

MENTAL TEST FOR SLAYER OF FIVE!

Criminal Court Judge Odell Horton has ordered physicians at the Shelby County jail to give 25-year-old Travis Chavis a preliminary mental examination looking toward a full psychiatric evaluation at Central State Hospital in Nashville.

Chavis, who shot and killed his estranged wife and four other persons here April 13, may be sent to Central State Hospital for a psychiatric examination.

Chavis shot himself in the forehead after killing his 22-year-old wife, two of his children, another woman and her child. He also wounded another child.

Chavis, who worked at a chemical plant in Elkhart, Ind., appeared last week to have recovered. An assistant public defender reserved plea in Chavis behalf pending the outcome of the psychiatric tests.

All of the victims were shot at close range at the home of Mrs. Eugenia Bohlen, 33, of 936 Grove Street address where he attempted a reconciliation. When this failed, he apparently went berserk and opened fire.

Alan Steelman, right, Director of the National Advisory Council on Minority Business Enterprise, announced the appointment of Joyce Gates Mitchell of Memphis as a research associate to the Advisory Council. This group of more than 60 prominent Americans of varying racial, ethnic and economic backgrounds appointed by President Nixon, is constructing a national blueprint to secure major public and private sector commitments to develop minority enterprise.

Fords Sue Innkeeper

Harold Ford, John Ford and Augustus Odom have filed a $150,000 damage suit in federal district court against Holiday Inn, Inc., the Rivermont, its innkeeper, an assistant manager and a security officer.

The Ford are sons of N. J. Ford, owner of N. J. Ford & Sons Funeral Parlor.

The suit charges the three men were evicted from the Holiday Inn-Rivermont May of last year during a birthday party.

The Fords and Odom say the defendants conspired to deny them their civil rights and caused them embarrassment and humiliation.

The incident took place in a room rented by Harold Ford for the birthday party. The three men said they and their guests were cursed and abused by the defendants.

Inside Memphis

LANE'S NEW PRESIDENT—A source close to the CME Church scene in Memphis says newly elected Bishop A. C. Kirkendoll will be succeeded as president of Lane College in Jackson by L. H. Pitts, president of Miles College in Birmingham.

BLACK ANNOUNCER — Rick Taylor, a former newsmen for WDAI, is now newscasting for WMPF.

MAKING GOOD — Meanwhile, another black newsmen, youthful Hank Lockhart, is doing a bang-up job for Channel 3 (WREC).

HFP IN D. C. — Dr. Hollis F. Price of LeMoyne-Owen College was among presidents of black college attending a White House conference last week.

BETTER STEW — Washington Butler Jr., the executive director of the War on Poverty Committee, has a problem. He has tried to fire his deputy director, H. Dix Archer, on two occasions but was blocked each time by the WOPC executive committee. Apparently, MR. Archer has more strength than Mr. Butler figured.

CATCH — The May 1, Federal Court order outlawing school transfer for racial reasons in Memphis that students will not be permitted to transfer from school districts where they are in the racial majority to school where they would be in the racial majority. But it does not say that students cannot transfer from school districts where they are in the racial majority to schools where they would be in the racial minority.

READY TO RUN — Criminal Court Judge Odell Horton has filed qualifying petitions for a campaign for his first elected term in division 4 of the court, and J. O. Patterson Jr., state senator and city councilman, has qualified as a candidate for re-election as state senator in District 29 in the August Democratic primary.

MY WEEKLY SERMON
by
REV. BLAIR T. HUNT,
PASTOR.
MISSISSIPPI BVD. CHRISTIAN CHURCH
MEMPHIS, TENN.

"WHAT NEXT"
TEXT:
"READ THE 12th CHAPTER OF ECCLESIASTES"

It is graduating season. Thousands of lads and lassies, young men and women are receiving diplomas, degrees and awards. But what next?

Those last two words "What Next" (A big question) is the subject of this sermon. "What Next"

These graduates have had much fun, garnered some knowledge, some skill, some of this and some of that. But "What Next"

A great author, O. A. Newlin, who has passed to the great beyond but whose song-prose lingers to haunt us with its lilting melodies, tells us the following story:

An old man took a great interest in a hometown boy. He sent him through high school and college. Having received his degree, the young man returned to thank the old man for his benefactions. In the conversation, the old man said to the young man, "now what are your plans?"

The youth replied, "I am going to law school." "Fine we need good lawyers," said the old man. "What Next?" the lad said. "I am going to find a good location, practice my profession, and when I have established myself, I will marry the girl I love." "Fine," exclaimed the old man, "every man ought to marry the girls he loves but "What Next"

"I will expect to have children born in my home" said the young man and I see that they have a good education." "fine" said the old man again, "What is a home without children?" "What Next?"

"The young man replied, "I propose to save money so that my wife and I will travel in later years and see the world." Again came the old man's persistent question, "But, What Next?"

The young man spoke up again, "I will save up money so that in my old age my wife and I may sit on the western porch in quiet and contentment and await the ringing of the sunset bell."

"Fine," said the old man "It will be quite worthwhile to be able to live in such peace of mind as the sun goes down "What Next?"

The young man said "well I presume someday death will come in and my home will be broken up. The children will be called back to the funerals, and my wife and I will have our bodies borne out to "God's Acres" where we shall sleep the sleep of death."

"Yes," said the old man, "You will sleep the sleep of death but "What Next?"

"Oh" said the young man, "then I shall meet God and judgement." "Yes" said the old one, "God and judgement must be met, for it is appointed unto men once to die, and after this cometh judgement." "What Next?"

That is the question every graduate must answer. What Next? young graduate, "seek ye first the kingdom of God and "What Next" will be a step higher. There will be alight to guide your steps. That light is Jesus.

Violence, Vengeance On Jackson's Campus

AS FORT SUMTER WAS FIRED UPON SO WAS CAMPUS OF JACKSON COLLEGE.

Of the contagious pastime of violence on college campuses now going the rounds of vengeance and pent up racism, that one on the campus of Jackson State College in Mississippi seems to set the others at rest when it comes to excuseless murder and outright intimidation visited upon youth in the act of getting an education.

According to press reports, the campus is literally a stretch of blood.

Latest reports are to the effect that a barrage of police bullets fired into a woman's dormitory on the Jackson State College campus Friday, killed two persons and injured 15 others and touched off a bitter controversy over whether the bullets were triggered by snipers. Attorney General John N. Mitchell sent Justice Department investigators to the scene. Whether the student leaders will enter a law suit against the city remains to be seen.

Officials are attempting to assemble the full story of the ugly incident and anyway the things turn, it will record a "dark day" in the history of the city.

The pity of it is the fact that our youth are not permitted to pursue the course of education unmolested by gunfire, peril and panic, it is stated.

Aid From The Methodists

The United Methodist Church, meeting in St. Louis, recently voted to give $2,000,000 in 1971 and another $2,000,000 in 1972 to its commission on religion and race, to be used "in the service of minority peoples."

In addition, the church has undertaken a special fund drive in these years to raise another $4,000,000 to aid twelve black colleges supported by the church.

These two sums add up to an amount equaling about twenty per cent of the past annual budget of the church and are major steps to aid minority education. Some of the money will come from a reduction in spending on foreign missions, which seems highly appropriate.

In the past many U.S. churches have spent millions annually financing missionaries trying to convert Asians and Africans and others while many fellow Americans lived and worked under severe handicaps at home. Charity in this case has not always begun at home and the recent action of the United Methodist Church is logical and commendable.

Boys, Get A Paper Route

At this season of the year when the schools are closing and young fellows are ambling about for something to do in order that they may help themselves through the summer and make a little change for the school year, it would be well if they would look into taking up a newspaper route. Some of the nation's great men and presidents of the United States, started off carrying paper routes. Many college presidents and executives started out this way. Why not look into doing something that will lead to higher things and set in training for a life career.

In this city there are many paper routes open for the taking any youth of today would do well to look about and get in on a paper route.

Cambodian Result

One dividend of the President's decision to invade sanctuaries of the communists across the Cambodian border is the support it has provided the threatened anti-communist government at Phnompenh.

Though this aspect of the action was not initially admitted by either Washington or Saigon, the truth is that communist forces were attempting to surround and isolate the Cambodian capital when the attack on Cambodian communists began from South Vietnam. It should be remembered, in this connection, that the Cambodian capital is only about fifty miles from the South Vietnamese border.

One allied thrust into the sanctuaries was astride or near the main Saigon-Phnompenh highway. It is imperative that this highway, and that running southwest from Phnompenh to Cambodia's main seaport, be kept open. Even after the allied drive began it was reported that enemy forces were in control of a stretch of this highway only thirty miles from the Cambodian capital.

Thus the allied forces have been moving up very close behind these forces and though they won't go all the way to the Cambodian capital, their presence behind the backs of the enemy is significant. (The job of bolstering anti-communist government in Phnompenh has also included flying in 2,000 Cambodian soldiers who had been serving as mercenaries in the U.S. armed forces, well trained and armed with U.S. weapons.)

While only time will reveal the success of recent military operations, it can be said that the attack into Cambodia was a blow to communist forces hoping to overrun the Cambodian government or rout its forces and take the capital, as was the rapid flying-in of other troops to help the government defense.

One Of The True

In San Diego recently, a student named Bill Pierson, a senior at San Diego State, noticed the usual group of demonstrator-protestors lowering the American flag. The football star and ex-sailor didn't stand by doing nothing. He seized the cords and raised it again, defying the group to lower it.

As could be expected, none in the group had the courage to tangle with a determined, patriotic American, though he stood his ground alone for three hours. "I was born under that flag. I fought for it and I am going to college because of what it stands for," he told them.

The twenty-three year old from Arlington, Texas, was "overwhelmed" with the public response afterward. Telephone calls and telegrams poured in. Offers of financial help, if he needed it, were made. The American Legion cited him for meritorious service to his country. In short, the majority so often silent spoke out for true grit.

.....THEIR CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS

Not since the last shot was fired for democracy during the American Revolution has this nation come so dangerously close to the brink of waging an internal ideological war against the principals of democratic government. In other words this country flirts flagrantly with self-destruction.

One takes his life and well being into his own hands today on entering the arena of debate concerning the freedom of thought, freedom of assembly, freedom of the press and freedom of dissent.

In bygone days great debates dotted the pages of history of this nation. Today, one subject himself to great danger to even disagree with family members or close friends. It is rapidly getting to the place where one is accused of being a subversive to openly disagree with public elected officials--even minor ones. And to disagree with a high federal official is looked upon as something akin to anarchy.

Prime target for such vicious attack is the mass media which has been castigated brutally by several high federal officials who totally disregarded the philosophy and spirit inherent to the "freedom of speech." And ironically, these same vociferous public elected officials have employed the very medium they would put a damper on, to convey their message of protest...particularly the television medium.

Second only to the free press, the public officials vibrate tirades have been levelled at disenchanted college students and other dissident demonstrators who have been called "bums" and "rotten apples" by these high officials who act as though they are infallible. Such arrogant assumption has contributed to the festering breach between college students and elected officials.

Thus college students have contributed generously to the national unrest which blanket this nation. This is the general atmosphere which is very fertile grounds for the deepening of the chasm between the "now generation" and the "status quo keepers."

This pits parents against children; elected officials against the electorate; rich against poor, educated against uneducated; black against white, affluent against the disadvantaged; Jew against Gentile, Protestant against Catholic, labor against management; soldier against civilian and Republican against Democrat.

The above prevailing condition should be viewed with alarm because contemporary dictators have employed the "scare" and "distrust" tactics to divide a country before the great "take-over." They have been able to bring about the down-fall of a nation by first hogwallowing it with intra-group distrust -- after silencing a free press in a free society.

College students as well as other citizens of this country have a constitutional right to publicly disagree and disapprove the operation of this government and to be critical of public officials. They have a right to protest in the public marketplace. They have a right to march to demonstrate and they have a right to dissent from dictators.

And public officials who would attempt to bridge these rights are greater enemies to the philosophy of democracy than the dissenters. Herein lies the greatest difference between Democracy and Communism or any other dictatorial form of government.

Like that great French writer Voltaire once said: "I may disagree with what you are saying, but I defend you to the death of me, your right to say it." I say "let college students and other dissenters exercise their constitutional rights." ---(5-24-70)

Sunday School Lesson WOMAN TO WOMAN

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

MEMORY SELECTION: "This is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith the Lord: I will put my laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts; and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people." -- Hebrews 8:10

LESSON TEXT: Hebrews 8:1 to 10:18.

Our lesson for today points up the reasons for the writing of the Book of Hebrews, and at the same time endeavors to lead the reader to a new awareness of the blessings and responsibilities incumbent as a participant in God's new covenant.

Life changes inexorably; people change; circumstances change. And to meet the new challenges, changes must be made. That which remains adamant in the continually fluctuating flow of life eventually erodes and wears away, as a stone is worn smooth and eventually disintegrated by the constant flow of the tide.

Thus we find the old covenant being revised and regarded in a new light. Not that the old covenant between God and the Jewish people was in any way irrelevant or ineffectual. On the contrary, its concepts had led them out of bondage, to the Promised Land. God's care had shepherded them through many dangers and much hunger.

But before we condemn, we must ask ourselves this question: "How many of us, today, do the same thing -- commit the same sin? Faced with problems we cannot handle alone, we turn to God for help, promising that if we are seen through this or that particular trial or dilemma, we will do this and so -- only to return to our original careless attitude when the crisis is passed? Apathy is an ever-present danger.

The moral law contained in the Decalogue was a good question: In the journals, I came across such words as "black experience" and "black rage." What is the difference between these words? Mrs. H.L.

ANSWER: By black experience is meant all that the Negro experiences or feels or encounters day by day. It may be discrimination, segregation, or reduction to an inferiority feeling. It suggests the experience of poverty, ghetto living, inferior education, unemployment, etc.

NEW YORK (UPI) If you want to be a considerate cocktail party hostess, add some honey to several different canapés.

The honey contains fructose that contributes to the metabolism of alcohol says the doctor who recommends the addition to drinking party fare.

Dr. Donald J. Dalelessio advises that after an evening of heavy drinking, humans should have a slice of toast well spread with honey as a bedtime snack.

The head of the Division of Neurology at Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation, La Jolla, Calif., made the suggestion about honey in a report in the journal "Medical Opinion and Review."

IS SOCIAL DISEASE? "The Chemistry and Physiology of the Hangover."

"Many hangovers," he said, "prefer to treat themselves as a hangover is something of a social disease that usually provokes hostile jokes that bear the ego at a time when it is defenseless."

Dr. Dalelessio said that the standard morning after cocktail of tomato juice and varius added spices may be more sound than previously suspected by some scientific observers.

"Vegetable juices ingested during the hangover hours are helpful in hastening the metabolism of whatever alcohol remains to be metabolized," he said.

"VERY DANGEROUS" What about taking another drink the morning after to ease the hangover. The doctor mixes this habit, calling it "a very dangerous practice."

"Early morning drinking is a characteristic of those addicted to alcohol and is probably required to diminish withdrawal symptoms occurring after a night's rest," he said.

"Although alcohol provides a ready supply of calories and will elevate the blood glucose, other beverages, such as salty broth or vegetable juices, are just as effective and far less dangerous."

The trouble with a morning after "chase" drink, the doctor pointed, is that the first arising may represent a prelude to the more serious problem of alcoholism.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter as a personal appeal to you to help people of Oregon and Washington oppose the shipment of nerve gas from Okinawa.

Despite 200,000 signatures on petitions opposing this shipment, despite the objection of both Governors, Tom McCall and Dan Evans, and despite the warnings of many experts on the possible hazards involved, the army still insists on shipping the "surplus" gases through Washington for storage in Oregon.

We need your help and support in making these facts known to the American public for it is public opinion alone which can stop the shipment of nerve gas.

For any further information please contact us, Jean Campbell, Task Force on Nerve Gas College of Education University of Oregon Eugene, Oregon 97403.

Daybook of America 1770-1870-1970

No. 45 Old South Meeting House in Boston (three centuries old this year), St. John's Church at Richmond, and other churches were on occasion rallying places for the men who brought on the War of Independence. It was at inns, taverns, coffee-houses where James Otis, Josiah Quincy, Jr., Sam Adams, Paul Revere, Patrick Henry, George Washington, and fellow patriots in other Colonies most often met in effecting resistance to oppressive measures. A reader is reminded of this anew in Revolution and Constitution: A Fresh Look at American History, by G. Bruce Woodin (Sterling Publishing Co.).

Much of consequence took place at the Green Dragon Tavern in Boston, Raleigh Tavern in Williamsburg, Tun Tavern at Philadelphia, Burns' Coffee House and Frances Tavern, in New York, to identify a few between Maine and Georgia. The tavern or inn was the social hall, town forum, emergency hospital, mail dispatch station, and therefore fount of news and gossip, as well as recruiting office for seaman or soldier. (The U.S. Marine Corps was started at Tun Tavern.) The tavern-keeper knew everything going on in, or through, his vicinity.

Broad & Pearl Sts., New York, was the patriot center of agitation after magnetic Samuel Frances went back in 1770 to the tavern he had opened there in 1762, first as Masons' Arms, then as Quedn's Head. His attention was diverted in 1785 to a fashionable amusement center, Vauxhall Gardens, located in Broadway. After his return by popular demand the former mansion of a wealthy Huguenot, Etienne de Lancey, was known as Frances Tavern.

Philip Freneau, eventually to be hailed as "the Poet of the Revolution," was to lyricize "Black Sam" as host par excellence. His was rendezvous of Sons of Liberty, the stopping place of patriots passing between Boston, Philadelphia and the South. Born in the British West Indies of Negro-French parentage, there was no wavering in his loyalty to the American cause. After the War, both New York Legislature and U.S. Congress were to

THE CHANGING WORLD OF SPORTS

Dr. Royal W. Puryear, president of Florida Memorial College, one-time based in St. Augustine, is confronted with a major request by his dissident student body that the institution returns to varsity competition in football and major varsity sports. Florida Memorial College, now with a new plant in Miami, is indeed troubled. Dr. Charles L. Hayes, who succeeded Dr. Thomas Miller Jenkins, as president at Albany State College, was a classmate of Grambling State's Eddie Robinson at Leland College.

It may surprise you, but for four straight years prior to the administration of President Charles L. Hayes, the Black and Gold Rams did not have an athletic banquet. This time the event went on first-class with the co-operation of the Rams' Booster Club, the alumni and several athletic officials.

Venerable Eddie Robinson could not be in the candidacy of a brilliant career as head coach rivals the winning magic of such greats as A. S. (Jake) Gaither, who retired from coaching in '69, the majestic Henry A. Kean (Kentucky State and Tennessee State), the late Arnett W. Mumford (Southern University), the late Fred T. Long, (Texas College, Wiley and Prairie View), W. J. (Billy) Nicks, (Morris Brown and Prairie View), Edward F. Hurt (Morgan State), W. H. (Chief) Aiken, (Atlanta University), Clark Fisk and Hampton Institute), Sam Taylor (Clark, Prairie View, Virginia Union and Kentucky State), Mark Caldwell (West Virginia State), Randy Taylor (Kentucky State), the late Edward J. (Ox) Clemens (Edward Waters, Lane, Morris Brown, Jackson State) the late Henderson A. Johnson -- (Fisk University and agalaxy of others.

Now for the Record: - Eddie Robinson has spent all of his adult life at Grambling College directing the grid fortunes for some 29 years, since he first came out of Little Leland College, now defunct and merely a memory.

His greatest All-American Paul (Tank) Younger in the late forties' blazed the way for Negro acceptance in the then National Football League, as the first draftee from a predominantly small college, that is predominantly black. He met with instant success.

Now let me Tell you - So much water has gone under the dam since "Tank" Younger's trailblazing years which was indeed to blossom as a Golden Era of Competition.

Repeating the dramatics and dynamics of the pioneering years of the minority athlete in professional sports is not narrative in this piece. Yet no other small college coach enjoys the stature in America competition which Florida A&M University's retired Jake Gaither shares with Eddie Robinson, that is from a predominantly Negro institution.

Robinson's teams have won 180 games, lost 66 and tied 11. His teams have won or shared the Southwest Athletic Conference title four years in a row and have cavorted in Yankee Stadium, The Rose Bowl, the Astrodome, and the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Now considered one of the major attractions at some of the most prestigious coaching clinics in the country. Robie's success on the gridiron has made Grambling a sports by-word not only in this nation but throughout the world.

And ex-quarterback at Leland, he has largely used graduates from throughout Louisiana to build Tiger grid fortunes. Among his most outstanding students have been Ernie Ladd and Buck Buchanan (Kansas City Chiefs), Roosevelt Taylor and Clifton McNeil (49ers), Frank Cornish (Chicago Bears), Lane Howell (Eagles), Mike Howell of the (Browns), James Harris, (Buffalo Bills), and Willie Davis (Green Bay Packers).

The tiger mentor, who dertits his assistants as one of the main reasons for the Grambling successes, is a member of the NAIA Hall of Fame and vice-president of the NAIA.

Common Sense Boating Rules

Although recreational boating is governed by a minimum of written rules and regulations, every boatman should be thoroughly familiar with the unwritten or common sense rules of the sport. Here are a few which, according to the Evinrude News Service, are especially important.

Never overload a boat. Especially in smaller craft, the seating space provided is not necessarily an indication of the number of passengers the boat will safely carry.

Be sure your boat is equipped with legally required items as well as others that may prove helpful in an emergency. Life preservers, of course, are a "must." But don't forget things like extra line, anchor, paddle or oars, basic spare parts and tools and a first aid kit.

Take it easy when boating on unfamiliar waterways. Watch for shoals, submerged obstructions and signs. Try to get information in advance from someone who is familiar with the area.

Distribute the load evenly. Passengers should be seated so that the boat rides level. Proper placement of equipment will also help.

When boarding a small boat, step toward the center and not on the gunwale.

The four locations for the area track meets will be Grove Park for the northwest, Piedmont Park for the northeast, Pittman Park for southeast and Anderson for southwest Atlanta.

Registration for participation in the area track meets can be made at any recreation center. Deadline for registration is Friday, May 29.

The difference between Black and White is Green.

When you get right down to it, money is the great equalizer. And what makes the difference in earning power is education. At R. J. Reynolds, we see education as one of the solutions to the problems of Black Americans. Trouble is, most Black families can't afford to send their children to college. And we look on that as a waste of this country's most valuable resource.

That's why we made a grant of $390,000 to Winston-Salem State University. The R. J. Reynolds grant provides scholarships for Black students each year. It also supplies funds to attract highly qualified faculty members to Winston-Salem State University and broaden the school's curriculum. During the past decade, R. J. Reynolds has also supported The United Negro College Fund with grants of more than one quarter of a million dollars. These educational grants are just an example of what the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company is doing to aid in the struggle for equal opportunities for all Americans. But we think it's an especially important one. Because the next generation of Black people, armed with a college education, will have the "green power" that only education can give.

People have helped R. J. Reynolds by buying My-T-Fine Desserts, Chun King Oriental Foods, Vermont Maid Syrups, College Inn Chicken and Tomato Products, Davis Baking Powder, Winston, Salem, Camel and Doral cigarettes and our many other fine products. We're just returning the favor.

Seventy-five persons representative of the WOPC staff, delegate agencies area councils, board of directors, and Head Start centers set the priorities at a two and one-half hour public planning meeting Thursday night, May 21.

The results indicated that five areas needed additional consideration from the agency. These five areas are unemployment, underemployment, malnutrition, substandard housing, and Early Childhood Development.
