NAACP IS STILL HOPING TO BLOCK CONSTRUCTION OF SCHOOL ON OLD OWEN SITE!

Memphis branch of the NAACP is not giving up in its fight to block construction of a junior high school on a site that once served as a campus for Owen Junior college.

The NAACP argues that the proposed junior high school would do little to assist integration in the school system since the surrounding area is almost totally occupied by Negro families.

The NAACP lost the first round of this battle last week when U. S. District Judge Robert M. McRae Jr. turned down the local civil rights organization's request which sought an injunction halting construction activities on the Old Owen site and other schools until the appellate court or the U. S. Supreme Court issues its findings in the Memphis schools desegregation case.

The NAACP contended that activities aimed at construction of the planned school at Orleans and Vance are in violation of Judge McRae's order handed down in the suit May 1.

At that time, the judge ruled that plans for future school construction must be cleared through the court. He explained last week that his May 1 order excluded projects already under way at the time of the ruling.

After LeMoyné College and Owen Junior College merged two years ago and became Le Moyné-Owen College at 807 Walker, the City Board of Education leased the old Owen site from LeMoyné-Owen for its community leaning lab. The Board purchased the site from LeMoyné-Owen this year.

Louis Lucas of the law firm of Ratner, Sugarman and Lucas, legal-defense attorneys for the NAACP, said last week's ruling will be appealed to the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati in hopes of temporarily blocking the school project.

The junior high school would be a stone's throw from Locke Elementary School and would be near Georgia Avenue and Leath elementary schools, Porter Junior High and Booker T. Washington High.

It was pointed out that Porter is overloaded with students flowing in from Georgia Avenue, Locke and Leath.

World Readers To Participate In Security Poll

The Atlanta Daily World, along with several other newspapers in the nation, has been invited to join in conducting a national security issues poll for the 18,000 member National Advisory Board of the American Security Council.

The poll is being conducted in the belief that national security issues will dominate the news, and will undoubtedly be the decisive element in many of the 1970 races for the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives," John M. Fisher, an American Security Council official declared.

Mr. Fisher said many papers "have volunteered to do straw poll on the selected issues. We are now accepting these offers and have prepared" a questionnaire "as a sample of how this might be done."

The poll results of each paper will be combined and sent back to individual publications as complete totals of national thinking.

The Atlanta Daily World's opinion poll will be conducted with a questionnaire that appears on page four of this paper.

Please indicate your answers and send the questionnaire to the Atlanta Daily World.

Suit To Desegregate Miss. Highway Patrol In The Making

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Civil rights attorneys are threatening to bring suit to integrate the all-white Mississippi Highway Patrol—the group which was involved in the fatal shooting of two colored youths at Jackson State College last May. A spokesman for the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights under Law said Tuesday the suit would be filed in U.S. District Court at Jackson later this month, or in early August. The action likely will be brought in behalf of Willie L. Morrow and Jerome Mangum, two blacks who have tried, without success, to get jobs with the 350-man police agency.

Both men said they would apply again in September but Mangum is pessimistic. "I know what's going to happen," he said. "We're going to go back in September and they're going to say 'Who are you? We've already hired everybody we need.'"

The two said they have no criminal records nor anything in their past which might disqualify them for the patrol. Parker said both have the "highest qualifications" and meet "all objective requirements" for patrol slots.

"We are going to bring action to desegregate the highway patrol," said civil rights attorney Frank Parker. "They (highway patrol officials) are guilty of employment discrimination in violation of the 14th Amendment." Public Safety Commissioner Giles Crisler, head of the patrol, would not comment on the agency's employment practices. Morrow is a 21-year-old junior college student fresh from a four-year hitch in the air force where he served as a military policeman. He liked the job and wants "a career with the highway patrol."

The 20-year-old Mangum is a student at Jackson State College and, like Morrow, is a resident of nearby Brandon. He said he decided to try to join the patrol after officers of the state law enforcement agency shot two black youths to death during disorders on the Jackson State campus in May. "I tell my friends that if black people join the patrol, maybe things will change a little," said Mangum.

Both believe they got the "run around" when they went to Mississippi Highway Patrol headquarters in June to apply for jobs. Morrow said he gained an appointment for an interview after some delay and then was told by the interviewing officer, "We just can't hire on the basis of an interview." "I asked him if he had any information or any brochures on the highway patrol and he said they didn't give out any brochures or any information," Morrow continued. "I just stood there in the door. He didn't even ask me to come in and sit down."

Next School Desegregation Set For North

WASHINGTON UPI—The Nixon Administration indicated for the first time Wednesday that it believes the next steps in school desegregation must be made in the North. Attorney General John N. Mitchell said he thinks "it will be necessary as time goes on for the courts to consider segregation caused by housing patterns." The administration has taken the position that it can only prosecute de jure segregation that which is imposed by state or local governments—because this is all the Supreme Court has banned. "There is obviously as much segregation in some areas of the North as there is in the South," Mitchell said on the NBC Today Show ON FOOD STAMPS.

The Auto Talks

Certain to affect most Americans is the outcome of contract negotiations recently opened by Ford and the United Auto Workers of America.

The union, under a new leader, is asking major increases and it's practically certain new car prices will be hiked as a result of increased costs.

Wage increases so sharp they fan the flames of inflation would be a blow to Nixon Administration efforts to check the excessive inflationary spiral. Such increases would also push the price of U.S. cars beyond the reach of more and more foreign buyers.

On the other hand, inflation in the last three years warns union negotiators that workers need a hefty raise as insurance against continuing inflation in the next three; it is also true that, generally speaking, the auto companies have realized nice profits in recent years.

The national interest would be best served, of course, by a settlement not overly inflationary—and achieved without resort to a strike. Between now and the second week in September negotiators on both sides should work toward that end, with the national interest one of their considerations.

A Boost To Colleges

The fact that Negro college graduates are an example of real democracy at work, has made the large and timely contribution by the Sears, Roebuck Foundation to the United Negro College Fund extremely important in the building of a greater future America.

And the comments of both Clark's President Vivian Henderson and Morris Brown chief executive John Middleton show intelligent appreciation for the help and interest of American business, along with an impressive persuasion for others to follow this lead.

The Sears Foundation donated $20,000 to UNCF, and A. O. Swift, Vice President of Sears, Roebuck and Company, presented the check to Dr. John Middleton, who heads the Atlanta UNCF drive.

This was $5,000 more than the company gave last year, and readily accepted by UNCF.

It was at this point that Dr. Vivian Henderson challenged other white business to support UNCF, as representative of "the real opportunity for the Negro to go to college," and as a test for democracy.

It's all true.

Standards are going up all over the country, and with the boost in population, there will be a near future in which only the best educated, the best prepared will get the jobs that thousands will be seeking.

Big business is wise in recognizing that many Negroes can fill these positions if properly educated; that their efforts will be like money in the bank in return via good, efficient work, and a stronger belief in Democracy, that will take away many of the reasons for protest, giving business and communities opportunity to grow.

We feel that Sears officials, along with other businesses that have invested in the future of black America, are wise and show the true American spirit. We congratulate them all.

All Drinking Harmful

Many who think medical science is a kill-joy about cigarette smoking are in for a further shock. Medical science appears to be establishing that all alcoholic drinking is harmful to the brain, liver, and heart.

Dr. Melvin Knisely has been a social drinker most of his 66 years. But he and two research assistants at the Medical College of South Carolina have recently established clinical proof that alcohol, even in small doses, damages the brain, liver and heart. "I hate to be a kill-joy and I know most people won't pay much attention to our report," Knisely said.

But he believes he has proven conclusively that drinking, either regular or occasional, causes the body's red blood cells, which supply the body's oxygen, to stick together in wads at the mouths of capillaries. Instead of passing through these tubes, feeding nerve cells, they are, in effect, dammed off. Nerve cells they would otherwise feed die.

It seems likely that this discovery will some day be looked back as a medical milestone. Dr. Knisely's credentials and research are beyond suspicion.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

U.S. Peace Plan—Success Possible—Pressure On Israel—Nasser's Acceptance—

Washington, D.C.—Washington has been working hard in recent weeks and months to have the U.S. peace plan accepted by both Arabs and Israelis and at last the chance of success is very good, for the first time.

The key was probably President Nixon's decision to await the announcement of new, large-scale military sales to Israel, though he authorized replacements and sales on a limited scale, and heavy pressure on Israel to accept the cease-fire. The Soviet Union's contribution was pressure on Egypt and President Nasser to accept a cease-fire.

The present climate could deteriorate again, so delicate are acceptances and so strong the passions. The governments of several Arab countries, for example, are not sure they can control guerrilla terror organizations operating within their borders—many of whom oppose the cease-fire.

In Israel many oppose the cease-fire as exposing Israel to a further buildup without security guarantees. Yet if peace is to be achieved in the area there must first be a truce.

The critical stage when negotiating begins seems most likely to be reached on the question of Israeli evacuation of Arab territory. The Israelis are highly reluctant to withdraw from Golan Heights (Syria) and Jerusalem. The Arabs insist the Israelis—in line with U.N. resolutions—withdraw from all territory occupied in the 1967 war.

The State Department has purposely been vague about the withdrawal, hoping that each side might give a bit in actual negotiations. But with both Arab and Israeli populations thoroughly impassioned, it's difficult for the governments to take an action which might be interpreted as a retreat or unnecessary concession.

Thus success in negotiations is by no means insured. On the other hand, the degree of success for the U.S. peace plan already achieved is considerable. President Nasser, it's reported, was told repeatedly in Moscow that a new confrontation in the Middle East was not now desirable.

It was more difficult for U.S. diplomats to persuade Israel to favor a cease-fire, because the Israelis feel their armed forces are now superior, especially the Israeli Air Force, to those of the enemy. The Israelis are also nervous about evacuating captured territory which is now, in effect, a buffer or protection zone between Israel and the Arabs.

This newspaper joins with the American Security Council in presenting an opportunity for citizens of this area to participate in a national poll of public sentiment on National Security Issues.

When results of this newspaper's part of the Poll have been tabulated, we'll publish them. We'll also send the results to the American Security Council which will combine them with what other participating newspapers and organizations have received and release the totals to President Nixon and the Congress.

Many newspaper readers seek opportunities to express their views on the vital defense and foreign policy issues confronting the nation. In the past, opportunities for expression have been largely limited to letters-to-the-editor and letters to members of Congress and other government officials.

This is the first time that newspapers and organizations across the country have cooperated in a National Security Issues straw poll.

This newspaper is pleased to have a chance to afford its readers an opportunity to register their opinions on basic national security issues confronting the nation. Participation in the poll will give readers a way of "telling it like it is" on

Peculiar Patents

Could you get a patent on an alarm clock that squirts cold water down a sleeper's neck? A man in Chicago did.

What about a balloon drawn through the sky by eagles? Or a stickpin made of candy, to be eaten after use? Or an automatic hat tipper for lazy gentlemen?

These, too, all won patents.

To the inventor's neighbors, such ideas might seem pretty silly. And our patent law does say that, for an idea to be patentable, it must be "useful."

However, in deciding what is useful, the law is very tolerant indeed. The law remembers (even if the neighbor's don't) that people laughed too at Alexander Graham Bell's first telephone, and at the Wright brothers' first airplane.

True, you cannot get a patent on something that has no use at all. For example, an inventor claiming to have created a "perpetual motion machine" was turned down on this ground. The ruling pointed out that the machine could not possibly work, because it was contrary to the laws of nature.

Nor can you patent a device which is useful only to do evil. Thus, a court rejected a patent for a method of faking the appearance of tobacco leaves for the purpose of making them look better than they really were.

The judge said: "Congress did not intend to extend protection to (inventions) which confer no other benefit upon the public than the opportunity of profiting by deception and fraud. The invention must be capable of some beneficial use as distinguished from a pernicious use."

But for most inventors, the test of usefulness can be passed without too much trouble. The law generally takes the same optimistic attitude that Benjamin Franklin once took when he was asked: "What is the use of this new invention?"

Franklin's reply was: "What is the use of a newborn child?"

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. B-4

LOUISIANA - Negroes To Stop Reign Of Terror

HOMER, La.—Black people plan to ask the U. S. Courts to help stop a reign of terror against them here and in nearby states. They have about 100,000 members and in many areas they are active in the state courts.

They say seven of them have been jailed this month and 14 more are in jail under bonds ranging up to $40,000. Charge—Police began invading black homes and arresting people wholesale.

It's been almost like war since March 25," said Paul Kidd, white attorney from Monroeville, La. "I've seen a lot of black people arrested and taken to the jail. The building is so old that it all started last September when a dairy bar was burned down. Black veterans back to the front line, they are not going to take any more of this."

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Figures published by the Senate Finance Committee show that one-fifth of the nation's population, or 24 million people—about 12 per cent of the total—would be eligible for assistance under the Nixon welfare reform program.

The committee staff's analysis of Nixon's controversial bill shows that 24 million people—about 12 per cent of the total—would be eligible for assistance under the Nixon welfare reform program.

Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare has come under criticism from the committee for his testimony on the Nixon proposal. Critics feel the reforms are too costly and too unlikely to induce recipients of government assistance to work, despite the bill's requirement that the able-bodied must sign up for jobs or job training.

The bill provides a minimum guaranteed income of $1,600 a year—$500 for each adult and $300 for each child—for a family of four plus $60 worth of food stamps in addition to subsidize health insurance and whatever amount the states choose to subsidize the federal allotment.

The radical departure in the administration proposal is its offer of aid for the "working poor"—those who work but earn such low wages they continue in poverty.

Richardson contends aid for the working poor is a
