Fans Turn Out In Gay Colors Big Game!

Tennessee State alumni in Memphis deserve a big hand especially the few who pelieved a Tennessee State-Kentucky State football game could be promoted success-fully in the Bluff City.

The gamble paid off last Saturday afternoon when a crowd estimated at between 16,000 and 20,000 packed Crump Stadium.

Actually, it was a social gathering, more like the big games on college and university campuses. The young and old grads turned out in gay and colorful attire, either because they wanted to be seen or because this was the sporting thing to do.

A few watched the game but most eyes were on the people in the stands.

The halftime show, featuring State's marching band and high-stepping majorettes, de-manded full attention from all of the fans. Many made the trip to the stadium just to witness this action.

It is almost certain now that alumni will sponsor a similar gridiron contest here next

Give Negro Holloman's Post-NAACP

The Memphis Branch NA ACP has called on Mayor Loeb to name a black person to succeed Frank C. Holloman as director of fire and police. This request is in line with the Association's "continuing concern for equitable black representation at all levels. of local government."

The NAACP letter to Mayor

Loeb reads:
"We have noticed the recent resignation of Fire and Police Director Frank C. Holloman whose official duties in that capacity will soon ter-minate. We feel that the vacancy that will be created offers an excellent and appropriate opportunity for the appointment of a black person to a key position in city government.

"At the beginning of your present term in office the Memphis Branch NAACP called upon you to make official appointments that would give racial balance in line with population ratio to various city agencies, commissions, committees, etc. We also requested the naming of black directors to head some of the departments of city government. Though one black person was named, as you know we presently have no black serving in such a capacity. "We therefore call on you to appoint a black person as director of the division of fire and police. Such an appointment would not only give the black citizenry token representation at this level of government, but the naming of a black person in this sensitive area which involves so many black citizens would certainly be helpful in solving one of our most critical community problems.

A letter threatening to cut off federal funds came from Roy E. Batchelor, regional director of OEO. The letter was sent to a special City Council-County Court committee appointed to explore possibilities of restructuring the local anti-poverty agency.

Members of the special committee are Squire Ed-mund Orgill, WOPC Chair-man J. C. Miller Councilman Lewis R. Donelson and the Rev. James Lawson Jr.

Social Security System Improvements Called For

WASHINGTON, - Social Se ing benefits designed for re-rity payments should be in tirees. The witness called for curity payments should be in creased five per cent and recipients allowed a more gen-erous income supplement with out jeopardizing their benefits the Chamber of Commerce of the United States said recent-increased benefits should be financed by a higher tax rate on the present wage based rather than relying on automatic escalation of the wage base as proposed, a Na tional Chamber spokesman said in testimony scheduled be fore the Senate Finance Committee. He urged Congress to retain its right to make period ic reviews of the program.

Appearing as the Chamber's witness on HR 17550, board-ranging legislation affecting many parts of the Social Security system, was Henry Chase of Houston, Tex., a mem ber of the Chamber's Social Security Committee.

The five per cent increase called for in the bill should be enacted. Mr. Chase asserted. since it is "anadvance action by Congress to offset an antici pated rise in the cost of living for beneficiaries.

To fund this increase, tax rates should be raised on the present $7,800 taxable wage ase, rather than increasing the base, Mr. Chase said. The present base is still $400 a-bove the median income of male workers and this base ought to be continued until such time as the median income ex ceeds this figure, now estimated for 1972, he added.

The bill's provisions peg-ging both benefits and taxes under the program to anauto-matic or escallator formula ought to be completely rejected, Mr. Chase continued. "It is difficult to visualize a more rapid meand of institutionalizing inflation," he asserted, "than turning over the future need for payments and finan cing to such arrangements."
It is essential that the judg ment of Congress be brough into play whenever changes of revisions are contemplated he said, noting that Congress, after deliberate review, has raised payments three times in the past five years.

"Much of the public support for this program is based on a belief that Congress careful ly considers proposals to re-vise or increase the taces that workers and employers must pay," Mr. Chase stated. "If future tax increases are to be effected without Congression al review, the confidence of both workers and employers in the program may be adver-sely affected."

Under present law, the maxi mum Social Security tax of $374 a year will rise to $460 by 1987, he said. Under the automatic feature, workers would be paying an estimated $780 in ten years, and eventu-ally $1,365 each year. The National Chamber wit-ness expressed support of the

The bill would raise this to 100%, and because of the taxfree status of such payments, a worker receives combined benefits in excess of pre- injury pay," defeating the incentive to spur rehabilitation and re-enter the job market, he pointed out. The financial plight of Medi

Interestingly, the primary cause of the whopping second quarter deficit was the six per cent pay hike voted to all government employees by Congress last year-an unjustified spending of money the government didn't have, which preceded an almost 50% pay hike Congress voted itself.

A recent high-level report stemming from a thorough study of television suggested that the public interest be taken into account to a greater extent in the utilization of the country's airwaves.

Coming as conferees worked out a controversial bill to limit television spending in political campaigns, end the equal time requirement for minor presidential candidates and require television stations to provide candidates time to air their views at discount rates, the report focuses attention anew on the American television dilemma.

There is no indication that the report's recommendations will be adopted as policy proposals by the White House.

The dilemma shows clearly, again, the oversight of Congress in not reserving for the people of the nation one of the thirteen prime television channels—one to be operated and utilized by a non-political board or commission in the interests of the people for political speech-making, presidential news conferences, news conferences of Cabinet officers, farm news, tax information, civilian and military recruitment,

Ga. Teachers Begin Meeting In Athens, Ga.

Dr. Carl V. Hodges, executive secretary of the Georgia Association of Educators, told the state's school system instructional directors that GAE is prepared to lead its members in accepting ac-countability for their professional performance. He conditioned this commitment, however, by saying that Georgia teachers must be fully involved in the development of any standards and procedures designed for use in the evaluation of teacher performance.

Dr. Hodges alluded to some public loss in confidence in the schools, to the growing belief that the schools should be fully accountable for the learning or pupils, and to recent State Board of Education action relative to evaluating the individual performance of Georgia teachers. He held that the teaching profession was ready and willing to accept responsibility for the performance of its members.

Letters To The Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

Admist militants, conser vatives, liberals, or whatever label the most vocal pre fer, the non-political majority seem to agree that the fight fo legalized separation of the ra-ces is a lost cause, Indeed much of the support for segre-gation as a necessary way of life has declined. No longer is segregation itself a con-troversial issue. What is controversial are the means w to eliminate discriminatory practices. However, the me practices, however, the me-thods now being used to sten-ghthen democratic principles are not attracting the kind of destructive acts witnessed during the 1960's. The gen-eral sentiment of the people seems to be that injustices of all kinds is an issue that needs immediate dissolvement. While politicians and other adults bicker about how to do away with the remaining segregation elements in our so-ciety, black and while children ciety, black and while children in the nation's public schools will be experiencing educa-tional opportunities no Ame-rican generation has experi-enced before. Hopefully the results will yield greater pre-paration for making the Ame-paration for making the Amerian democratic society less divided and more genuinely line with the ideals set for in the Constitution.

There was a time when our small private and state institu tions could play to campus and community audiences, but not anymore.
