 the Memphis area poor a greater voice in society's approach to cure its evils. Since Memphis has the highest poverty rate in Tennessee and the third highest of comparable size city in the United States, I feel we deserve this louder voice in Mr. Butler, said.
 The national organization which is based in Washington, D.C., is composed of professional and poor individuals and agencies who share a concern for community development and human resources programs. It provides a mechanism whereby agencies and individuals receive information, development programs and policies, and receive assistance in carrying out their responsibilities.
 Mr. Butler, who lives at 1011 Esplanade Place with his wife and two sons, joined WOPC as its director in 1966, and subsequently served as a part-time instructor in political science at LeMoyné-Owen College and Memphis State University.

Black Candidate Files Suit On Vote Count

UPI — A candidate making his bid to become LaGrange's first black city councilman filed suit Monday, challenging the results of the election he lost by 14 votes.
 Democratic candidate Gignea Robertson entered the legal action at the LaGrange City Court and named Elections Supt. Virgin Dickinson as defendant.
 Robertson charged in his suit the election last Wednesday was improperly conducted and that 56 contested ballots should have been thrown out rather than counted.
 When the results first were announced, it appeared Robertson had defeated Republican candidate Joe Daugherty by a slim, four-vote margin.
 But then election officials ruled the 56 votes should be counted, turning the results around to give Daugherty the victory.
 Twenty-one contested ballots were ignored, but officials ruled the intent of the voters was clean enough on the 56 to allow their entry into the tabulation.
 The defeat was the second for Robertson in his attempt to gain a council seat. In 1966 he lost a council race by fewer than 100 votes.
 The two men were seeking the seat vacated by the death of Councilman G. L. Wood earlier this year.

Dr. Frazier

 physician and professor of Pathology was held. Paying tributes were Dr. Lloyd C. Egan, president, Meharry Medical College and Dr. Robert Dawson, national president, Meharry Alumni Association.
 Dr. Frazier was born March 16, 1927, in Greensboro, N.C., the only child of Harry and Cleo Galloway Frazier. He received his early education in the public schools of Greensboro, and the B.S. degree at Howard University. He was honorably discharged from the United States Air Force in March, 1953. Having completed his internship at George W. Hubbard Hospital in Nashville, Dr. Frazier did his residency in Pathology at the University of Chicago as an American Cancer Society Clinical Trainee post doctoral fellow in the department of pathology for three years.
