30 a. m. This was my first trip to a meeting of the Baptist World Alliance, seeing people from 121 countries all worshipping together. The theme for the meeting was 'The Truth Shall Make You Free.'

"Dr. Herschell H. Hobbs of Oklahoma gave the keynote address on the theme.

"Dr. Billy Graham, in his message, stated that 'one of the reasons so much hell is in the community, the preachers don't preach about hell enough in the pulpits. He said he hoped that all ministers, upon their return home, would rededicate their lives to God.'

"Dr. W. H. Jackson, president of the National Baptist Convention, was powerful in his message.

"The Rev. William R. Tolbert, Jr., of Monrovia Liberia, was elected president of the alliance. He has served as vice president for a number of years. 'The next meeting will be held in Hong Kong, China in 1970.'

JAMES RAYFORD, assistant minister of West Memphis congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, South unit, discussing hospitality with the aid of 11 small co-workers. The demonstration was held at an organizational meeting for workers at obtaining rooms for the 15,000 delegates coming to the "Word of Truth" District Assembly to be held at the Mid-South Coliseum, July 29-August 1. The highlight of the assembly will be the address, "World Government on the Shoulder of the Prince of Peace," Sunday, August 1, at 3 P.M., by Nicholas Kovalak, Jr.

Keep In Touch With God

BY BISHOP J. O. PATTERSON (Pastor, Pentecostal Temple)

"Ask and it shall be given you." "How can you fly on course over this strange territory?" an airplane passenger asked a pilot.

"If I am uncertain of the course, I contact the control tower and information is received," answered the pilot.

The passenger rested back in his seat as the plane continued on its flight.

The pilot was well instructed as to the use of the instruments on the panel. He could send out requests for location and course, and clear data would be returned immediately.

It is also true that people as they try to follow the Christian pattern of life, must keep "in touch" with God.

Keeping "in touch" in the 20th century is not an easy assignment. Are there not many voices struggling to be heard?

The discipler asked Jesus "Teach us to pray," and he gave them a model prayer. They preserved their identical prayer and many times their spiritual lives were enriched by its use. This was one technique that they could use for keeping in touch.

26 FAMILIES HIT BY BLAZE

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (SNS) — An old woman sat in a chair on the sidewalk early Saturday morning and moaned: "I've been sitting here all night and all I've got left is what I've got on." She was talking about the Friday night fire that swept through a section of a run-down apartment house at 605 Jessamine and left 26 families homeless.

The fire originated in the apartment of Mrs. Laura Goins, a heart attack victim who died at John Gaston Hospital a few minutes before the fire started.

Mrs. Goins died around 8:30 p. m., and the fire broke out at 8:45 p. m., Mrs. Goins' son, Willie, about 13, is a Memphis World newsboy.

It was a spectacular blaze and could have wiped out the entire block if a strong wind had been blowing. The Abe Scharf YMCA branch at Linden and Lauderdale is a stone's throw from the scene of the disaster.

Many of the occupants of the two-story frame building jumped from windows as flames raced through the aged apartments.

Most of the homeless spent the night in the street. They had no place to go and all their belongings had been destroyed.

The Red Cross provided breakfast for the homeless families and issued clothing. He also made arrangements for temporary housing.

Police said a 10-year-old boy admitted starting the fire when he placed an oil lamp on the floor near a bed in Mrs. Goins' apartment. The boy claimed he went to the Goins apartment looking for Willie. He said he placed the lamp on the floor and went into another room looking for Willie. When he returned, the bed was on fire.

King Says He'll Investigate Reese Case

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — In Atlanta SCLC President Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., July 6 affirmed his confidence and faith in the leadership of the Dallas County Voters League, an affiliate of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in Selma, Ala.

Dr. King's affirmation of confidence came in the wake of embezzlement charges leveled against the Rev. F. D. Reese of Selma by Selma Public Safety Director Wilson Baker; the Negro minister's subsequent arrest on a warrant issued by the Selma Recorder's Court and indicted by the Dallas County Grand Jury.

Dr. King said, "at this time we have no reason to doubt either the integrity or integrity of Rev. Reese or any of the Dallas County leadership. However, in order to emphasize our interest in fair play and justice, SCLC will immediately launch an investigation into allegations made against Rev. Reese and any other member of the organization.

"In order to expedite this investigation, I have directed to Selma the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, SCLC vice president at large and treasurer; Randolph T. Blackwell, SCLC program director, and Atty. Chauncey Eskridge, Rev. Abernathy and Mr. Blackwell will be in Selma tonight," Dr. King said.

Customs Agents Seize Three Tons Of Marijuana

More than 6,000 pounds or (3) tons of marijuana have been seized by United States Customs agents at the border crossing in San Ysidro, Calif., and approximately 700 violators arrested during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1964, to date.

The sharp increase in marijuana smuggling at San Ysidro has resulted in stepped up activity by the Customs Agency Service, the enforcement arm of the Bureau of Customs. Other seizures of narcotics, such as cocaine and heroin are also on the rise. Mr. Johnson has reported that vigorous action by his agents has resulted in arrests almost daily during the current month of June.

Marijuana smugglers frequently conceal their contraband somewhere in their vehicles — in the door panels, upholstery, under the fenders and beneath the floor.

The Bureau of Narcotics and the narcotics squads of city police work in close cooperation with Customs agents and Customs port investigators in apprehending the criminals.

Oppose Capital Punishment

ATHENS, Ga. — (UPI) — Nearly 200 persons attended a public hearing here Tuesday on capital punishment. The hearing was one of several being conducted by a Senate committee to give citizens a chance to express their views on capital punishment in Georgia.

Nineteen persons testified including a group of University of Georgia professors who presented a 47-page report to the committee to argue that the death penalty cannot be justified as a punishment for crime on either the theory of either retribution or deterrence.

Also testifying were a number of local ministers, some for and some against capital punishment.

Of the 19 who testified five favored the death penalty and 14 against.

Professors from the philosophy, sociology and psychology departments wrote the report of the University of Georgia.

The report stated the group believed that by abolishing the death penalty "the state of Georgia will take a step forward in affirming the value of human life."

A 14-year-old Athens High School sophomore, Lois Duzschberger, read part of a research paper she wrote in opposition to capital punishment. She was commended highly by the committee for her presentation.

Two Athens ministers said they were for capital punishment because it was written in the Bible.

By MAUDEAN THOMPSON SEWARD

This week our story centers around Nihar, an 8-year-old Christian Indian who is the chief character. Vinod, a Hindu; Talat, a Muslim, and a Nanda, a Buddhist. The story opens on election day in Calcutta, a momentous day for Nihar, the first election since India became a free country.

Nihar has come to Calcutta to work in a mill. Like young people everywhere, he has listened to Communist speakers promise a "Change" a "day of deliverance" if elected. He casts his vote for the Communists and believes a new day will dawn.

At the mill he makes friends with Vinod and Nanda, both of whom are Communists. He is drawn to Nanda and her friendliness. But he is repelled by the ruthless, impersonal methods of Vinod. Communism, he learns, is not the answer to his dreams.

He meets Talat, a follower of Vinoba Bhawe, and goes with him to Bhawe's camp. There Nihar mingles with young people from all over India, and for the first time he finds real companionship and a sense of importance. He comes under the spell of Bhawe, the amazing man who has inherited Gandhi's spiritual mantle and who is doing so much for India. Talat explains why Bhawe's reform needs a "religion of love" to sustain it.

Nihar has a "change of heart." He decides to return to his home village, and on the way he stops in Calcutta to see Vinod and Nanda... The author pictures communism in a land that is just beginning to know democracy, and he shows how Christianity can be the strongest force to overcome the threat of Communism.

This is an interesting book. Please read CHANGE OF HEART by Harold Ehrensperger.

Chattahoochee Too Polluted For Sports

COLUMBUS, Ga. — (UPI) — The Columbus Ledger quoted a U. S. Public Health official Monday as saying areas of the Chattahoochee River near here are too polluted for water sports and are becoming dangerous for game fish.

Hebert H. Rogers, regional director of the PHS water supply and pollution control program, told the Ledger these were findings made in a recent study. The study will be made public soon, he said.

In some areas during summer months the bacteria count was found in the study to be 20 times higher than the level considered safe for swimming and reaching the "danger point" for game fish survival, he said.

"We will have data available that will pinpoint sources of the pollution in the river," Rogers said.

Findings will be turned over to R. S. Howard Jr., executive director of the Georgia Water Quality Control Board, within a few weeks for possible enforcement action or other corrective steps, federal officials said.

The federal government takes enforcement action only if interstate waters are involved or if the governor requests such intervention in his state, the officials said.

Rev. Hamblin Aims Program At Youth

The Rev. L. A. Hamblin, pastor of Golden Leaf Baptist Church, who presents a radio program each Sunday morning from 8 to 9 over Radio Station Kwam, has instituted within his regular program a special feature for young people entitled: "What the Youth Should Know and Do" (concerning their relationship to this new and emerging society).

Rev. Hamblin, evangelist and chairman of the Education Board of the National Baptist Convention U. S. A., Inc. and one of the leaders of progressive thinking of this day, is using this feature to form a better line of communication between young people and adults... to give to the young people a spiritual direction, and helpful and valuable information that will prepare them for a more useful life in society.

These features may be obtained in leaflet form by calling or writing Rev. L. A. Hamblin at 976 Peach St., Memphis, Tenn. Phone 525-8695.

The regular program is narrated by Mrs. L. A. Hamblin. The special feature is presented by Rev. Lawrence C. Risby.

Search For Man, Who Raped Girl, 16, At Knife Point

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — Authorities in DeKalb County are pressing the search for an unidentified man who abducted a 16-year-old North Carolina girl at knife point here late Monday and raped her in a remote section of South Atlanta.

Authorities said the Raleigh, N. C. girl was traveling by bus from her home to Nashville, Tenn. to visit relatives. Her bus had a two-hour stop over in Atlanta.

The girl told police a man in "his early thirties" approached her across the street from the bus station, pulled a knife and forced her into his car.

According to police the man drove to a remote area and parked near an old burned-out house where he forced the girl out of the car and raped her. Following the attack, the man left and the girl ran to a house to phone police.

Authorities said the girl was treated at Grady Hospital and then placed on a bus to continue her journey to Nashville.

The attack reportedly fits the description of a similar incident here three weeks ago in which a man "about 30" attacked a 16-year-old girl.

MORAL EVIL OF BIAS

DETROIT — (NPI) — Catholic churches in the Archdiocese of Detroit last week published a policy statement prepared by the Archbishop's Committee on Human Relations, which cites "the moral evil of employment discrimination," and pledges that each parish will not "knowingly discriminate in its own hiring policies." The statement also asked each parish to adopt such practices in their own businesses.

Chicago's Mystery Bombings Rock 'Magnificent Mile'

CHICAGO—The third and fourth mystery bombings in six days and threats of additional blasts Monday triggered fears that a mad bomber was embarked on a campaign of terror in the city.

Dynamite tore apart two cars and rocked North Michigan Ave.'s 'magnificent mile' late Sunday night and a black powder bomb damaged six ice cream vending trucks in a West Side garage early Monday.

Thurgood Marshall, First Negro Named Solicitor General

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—President Johnson Tuesday named the nation's first Negro solicitor general—57-year-old Judge Thurgood Marshall.

As a lawyer, he earned praise by winning 29 of 32 civil rights cases in the U.S. Supreme Court, the most notable being the landmark decision against school segregation in 1954.

NAMED TO APPEALS COURT

Other men have relinquished the prestige and lifetime security of a federal judgeship but seldom for a lower-salaried executive post subject to the hazards of politics.

Johnson named him to the Justice Department job at a time when the President is under severe criticism from civil rights groups for his nomination of former Mississippi Governor J. P. Coleman to the 6th Circuit bench.

Vatican To Stay Clear Of Luci Johnson's Baptism

VATICAN CITY—(UPI)—The Vatican let it be known Monday it does not intend to get involved in charges and criticism concerning Luci Johnson's baptism into the Catholic Church.

The President's daughter grew up in the press regarding the entry into the church of Miss Lucy (sic) Johnson, daughter of the President of the United States, with particular reference to the circumstances in which it took place.

Episcopal Bishop James Pike of California and a Catholic priest in Milwaukee said the re-baptism was unnecessary. Bishop Pike declared it was "a slap" at his church.

The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano Monday carried a brief statement on the front page declaring the matter of Miss Johnson's baptism was strictly a local matter and opinions made public were "entirely personal."

The statement apparently was inspired by the Vatican Secretariat of State, it said: "In recent days stories appeared

More Doings On The Fourth Windermere Town and Country Club

Celebrating its first holiday since its grand opening, Windermere was a scene of gala family groups Monday, July 6th. The pool was never without its hordes of youngsters and young adults.

An appealing circular buffet table was set up for those with hearty appetites who wanted to partake of traditional holiday fare — succulent ribs, baked beans, slaw, melon and fresh summer fruits.

Seen relaxing, chatting or supervising their little ones were: Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Johnson, Mr. Ernest Jackson, Mr. August McKinney, Mrs. Charles Hooks, Miss E. B. de Hooks, Miss Gwendolyn Featherstone, Miss Burline Couch, Mrs. Geraldine Strickland and Mr. Deadrick Brittenum.

Mr. Belvin Malunda, Jr., Mr. Melvin Malunda, Sr., Dr. Clara Brawner and her sister, the lilting soprano of American and European note — Miss Alpha Brawner, Miss Gertrude Walker, Mrs. Emma Mitchell and son; the Wendell Whalums and Mrs. Helen Tarpley.

Watching their children swim were: Mr. R. S. Lewis, Jr. Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Reed, Dr. and Mrs. Theron Northcross, Mr. and Mrs. John Brinkley, Mrs. Thurmond Northcross, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Bire-co, Rev. and Mrs. Haygood, Mr. and Mrs. Longino Cooke and Mrs. Nina Brayton.

Also glimpsed near the pool-side area were: Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Johnson and family, Atty. and Mrs. R. B. Sugarmon, Dr. and Mrs. Vas-co Smith, Mrs. Elsie Malunda and daughter, Miss Jerry Woods, Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Saville, Rev. and Mrs. William Kyles and family, Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Byas Mrs. Esther Brown, Dr. W. O. Speight, Jr. and Mrs. Vivian W. Bivens.

Looking out from an advantageous point in the Dining Room was this glamorous group: Mrs. Raymond Long and Rayetta, Karen and Alexis Sanders, Mrs. Harold McRae, Mrs. Lawrence Wade with Sherri and Allen Wade and Mr. Jessie Wilburn with son Kelvin Wilburn.

As we were leaving we noticed a bevy of tennisers coming in. Among them were Robert Davidson, Barbara Bowles, Juanita Robinson, Teresa Thompson, Edmond Robinson and Gilbert Baldwin. Also saw Linda Hargraves, John Arnold, 111 and many others too numerous to mention.

Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Rivers spent their Fourth in East Tennessee as guests of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Kilgore of Johnson City. There they were met by the Essex Noels from Greensboro, N. C., who drove down to meet them Friday. Both the Noels and the Kilgores were houseguests of the Rivers this past Thanksgiving — so there seems to be a round-robin party a-brewing from city to city.

All of which makes for a deepening of friendships when you can keep in touch two or three times a year. Saturday evening the Kilgores had an eight o'clock Dinner Party in honor of their guests. For the most part those invited consisted of members of a couple club known as "The Pals." In this friendly and informal atmosphere they were brave enough to try out their version of the "BARACUDA," one of the more popular dance steps circulating around these days.

Sunday—the Fourth, was to have been the big day for going camping overnight in the mountains with all the trappings. Nature at least the weatherman, decided otherwise however for it rained—and rained—and then it rained some more.

(Enough to wash all their well laid plans.) It cleared sufficiently in late evening for them to take a ride up in the mountains and to have dinner while out.

Monday evening — members of "THE PALS" club invited them out to dinner at BOONE DAM — way up in the Great Smokies — a part of the Appalachian Chain of Mountains extending to East Tennessee and renowned for its breathtaking beauty. The Rivers flew back to Memphis Tuesday with glowing accounts of the verdant beauty of the State Parks and the lush vegetation of the surrounding countryside.

VISITORS..... Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong from Gary, Indiana were in Memphis as guests of the B. T. Jones family of 609 Edith Avenue. They were here especially to see their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Booker T. Jones, Jr. — "Booker T." as he is known in musical circles, is famous for his very popular recordings.

Dr. and Mrs. O. W. Crump of Nashville, Tenn., were the house-guests of the T. J. Beauchamps last week. Mrs. Crump (Annie Laurie) had lost her father in Marshall, Texas and she and Dr. Crump were en route back to Nashville.

While in Marshall they stopped with Dr. and Mrs. Nolan H. Anderson who are known to many Memphians. This was the first time that the Crumps had visited the Beauchamps since they moved into their beautiful and imposing new home on South Parkway East.

Dr. Crump is with the State Department of Education in Nashville and also teaches some special courses at A. and I. State University.

BEAUTICIANS CONVENE IN D. C. The National Beauty Culturists League will hold its annual Institute July 25-31, 1965 at the Washington Hilton Hotel in Washington, D. C. The Convention will be held August 1st through the fifth immediately following the Institute.

Beauticians from Memphis who have announced plans to attend are Mrs. Ann Terrell, Mrs. Parthenia Bell and Mrs. Clara Nunally. There will also be some representatives from Brownsville and Stanton, Tennessee in attendance. The National resident of this organization is Dr. Katie E. Whick-am of New Orleans, Louisiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jamison of 1261 Quinn have returned from their trip to Washington, D. C., to visit their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee. Mr. Lee is an Assistant Engineer with I. B. M., with offices in near-by Arlington, Va.

While in Washington they were joined by another daughter and her two young children, Mrs. Alva Jean Crawford of Boston, Mass. Mrs. Crawford followed her parents back to Memphis for a visit on the old home ground. She and the little ones left to return to her home and Dr. Crawford early Monday, July 12th.

THE CASUALS AT BRUNCH Miss Martelle Trigg is home again after spending the past year at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville. There she was working toward the Doctorate Degree in Sociology.

Last Friday Miss Trigg entertained the members of the "CASUALS" at an early Brunch. The informally clad group gathered at 11:00 A. M., for a delightful hour of chatting and dining before settling down to a game of Bridge. First prize (solid brass candlesticks) was won by Mrs. Addie G. Owen; Second prize

OFF TO THE FAIR

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Iles, Jr., left town last Sunday for Brooklyn, New York. They were motoring to visit his aunt, Mrs. Louise Iles, a twin sister to the late Mrs. Charles Iles, Sr. Going along with them will be their daughter, Kathy, and Mr. Charles Iles, Sr.

They will spend about three weeks visiting friends and relatives and taking in the sights at the NEW YORK WORLD FAIR. On the return trip they will stop off in Washington, D. C., to visit his sister, Mrs. Marjorie Iles Ulen and her young debutante daughter, Lynne.

CHURCH LAWN PARTY

The Church Women of Emmanuel Episcopal Church will hold a Lawn Party August 6th on the lawn of Mrs. Belle Pettigrew — 688 Tate Street, Mrs. O. B. Braith-women is president of the Church Women and Mrs. Willie Anderson is chairman of the Lawn Party. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. J. A. McDaniel, Jr. (Mon-ice) and her young daughter, Kyle, left Sunday for her home in Chicago, Illinois after having spent the past two weeks visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams and her sister, Miss Myrna D. Williams, all of 1947 Quinn.

The very attractive young matron had also been here to attend the wedding of her sister-in-law, the former Miss LaVerne McDaniel to Dr. Harry Hamilton, Jr., of Madison, Wisconsin.

TO STUDY ABROAD

We are duly proud when young folk in our community excel in school, receive scholarships and attend schools of note and prestige. Now one from our midst adds to that list by planning to study abroad!

Miss Linda Catherine Johnson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Johnson of 1345 South Parkway East, left Sunday for New York City accompanied by her mother. After an overnight stop they will board a plane for a six-hour jet flight to London, England. In London they will meet up with a classmate of Linda's who lives in Paris. Both young ladies are regular students at New York University.

They will see the customary sights of London — then on for stops and sight-seeing in Holland; West Germany; Switzerland and Italy. In France — Paris is a must! Nice, France is next, then on to their final destination — Spain! They will tour all these fascinating places on their own — no organized tours, that is.

This charming, poised young lady will spend her junior year of college at the University of Madrid in Spain. She is majoring in Spanish but will also take courses in French and Portuguese as well as the prescribed Liberal Arts curriculum. She plans a career as Language Interpreter when her year or formal training are completed.

Mother and daughter will take time to tour the scenic countryside in Spain before Mrs. Johnson returns to the States. She is already speaking of her return trip to Europe next summer when Linda will have finished out her year of study.

All classes will be conducted entirely in Spanish in which the young student is already proficient. She will undertake an Orientation Course August 15th and regular classes begin September 1, 1965.

Miss Wilma McCoy is recuperating at her home — 1160 James Street after having been a patient at E. H. Crump Memorial Hospital.

The comings and goings of the Anderson household at 1213 E. Trigg Avenue. To say that it is an extremely busy one shows a paucity of descriptive. They then took a trip down the

The Voting Bill Passes

The last ditch strategy designed by the opposition to the Voting Rights measure made the disclosure that it was a back-lash coming up from the South to derail the administration sponsored measure. This was further identified by a maneuver of a Democrat of Virginia, a staunch opponent of the civil rights legislation, laying out the Southern strategy. It met dismal failure and a real voting bill has been written by the House.

A good job was done by Rep. Gerald Ford, of Michigan and House Republican floor leader, in the co-authorship of the Celler Bill which is similar to a bi-partisan measure that passed the Senate in May, which would strike down literacy tests and provide federal examiners to register Negroes in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Louisiana, Virginia, and parts of North Carolina. It is said that in all these states tests are used and less than half their voting age population was either registered or cast votes last year.

The measure would allow the appointment of federal "examiners" to register Negroes to vote in any area of these states where 20 complaints of voting rights violations are lodged, or without formal complaints where the attorney general believes violations are taking place.

It also would provide for the elimination of tests and the appointment of examiners by federal judges in areas outside the states found to be practicing massive discrimination.

The House bill will now go to a joint committee where the differences between the Senate and House bills will be ironed out and then will be approved by both Houses and sent to the President for his signature.

This bill should make possible the addition of thousands of names of citizens in the South to the voters rolls. This in turn will result in the solution of many racial problems at the local and state levels.

There must no longer be a denial to the right to vote because of race or religion in this nation. The citizens will have the instrument to see that this does not happen.

Coleman To The U. S. Court

The nomination of former Governor James P. Coleman of Mississippi for a seat on the 5th District United States Court of Appeals, which covers six Southern states is being studied with much interest.

Having served as a Southern governor with a public record filled with pro-segregation activities, the President has been made the target of his liberal interests for appointing Coleman to the bench.

Why, the public is asking would Pres. Johnson antagonize liberal friends by the nomination of an avowed segregationist to the circuit court with the heaviest load of segregation cases?

It is stated on the other hand that Gov. Coleman is a man of excellent ability; that he has displayed his brilliant talents as governor, State Attorney General, State Supreme Court Justice, trial judge, a legislator and a high priced practicing attorney.

He is reported to have been constantly at odds with the most rabid segregationists in the state and that he was not the segregationist that he claimed to be, in following the well established pattern of political minded in that deep South state.

The move on the part of the President might be assessed as a political one to satisfy the two senators from Mississippi who favor the nomination.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at its recent convention went on record as opposed to the nomination. Many civil rights leaders have also expressed concern about the naming of a known segregationist to a U.S. Court.

The nomination seems very inconsistent with the policies of the federal courts, the Congress and the executive branch of the federal government.

THE CAPITAL SPOTLIGHT

By DAN DAY

WASHINGTON — (NNPA) — The National Council of Senior Citizens, which spearheaded the successful fight for passage of the medical care bill, has no intention of closing up shop.

Indeed, the group plans to push for additional federal aid programs for the elderly.

Under consideration are plans for seminars in 15 major population centers to provide information on benefits that will be available to all Americans aged 65 and older.

According to Lt. Lawrence A. Oxley, the Council's director of special projects, the first meeting has been tentatively scheduled for the week of Oct. 17 in Boston. Preliminary arrangements for this gathering were mapped at a conference in Boston's Statler Hotel on June 12.

Subject to last minute changes, other informative mass meetings will be held in Atlanta, Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo, Minneapolis, Omaha, Los Angeles, New York City, Richmond (Va.), San Francisco, St. Louis, Philadelphia, and Wilmington (Del.).

Boston was selected in deference to the late President Kennedy who formed the National Council of Senior Citizens in 1961 to back his Medicare proposals. The Council has been spending about $150,000 annually, with the bulk of the money coming from the Democrats and the AFL-CIO.

Lt. Oxley is convinced that constructive approaches, such as the mass meetings, are necessary to promote the well-being of the some 18 million Americans over 65 years old.

The task assumes increasing importance when it is realized the number of elderly persons is growing by nearly 1,000 each day. Families headed by individuals aged and over make up only about 14 per cent of all families, but they amount to 34.5 per cent of all families with annual incomes below $3,000—the point where U.S. economists say poverty begins.

WASHINGTON miscellany: Mrs. Patricia Roberts Harris, associate professor of law at Howard University, was sworn in last Friday as U.S. Ambassador to Luxembourg at a "heart-warming" ceremony held in the John Quincy Adams Room of the State Department.

Accompanied by her husband, Atty. William Beasley Harris, Ambassador Harris plans to leave for the tiny European Grand Duch in late August.

A special ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery last Sunday marked the first anniversary of the death of Lt. Col. Lemuel A. Penn, who was slain July 11, 1964, on a Georgia road while returning to Washington from summer reservist training at Ft. Benning.

Reservists of the 222nd Maneuver Control Command, to which Penn belonged, assembled in uniform at his grave to take part in a brief religious service conducted by Chaplain Charles W. Thomas. A wreath was laid on the grave and a bugler sounded taps.

NAACP Launches Drive

To Speed Up Enforcement Of Fair Employment Law

NEW YORK — The NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc., has launched a drive to speed enforcement of the fair employment section of the Civil Rights Act in 10 southern states.

Negro law students are now working in southern states, with leaders of local civil rights organizations, in the education of the Negro community to tools now available for winning better jobs.

Title VII of the Civil Rights Act went into effect July 2nd, one year after passage of the Act.

The delay was designed to give employers an opportunity to prepare for change.

This project, of the Legal Defense Fund, which serves as the legal arm of the entire civil rights movement, is under direction of Fund Assistant Counsel Michael Meltser and LeRoy Clark.

Miss Ruth Abram, a student at Sarah Lawrence College, New York, is working as coordinator.

In their joint announcement, Attorneys Clark and Meltser stressed that:

ASSIST LOCAL LEADERSHIP
"This project hopes to stimulate local leadership and community training.

"Our law students are presently meeting with local Negro leaders, speaking before church, business and social groups, going to local news media — all in an attempt to educate the Negro community to the potential of Title VII.

"Many are working with local NAACP branches, but they are also working with all the major national civil rights groups and many local civil organizations.

CONCENTRATION ON CITIES
"They are also working closely with attorneys of the Legal Defense Fund. The students are concentrating mainly in large southern cities, but will go wherever there are patterns of discrimination.

"If Negro employees meet discrimination from employers, unions or employment agencies, they will be advised of their rights to file complaints of discrimination under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 with the United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

AGENCY OF CONCILIATION
"If the Commission is unable to obtain voluntary compliance (it only has the power to conciliate) within 30 days, the Legal Defense Fund will be prepared to file suit on behalf of the Negro employee," the attorneys concluded.

The new law states that it is now unlawful for an employer, on the grounds of race, color, religion, sex or national origin to refuse to hire or to discharge or otherwise discriminate against any individual with respect to compensation, terms, conditions or privileges of employment or to limit, segregate or classify on such grounds.

An employment agency is forbidden to refer for employment on these grounds or to classify or to refuse to refer on such a basis.

Labor organizations are forbidden to deny membership or otherwise discriminate in any way which would affect adversely an individual's status as an employee or applicant for employment.

VIRGINIA
The Legal Defense Fund's Virginia worker is Richard J. Hopkins, c-o NAACP State Conference Office, 301 East Clay Street, Richmond, Virginia, who is working closely with W. Lester Banks, executive secretary of the Virginia NAACP.

Young Hopkins, who is 25 years old, graduated magna cum laude from Morgan State College, Baltimore and is now enrolled at Howard University Law School.

ALABAMA
Isalah Madison, a former SNCC worker during his undergraduate years, before enrollment at Howard University Law School was reared in Holly Springs, Mississippi and is now working out of Mobile at P. O. Box 1091, Mobile, Alabama.

SOUTH CAROLINA
Columbia, S. C. is headquarters for Marvin E. Maynor, who is also a student at Howard University Law School. Mr. Maynor served on the committee which formed the Human Rights Appeal that led to uniting of Atlanta's Negro students prior to the first sit-ins there.

He may be reached at c-o NAACP, 2022 Taylor Street, Columbia, South Carolina.

TENNESSEE
Delbert Spurlock, a graduate of Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, is working out of Nashville, Tenn. ## "Cooling Off"

Period Asked In Bogalusa

BOGALUSA, La. — (UPI) — Gov. John J. McKeithen appealed to Negro leaders Monday for a 30-day cooling off period, free of demonstrations during which negotiations would be held. The Negroes agreed.

A. Z. Young, president of the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League and Robert Hicks, vice president of the group flew to Baton Rouge, La., at the governor's request on McKeithen's plane to confer with the governor.

The meeting followed a silent march by 250 Negroes and white civil rights workers in Bogalusa. The marchers were protected by almost as many police and state troopers.

Young and Hicks said they would recommend to Bogalusa Negroes that they abide by the governor's request for a cooling off period.

"The governor has recommended to us a 30-day cooling off period, during which attempts will be made to settle the differences between us and others involved, by negotiation and intelligent discussion across the conference table," Young said.

Young said he agreed with McKeithen that "Bogalusa demonstrations are hurting this state and are increasing bitterness between the races." The governor made no statement.

The two Negro leaders left the governor's office under state police escort and returned in the governor's private plane.

By
REV. BLAIR T. HUNT,
PASTOR,
MISSISSIPPI BLVD. CHRISTIAN CHURCH

GO TELL
"Jesus said unto him, go ... tell how great things the Lord has done for you."

The words of our text, "Go Tell," were spoken by Jesus to Mary in Joseph's garden. Mary from Magdala, once of a dubious reputation, had come to the tomb with more spiced ointment for the corpse of Jesus. It was still dark at that early hour. Mary ran back into town to tell Peter, "I have talked with Jesus." Jesus had told her, "Go Tell."

To the man revived of devils, Jesus said, "Go home and tell how great a thing the Lord has done for you."

Jesus wants us to tell what he has done for us. So often we fail to do so. But to me and I hope to you, a voice comes, the voice seems to say, "Haven't I done anything for you?" We make reply, "Yes, Lord, you have done everything for me." The Jesus voice replies, "well can't you tell what great things I have done for you?"

"Let the redeemed of the Lord say so." Let us tell the people what Christ has done for us. We can't tell it all, words are inadequate. The telling is bound to be unfinished, very fragmentary. But we Christians agree the greatest thing the most stupendous thing he did for us was that he died for us on the cross of calvary, died to save us from a hell of ignoble purposes, utter selfishness and a disillusionment that follows sinful conduct.

a hell so horrible that it warrants the literal description of flames, brimstones and ashes. By his death on the shameful cross, Christ causes us to see the exceeding sinfulness of sin; it was sin that crucified Jesus.

Has Christ done anything for you? If you are a Christian, I am sure you will answer, "Yes, my Lord has done everything for me." Then Jesus says to you, "Tell the people." He told Mary Magdala, "Go tell." He told the man revived of the devils, "Go home, tell the people what great things the Lord has done for you."

Our mission is to tell the people what great things the Lord has done for us. Tell the people to tell others. Tell the people that Jesus is a great lover of souls, that He loves men and women and little children with a love that will not let them go. Tell the people that hate and prejudice and discrimination are not the Jesus way, neither is war and violence the Jesus way. Tell the people how Jesus lived and loved and died and why. Keep on telling the people until your stammering tongue lies silent in the grave. Remember, Jesus will be with you always, even until the end of the world.

The late, lamented Lucie Campbell wrote these immortal words: "If when you give the best of your service, telling the world what the Savior has done. Be not dismayed when men don't believe you, He understands He'll say, well done."

The Last Supper, one of a series of remarkably life-like scenes from the story of Christ on display at the gardens, has been viewed by more than a half a million visitors from all over the world since the gardens opened five years ago. Skilled artisans from London created the figures, which are clothed in garments whose material was woven in the lands from which the biblical characters wearing them supposedly came.

Funeral Directors Meeting Slated In New York Soon

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The president of a famous embalming school and a prominent attorney who has represented funeral director associations for the past 30 years, will be two of the guest speakers at the 28th annual convention of the National Funeral Directors and Morticians Association in the New York Hilton hotel Aug. 8-12.

Slated to make key talks at the NFDA confab are John McAllister, president, American Academy of Funeral Service, and Atty. George Goodstein, who has addressed funeral director groups all over the country.

Goodstein has been representing the Metropolitan and New York State Funeral Director associations for the past 30 years.

McAllister, educated at New York university and New York Law school, is a licensed embalmer and funeral director in New York State. Affiliated in 1929 with his father, the late Dr. John McAllister — in the McAllister School of Embalming, he was instrumental in the development of a better program of funeral service education by incorporating advanced subject matter into the curriculum.

In 1928 he was elected president of the National Association of Colleges of Mortuary Science.

McAllister served in the U. S. Army, as an infantry officer, from 1940-46 and was released from active duty with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

He was honored, in 1961, by election to the American Board of Funeral Service Education, highest authority for education in the profession, which conducts a national scholarship program.

For the past two years, McAllister has been chairman of the scholarship program committee.

In 1965, the merger of the McAllister School of Embalming and the American Academy of Funeral Service was accomplished, with the formation of an institution combining the best qualities of both predecessor colleges.

Announcement of the participation of McAllister and Atty. Goodstein in the New York convention was made by Arthur H. Anderson, New Brunswick, N. J. NFDA educational commission chairman.

Dallas County Rejects Half Of Negro Applicants

MOBILE, Ala. — (NPA) — The Dallas County Board of Registrars rejected more than one-half of the Negroes who tried to register to vote between February and May, 1965.

In federal court last week, the U. S. Department of Justice said the county registrars rejected 643 out of 1,030 Negroes who applied between Feb. 4 and the end of May. Dallas County and the county seat, Selma, have been the scene of an intensive voter registration drive sponsored by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) since 1963.

Dr. Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference entered Selma last January, and joined SNCC in several weeks of massive vote push which culminated in the deaths of three persons and the Selma-to-Montgomery march.

The Justice department said that half of the Negroes rejected were later recommended for registration by a federal voting referee.

The department asked the federal court to order the Dallas County registrars to register all applicants who are at least 21 years old who meet residence requirements. Applicants, who embrace the duties of citizenship, are able to read and write and who are not disqualified because of insanity or conviction of a disqualifying crime, are also included in this request.

Wilkins Kicks-Off Summer Project In Mississippi

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL — Attorney John H. Clay, Philadelphia, Pa., executive secretary of the National Negro Republican Assembly, and Clarence L. Townes, Jr., Richmond, Va., NNRA treasurer, exchanged handshakes with House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, and Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio, senior GOP member of the House Judiciary Committee, following passage of voting rights legislation by the House of Representatives on Friday.

Clay and Townes, representing the national president of NNRA, George G. Fleming, a Red Bank, N.J., insurance executive who is also treasurer of the New Jersey Republican State Committee, had been in close conference with the Republican leadership on the voting rights bill since Thursday, urging support for the strongest possible law to end racial discrimination and frauds at the ballot box in all Federal, state and local elections throughout the United States. The measure passed with overwhelming GOP support.

35 Percent Of All Families Lack Savings, Investments

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (NNPA) — Despite the growth rate of the American economy, 35 per cent of American families interviewed in early 1964 reportedly that they had no savings, investments or reserve funds in the form of bank deposits, bonds or stocks.

One-third of the families having an income between $5,000 and $7,500 had no savings, and almost one-fourth of families with incomes up to $10,000 had no savings.

About one-half of American families had savings of $500 and over. These are among the economic facts reported in a study by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center titled "1964 Survey of Consumer Finances."

The Research Center economist said that about 30 per cent of families interviewed saving money during 1963 and 20 per cent decreased savings.

"Families have a wide variety of reasons for saving," they explain. "Families with incomes of $7,500 and over tend to report the long-term objectives of retirement and of children's education somewhat more frequently than do those with lower incomes."

"Half of all the reasons given by families with under $3,000 income fall into short term categories, e.g., illness, emergencies, unemployment."

"There appears to have been an increase in the proportion of families keeping savings in the form of government bonds, savings accounts and trust funds," the researchers add. "Almost two-thirds of the families reported having savings in one or more of these forms as compared with only 54 per cent in 1960."

The report documents wide differences in the financial objectives of families with savings of $2,500 and over. There is a tendency for those in the high income brackets to discount the importance of high rate of return on their investments in favor of the possibility of capital gains.

The survey showed also that American families spent an estimated $10.8 billion on furniture and household appliances in 1963, about the same level as in 1962.

Both Held Important To U. S. Minority Groups

WASHINGTON — (NNPA) — Two pieces of legislation considered highly important to the Nation's minority groups passed in the House and Senate last Friday and were sent to conference to iron out differences.

After an 11-hour session, the House passed the Administration's Voting Rights Bill, 313 to 85, but bucked the Senate version by adding a poll tax ban.

Speakers of voting rights legislation expressed confidence Saturday the conferees would resolve the poll tax dispute and send the bill on to the President for his signature by the end of July.

In the Senate, the Administration's Social Security Bill containing medical care for the aged was overwhelmingly passed by a vote of 68 to 21.

The precedent-setting measure, which provides health care and increased retirement benefits for America's senior citizens, contains the same basic provisions as the House version. Action on the legislation is expected to be completed and ready for President Johnson's signature by July 17.

The House and Senate Voting Rights Bills are essentially the same. They buttress the 15th Amendment to the Constitution by establishing guarantees against denial or abridgement of the right to vote on the basis of race or color.

Major differences between the House and Senate bills revolve around the approval by the House of a statutory ban on the use of poll taxes as a requirement for voting in State and local elections. The collection of poll taxes in Federal elections was banned last year by adoption of the 24th Amendment.

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N. Y.), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, leader of the fight for passage of the Administration's bill, said every effort would be made to get the Senate conferees to accept the poll tax prohibition. He saw no reason why a compromise could not be reached and the bill sped on to the White House.

Both House and Senate bills would do the following things: — Provide for automatic suspension of literacy tests and similar devices in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina, and in 34 counties in North Carolina.

An automatic "trigger" would suspend literacy tests in these areas where such tests were used and where fewer than 50 per cent of the voting age population voted or registered in last year's Presidential election.

— In order to remove Federal intervention, require these States and counties to appear before a three-judge Federal court in Washington, D. C., to demonstrate that they did not discriminate within the past five years.

— Authorize the sending of Federal examiners into these jurisdictions to register persons found to be deprived of voting rights because of racial discrimination.

— Give the Attorney General power to bring suits to enforce the 15th Amendment in Federal courts. Examiners would be appointed pending final settlement of the suits.

"Set up criminal penalties for persons found guilty of intimidation, coercion, and threatening acts against any individual for voting or attempting to vote.

The sweeping new Medicare bill would provide hospitalization for persons 65 and over, and for voluntary insurance to cover doctor's fees.

Up to 120 days of hospitalization and related nursing home, outpatient, diagnostic and home health services would be provided all persons when they reach 65, regardless of income or employment.

The patient would pay $40 of the hospital costs for the first 60 days. Patients staying in hospital longer would pay $10 a day for the extra 60-day period. Under a Senate amendment, patients suffering catastrophic illness could stay in hospital indefinitely at $10 a day.

The bill also would increase medical assistance payments under present programs and increase monthly Social Security checks by 3 per cent for everyone.

This 7 per cent increase in Social Security monthly benefits would raise the present $127 maximum monthly payment on a tax base of $4,800 for covered employed persons to $135 (on a tax base of $5,800).

The increases in Social Security benefits are retroactive to Jan. 1, 1965, and if the bill becomes law by the end of July, lump sum checks will be mailed out to beneficiaries to cover the retroactive increases.

Altogether, the Senate added about 100 changes to the House version, but most were minor.

Chicago First Target Of SCLC Drive On Bias

CHICAGO — (NPI) — The much-talked-about invasion of Northern areas by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference will tee off July 24, with Chicago selected as the "target" city for the civil rights drive.

In selecting this city, the SCLC, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., has picked a time when Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N. Y.) will begin a probe of de facto segregation in the city's public school system. In addition the drive comes at a time when local rights leaders are in the midst of their campaign to oust controversial School Supt. Benjamin C. Willis.

The announcement that the SCLC considers Chicago "a likely" starting spot for the northern drive was made by Dr. King at a press conference in the Palmer House last week. He indicated also that other northern cities will be involved in demonstration activities.

The Chicago visit will last two or three days, Dr. King added, with activities being coordinated by the Rev. James Bevel, a SCLC field secretary who headed the voter registration in Selma, Ala.

Declaring that "we owe it to ourselves to reciprocate," Dr. King lauded the efforts of Chicagoans in helping the civil rights movement a great deal in the South. Special efforts will be made during his visit to attract the support of interfaith to be done."

Emphasizing the fact that he will be "at the disposal" of local civil rights leaders, Dr. King also indicated that he would like to meet with Mayor Daley. He added, however, that he would only meet with the mayor along with local civil rights leadership.

Frequent rallies on street corners and in churches also will be made during the period and tours will be made of "Negro and selected white communities."

— To become acquainted with the leadership of the civil rights movement and the forces of good will in the community.

— To get a first-hand picture and understanding of some of the problems faced in the city.

— To assist local leadership in interpreting the issues of the movement to a broader base of the community.

— To rally the support of a coalition of the forces of good will around common goals.

Discussing his position on Chicago Schools Supt. Benjamin C. Willis, Dr. King said he felt Willis did not "understand the depths of the racial problem."

He also expressed himself as in accord with the withholding of federal funds from the schools unless integration is more complete.

"This type of pressure often forced (southern) school boards to do what they should do," he asserted. "Demonstrations have made more friends than enemies for the civil rights movement among both whites and Negroes."

"Not only do we want to mobilize support from the Negro community but also the white community because we need allies in this struggle."

Congressman Powell is scheduled to appear in Chicago on July 17 (a week earlier than Dr. King's visit) to hold public hearings of the House Education and Labor committee, which he heads. The Powell hearings will investigate charges of school segregation.

Discovers Trace Of DDT In Antarctic Is A Mystery

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The entire globe — including, mysteriously enough, remote Antarctica — appears to be contaminated to some extent by DDT.

Discovery of trace amounts of the pesticide in Antarctic seals, penguins, and fish was reported Saturday by Dr. John L. George of the Pennsylvania State University.

George's investigations, supported by the National Science Foundation, left unanswered the puzzle of how DDT found its way to the frozen continent.

There is no record that the poison ever was used in Antarctica. Hundreds of miles of water separate the continent from the nearest other land regions where DDT might conceivably have been employed.

George's findings were reported in a paper presented at a symposium on pesticides and the environment at the Monks Woods experimental station in England. He previously had found pesticides in the waters of the northern Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

He said traces of DDT occurred frequently in specimens of Adelle penguins and Weddell seals, and in some kinds of fish but not, strangely, in others.

NAACP Urges Senate To Reject Coleman

DENVER, Colo. — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has called upon the United States Senate to refuse to confirm the nomination of former Mississippi Gov. James P. Coleman as a judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit.

At the closing session of the Association's 58th annual convention here, June 28 - July 3, the delegates passed a resolution expressing "shock" at the nomination and calling upon "the President to screen all persons who are considered for judgeships and to make certain that anyone appointed is fully committed to uphold the law and to protect the constitutional rights of all Americans without regard to race, creed or color."

Debate on the resolution was marred by the implication asserted by one delegate that a "deal" had been made between NAACP Board and staff members and the Johnson Administration not to press for opposition to the Coleman nomination. "Who wants to get into the Cabinet? What deal was cut?" the delegate demanded.

The allegation of a "deal" was bitterly assailed by Executive Director Roy Wilkins following adoption of the resolution. It's up to the delegates to adopt whatever resolution they desired, he said. "What you decree, I will attempt to carry out." However, he went on, "I deeply resent this rude lie," referring to the remarks made by the delegate from Flint, Mich. "I have not seen offered any position, do not expect any offer and do not want any. I wouldn't trade my position with the Association even for the seat in the White House," he declared.

Along The Sports Trail

BY SAM BROWN

There are indications that Memphis is being considered for big sports such as pro football, baseball, basketball and others. St. Louis is looked upon as one of the most progressive cities in the south and should be keeping its eye on the professional sports expansion program.

The one paid Mays by the National League All-Stars Gene Mauch, manager of the Phillies, when he was questioned about having Mays lead off in the batting order.

Mauch is quoted as saying, "I like to have Mays coming up later in the game with Maury Wills and Pete Rose in front of him." Mauch asks, "What more could one think of a player, considering all the other stars on the team." Mays made Mauch's decision look good as he hit a home run his first time up.

The Greyhound racing is going at full speed at the Southland Greyhound Park at West Memphis each night, and thousands of Memphis fans are on hand for the 11-race program with the Daily Double, the Quintas on each race and the Perfecta in each race after the first.

Max Gordon, well known sportsman and business man of the city, a friend of Along the Sports Trail and a walking encyclopedia of information on horse racing stopped a few days ago after he had been following the Greyhound for several days or rather nights.

He offered us an eye opener: he stated had dawdled on him after a few trips to watch the Greyhounds in action. He stated, "There is an old adage about a dog being man's best friend. But, now after a few excursions to the Southland Park, I am beginning to have grave doubts as to its authenticity."

The Fisk librarian the one person who might be considered less likely to be an enthusiastic sports fan, or an authority on the subject, crases this imposition with his new book, "Famous Negro Athletes." ## Unemployment Will Wipe Out Rights-NAACP

DENVER, Colo. — If the traditional patterns of job discrimination are not rapidly eliminated, the past civil rights victories will be of no avail, the NAACP Labor said here this week.

Speaking to delegates at the Association's 56th annual convention, June 28 - July 3, Herbert Hill warned that the "great mass of Negroes" face the possibility of permanent poverty.

These include "the long-term unemployed as well as the working poor, who know only a marginal economic existence and who increasingly are forced into the ranks of the unemployed," he said.

Mr. Hill stated that unemployment among Negroes in Harlem is more than double the rest of the city; in Rochester while two percent of the white workers are unemployed, 14 per cent of the Negroes are out of work.

"Outbreaks of violence in many urban areas are the result of a deepening racial crisis in the major urban cities of the North," he warned. "Communities must be understood."

"Based upon 1960 census data in major Southern cities such as Richmond, Miami, Louisville, Jacksonville, Atlanta, New Orleans and Memphis, between 41 and 52 per cent of the Negroes were poor according to the Federal Government's conservative poverty criteria," he said.

Presiding at the workshop was W. W. Law, president of the Georgia State Conference of Branches and a member of the NAACP Board of Directors. Other participants in the program included Dr. Bruce Green of Cincinnati, Ohio and Keeler H. Montgomery of Roxbury, Mass.

Johnson Praises Right Action Of Teachers Group

NEW YORK — President Lyndon Johnson chose the 103rd convention of the National Education Association to praise NEA for its actions in fighting racial discrimination against Negro teachers and announced a number of steps he had just taken to do the same thing.

"You and I are both concerned with the problem of the dismissal of Negro teachers as we move forward with desegregation of schools," the President told the 12,000 delegates and other educators. "I applaud the action you have taken. For my part, I have directed the Commissioner of Education to pay special attention in reviewing desegregation plans, to guard against any pattern of teacher dismissal based on race or national origin."

Speaking on the final day of the annual convention of the 443,000-member NEA, the President said he was planning even more proposals to improve education to present to the next session of the U. S. Congress.

"We are not going to stop," he declared, "until every child in this great and beautiful land of ours can have all the education his or her ambition demands and that his or her mind can absorb."

The President's appearance highlighted a week in which 7,248 official NEA delegates and alternates — a new record — hammered out positions on integration and merger of dual teachers associations in the South, on sanctions, and on rehiring of Negro teachers in the South, who, as Negro schools close down in the process of integration, find themselves out of teaching jobs.

The convention started off even before its official opening date with an announcement by NEA president Lois Edinger that the NEA Board of Directors had approved a proposal to form a Subcommittee on Human Rights of Educators under the NEA Commission on Professional Rights and Responsibilities. The Board also approved expenditures of up to $100,000 for the first year of operation plus a campaign to raise $1 million dollars to protect and promote the professional, civil, and human rights of educators through providing legal and other necessary assistance."

PEACE CORPSMEN CONFER — Robert T. Freeman and Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver confer following Freeman's appointment as Associate Director for Management.

Negro Named To Major Peace Corps Position

Robert T. Freeman, 47, of the Peace Corps has been named to one of the highest positions in U.S. government management ever held by a Negro.

Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver today named Freeman, who has been his special assistant since last April, to be Associate Director for Management. As Associate Director, Freeman will hold one of the five key positions in the Peace Corps.

In his new assignment, Freeman will direct all of the personnel, budget, finance, management, procurement, travel, printing and supply functions of the Peace Corps. This office is responsible for all Peace Corps expenditures, both in the Washington office and in the 48 countries around the world where the Peace Corps is operating.

Assisting Freeman will be Chester Lane, currently serving as director of the Peace Corps contracts division, who has been named deputy associate director for management. Freeman succeeds Max Medley, who will continue to serve the Peace Corps as a special assistant to Shriver.

Freeman came to the Peace Corps from a career as a New York businessman who founded three insurance companies in Africa and served for nine years as insurance director and trade negotiator in Accra, Ghana.

Bob Freeman joins a distinguished list of Americans to bring his business know-how and foreign expertise to Peace Corps service, Shriver said. "The Peace Corps is extremely fortunate to have an expert in management who is also intimately acquainted with all of Africa. He is remarkable because he's the only American businessman I know of who has ever been selected for a position of high trust in a West African government in recent years."

While in Africa, Freeman founded and organized two insurance companies in Ghana and one in Nigeria. The companies in Ghana were later bought by the Ghana government and merged into the State Insurance Corporation, which he managed and directed from October 1952 until he joined the Peace Corps staff last April.

As Ghana insurance director, Freeman was responsible for all executive and administrative duties and also negotiated insurance treaties with 78 countries for Ghana's exports and imports. In addition, he managed the country's insurance training programs and the National Pension and Provident Plan, as well as Ghana's insurance investment programs, supervising a headquarters staff of 175, plus the required field force.

Freeman also served as director of Ghana's Commission on Education Exchange with the United States, Director of the National Investment Bank and Director of the First Ghana Building Society. Freeman and President Nkrumah of Ghana were schoolmates at Lincoln University, Pennsylvania,

Harold Robinson Sweeps Super Stock-Gas Handicap Race

By EMEL J. SCOTT, JR.

Harold Robinson won the first place super stock and gas class money in Fairburn, Ga. last Saturday night. Robinson took first place super stock with the Dodge (the Mountaineer), then won first place gas money with his Corvette Sting Ray.

Robinson took home some $300.00 in prize money for both classes. It was said that Robinson would have a hard time beating the Fox and Pete "Fireball" Lester, but the Fox had transmission trouble so it was left up to Fireball to stop the Heml Head.

When the flag was raised Robinson came out of the hole first with his tires getting a good bite and put one car length between him and Fireball, and there was no catching up for the Chevy.

Harold Robinson, then feeling confident that this was his night to shine, pulled his Corvette - Sting Ray to the line to run Joe Johnson for first place gas class money. Johnson had already shut down Fat Harris and was sure that he would have no more real competition for the rest of the night. Johnson's pit crew was really putting down the rosin so the big B-gas Ford could get a good bite against the Sting Ray off the line.

When Joe finally stop cleaning off his tires after about seven or eight times and was ready to go everyone was sure that the Ford would win because of the good bites he was getting while spinning thru the rosin.

As the flag was raised, it was Harold Robinson and his "Little Cobra" Sting-Ray who pulled out Bros. with the Swindler. Harris waited and waited but the Swindler never came to the line when they were called, so the track officials sent Harris on down the track for a single run, which eliminated the Swindler from competition.

Robinson was then called upon to run against Harris which would have been a real tight race. When the flag went up Harris pulled from the line with a very good bite, was pulling away from Robinson, but as he pulled second gear the rear end came apart and Robinson went on to win.

On the way back to the pits, Robinson stop to see if he could give Harris any help and gave him a ride back to the pits. If every racer in Fairburn had this good sportsman-like conduct toward one another, there would be less confusion at the track.

Robinson said after the race that he is now Joe's boss, and will shut him down again this coming Saturday night. The Robinson Bros. wants to know now from Johnson, just how does it feel playing catch up since that is the way Johnson like to race?

James "Fat" Harris won third place gas money by shutting down Woody Brown.

Brown has a 55 Chevy C-gasser but can't seem to get the boogs out of it. Harris then came back to the line to run Jabo and the Hightower of negotiating contracts with universities and private agencies for the training of volunteers and overseas administration of Peace Corps projects.

Lane was born in French Lick, Ind., and was graduated from Indiana University in 1953 with a Bachelor's degree in psychology. He was commissioned in the Air Force and served two years as a communications officer. After his discharge, he continued to work for the Air Force as a civilian and became Contracting Officer for the Ballistic Missiles System engineering contracts at the center in Los Angeles.

Aim For Still Better Relations Between Nations

By HELEN THOMAS United Press International JOHNSON CITY, Tex. — UPI President Johnson Monday described as "serious and constructive" a special study which advised Canadian officials to avoid public criticism of American foreign policy where Canada is not directly concerned.

The Chief Executive commended the lengthy U. S. - Canadian report to Secretary of State Dean Rusk for prompt review with the aim of "still better relations" between the two countries.

The report prepared by two former ambassadors Livingston T. Merchant U. S. and A. D. P. Healey Canada was released simultaneously in Ottawa and Texas where the President was winding up a leisurely weekend at his ranch.

Johnson was flying back Monday night to Washington where he scheduled a "full dress" news conference at the White House Tuesday.

ANNOUNCES APPOINTMENTS Johnson was turning out the work in the relaxing atmosphere of his LBJ Ranch office before heading back to the White House. He spent the morning at his desk and put in several telephone calls to top lieutenants in Washington.

The President announced several appointments to key positions in the commerce and census departments and the National Labor Relations Board filled a federal district judgeship and revealed a special small business administration report stressing "bad management" as a key cause of most business failures.

On the surface the joint U. S. - Canada report appeared critical of the views expressed by Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson on Viet Nam.

It was recalled that Pearson last spring suggested a temporary "pause" in the U. S. bombing of North Viet Nam which incurred the administration's displeasure.

The 63 are part of the present 114-nation membership in the international organization.

Singapore, which once had the highest birth rate in the world, has cut its incidence of newly-born to nearly half — from a high of 4.0 per cent a year, to near 2.2 per cent. As usual, smaller living quarters and the employment of both man and wife are said to be responsible.

JACKSON, Miss. — The NAACP summer voter registration project for Mississippi was formally launched here at the mass meeting, Sunday, July 11, with Executive Director Roy Wilkins as the scheduled speaker. Attendance at the rally by NAACP officers, members and supporters from all sections of the state was anticipated.

Gloster B. Current, director of branches and field administration, who heads the NAACP task force in Mississippi, earlier expressed high hopes for success of the project particularly in light of the new state legislation relaxing registration requirements and State Attorney General Joe T. Patterson's interpretation of the new law as being immediately operative.

A vanguard group of 50 enthusiastic out-of-state volunteers reported for a two-day orientation session, July 6-8, following the close of the 66th annual NAACP convention in Denver, Colo., on July 3. They were welcomed by local NAACP leaders, Samuel Bailey Jackson, president of the Jackson Branch, and the Rev. R. L. T. Smith, head of the Jackson Movement.

The volunteers attended a series of lectures and participated in discussions on various aspects of the summer project. Among those who addressed the volunteers were Dr. H. Claude Hudson and Kivie Kaplan, members of the NAACP Board of Directors, who participated in the special NAACP Mission to Mississippi committee which last July succeeded in desegregating public accommodations in Jackson and other cities in the state. They reported on Mississippi one year later.

Miss Althea T. L. Simmons, coordinator of the three-state summer project, outlined the format of the program. The project has already been initiated in Alabama and South Carolina. Charles Evers, NAACP field director for Mississippi, reported on the status of the Negro vote in the state.

The provisions of Title VI, the withholding of Federal funds section of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, were explained by Robert L. Carter, NAACP general counsel, and Jack Young, the Association's attorney in Mississippi. Also participating in this session were Richard Bellman and David Ware of the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights. The impact of this Title on the civil rights movement in Mississippi was explored in detail.

Dr. A. D. Britten of the National Medical Association talked on the availability of medical care for the project workers. W. C. Patton, NAACP voter registration specialist, and Mrs. Mercedes Wright, demonstrated the workings of citizenship clinics to train prospective voters.

Various aspects of the mechanics of conducting a voter registration campaign were dealt with by Miss Gertrude Gorman, Phillip Savage, Harold Strickland and Thomas Allen, all of the NAACP field staff.

Sunday School Lesson

CHRISTIANS GROW THROUGH CONFLICT
International Sunday School Lesson for July 18, 1965.
MEMORY REFLECTION: "He who conquers shall have this heritage, and I will be his God and he shall be my son."
—(Revelation 21:7).
LESSON TEXT: Romans 7:1
Trough 8:2.

The Scriptural verse we are studying today mirrors Paul's mind reaching out to an understanding of the conflicts and tensions which beset him in his daily living in relation to his dedication to the Christian life. This passage may have to be read over and over again, and carefully dissected before the message it contains will assert itself.

Paul was wrestling with the problems of his time specifically: how could Jews and Gentiles, with their vastly differing backgrounds and religious beliefs, be reconciled to form one church under God in Christ?
He was also wrestling with a much more personal problem. His religion, while it comforted him, still, by its very nature, accused him, because through it he recognized the face of sin, to which all men are prone. In effect, it forced a personal choice out of him — for, or against God, and to his analytical mind it seemed to him that his choice oftentimes revealed him to be sinful.

Paul's problems, therefore, if we examine them carefully, are not unknown quantities to us today. We are daily torn with tension between our loyalty to our own ideas, and our need to come to an understanding with people whose standards and beliefs differ vastly from our own. Paul, indeed, learned that to live at all is to live in tension. And if that was true in his day, how infinitely more true it is in our time, in our present century! What we often fail to grasp is that in Christ all denominations are new men in a new community. We too often stumble around in the limited areas of our near-sightedness. We pile up grief and stress and conflict for ourselves because of our own limitations.

If we will but realize that if we are to live our lives to the full, truly committing ourselves to the Christian faith, conflicts and tensions are an inevitable part of that commitment then we will be nearer the maturity of mind for which we strive.

The Scriptures can be important to us as we strive to grow as Christians. Every event — every difference — by virtue of the fact that it exposes areas of conflict in the minds of men, will, by the same token, provide fertile ground for meditation and compromise. Simply by coming to grips with these differences we will grow in Christianity. We will gain new dimensions of understanding and sympathy; we will appreciate the true beauty of friendship, while improving the quality of our relationships with others.

What Paul is saying, in essence,

DE FACTO BIAS PROBES
BOSTON — (NPI) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare will undertake a full scale investigation of de facto segregation charges in the local school system by Aug. 1, and may undertake a similar investigation in Chicago if a complaint is received. Charges against Boston schools were made by the CORE last February but the investigation was delayed because of uncertainty over whether the Civil Rights Act of 1964 empowers HEW to exercise its aid-withholding powers in proven cases of de facto segregation.

is that we cannot escape the tensions of this life on earth. Indeed, our striving towards the ultimate in our goal of Christianity only helps to sharpen them in our awareness. How we handle them — and ourselves — will be a measure of our growth as Christians under the all-encompassing power of Christ.

It will therefore pay us dividends to struggle with the somewhat ponderous prose contained in the Scriptures under study for today, for from them we can come to a closer understanding of what makes for maturity as a Christian.

COTTON PICKING ISSUE
MEMPHIS — (NPI) — The split vacation tradition, an old Southern custom, came under protest last week when a judge was asked to order a halt to the summer school vacation to pick cotton in nearby Madison county. Most rural communities dismiss classes for six weeks in early fall at cotton picking time so youngsters can work in the fields. The students — white and Negro — get out of school June 1, then return in early July until the cotton is ready to be harvested. Negro plaintiffs, mostly farmers, contend that continuation of the split system would perpetuate the idea of certain schools being labeled Negro schools.

How To Close The Gap Equal Employment Commission Place To Start Check On Bias

WASHINGTON — (NNPA) — "One Negro does not integrate a plant, no matter how visible he may be," Whitney M. Young, Jr., director of the National Urban League, told an equal employment opportunity seminar here July 6.

A participant in a four-day training seminar sponsored by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Young said the Commission itself was a good place to start checking on fair employment practices. Observing that few nonwhites hold top staff positions with the Commission, Young asked, "Is EEO being practiced within the Commission itself?"

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, said colored people are somewhat "skeptical and suspicious" about how they will fare under Title VII, the fair employment section of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

He asserted that nonwhites know that many employers have changed their "white-only" practices, but he change hasn't been fast enough to generate confidence.

Wilkins pointed out that nonwhites also are skeptical of labor unions that "have struck out their all-white clauses in apprenticeship training but haven't changed their practices."

Another panelist, Dr. Hector P. Garcia, told of the intimidation of Mexican-Americans at the polls, in courtrooms and at the hands of deputy sheriffs in States west of the Mississippi.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, acted as moderator of the panel discussion. The Commission invited 65 investigators, loaned to it by 14 Federal agencies in 19 States, to the four-day training seminar to acquaint them with the requirements of Title VIII.

Roosevelt said the investigators, most of whom have had experience in the equal employment opportunity field, will go to work processing complaints already received by the Commission. They will work with the Commission until its assemblies a permanent investigative staff of its own.

Sneakers at the seminar sessions held in the Labor Department included Hobart Taylor, Jr., executive vice chairman, President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity; Mrs. Alleen Hernandez and Samuel Jackson, both EEO Commissioners; Wiley A. Ebrant, executive secretary, President's Council on Equal Opportunity; John Doar, assistant Attorney General in charge of the Civil Rights Division at the Justice Department.
