Two South Memphis funeral directors last week sought an injunction in Chancery Court to prohibit three associated companies from selling a type of funeral and cemetery plot contract claimed prejudicial to independent funeral parlors.

Funeral Home charged that the New Park Cemetery, Inc., the Westminster Corp., and the East Lawn Memorial Park sell certificates of life insurance payable to a designated funeral director and providing for burial in a designated cemetery in violation of the law.

suit, said state law forbids this type of insurance. The suit asks $100,000 in damages for the plaintiffs and other funeral companies alleged to have suffered losses.

In return, the petition points out, he was to get funeral services for himself and his wife, caskets and vaults supplied by Westminster, and a burial plot for himself and his wife, with burial rights for any minor children dying while the contract is in effect.

The petition says the cash price is $1,475.50 and the rest is interest on the unpaid balance at the rate of 9 per cent.

BUSING IS GAINING SUPPORT

Fifty-two Memphians in leadership roles have signed a 'statement of policy' favoring busing in the Memphis Public School System.

The statement, in the form of a paid newspaper advertisement, appeared in print as the latest school desegregation hearing was underway in a local federal court.

In part, the statement reads:

"The thrust of the civil rights movement in the sixties has been to place the black people of our nation in the mainstream of American life. If such is to be possible, black people must have access to the places where education and training for the mainstream take place. The U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that segregated education is inherently unequal education. Black people have learned that segregated education is also inferior education. Certainly no one can contend, rationally, that segregated education has ever prepared Negroes to compete in our society.

"A race cannot achieve its potential in this age by retreating into isolation. It must have access to the mainstream of human activity; it must work, live, and learn within the world community.

"Today, there seems to be a conspiracy which seeks a return to segregated education. Some whites who desire to maintain their image of racial superiority are increasing the pressure for a continuation of the existing school patterns; some liberal whites, who have become weary of the fight for equal justice, are attempting to soothe their conscience by supporting the status quo until all sections of the nation change their segregation practices; and some blacks, because of fear, resentment, frustration or pride, are calling for continued segregated schools. Despite their differing motives, the aim of this strange combination is the same - racially segregated schools. And this at a time when the human resources needed by our nation are already greater than either segment of our people can supply without the other!

"The rallying slogans for these groups are: Neighborhood Schools; Community Control of Schools; and Quality Education. The neighborhood school concept is being promulgated to create opposition to busing. These proponents piously argue that they are not attempting to maintain a segregated school system, but simply trying to keep schools within walking distance of the home. Millions of children in this country are bused to and from schools daily. In fact, children have been and are, currently, bused to schools to maintain segregation. The opponents of an integrated society, loudly, proclaim what they contend are the evils of busing for racial balance; yet, they proudly support busing for racial imbalance; i.e., busing white students past black schools and black students past white schools.

"The concept of community control of schools, while sounding laudable, is actually a device to perpetrate separate black and white systems. Quality education is the term used to emphasize the difference in people which years of segregation and discrimination have fastened on the minority community, and the effort to maintain 'superior' education by permitting access to white schools by the relatively few blacks who may be thought able to adjust and keep up in a different cultural environment, but overlooks the need for all people to raise the quality distance of the students they serve. The national trend is toward regionalization of public institutions and services, which will require some form of mass transportation. Furthermore, of their education and performance in the modern world.

"Negroes have learned through bitter experience that the best schools are likely to serve white majorities. Less crowded schools, larger libraries, more sophisticated educational equipment, lower pupil-teacher ratios, more spacious playgrounds, newer, better and more centralized plants, and a more diversified student body will be found where the white students are attending school. Hence, the only guarantee that Negroes have for adequate and equal education in the black schools is the assignment of a significant number of white students to predominantly black schools.

"Due to our housing pattern we cannot eliminate busing of students - black and white - as one approach to the solution of our school problems. A primary aim of education is to teach people to live with one another to respect one another. Children should have this exposure to people of different cultural and racial backgrounds in order to achieve this goal."

YWCA Week Is Planned

In keeping with the theme of National YWCA WEEK, "Your Concern Is Ours," members of the Young Women's Christian Association here are combining preparations for the week and the National YWCA Triennial Convention to be held this year in Houston, Texas.

The convention April 13-18, is being held just before National YWCA Week, April 19-26.

Seven delegates from Memphis are attending the Houston meeting:

Mrs. S. J. Buckman, Mrs. Edward Ouellette, Miss Eunice Blumstein (executive director, Memphis YWCA), Miss Barbara Neal (Director of Sarah Brown Branch YWCA), Miss Jill Stephenson, Miss Janelle Feagon, and Mrs. D. M. Mulholland.

Major concern of this convention - expected to attract approximately 3,000

Dunbar PTA Plans Show

The Dunbar Elementary PTA is presenting a fashion show of "Yesterday and Today" in the school's cafeteria, Sunday, April 12, at 4 p.m. The school is at 2509 Select Ave.

Mrs. Beth Marsh, fashion co-ordinator for Shalberg's Dept. Store, will arrange and narrate the show, featuring students and parents modeling today's fashions from Shalberg's, while other parents will model their own creations from the yesterday era.

The public is invited. Phillip Dean is principal; Mrs. Maggie James, PTA president and Mrs. R. J. Mitchell, chairman of fashions.

Kennedy Slate In Installed

The Kennedy Organization held its monthly meeting March 16, at 1100 Vollentine. State Senator J. O. Patterson gave remarks and Father John Gurtin installed the officers of the club for 1970-71. They are as follows:

Mt. Gilliam To Honor Pastor

Mt. Gilliam Baptist Church 1029 Raymond St., will honor its pastor, the Rev. J. D. Jamerson, on the occasion of his first anniversary as pastor of the church, Sunday, April 12.

Preaching the anniversary sermon will be the Rev. L. R. Donson, with his church, Belmont Baptist, participating. Mrs. Jamerson will share in the honors.

Rev. Mr. Jamerson served as assistant pastor to the Rev. E. Bates who pastored Mt. Gilliam for 40 years. Rev. Mr. Bates died in 1968 and was succeeded by Rev. Mr. Jamerson. A native Mississippian, Rev. Mr. Jamerson moved to Memphis after his discharge from the Army in 1946. He attended the Army Administration School at Tucson, Ariz.; Henderson Business College and Hooks Bros. School of Photography in Memphis. He lives with his wife and five children at 1397 Davis St.

The church has recently added a new education building and an asphalt parking area. Aaron Bragg is chairman of the anniversary program, and Mrs. Irene Richmond, co-chairman.

3 Banquets In The Making

Three banquets honoring prominent citizens and organizations are in the making. The first is scheduled for 7 p.m. this Sunday, April 12 at the Rivermont when friends of Father Bertrams High School honor Coach W. F. Porter. Speaker will be Eddie Robinson, head football coach and athletic director at Grambling College. Tickets are $5 per plate.

Frontiers Club will honor Mrs. Lawrence Cox, Judge Odell Horton, Dr. Hollis F. Price, Mrs. Maxine Smith, the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and the local NAACP at 7 p.m. Sunday, April 19, at the Rivermont. Speaker for the $10-a-plate dinner will be Senator Albert Gore, and Greg Morris of Mission Impossible will be the emcee.

Alumni of LeMoyné-Owen College will honor Dr. Hollis F. Price, retiring president of the college, with a $10-a-plate community recognition dinner at the Rivermont on Saturday night, May 30. Tickets may be secured from alumni of the school.

Don't Knock the Computer It May Save Your Life!

University of Nebraska Medical Center researchers watch as Rosa Pavondra takes a computerized breathing test.

By GROVER BRINKMAN
 Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper
DON'T KNOCK the computer—it may help save your life if you have some crippling lung disease!

Researchers at the University of Nebraska Medical Center have developed a computer-based breathing test that might be an important breakthrough in mass testing of people fearing emphysema and other breathing impairments.

Lung disease is America's major health problem at the moment, rising so fast that it now ranks sixth among fatal diseases. Emphysema alone, according to late government reports, rose 700 per cent between 1950 and 1965.

Read that again, and let it sink home. Only heart disease cripples more working men between the ages of 40 and 65.

"One of medicine's major challenges in the coming decade is to control emphysema and other killing diseases," said Dr. Irving Kass, director of the Pulmonary Disease section at Nebraska U. "To meet this challenge, we are using our IBM system and portable test equipment to seek out lung abnormalities by screening large numbers of people, quickly and inexpensively."

Dr. Leo E. O'Brien, an associate researcher, recently conducted a field test of the computer-spirometer system with 826 visitors to the Nebraska State Fair at Lincoln, 50 miles distant from the university medical center. The spirometer was connected with the computer via long distance telephone lines.

REFLECTING the test's sensitivity to borderline conditions, Dr. O'Brien said some degree of lung abnormality was detected in 30 per cent of the people who took the test. Of these, 3 out of 4 showed an obstructive condition indicating the possibility of bronchitis or emphysema.

The computer monitors and analyzes tests performed by a machine called a portable spirometer, which measures the volume and rate of air leaving the lungs. The reports are produced 50 per cent faster and 75 per cent cheaper than with manual methods.

The medical center researchers believe that the new breathing test is able to reach large numbers of people, since it can

THE medical center points out that early detection of lung disease is important, since at the best, damage can only be arrested, not reversed.

In other words, if you are a borderline case with emphysema or black lung, or any breathing disease, an early diagnosis might save your life by arresting the illness through proper medication and an adjusted living condition.

Using the new computer-spirometer equipment, researchers from the University of Nebraska hope to test at least 150,000 persons over the next three years. This would provide experience needed to develop a system which could be used nationally if not globally, offering mass testing by regional medical centers.

Breathing into a spirometer tube could add years to your life!

Dental Student At Meharry Wins M. L. King Award

A dental student received the Martin Luther King, Jr. Award this year for the first time at Meharry Medical College. The award was given at a memorial service held recently.

Howard T. Dodd, freshman dental student from Kansas City, Mo., was selected from among eight candidates nominated by the Meharry student body.

A faculty-student committee made the selection on the basis of which candidate exhibited qualities most like those of the late civil rights leader. Dodd was selected for his attitude, honesty, loyalty, compassion, leadership, good scholastic standing, community involvement, sincerity and concern for the welfare of others.

Dodd, 34, received an M. S. degree in microbiology at the University of Missouri at Kansas City before coming to Meharry. He is a 1958 graduate of Kansas State University. The oldest of the 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Taft Dodd of 2917 Hickam Dr., Kansas City, Kan., he is married and has two children.

Dodd received a plaque as well as a cash award.

Principia I speaker at the memorial service was last year's winner, junior medical student Robert E. Hardy of West Hollywood, Fla.

Variety Show To Provide Black Jews Scholarships

NEW YORK...A benefit variety show to provide scholarship for black Jewish children to attend Hebrew schools will be given at 3:00 p.m. today at the Kaufman Hall of the 92nd Street Y-MHA, Lexington Avenue and 92nd Street, New York City.

Theodore Bikel is honorary chairman, and Mayor John V. Lindsay and Israel Consul General Rehaviam schools, yeshivot, and afternoon Hebrew schools," stated Yaakov Gladstone, Harzaad Harishon's executive director.

"Because most of the black Jewish families live spread out in black neighborhoods all over the city, the Hebrew school serves as an important center not only for knowledge and Jewish identity, but also as a place where the black Jewish child has the opportunity to socialize and to grow up with white children who are Jewish," he pointed.

The variety show will feature a number of guest artists as well as members of the black Jewish community. In the former group are Lou Amir are among the sponsors of the performance, which will be presented by Harzaad Harishon (Hebrew for "The First Step"), an organization of black Jews, which seeks to integrate the black Jews of this country into the American community.

"The scholarship fund helps black Jewish children receive a qualified Jewish education in Hebrew day—Jacob, Broadway star; Jo Amar, Sephardic folk singer; Salvo Caribach, the singing Rabbi; Barbara Lamont, well known night club singer; and Jan Gorbary, world renowned pianist.

Performers from the black Jewish community include George Madde, Shakespearean actor; the Adar Bet Moshe Chorus from Hammon, N. J.; the Dov Hutchinson Dancers; Cantor Eliezer Brooks; and singer Naomi Smith.

Harzaad Harishon was founded in 1964 to further the religious and cultural education of black Jews and to strengthen their bonds with other Jews.

V.M.I. Cadets Remembered Virginia Dedicates Hall of Valor

This is the Hall of Valor in New Market Battlefield Park.

By SANDO BOLOGNA
 Central Press Association Correspondent
NEW MARKET, Va.—The new $1 million Hall of Valor, illustrating the story of the Civil War in Virginia, will be dedicated here on May 14 as the nation's only museum of its kind.

The building will serve also as the Visitors Center for the New Market Battlefield Park, opened in 1967 to memorialize the courage of teen-age cadets from the Virginia Military Institute who fought Union troops in 1864 on the 160-acre site.

Situated in the northern section of the picturesque Shenandoah Valley, the park is within three hours driving distance of all the major Civil War battlefields of Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland.

Funds for the battlefield park and the Hall of Valor were provided from a $3 million bequest to Virginia Military Institute by George R. Collins, a V.M.I. alumnus who died six years ago. He stipulated that the park be administered as a non-profit facility of V.M.I. "to perpetuate and maintain as a memorial for educational purposes."

Some of the major three-dimensional exhibits in the building were in Virginia's Civil War Centennial Center at Richmond from 1960 to 1965. These exhibits, as well as other memorabilia and artifacts, were turned over to the Hall of Valor after the five-year Centennial observance.

ON DISPLAY are an overview of the major military events of the war with emphasis on Virginia where 60 per cent of the battles took place and a detailed view of the Shenandoah Valley campaigns.

In the New Market-V.M.I. area, there are photos, drawings, a cadet's musket, bent by a shell fragment in battle, a cadet's uniform, and other memorabilia of the lone instance in U.S. history when schoolboy cadets, led by their teachers, engaged in combat.

On May 15, 1864, the boys (average age was 18, three were 15) saw their first artillery fire at about 11 a.m., moving in quickly from the third line of reserves. They closed ranks as one of their instructors was wounded. Then they

The Convictions In The Chicago Trial

The convictions of five of the Chicago "7" on charges of inciting to riot in that city during the 1968 Democrat National Convention did not surprise us.

The trial lasted about five months and the conduct of the defendants certainly was contemptuous. And because of this fact we can understand how Judge Julius Hoffman used his discretion of meted out Heavy fines and sentences.

Reports state that at the end of the trial the defendants took turns at addressing the court before sentence was made. They predicted "A second revolution."

Six of these defendants were white men ranging in age from 29 to 53. Only one was a Negro and he got only the contempt sentencing.

Courts must be respected and we cannot sympathize with those who refuse to show them due respect.

However, the Court of appeals have granted these Chicago defendants Bond pending appeal but this Appeals court has warned them against making seditious statements. And according to form, these defendants have defiantly stated they shall "say what we please." It seems they are asking for revocation of their bonds.

Since the Chicago trial a federal judge in New York has postponed indefinitely the trial of some "Black Panthers," until they give assurance they will not act disorderly and disrespectful of the trial.

We think this is a reasonable request and agree with the judge that proceedings should not begin until such assurances come from the defendants.

Frankly, we have no sympathy with those radical militants who advocate revolution.

We do not see how any Rational American could want a revolution. This country has the machinery to bring about needed reform through the democratic process. There is no sense in having a revolution.

Expo '70

The 1970 world fair at Tokyo is now open and first reports indicate the U.S. pavilion, along with the Russian and Japanese, is one of the most popular at the exposition.

The biggest drawing card in the American pavilion is said to be a piece of rock. It is part of the moon, returned to earth by U.S. astronauts. The Apollo 12 spacecraft is also on display in the U.S. pavilion.

Early indications on attendance are disappointing to the Japanese, who estimate the exposition must attract 45,000,000 visitors by September 13th (closing day) to break even. On the first day Expo '70 was open to the public only half the anticipated number of visitors arrived.

Even then there were long lines and long waits to get into the most popular pavilions and restaurants. Americans do not take as kindly to such delays as most orientals and those from other countries where crowding is an accepted part of life; if the hoped-for 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 visitors see Expo '70 in the next few months the crowding and waiting will likely be even worse.

Factory-Built Homes

There are growing indications a revolution in home building is to start at last. One is the selection of twenty-two designs by the Department of Housing and Urban Development for mass-production housing in prototype construction projects. Another is the interest of several giant American firms in the mass-production house.

The house of the future may indeed be a pre-constructed house and there will almost certainly be many of them, and no doubt pre-constructed parts can be put together in a number of styles and sizes for variations. The object, of course, is to reduce the cost of houses.

Of all major industries, home building is the most outdated and obsolete. Workmen, earning increasingly bigger salaries, understandably, lay bricks the same way this was done two hundred years ago. Carpenters use the same general methods. Plumbers do their work much the same way.

Yet the extent of technological advancement in this general field in recent years is considerable and the capability is within the country's industry and management resources for the establishment of an efficient and modern mass production industry.

Finishes will be applied at the factory, plumbing, heating, and most of the construction work will be factory-done. Houses can be built faster, perhaps better, and the cost will be less. And such a technique, if perfected in this country, would almost certainly be exported all over the world by U.S. capital and executive know-how in the years ahead.

Telegram Messengers

In the old days when one sent a telegram a uniformed young man appeared at its destination and presented the recipient a yellow envelope, inside which was a printed message. Sometimes the receiver drafted a reply while the messenger waited.

In more recent years this service has been curtailed and in many of the nation's towns and cities telegrams aren't delivered at all. The recipient is telephoned. If the telegram is requested it is mailed, or—in some places—delivered.

Now comes the New Jersey Board of Public Utility Commissioners with an order to the Western Union Telegraph Company to expand its capability of "physical delivery" in that state. The board says the company does not normally make delivery in two-thirds of the state's communities and believes such a utility should make it clear to all senders of telegrams that the message will not be physically delivered unless delivery is requested by the sender.

Times have changed and Western Union no doubt has its own case, certainly one of its considerations being increased costs. And the company is entitled to a profit in its operations.

It is hoped, in the end, however, that telegram delivery can be resumed in some areas where it is now a lost art, even at extra cost.

BRASS TACKS

By Thomas F. Budge

..... WILL QUICKLY FOLLOW

How often have you heard someone say, "They've got it made, in referring to some major business enterprise that perhaps had its inception in someone's basement, as a one-man shop. The idea is prevalent that once a company gets out of the basement figuratively speaking, and joins the "bigtime" its future is assured. As a matter of simple truth, this is pure fiction.

No matter how big a company gets, its future is promising only so long as the same kind of ingenuity and management imagination that got it started in the first place stays with it through the ensuing years.

Coming through the year with a reasonable profit margin is a sweating-it-out proposition for a large company no less than a small one. In both cases, success and calculated risk go hand in hand.

No better illustration of this can be found than in the pioneering step Pan American World Airways has taken in introducing the new Pan Am Boeing 747 Jet. It took the same courage and imagination for this airline company to commit a billion dollars to the 747 that it takes for a fledgling business enterprise to invest in a piece of equipment to the tune of a few thousand dollars that will start it on the way to becoming the "big" company of tomorrow.

The business philosophy behind the introduction of the Boeing 747 by Pan American is best expressed by the company's president. He says, "...Only about one per cent of the world's three and one half billion (people) have ever attached their derrieres to the seat of an airplane. That's a pretty big market for us to work on...we think there is a demand for...747s...All air transportation life is an investment in the future, some say a gamble. This one has been calculated as well as could be done, and it may take a while for the demand to catch up with the supply..."

History provides abundant evidence that where pioneers lead the way to something better all the world will quickly follow. (4-7-70).

Careful washing with the antibacterial skin cleanser, pHisoHex, was found to help eliminate perspiration odor for more than 24 hours in a study conducted by Drs. Harvey J. Hurley and Walter B. Shelley, Department of Dermatology, University of Pennsylvania.

(Shampooing with the same liquid has been reported to control scalp odors, and to help prevent dandruff.)

The use of a "night cream" for teenagers is often advised when the teenager has acne, and the cream is one with an antibacterial, peeling action such as pHisoAc. The medicated cream is applied only to the blemishes, and serves to reduce oiliness, open clogged pores, and to cover up blemishes.

Current "therapy" for the common cold for all age groups is relief of symptoms, prevention of complications, and tender, loving care for the victims.

Phenylephrine hydrochloride in Neo-Synephrine spray or nose drops in appropriate strengths for each age group is most often recommended. It relieves nasal congestion, and helps to prevent secondary infection such as sinusitis in adults or otitis media in children.

When there is a cough, a mild cough medicine is helpful, and a vaporizer helps to reduce the drying and secondary swelling of delicate mucous membranes.

Antibiotics and other prescription medications should not be taken without a physician's approval.

Explanations of the cause of brittle nails—a problem that plagues housewives and career women alike—have ranged from hormone deficiencies to direct contact with common household chemicals. Recently, however, research has pointed to the amount and distribution of calcium in their nails as an important contributing factor.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

The New War— U.S. Efforts— Progress Possible— U.S. Limitations—

Washington, D.C.—The irony of the new war which has opened in Laos and Cambodia is that small-scale U.S. troop involvement at the moment might well achieve very positive results, unlike the situation which existed in South Vietnam some years back. But the Nixon Administration is held in check by public opinion and congressional opinion—against a new U.S. involvement.

The countryside of South Vietnam, unlike western Laos and most of Cambodia today, was largely in the hands of the Viet Cong when direct U.S. military operations were undertaken in 1961. U.S. forces had to overcome hostility of the majority in the Vietnam war, the main reason operations were so lengthy and frustrating. But the situation is looking up there today.

Western Laos and Cambodia, on the other hand, are not in the hands of the enemy. They have been controlled by their own governments for many years and the population in Cambodia, especially—in most of the country, is anti-communist.

With U.S. forces at last securing the South Vietnamese countryside, and the tide of that long war running against them, the communists of North Vietnam changed the theater of war in the last half of 1969 and began concentrating efforts on Laos and Cambodia. The North Vietnamese know well U.S. public opinion will not allow President Nixon to order U.S. troops into these areas.

Thus the full irony is that in these two countries which used to be French Indochina the U.S. might accomplish much with a limited force but after all the sacrifice and major effort made in the other country which made up the French colony it is not now possible to mount any direct effort, even with the simple forces in South Vietnam, where the war is slowed.

Instead, the Central Intelligence Agency must do what it can, with help from the Air Force, and perhaps from the Navy, and the fate of Cambodia and Laos hangs in the balance. U.S. weapons, of course, are available and have been sent. The Defense Department is, in fact, acquiring a huge surplus stock of weapons because of withdrawals from South Vietnam.

And, of course, no one knows how involved any small-scale troop aid to either Laos or Cambodia would become, though it is known that North Vietnam is experiencing a manpower shortage at the present because of the heavy losses inflicted by U.S. and South Vietnamese forces in the last year and a half. Thus chances are at least good that a small-scale direct effort could achieve much but such an aid effort is not likely because of the attitude of the average American and the mood in Congress.

"RACE MIXING AND THE BIBLE"

In a highly confused world, even God's church members are a bit 'at sea' over the controversy of the right and wrong of inter-racial marriage, inter-racial worship, the abolition of the actual Brotherhood of Man...

On the question of inter-marriage, the first recorded Biblical case was the case of the man Moses and his Black wife of Midia, the daughter of Jethro, a black leader of his people.

Now there is nothing new in the concept that the skin of a people determined the status of same, you see when Moses presented his wife (a black woman) to the Israelites, his own brother (Aaron) and his sister (Miriam) sought to stir up the people against him.

They even went so far as to claim that he had lost his mind and tried to induce the people to desert Moses; now whether it is right or wrong, the Bible states that God, Himself came down to intervene in the behalf of Moses, in fact, God approved this union, and did cast punishment upon Miriam for her criticism.

As to inter-racial worship, had this not occurred, the Religion called "Christianity" would have never made the scene for original Christians were certainly a composition of all races and creeds, common only in one basic belief.

Should one care to employ the art of common reasoning, then it becomes clear that there is but one God, and He is the spiritual Father of all mankind, and He is the Father of the Christ, who is my elder brother, He must also be my Father too.

Despite the squalling and squealing of some politicians, and others that would have you and I believe that God practices separatism, know that there is but one race on this earth and that is the "Human Race"; as to why we come in different colors and skin pigmentation, just remember that God created man for His own pleasure, so whatever color you came in is decidedly to the pleasure of the Creator.

Thoughts to consider: Flowers, fowl and all other animals come in a multi-colored variety, yet man have never declared one better than the other, all flowers of whatever variety are still called flowers, the color of fowl does not determine its worth; thus man of any ethnic background is still basically the chief creation of God, and since He calls them all His children, there can be no doubt as to their brotherhood.

Daybook of America 1770-1870-1970

By CLARK KINNAIRD

No. 24 in a series. This year could be a fitting time for appointment by the President and confirmation by the Senate of a woman as Associate Justice, United States Supreme Court. It's the centennial of a historic breakthrough in feminine civil rights. Union College of Law, Chicago, granted an LL.B. degree, June 30, 1870, earned by Ada H. E. Kepler, of Effingham, Ill.

Three months earlier, the Iowa legislature had been persuaded by Arabella A. Mansfield, of Mount Pleasant, to repeal the limitation of admission by the State bar to "any white male person." She was accepted to practice in courts on the basis of study in a law office and passing of an examination. Mrs. Kepler was not accepted by the bar in Illinois until the success of the litigation by Myra Colby Bradwell, who had equipped herself for practice of law under tutelage of her husband and editorship of Chicago Legal News. She carried denial of a license in Illinois because she was a married woman to the United States Supreme Court. Though the appeal was rejected there on a technicality, the Illinois judiciary reversed itself. She was the first distaff member of the State bar association.

In 1870, a cartoonist attempted a prophetic vision (→) of what was ahead for law courts, with women being both admitted to the bar and allowed to vote (as in Wyoming and Utah). That year a 1900 Washington University at St. Louis followed Union College of Chicago in admitting women as law students, and one sat as judge at a local court in Wyoming a few months after the State legalized female voting. (Attempt in 1875 to repeal suffrage in Wyoming was overruled by male judges.)

The Man On The Moon Meets The Man On The Street

We know that landing men on the moon and returning them to earth was a tremendous accomplishment. The intercontinental ballistic missile fired from a submarine is more of a mystery but it is a marvel, too. Jet transports that can carry nearly 500 passengers across the Atlantic are easier to comprehend. But what does it all mean?

Good question! It is difficult for us to bridge the enormous gap between an astronaut in a space suit walking on the moon and a new method of treating heart patients, or to relate the techniques used in designing, developing, and producing a supersonic transport to programs that will improve man's environment.

But there is a bridge and a direct relationship between the esoteric technology of the aerospace industry and a mundane problem such as how to transport a worker between his home and work quickly and efficiently.

The job of creating the bridge through technology transfer is underway, and the tide of transfer runs stronger every day.

- Specific examples include:
  - Microelectronic devices, developed for the Apollo program, that can monitor and broadcast physiological information.
  - A turboprop, based on aerodynamic principles, powered by an aircraft-type turbine engine, that is lighter, faster, quieter, more reliable and cheaper to run.
  - A computer-based information system that will link together law enforcement agencies in California, from a sheriff's office to a large police department.
  - Solar arrays, developed to provide spacecraft power, that are being considered as auxiliary power sources for hospitals or laboratories.

The Aerospace Industries Association booklet, "Aerospace Technology: Creating Social Progress," contains numerous examples of applying aerospace-generated technology to problems that involve all of us. A free copy can be obtained by writing: Aerospace Industries Association, Office of Public Affairs, 1725 DeSales St., N.W. Washington, D.C. 20036.

CLEAN UP — AVOID HOME "POLLUTION"

Are you guilty of "home pollution"? Most people don't think of it that way, points out the National Fire Protection Association, but a house can become "polluted" when combustible clutter is permitted to pile up in the attic, basement, closets and garage. Make Spring Clean-Up time Clean-OUT time at your house, urges NFPA. Combustibles create danger in the home environment because they provide the starting place and fuel for a fire which could destroy your home and put the lives of your family in jeopardy.

Typical offenders which accumulate almost unnoticed include broken-down furniture, lamp shades, mattresses, draperies, old magazines, used clothing and similar items. Reports collected by NFPA show an estimated 540,000 U.S. homes were hit by fire last year. Cleaning up "home pollution" is a good way to keep your home from the fire statistics columns, according to the national organization devoted to fire safety education and research.

President Nixon Commends Pharmacists For Education Program Against Drug Abuse

Chris Haleston, president, and Willard E. Simmons, executive secretary, of The National Association of Retail Druggists, presented President Richard M. Nixon with a plaque commending him for his determination to rid the nation of the blight of drug abuse. Present at the meeting in the White House were (left to right) F. J. Koelzer, Grand Rapids, Mich., who has been active in educational work against drug abuse; John A. Johnson, Bellevue, Neb., co-chairman of the NARD drug abuse educational committee; President Nixon; Rep. Gerald R. Ford (R. Mich.), House minority leader; Mr. Simmons; and Mr. Haleston. Mr. Nixon praised the NARD and its members for their intensive campaign against drug abuse which has been reaching high school students everywhere.

Retail pharmacists in cities and towns across America can take personal pride in President Nixon's high praise of the educational program against drug abuse of the National Association of Retail Druggists. During a recent meeting in the White House Presidential office, Mr. Nixon urged the association to tell the thousands of pharmacists who have been conducting such educational programs before youth assemblies, schools, and civic groups that he heartily endorsed their program. Representatives of the NARD present at the meeting with President Nixon and House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford (R-Mich.) were Willard E. Simmons, executive secretary, and Chris Haleston, president. They presented a bronze plaque to President Nixon commending him for his determination to rid America of the blight of drug abuse. The NARD program of education against drug abuse has been underway for more than three years. Thousands of pharmacists, representing every State, have participated in the program through talks and other types of presentations before all types of groups on the proper use of drugs and the dangers of misuse. They have been using materials prepared by their association for these presentations. President Nixon also told the NARD representatives during the meeting that he believes it is most appropriate that the corner drugstore be the place where young people can go for information and dependable advice concerning proper use as well as prevention of misuse of drugs.

Clothing Fires Are Year-Round Danger

Springtime freedom from the restricting bulk and weight of winter clothing means anything but freedom from the danger of clothing fires. For added nighttime protection, NFPA points out, children's pajamas treated to make them flame retardant are now available.

Quite the opposite, reports the National Fire Protection Association. In fact, the lighter-weight clothing worn during the warmer months in many instances burns more readily than cold-weather garments. Clothing fires are a major cause of the 6,500 deaths from fire in U.S. homes each year, NFPA studies indicate. Children and the elderly are the most frequent victims. During this Spring Clean-Up season, urges NFPA, give some attention to clothing fire safety. Make sure children understand how hazardous it is to play with matches, to play too close to a fire, and to move too close to any source of flames or intense heat.

Whenever possible, dress the youngsters in sturdy playclothes of heavier materials like denim. Particularly with small girls' clothing, avoid flammability and full skirts, long and loose sleeves, and lightweight, filmy materials.

LIGHT makes a difference

Residential Lighting Specialist
General Electric, Nela Park
by Nancy Evans

Concealed landscape lighting enables you to capture mystery of nature at night and makes beautiful tree a star attraction in your outdoor living area, creating a tranquil setting for relaxed conversation. You can light the tree as a focal point in your yard, as a background for flowers and shrubbery, or as a canopy over your garden or terrace. The type of tree, its size and location, and the effect you desire, will help determine the lighting plan.

To make the tree the center of attraction you should light it from two or three directions, with more light from one side than the other. This develops the tree's three-dimensional character. A subtle lighting effect can be achieved by directing the light vertically from the tree's base, so that it grazes the trunk and passes through the branches and leaves. Trees with open branching also can be lighted from within, as from the tree's crotch. Sometimes it is desirable to show the tree in silhouette. This can be accomplished by lighting its background — wall, fence, or shrubbery — with just a little light on the tree itself to define it.

Fascinating effects can be achieved by mounting the light source high in a tree and aiming it downward so the light filters through the leaves and branches. The result — simulated moonlight. You'll find that the tree has a flat appearance if lighted from the direction from which you usually view it. Angle the light toward the tree. But you'll get the most satisfaction out of your tree-lighting project by using your imagination, and experimenting until you get the results you want. Want to learn more about tree and garden lighting. Write for "Light Makes a Difference... Outdoors". ### Is peroxide needed to color unwanted gray hair?

Hair care and beauty experts know that the first traces of gray hair—and even slight fading of natural color after chemical retouching—can dull a woman's appearance and make her look older than she feels. While most women hate these premature aging effects, many are hesitant about using permanent peroxide haircoloring which may change the natural hair color while coloring gray.

Professionally-trained hairdressers know the importance of their customers' preferences when unwanted gray becomes a problem. These experts also know that Clairol created semi-permanent Loving Care® hair color lotion without peroxide... to color only the gray without changing the natural shade. They also find Loving Care blends back color faded by chemical processing. Because of its mildness, Loving Care maintains healthy looking hair and lasts through a month of shampoos. Whatever a woman's reason for wanting Loving Care for her hair, she is always wise to consult a professional beautician. Hairdressers are equipped with a family of fine Clairol products and the training to promise each patron the loveliest and most personalized haircoloring effects every time she visits her salon. If you dislike gray, and want no peroxide, why not ask your beautician to glamorize it with Loving Care?

We made the college student's choice the college of our choice.

What do you do when you've got everything it takes to be a good college student except money? Put your dreams in your pocket and settle for something else? That was the question facing Bobby Hicks. His case came to our attention and we looked into it. He had all the qualifications: good grades, desire, and ambition. So we supplied the one thing he lacked. Money. Through a grant to Winston-Salem State University from the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Bobby was able to hold onto his dreams and make them a reality. The R. J. Reynolds grant provides scholarships each year to deserving students like Bobby. It also supplies funds to attract highly qualified faculty members to Winston-Salem State University and broaden the school's curriculum. This educational grant to aid the cause of Black students and teachers is only one example of our commitment to equal opportunities for all Americans. But it's one of which we're especially proud. Because we believe that, ultimately, education is the key to unlocking the shackles of poverty and bringing Black people into the picture of American prosperity. People have helped R. J. Reynolds by buying Winston, Salem and Doral cigarettes, My-T-Fine Desserts, Chun King Oriental Foods, Vermont Maid Syrups, College Inn Chicken and Tomato Products, Davis Baking Powder and our many other fine products. We're just returning the favor.

MARION JACKSON Views Sports of The World

GEORGIA AMATEUR BASEBALL LEAGUE

Matthew Bell is president of the newly-organized Georgia Amateur Baseball League. He is a go-getter that intends to do something about the vacuum created by the advent of Organized Ball in the South. Remember, there was the Georgia Amateur Baseball League, Inc., which produced such notables as Don Clendenon and Mack Jones. There were other illuminants that came out of this circuit which prospered when B. T. Harvet, Commissioner Emeritus of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference was at its helm!

I did not intend to become involved in this new circuit, but every now and then there is an "idle hour" Sunday. I was fat-happy in bed listening to the Atlanta Hawks, when James (Gabby) Kemp came by my house. "We are organizing a new league, and I want you to come by and get it off the ground. Of all the names he mentioned that were concerned were Matthew Bell and Frank Anthony. Let me say, of the two I knew Frank Anthony best. He was a frequent visitor to the Atlanta Daily World to see Alfred R. Johnson and James D. Heath. I knew him but I let it go at that. It never mattered, one way or other I could take it or leave it although we frequently talked about baseball, amateur, minor and the big time.

NOW I FIND MYSELF in Frank Anthony's new home out in DeKalb way, that is Decatur or precincts, thereby, I listened to them in their organization processes why they wanted to play again. No mention was made of big league aspirations making it to the top, but they had some kids who wanted to knock the ball around.

Most had been petitioned by youngsters who knew about ball, bat and glove and what the lat Branch Rickey said was the instinctive exhilaration of a slide, being caught off base, hitting into a forced play, or a double play for that matter. They know the major leaguers have the so-called expertise, the exact science, the perfectionist coaching, storied money support, and the organizational genius, but this was something they wanted to do on their own. When they play it is see-it-for-yourself.

Matthew Bell puts it well: "We will go to the Atlanta Braves later for support, but first, the erudite leader said, "We want to get this off the ground on our own." "We want the organization before we go crawling to the power structure for support. Eventually, we believe we will get some assistance from the Braves, but first we want a chance to get out on the diamond in our own right. Main thing in our mind is to play. Our abbreviated schedule between May, July and August can do nothing against a well financed, nationally-recognized and brilliant organized structure like the Braves, but some Saturdays and Sundays, we can play among ourselves. It is a one-day thing. I know we will attract a few fans and admissions are just out of order, but we'll play."

JOHN LEMON SUPPORTS this thesis, as vice president he is a brilliant, dynamic and enterprising supporter of Matthew Bell. May 3, 1970 the new league will be officially born. And will run a 12-week schedule through July 19. See what I tell you! The Georgia Amateur Baseball League isn't competing against anyone. These are kids who want to play!

GET OFF BEATEN PATH. Every sports writer should sometime get off the so-called "beaten path." See if men are really building better mouse traps. Travel the byways and the highways, and go into the villages and hamlets. I frequently write, I am glad that I ride the bus into Atlanta. You are well-informed. Let me tell you why. In the 25-minute ride into Atlanta on the Center Hill line, conversationally the riders make we well hipped on what's going on. I go to bed very early but many of our citizens live where the action is happening after dark.

Shortstop A Happy Dodger At Age 37, Maury Wills' Goal Is 40 Stolen Bases

By MILTON RICHMAN

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — When Ty Cobb was 36 years old he stole nine bases. When Maury Wills was 36 he stole 40.

Maury Wills never hit .401 the way Ty Cobb did when he was 35 though and if you're wondering what the point of all this is it's simply this: WILLS 45 now 37; he's so happy to be back with the Los Angeles Dodgers he says he's going to steal as many as many bases this year as he did all last year, and what's more, he's beginning to sound like some of those beautiful golden-aged 110-year-olds you see in your local newspaper every so often, as if he's really never going to grow old.

"Oh I know I'm going to get old sometime, there's nobody I know who ever escaped it. I don't feel old though," Wills says. "MY LEGS are fine, nothing hurs, and I still think I can make all the plays at shortstop."

The Dodgers dealt Wills to the Pirates during the winter of 1966 and he spent two seasons with Pittsburgh plus part of another with Montreal last year before coming

SPORTS BRIEFS

FRED COX of the Minnesota Vikings kicked the most field goals and had the highest percentage among place kickers in the National Football League last season when he made 26 of 37 attempts for a 70% mark. Inside the 30 yard line, Bruce Gossett, now with San Francisco, was perfect on 15 attempts for Los Angeles; Cox was 14 for 14; Bob Eiler of Atlanta was 11-for-11 and Lou Michaels of Baltimore was 8-for-8. Sam Baker of Philadelphia had the longest average on successful three pointers, 31.3 yards for 16.

ABOUT QUARTERBACKS: Minnesota's Gary Cozzo was No. 1 in the graduating class at the Dental school of the University of Tennessee last month. Oakland tight end Billy Cannon also received this DDS. Quote Roman Gabriel: "Three things make a quarterback — movies, going and teammates, and I've got all of them." "The New Orleans football fan is much like myself," says Billy Killemer. "We both are quick to react to a situation and we are emotional and want a winner. I walked on the field once and saw a banner inscribed Kilmer For Mayor. I thought it was a compliment. Then I realized the Mayor is only the person in New Orleans who is booed more than me."

Atlanta Chief's Coach Seen "Enthusiastic" As Play Nears

"We have no weaknesses at all, and I feel confident the team is capable of regaining the championship we lost last season," Atlanta Chiefs Coach Vic Rouse says, looking to the Chiefs 1970 opener Saturday night, April 11, in Tara Stadium against St. Louis.

"We still have some work to do," Rouse continued, "but once we have three or four games under our belts, we'll know just how far we really are. Right now, we look to have no weaknesses. "Looking back, I am pleased with the progress of the team at practice and the way our new players — Uriel, Art Welch and Sonny Carter — have worked into our system. "I see the first game (vs St. Louis on April 11) as being as hard as any. We beat the Stars badly last year, and they'll want to make sure we don't gain. Pride is involved. We've got the best record of any team in the league, and we'll try our best to live up to the record." Rouse thinks move into Clayton County's Tara Stadium is helping build enthusiasm for soccer in Atlanta.

I've been very interested to see how the people of Clayton County take to soccer," Rouse continued. "The enthusiasm thus far has been encouraging. Although the people in south Atlanta may not be as well versed in soccer as some of our other fans, over 4,000 of them turned out when we held a hopenhouse at Tara, showing their willingness to support us."

MIAMI (UPI)—Sam Robinson of California State at Long Beach, the Floridian number two draft pick, has signed with Miami for the 1970-71 American Basketball Association season.

Chicago Haunted By '69 Collapse NL's Cubs Concentrating On Flag Comeback In '70

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Leo Durocher, and all his Chicago Cubs for that matter, would just as soon every one stop talking about what happened in 1969 and instead concentrate on 1970.

"I honestly think we have a better team this year than last, at least right now," says Durocher, and that's as close as he will come to discussing the 1969 collapse.

DUROCHER MAY be right but a couple of rookies are going to have to make the club to give Leo the balance he is talking about. The youngsters he has in mind are first baseman Bob Skidmore and centerfielder Cleo James.

BANKS The Cubs, who won 92 games last year and finished second, eight games behind the New York Mets, are set in most positions except pitching, where Durocher figures five spots are open.

RANDY Hundley, the "iron man" catcher who worked in 451 games last year and hit 18 homers, can figure on playing about 30 less games this year. That leaves Randy Bobb, Bill Heath and Ken Rudolph battling for the number two job, which this year may mean something.

Durocher lists Ferguson Jenkins (21-15), Ken Holtzman (17-13) and Bill Hands

(20-14) as his "big three" starters and Phil Regan (12-6) and 17 saves and Ted Abernathy (4-3) and three saves as sure of work as relievers.

Then Durocher ticks off names such as George Deckert (10-10) at Tacoma; Jim Colburn (8-7) Tacoma; Pat Jacques (4-11) San Antonio; Jim Cosman (6-5) Indianapolis; Larry Gura (4-8) Tacoma; Ron Jones (0-4) Quincy and San Antonio; and Dave Lemonds, who lost his only start with the Cubs last year after posting a 9-7 record with three different minor league affiliates.

"IF NONE of these kids make it, and that's hard for me to envision," says Durocher, "I still have guys like Ken Johnson, who certainly knows how to pitch and Hank Aguirre. But you can almost bet I'll open the season with at least two of these kids."

That takes Durocher to his seasons with Ernie Banks at first, Don Kessinger at short and Ron Santo at third.

Durocher doesn't care to predict what kind of race there will be this year in the National League East.

outfield, which is set in left with Billy Williams and in right with Johnny Callison, but has a big hole in center. Leo hopes to fill it with James but if the kid doesn't make it, then it will be a scramble between Jim Hickman, Willie Smith, Al Spangler, Jimmie Hall and another rookie, Boots Day, for regular work.

THE CHICAGO infield is set and will line up the same way it has the past five

Georgia Amateur Baseball League Seeks New Members

A newly-formed Georgia Amateur Baseball League is inviting all metropolitan Atlanta and area teams to become a member of the newly-organized circuit. The next official meeting is at the home of Earle Brown, 238 Rosser Street. Prospective members can reach Mr. Brown via telephone at 758-6220. Meeting time is set for 7 p.m.

This Saturday will be the last date for new teams to register for the 1970 season. The Georgia Amateur Baseball League is a non-profit organization operating within the framework of the National Baseball Congress. Each team is trying to sponsor and field a pony league club.

Each member team needs funds, equipment and donations if the circuit is to be a meaningful experience for the youngsters who will participate in this campaign. All donations and cost of equipment are deductible as legitimate expense under existing tax laws. Matthew Bell, president of the league, has adopted the philosophy that "it is better to build boys than to mend men." Please send all contributions to the secretary Earle Brown, 238 Rosser St., S.W. All Pony League sponsors seeking professional and instructional assistance, call James (Gabby) Kemp, 622-6547 or come by 321 Thornton Street.

All baseball players interested in a professional career, register with Coach Kemp's Baseball School located at 321 Thornton or call 622-6547. The Georgia Amateur Baseball League's objectives are "sportsmanship," physical fitness for youths and adults, establishment of amity, accord, goodwill between the athletic-conscious all walks of life, and to develop all participants mentally and spiritually.

Albany State Lists Five On "Outstanding Athletes"

ALBANY Ga. — Five Albany State College athletes have been named Outstanding College Athletes of America.

Regional Forbes Athletes of America. Regional Forbes, Jr. Tangierine, Fla.; High Hicks, Eustis, Fla.; Stanley Fritchett, Atlanta, Ga.; Sylvester Bling, Augusta, Ga.; and Willie Dixon of Tallahassee, Fla. were Ram athletes who will be honored in the 1970 volume of outstanding athletes of America. They were nominated earlier this year on the basis of their achievements.

Their selections were announced here by Albany State College's Sports Information director, John Holley, following the notification of their nomination by J. Carroll Watson.

John Putman, one of the 1966 Ten Outstanding Young Men of America awarding winners and president of the Foundation said the purpose of OUTSTANDING COLLEGE ATHLETES OF AMERICA is to recognize and encourage the all-around abilities of the young people who have distinguished themselves in the sports competitions of their colleges. "These young people carry the mantle of their state and their nation each time they participate in competitive sports."

Dixon, the only senior in the quintet named, was an All American football player and recently signed a pro contract with the Buffalo Bills. The Tallahassee, Fla., native is majoring in business administration.

Bling and Fritchett are both juniors, while Forbes and Hicks are sophomores.

Bling a business administration major, is approaching the College's all-time career pass receiving mark. During the past season, he grabbed 31 catches for 397 yards and two touchdowns. Fritchett, a tight end, broke into the Rams' starting lineup this past season and responded with 14 catches. He is a health and physical education major. Forbes and Hicks, both football players also, are aspirants of Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society. Forbes, a sophomore majoring in business administration, is a Dean's List scholar and considered one of the College's outstanding defensive linemen, while Hicks, an honor student majoring in health and physical education is a fleet defensive back on the Rams' grid squad.

OUTSTANDING COLLEGE ATHLETES OF AMERICA is an annual awards volume featuring biographical and approximately 5,000 young athletes who have proven themselves outstanding in sports, campus activities and curriculum.

B-CC Safety Signs

Bethune-Cookman College safety Alvin Wyatt agreed to an estimated $60,000 pact with the Oakland Raiders Professional Football team. The terms or length of the contract were not revealed. Wyatt is in Oakland attending a special Raider Rookie training session scheduled to end in about a week.

The Matthew Gilbert High School graduate was named to four all conference teams; two All American (Pittsburgh Courier and Kodak); received third place votes for the top senior football player in the state of Florida, voted by Sports Editors from Florida daily newspapers and received a personal letter from his Governor of Florida for his outstanding feats on the grid-iron. Wyatt holds the school record for the longest punt return (84 yards.) In four seasons (seen games schedule), he returned punts for 1760 yards, kick-offs for 1453 yards, made 129 unassisted tackles and 213 assists. The versatile athlete can kick, kick field goals and can punt up to 40 yards with either foot. He has been clocked in the 100 at 8.6 and the 40 yard dash at 4.3.

cast the annual "America's Junior Miss Pageant" in Mobile, Alabama. Jimmie Rodgers is scheduled to be the host of this program. JACKIE GLEASON has lost over sixty pounds by his own special diet and we must admit that he needed to do just that. We understand that he doesn't advise others to use his method of losing weight as it might not do the same for them as it has for him.

NBA Franchises Georgia Amateur Baseball League

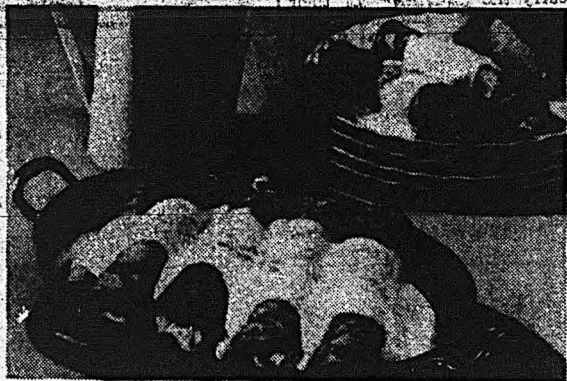

WICHITA, Kan. — The National Baseball Congress announced the franchising of the Georgia Amateur League, consisting of seven teams, in its 1970 National Association. Members include the Joyland Colts, Stockbridge Braves, Adele Park Athletics and four entries from Atlanta. Matthew Bell is league president and Earl Brown, secretary. Both reside in Atlanta. This is one of a network of leagues being franchised by the Congress throughout Georgia with teams comprised of players of unlimited age, highlighted by the 35th annual state tournament at Atlanta starting July 12.

WATCH HOW YOU HANDLE THAT BIRD

Your guest can't help wonder how you handled the bird when you serve them Chicken Bigarade--delicious golden brown chicken smothered in an orange-flavored sauce.

Crab-Avocado Luncheon Crepes

Join ranks with celebrated hostesses when serving delectable, but simple Crab-Avocado Luncheon Crepes. Rich crab-meat and pulpy avocado combine with delicate crepes to spell simplicity and convenience on the luncheon day. Crepes can be frozen, so you can make them well in advance and thaw when needed. Prepare the crab-avocado mixture the day before; store in the refrigerator. Then, shortly before the guests are due, fill each crepe. Place under the broiler about 5 minutes before serving. Convenience comes in the bag of self-rising flour. The miller has preblended leavening and salt in exact proportion for perfect results everytime. And enriched self-rising flour means a nutritional bonus — three essential B-vitamins, thiamine, ni-cin and riboflavin, plus the minerals, iron and calcium, are added to help keep your family and guests in good health.

CRAB-AVOCADO LUNCHEON CREPES

12 filled crepes
 1 egg, beaten
 1 cup milk
 1 tablespoon oil
 ¼ cup enriched self-rising flour*
 Butter
 Crab-Avocado Filling
 2 teaspoons grated Parmesan cheese
 Beat together egg, milk and oil. Gradually blend in flour, beating until smooth. Melt butter in preheated 6-inch skillet. For each crepe pour 2 tablespoons batter into pan and rotate quickly so batter covers bottom. Cook over medium heat about 1 minute on each side. Place 1 tablespoon Crab-Avocado Filling on each crepe. Roll crepe around filling and place, seam side down, in 6½x10-inch baking dish. Pour remaining sour cream sauce over crepes; sprinkle with cheese. Place under preheated broiler until sauce is bubbly and cheese browned, about 5 minutes.

Crab-Avocado Filling:
 1 avocado, peeled and cubed
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 2 packages (6 oz. each) frozen crabmeat, thawed, drained and flaked
 1 cup sour cream
 2 tablespoons milk
 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
 1 teaspoon onion juice
 1 teaspoon dry, minced onion
 ½ teaspoon seasoned salt
 Lightly toss together avocado and lemon juice. Stir in crabmeat. Blend together remaining ingredients. Stir 3 tablespoonsful into crab mixture; reserve remaining sauce for top of crepes. *Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

Low Calorie Chive-Cheese Mold

Most weight-watchers are on familiar terms with cottage cheese. It satisfies hunger pangs, yet is low in calories and high in protein. Therefore, it is always delightful to discover new and delicious ways to serve cottage cheese that will please dieters and yet satisfy hearty appetites. Chive-cottage cheese is an exciting taste experience. When combined with either cooked or raw vegetables and gelatin, and made into a shimmering, colorful mold, it is a perfect luncheon dish. Rolls made from frozen ready-to-bake bread may be included. Bake according to package directions. Rich in vitamins and minerals, chive cottage cheese may be used as a substitute for other proteins, or in addition to them, for a high-protein meal.

CHIVE COTTAGE CHEESE VEGETABLE MOLD

1 pkg. (3 oz.) lime gelatin
 1 pkg. (3 oz.) lemon gelatin
 3 cups boiling water
 ¼ cup vinegar
 1 pint (2 cups) chive cottage cheese
 ½ cup cold water
 ½ cup sliced celery
 ¼ cup sliced radishes
 ¼ cup chopped cucumber
 ¼ cup sliced avocado
 1 cup chopped lettuce
 Mix lime and lemon gelatin in large bowl. Add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add vinegar. Cool ¾ cup of gelatin mixture until it mounds on spoon. Stir in chive cottage cheese. Place in 6 cup mold. Add cold water to remaining gelatin mixture. Cool until mixture mounds on spoon. Stir in celery, radishes, cucumber, avocado, and lettuce. Place in mold over cottage cheese layer. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce lined plate. Serves eight. Makes 6 cups. Vegetables can be varied but must equal 3 cups.

Entertain Economically With A . . .

Sunday Morning Breakfast

Sunday morning offers an opportunity to entertain economically and with very little effort. The unhurried feeling about this particular morning brings forth a desire for relaxation.

You will probably decide to serve breakfast around noon, thus combining two meals in one. Your party may be large or small, elaborate or simple; but, no matter which, it should be fun. Everything should be so well organized that neither you nor your guest are compelled to dash around at the last minute.

In everything, there is a key to efficiency; a short cut to success. One of the secrets to a successful party is service. Trays have solved this problem for me. By using trays, the food may be served from the buffet or right from the kitchen stove with little effort and everyone receives his food while it is still hot. These trays should be of lightweight composition, arranged attractively, and need not involve any great expense.

Serve Food You Can Handle

The food you serve for your breakfast is a matter of choice. If you have favorite menus and recipes, stick to them. There is nothing wrong with that idea as long as you add a touch of originality to the perfection of the cooking. If you feel like being adventuresome, try one of the featured menus or try combining some foods from each of the menus. Whatever you do, make Sunday morning a festive occasion—something to look forward to during the week.

MENU

Pink Dreams
 Julienne Potatoes Fried with Bacon
 Scrambled Eggs
 Plain Muffins
 Apricot Jam
PINK DREAMS

Combine cranberry juice and fresh orange juice in equal proportions.

SCRAMBLED EGGS

Beat 6 eggs with 6 tablespoons of cream or evaporated milk. Season with salt and pepper. Melt 3 tablespoons of butter in a skillet over a slow fire. Add 1 tablespoon of grated onions to the butter. When the butter has melted, pour in the eggs and cook over a slow fire, stirring gently as the eggs cook. When the eggs are creamy, remove them from the pan and serve on thin slices of toast spread with anchovy paste thinned with mayonnaise. These eggs may be cooked in a buttered double boiler, if you prefer.

APRICOT JAM

Wash 1 pound of dried apricots and soak in 6 cups of water overnight. In the morning, add 3 pounds of sugar and 4 tablespoons of lemon juice to the apricots and the water in which they were soaked. Boil for about 2 hours, skimming off the foam as it rises. One-half hour before it is finished cooking, add ½ cup of slivered almonds. Pour in sterilized jelly glasses or jars and seal.

English Muffin Bread

A familiar sound in the streets of Edwardian England was the cry of the muffin man, offering his fresh wares to one and all. English muffins, those corn-meal dusted, yeast-leavened breads, have gone west across the Atlantic to reign as modern day favorites in this country. A simple way to bring the special home-baked flavor to your breakfast table is by making English Muffin Bread. No need to set aside extra time for kneading or shaping. The tender, golden loaves are batter breads, baked in coffee cans. Enriched self-rising flour saves measuring and mixing steps. Salt and leavening have already been added by the miller.

Serve English Muffin Bread sliced and toasted — spread with marmalade, or topped with your favorite creamed food, or as the perfect companion to a hearty bowl of soup. However you eat it, English Muffin Bread is healthy as well as tasty. Enriched self-rising flour contains three essential B-vitamins, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin, plus the minerals, iron and calcium — all necessary for sound nutrition.

ENGLISH MUFFIN BREAD

3 to 4 cups enriched self-rising flour*
 2 packages dry yeast
 ¼ cup sugar
 1½ cups hot tap water
 ½ cup oil
 2 eggs
 Corn Meal

Combine 1½ cups flour, yeast and sugar. Add hot tap water (115 to 120°); mix until dry ingredients are moistened. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer or 300 strokes by hand. Blend in oil and eggs. Stir in more flour to make a stiff batter. Beat until batter is smooth and elastic, about 1 minute on medium speed or 150 strokes by hand. Cover and let rise in warm place (80 to 85°) until light and bubbly, about 1 hour. Stir down. Divide into 3 greased and corn meal-dusted 1 pound coffee cans. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 30 minutes. Bake in preheated 375° oven 15 to 20 minutes, or until done. Let cool completely in coffee cans. Invert and shake to remove loaves. To serve slice and toast.

*Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

Whipped Potato-Spinach Puff

(Makes 6 to 8 servings)
 6 tablespoons grated 100% Parmesan cheese
 1½ to 1¾ cups (1 section of 5½-oz. pkg.) Borden Instant Whipped Potatoes
 1 tablespoon minced shallots or green onion
 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
 4 eggs, separated
 1 (10-oz.) package frozen chopped spinach, cooked, drained
 1 teaspoon salt
 ½ teaspoon pepper

Butter 1½-quart souffle dish; sprinkle with 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Prepare potatoes according to package directions. In small-size skillet, heat shallots in butter over low heat, until lightly browned. Remove from heat. Add egg yolks, singly, to potatoes; beat well after each addition. Stir in shallots, spinach, salt and pepper. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Stir one quarter of beaten egg whites and 3 tablespoons Parmesan cheese into spinach-potato mixture. Fold in remaining egg whites; turn mixture into prepared dish. Sprinkle remaining one tablespoon Parmesan cheese over top. Bake in preheated hot (400°F.) oven for 5 minutes. Reduce heat to 375°F.; bake 40 to 50 minutes.

Sunday School Lesson

GLIMPSES OF THE EARLY CHURCH

Memory Selection: "We are the witnesses of these things and so is also the Holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey Him." (Act 5:32)

The over-reaching air of this lesson is to lead members to recognize, in their studies of the early Church, the obstacles it overcame, and the selfless and fervent dedication of its members and inspiration to be applied in the present time.

What is our conception of a church? Is it the House of God, to be in once a week a place to dutifully give thanks for our blessings, ask absolution from sin — and then to go about our daily lives until next Sunday rolls around?

To those who feel that this is the case, we have only to say: "Study this lesson carefully, and grow from it!"

The early church was born in a time of turmoil and dispersion. From this period in the church's history came many martyrs — men who stood fast by their beliefs — even to the point of laying down their lives for those same beliefs.

How many of us today would do the same?

The early church spanned into being with both vigor and aggressiveness. But the vigor and aggressiveness were man-activated! The presence of Christ was an inspiration and a goal, a challenge to the soul of mankind!

In the beginning the concepts of Christianity were considered to be applicable only to God's own chosen people. But, through the life of Christ, these concepts were discarded and the precepts of Christianity for ALL people were gradually accepted. The church was out-reaching. Jews and Gentiles alike shared a common life in Christ, in God, and in the promised life everlasting.

There is no doubt in our minds that the disciples faced a formidable task in being witnesses, in spreading the Word. Radical beliefs were not popular at that time — and Christ, in His day and time, was definitely a radical! Yet man is constrained to find something beyond his belief in himself, in which to put his faith — on which to lean. Such is human nature!

The stress, if we study our lesson astutely, is laid on the fact that the disciples (and here we speak not only of the Twelve, but of all those disciples of Christianity) experienced a oneness of spirit, and of purpose. They shared a common experience, participated in a common zeal. They witnessed, and they worshipped. They recognized the fact that one is negated by the absence of the other.

The requirements for a strong church have not changed today, although everything else has — the times in which we live, the circumstances under which we labor.

The church must experience a sense of "oneness," such as the early church experienced, if it is to be truly effective in its continuing witnessing for Christ. And the measure of its success is, primarily, dependent upon each individual member of the church.

The early church came into being in times of persecution and disbelief. Today it is no longer persecuted, it is no longer unbelieved. But it needs to GROW. And it can only grow, it can only reach new people, through the dedication and commitment of its members.

How effective a witness are YOU?

Questions And Answers On Fair Labor Standards Act

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. I work as a clerk for a large consulting firm and often have to work on Saturday. Isn't my employer required to pay me overtime for Saturday work?

A. Not unless you worked more than 40 hours that week. The law requires overtime pay after 40 hours in the workweek and does not require overtime pay for Saturday, Sunday, or holiday work as such.

Q. I recently opened an advertising firm. Do I have to pay overtime to my executive and sales employees?

A. The law exempts from the minimum wage and overtime provisions bona fide executive, administrative, professional and outside sales employees who meet the standards spelled out in the Wage Hour Division regulations. Contact your nearest Wage and Hour Office for a copy of the regulations.

Q. I would like to hire a couple of students to work part time for my drugstore which is subject to the Fair Labor Standards Act. Do I have to pay them the minimum wage?

A. You can pay them a lower wage if you receive a special lower minimum wage certificate issued by the Wage and Hour Division. These certificates are issued for handicapped workers, student learners, and full-time students employed in retail or service establishments, or on farms, under certain conditions.

CHURCH NEWS

Prospect United Methodist Church
1297 Guasco Road
Reverend H. H. Jones,
Minister

At the 11 A.M. worship April 5, the Reverend Jones used as his meditation, "All Things Are Possible With God". He mentioned that God has a mission for all of his people. We need to realize more and more the presence of God. Faith is strengthened with this realization. Faith does not mature without testing. God is always standing by to help. God has a purpose for every life and soul. Beautiful and appropriate music was given by the choir with Mrs. Bernice Heard at the piano and directing.

At 3 P.M. The Children's Choir of the Memphis District was presented in concert under the direction of Mr. Paul Hicks. Dr. Roy Williams of First United Methodist Church preached to a large and eager congregation. The next appearance of the Children's Choir will be April 19 at St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

delegates — is "toward achieving goals not yet realized."

"These goals include peace and justice, freedom and dignity for all persons, and are, of course, concerns which we in our Association face also. Miss Neal pointed out, Miss Neal will also be attending the National Conference of Black Women of the YWCA, April 10, 11 also in Houston. The conference will develop strategies by which women may become more deeply involved in the life of the YWCA.

The convention will open on Monday afternoon, April 13, with the Reverend Andrew J. Young as keynote National YWCA Week is that time of the year when the Association concentrates on bringing its story to a wider audience. Members are women and girls 12 and over, and represent all economic, racial, occupational, religious and cultural groups.
