Win Dunn Endorsed By Black Leaders!

A large group of black-Memphis leaders this week endorsed Winfield Dunn for Governor and formed the Black Citizens Committee for Dunn.

The group announced their support after meeting with the Republican candidate at his headquarters in Memphis and the Chisca Hotel.

Among those announcing their support and endorsing Dunn were:

Miss Annette Church, a member of the Women's Advisory Committee of Black Involvement and the daughter of the late Robert Church; Harold Whalum, assistant director of Mid-South Medical Center Council and insurance consultant; Mrs. Ethel Vinson, wife of the late Dr. R. Q. Vinson and vice president of the board of Commissioners of the Memphis Housing Authority and secretary of Housing Opportunities Memphis Enterprise; William R. Bradford, plumbing contractor; Clarence Harris, real estate developer; Dudley C. Martin John Gaston senior accountant; Jesse Middleton, farmer; Harrell Moore, insurance and real estate executive.

The committee was formed after some members of the group met and questioned Dunn at a meeting at the Chisca Hotel.

At the same time George W. Lee, insurance executive announced his support for Dunn.

"I am delighted to receive this support from the black community," Dunn said. "We met, exchanged ideas and we convinced each other that together we can build a better Tennessee for all Tennesseans. This group represents a distinguished segment of our society and they join a growing number of Blacks across Tennessee who believe that I can make a contribution to good government and for a better life."

BIG PUSH FOR DUNN—George W. Lee, right, longtime Republican and political leader, shakes the hand of Dr. Winfield Dunn, the Republican candidate for Governor. Mr. Lee is being joined by other black leaders in supporting Dr. Dunn in the Nov. 3 race.

George W. Lee Backing Dunn

George W. Lee, Longtime Republican and political leader, revealed this week that he will support Dr. Winfield Dunn for Governor.

In his statement urging black voters to give their support to Dr. Dunn, Lieutenant Lee said:

"I have thought deeply on all matters before I decided to have my say. What I am asking you is to vote for candidates who will agree to work to broaden the climate in which rational men and women, both black and white, can work together to create an atmosphere in which joy and hope will come down in the twin kisses of encouragement and faith will unloose her ancient muscles against despair.

"If it is necessary to split the ticket to vote for candidates who are reasonably free from racism and bigotry, I have neither fault to find nor criticism to bestow."

"And now my fellow citizens, I am called upon to make a choice, not between two parties, not between two ennobling principles at this time; I am called upon and you are called upon to make a choice in this day of distress and decay between two men for the Governorship of the great State of Tennessee. As to the candidates for governor, we have on one side John Jay Hooker. On the other side we have Dr. Winfield Dunn. Both candidates have some fair-minded men on their side.

"I see on Mr. Hooker's side Oscar Edmondson, William Farris and others. On Dr. Dunn's side I see Commissioner Jimmy Moore, Carl Carson and others. Of course, Mr. Hooker is not an LBJ, nor is Mr. Dunn an Abraham Lincoln. From all I can find in examining the promises of the two men is that Mr. Hooker offers us nothing and Dr. Dunn offers us little.

Mr. Hooker has said, thus far, absolutely nothing to give black people the bread of encouragement. He seems to want black voters to take him for granted. I have heard Senator Gore's appeal which has been forthright. I have heard

Councilman Warns Editor DAVIS DEMANDS APOLOGY

Fred L. Davis, energetic insurance broker and one of the three black members of Memphis' City Council, this week denied a statement attributed to him in the Oct. 21 issue of the Memphis Citizen.

Councilman Davis demanded that Larry Garrett, editor of the local black weekly, "print a retraction and apology in an equally prominent place in your next edition."

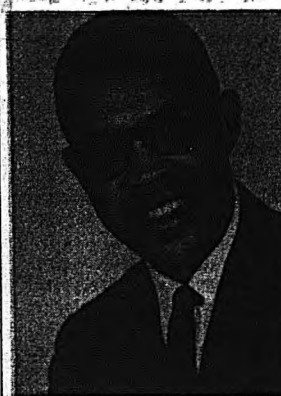

If this is not done, Mr. Davis said, "appropriate legal action will be taken."

The Councilman said he was quoted in the Citizen as saying he didn't "want any part of this junk. I am getting ready to leave. I am tired of all of these shaggy haired niggers raising hell. They didn't vote for me anyway."

In a letter to Mr. Garrett, dated October 22, Councilman Davis said "I absolutely deny having said this and have consulted my attorney regarding your erroneous statements."

The article in the Memphis Citizen claims Mr. Davis made the statement in the County Court auditorium during a joint session of the County Court and City Council. The session was billed as a public hearing to act on a resolution dealing with restructuring the troubled War on Poverty Committee. The resolution failed to reach the floor due to a protest raised by several black supporters of the present WOPC structure.

"Your statement about my not caring about people who didn't vote for me just doesn't ring true to the many, many people across this city for whom I have worked," Councilman Davis said in his letter to Mr. Garrett. Davis said he has worked for people outside of his district as well as those residing in his district.

Funeral Halted As Balcony Caves In!

It was 12:20 Sunday afternoon and the funeral procession had just marched in and the choir was singing when it happened.

It sounded "just like a cracker breaking," said the church organist, Mrs. Fannie Smith.

"First, the front support wall fell onto the lower level seats. Then the balcony floor and seats fell." That was the account given by the Rev. Neasbie Alston, pastor of the 53-year-old Gospel Temple Baptist Church, located at 1080 North Mississippi.

The balcony "fell" gradually," said Danny Davis of 1053 Leath who was seated on the main floor.

The balcony was filled to capacity, with about 40 persons, and a number of worshippers and mourners were seated beneath it.

Twenty-one persons were hurt, and all were rushed to hospitals for medical attention. Most were sent to John Gaston. Mack Swift, of 601 Dorian, who suffered injured ribs, was held at William F. Bowld Hospital.

The crash created a near panic inside the church. "I tried to quiet the people and ease their fear," the minister said. "We got the people out through the back door."

A traffic jam was created in front of the church with spectators and motorists spectating the street. The milling crowds made it impossible for fire trucks and ambulances to get near the church.

"I guess it was just rotten," said the church organist, "and just a matter of time before it would go. I was looking at it when it went down."

Treated at Baptist Hospital was Mrs. Mary Webster.

Treated and held at St. Joseph Hospital were Lela Hunter of 1440 Maplewood, Naomi Foster of 1078 Delmar, and Mrs. Epsie Nelson of 1582 Gabbey. Willie Worley, Sandra McKinley and DeShaw Myrich were treated at St. Joseph and dismissed.

The funeral that was disrupted by the crash was for Mrs. Melvira Ross, 1271 Thomas, who died Monday of last week.

Memphis World Endorses Dunn!

After careful consideration, the Memphis World this week is endorsing Dr. Winfield Dunn for Governor of the State of Tennessee.

We have observed and listened to both candidates, Dr. Dunn the Republican, and John Jay Hooker, the Democrat, and we felt that Dr. Dunn is the better candidate and will make this State an excellent Governor.

This paper joins other black Republicans, such as Lt. George W. Lee, in urging black voters to support Dr. Dunn at the polls on Nov. 3.

Dr. Dunn is forthright and has assured black leaders that he will make every effort to improve the lot of the Negro. Neither candidate is perfect, but Winfield Dunn strikes us as being the man who will give the black man a fair shake. We urge you to vote for him.

CAROL HALL JOINS CHANNEL 13—The appointment of Miss Carol Hall as feature reporter for WHBQ-TV was announced last week by Don Stevens, Channel 13 news director. Miss Hall will cover daily news events, and will be seen each weekday on Channel 13's 4:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. newscasts. She comes to Memphis and WHBQ-TV following an intensive ten-week summer program at Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism in New York. She is a native of St. Louis, and a 1969 graduate of Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri.

Dr. Dunn's appeal.

"Dr. Dunn doesn't say all I would like to hear, but he does say something to give us hope for improving the life of black people in the ghetto; for improving the income of the black family and black workers out of a job. But, thus far, so far as the black community is concerned Mr. Hooker's harp at this late stage of the campaign, hangs on a political willow, mute and

Pres. Horton Gives Salary Hikes To 22

President Odell Horton has given salary increases to 22 employees at LeMoyné-Owen College.

The wage hikes, representing increases of approximately 15 per cent, went to seven custodians five cafeteria workers, four security guards, two yardmen, two maids and two maintenance men.

The college also is purchasing new uniforms for these workers.

One of the workers sent President Horton a letter of thanks.

The college has a new superintendent of buildings and grounds, Arthur Vaught of 1811 Kingsview Drive. He succeeded R. J. Roddy who retired at the end of the summer after filling the post for four years.

Big Test For Six At Polls

The Nov. 3 election will find six black candidates running for three state legislative seats from the Memphis area.

Two Republicans and one independent will be battling three Democrats at the polls.

Harold E. Ford, 25-year-old, funeral home director, incumbent James L. Taylor in the Democratic primaries but Mr. Taylor is right back running now as an independent from District 5. No Republicans entered this race. Clifford D. Miller, a nightclub operator, is one of the Republicans seeking votes in JOINS OTHER CAMPUS QUEENS—Miss LeMoyné-Owen College, Neely Elaine Hurd, was one of several campus queens journeying to Little Rock, Ark., Saturday night, to participate in the annual coronation of Miss Phillander Smith College. The colorful affair was held in the Hotel Marlon ballroom. Miss Hurd, a senior, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hurd of 4313 Hickory Hill Road.

WOPC PAY DAY ENDING?

If the agencies operating under the local War On Poverty Committee are closed down today (Friday) it will put the hurt on nearly 400 workers.

Top salaries paid WOPC officials include $17,000 a year for the director and $10,000 or better for six other executives.

There are several officials in the $8,000 bracket and scores of others in the $7,000 bracket.

The local WOPC has been in trouble for several months. It has been the target of federal officials in Atlanta as well as city and county officials. The No. 1 target is Washington Butler, director of WOPC.

Mr. Butler has his black supporters and these followers were successful recently in halting a public hearing which was called for the purpose of presenting a resolution which would have outlined a plan for restructuring WOPC to fit requirements of the federal government.

It is believed that the restructuring plan would eliminate Mr. Butler.

Another hearing on restructuring has been scheduled for Nov. 5 in The Auditorium which will seat 6,000. The protest raised at the last hearing site was that the County Court auditorium was too small and denied many poor people the rights to attend the meeting.

It was learned this week that a petition with 10,000 signatures is being ready for the next meeting. The petition will favor restructuring WOPC?

Inside Memphis

BIG SHIFT—Ed Harris, the black newsman on WHBQ-TV for several months, has left WHBQ and gone to WDIA Radio as news director. He replaces DIA's first black news director, Roy West, who has departed. Meanwhile, pretty Carol Hall is getting top billing as a black commentator for WHBQ.

THE 5 JACKSONS—The fabulous Jackson 5 drew a gross gate of $62,959 when they performed here recently at the Mid-South Coliseum. Paying to get into the Coliseum were 11,859.

SOCIAL BELLE—The NAACP's annual Miss Social Belle Contest is underway with the coronation ball set for Dec. 4 at The Showcase. Eighteen high school and college coeds are seeking the first prize of $500 and a trip to Minneapolis.

FROM ARLINGTON—The new Miss Tennessee State is from nearby Arlington, Tenn., Mary Williams, an elementary education major and member of the AKA Sorority.

WHO IS THE LEADER?—Many black Democrats in Memphis and Shelby County are asking the same question: "Who is supposed to be our leader?"

SHOPLIFTERS—The stores already opened in Freedom Center are doing big business, but so are the shoplifters. There is talk of increasing the staff of security guards.

BLACK QUEEN—David Acey, coordinator of the Black Student Association at Memphis State, said 900 black students voted for Miss Maybelline Forbes, enough to give her the title of Miss Homecoming.

ENFORCING CIVIL RIGHTS

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

The United States has an impressive array of rights legislation on its law books, covering education, voting, employment, housing, administration of justice, use of public accommodations. But the country now is being called upon to assess whether, as the United States Commission on Civil Rights now charges, this legislation is being weakly enforced, with little spirit and small sense of leadership.

If there is a failure to apply the brawn of compliance behind the writ of law, it is not the fault of one administration. The report of the commission headed by the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, makes clear that enforcement never has been vigorous since modern attention was given civil rights in the Eisenhower administration.

Richard Nixon now is the man in the White House. And so, as with the Scranton Commission on Student Unrest, the call is for the President to exercise a stronger of communication with students. And yet we should note, moral leadership, in the field of civil rights as in the area as the Rev. Hesburgh does indicate, that this isn't one of those cases where the "buck" stops only at the President's desk.

The asserted failure to implement civil rights legislation and intention is a failure of the American people and of the federal bureaucracy, as well of White House leadership.

There is some shortfall at the heart of government. Under four presidents there has been insufficiently aggressive enforcement, according to the Civil Rights Commission. Not enough lawsuits, no cutoff of funds, few or no contract cancellations. Business has involved itself in equal hiring practices, we knew. Courts have issued enforcement decrees. And some laws have fared fairly well — on voting rights and school and hospital integration. Father Hesburgh's group says it isn't enough.

President Nixon may have felt he was applying the pressures the country would accept. Now he faces a call for more committed leadership. Certainly the recent executive reorganization, setting up the Domestic Affairs Council and the Office of Management and Budget, offers the opportunity to install a civil rights coordinator and a performance evaluator in the very heart of affairs. We trust that the President will want to see to it that the practical vigor of enforcement always matches the inspired wording of the law.

Minister Is PTA Leader

When the PTA of Alonzo Locke Elementary School held its monthly meeting last Friday night, the Rev. Coy Hardimon, Jr., was elected president. Approximately 200 attended the meeting.

An associate minister of New Salem Baptist Church, he lives with his wife, Mrs. Barbara J. Henderson, and five children at 793 Dudley St.

A former student at LeMoine-Owen College, (63-65) Mr. Hardimon said: "I personally feel that it is our duty to these young minds to develop them to their greatest depths. They are tomorrow's leaders."

Mrs. Pressie Tate, mother of five, was elected first vice president, and Mrs. Ora Kirkwood, treasurer.

The election was held because the former president could not serve.

Many of the mothers present responded to the plea for room mothers and a large number of registered for the sewing class organized at the meeting.

Pastor Will Back Taylor

James I. Taylor, who is running as an independent candidate from district 5, was endorsed for re-election by the Baptist Ministers Conference at their monthly meeting at the Golden Leaf Baptist Church.

The ministers noted that Rep. Taylor "had done an excellent job during his first term in office" and his "deep concern for helping poor people."

Taylor was defeated by Harold Ford in the August 6 Democratic primary.

Enrollment Up At 'Tech'

The current fall quarter enrollment of 1,675 persons represents the largest number students State Technical Institute at Memphis has registered in its three-year history.

Enrollment figures released by Earl Cunningham, STIM register, show that enrollment is up 25 per cent. The enrollment a year ago was 1,337 the largest student body until this quarter.

Mr. Cunningham said that the Division of Engineering Technology enrolled 682 persons this quarter, while the Division of Science Technology enrolled 930 students.

The new Department of Accounting Technology, added recently in science, drew 87 students.

MY WEEKLY SERMON

REV. BLAIR T. HUNT,

PASTOR
 MEMPHIS EVG. CHRISTIAN CHURCH
 MEMPHIS, TENN.

TEXT: "Let not your heart be troubled. Neither let it be fearful." John 14:27 "I Am the Way." John 14:6.

All people are hungry for comfort. The establishment of the Lord's Supper in the Upper Room was followed by the Savior's last mortal discourse with His Disciples. The preservation of these priceless words is the chief glory of the Gospel according to John. Here was the dying message of Jesus to His chosen Disciples. The last long message they would receive from His human lips. Speaking in a whisper, He gave His Disciples His final mortal charge: "Let not your heart be troubled." No doubt there was a lump in His throat a hitch in His voice. It was only a few hours from Gethsemane, twelve hours from Calvary. At that candle-lit table in the Upper Room God sat with them. Sallow-faced Judas had slouched through the door, Judas who had carried the bag; he was the treasurer; that is how Jesus trusted him.

Luke tells us that in that candle-lit Upper Room the Disciples of Jesus Christ had quarreled as to who should be the greatest. We can see them, like sulky school boys though their Lord and Master was just a dozen hours from Calvary, God's heart break.

It was during the sacrament of the Lord's Supper that the seriousness of the situation dawned upon them. They were sad, they were afraid. The shadow of the cross then fell upon them.

They then realized that a great tragedy was soon to be enacted. Darkness, Tumults, dangers were gathering storm clouds around them. They needed comfort then, they needed strength and hope for all the labors that were before them. Jesus' words of comfort were a rainbow on the storm, the shining of Heaven's Rays through the clouds, new life poured into their souls, the Gate of Heaven left ajar. Said Jesus, "Let not your heart be troubled....In my fathers house are many mansions....I go to prepare a place for you....I am the Way." These comforting words are shot through and through with immortality.

Jesus is the way to our Father.

ther's house, the home of the soul, a real place beautiful beyond compare.

And today in our troubled hours Jesus is the way to comfort. Jesus is the way to power. Jesus is the way to prepare Heaven. Jesus was all this and more to His Disciples when they could see only danger and disaster ahead. As Jesus was to them in the Upper Room, there He is to us today.

Sometime we are deep in the mire, we wring our hands and weep, remember, there is never a situation how ever complex that Jesus the Christ cannot find the way out. Some times we are puzzled we don't know what to do; we don't know which way to turn. Jesus comes to us and says: "I Am the way" and indeed He will make a way out for us if we will only look, listen and obey. Then and only then we know which way to turn.

Have you ever been lost in the woods? You were so afraid you wanted to find your way home. Suddenly and unexpectedly you see a road. You have the great comfort of seeing yourself out of the woods and on your way home. When you find Jesus the Christ you have and unexpressible comfort, you know you are lost, you know there is a way home. A way of comfort, A way of Power. Jesus said "I Am the Way. Let not your heart be troubled."

Chester, S.C. — Two general misconceptions about gliding (soaring) are that it's highly dangerous and that the main trick is to stay aloft. Soaring is not especially dangerous and for those who exercise caution it is as safe as other sports, safer than many.

Landing away from the home airfield shouldn't be dangerous. Most gliders land about 35 miles per hour and require a very short landing run. An average pilot can set them down in a corn field, or plowed field or in open meadow easily. The hull might be scratched or otherwise damaged but the pilot need not suffer physical injury.

The other widely-held misconception—that staying up is the main trick—is understandable. Most people marvel at the thought of motorless manned aircraft in the first place. They tend to think if a pilot stays aloft for an hour he has done something.

ATTY. A.A. LATTING WILL SERVE AS JUDGE OF THE 4th DIVISION CIRCUIT COURT—Atty. A.A. Latting, Dean of Black Lawyers in Memphis and one of the nation's outstanding men in law, has been chosen to serve as Judge of Division 4 of the Circuit Court in Memphis.

The name Latting means Law in Memphis. No Black lawyer has stood out like "doc" Latting (as he is affectionately known), at least not in my day. The very brilliant and much liked figure (who always knows just how far to go and when to stop anything, has worked untiringly for his people...and has remained the same (down to earth) in spite of his success in the field of law.

Atty. Latting is a native of Helens, Ark.

MRS. HARRIS GADISON IS HOSTESS TO GARDEN CLUB

A delightful evening was one spent last Monday at the warm and inviting Netherwood residence of Mrs. Ruby Harris Gadison who entertained members of the Garden Club at their first meeting of the season. The beautiful home, that has been exquisitely and tastefully decorated, was indeed a pleasant place to spend an evening.

Highlighting the evening was a talk by Mr. Lloyd Dinkins who writes Garden Scrap Book for the Commercial Appeal. Mr. Dinkins, who has the very best formula for growing good grass (according to Mrs. Gadison) has also studied Japanese Gardens in Japan. This I learned just chatting with him after his lecture.

Members of the Garden Club attending were Mrs. Leath Jones, Mrs. Lillian Carr, Mrs. Josie Flower, Mrs. Iris Harris, Mrs. Ida Mae Lockard, Mrs. Rita Olive, Mrs. Jeanne Richard, Mrs. Dorothy Westbrook, Mrs. Cloteal Toles and Mrs. Julia Wilson. Guests of the evening were Mrs. Alma Booth and "Your Columnist."

MEMBERS OF THE MISSISSIPPI BOULEVARD CHRISTIAN CHURCH OBSERVE FOUNDERS DAY

Again the members of the Mississippi Boulevard Christian Church expressed their gratitude to the three Founders who are left in their membership...and they are Miss Roxie Crawford who had to leave before the timely program was over.

Mr. A. Maceo Walker, Chairman of the Board...and his sister, Mrs. Johnetta Kelson who were children when the church was founded but who with their parents were devout members then and still are.

Judge Odell Horton, president of LeMayne-Owen College, was the brilliant speaker for the occasion and he did bring a beautiful message.

Mrs. Walker, who's really a church man as was his late father, the late Dr. J.E. Walker, spoke thanking members and his talk was out of gratitude to members of the church.

Mrs. Kelso also spoke, after her brother.

Others who spoke were Elder Blair T. Hunt, minister for approximately 40 years whom Mr. Walker said had done as much as any other person to shape his life... Mr. H.A. "Art" Gilliam, Jr. brilliant young chairman and his co-chairman, Mrs. LaBlance Jackson who has stood out in Church, Business and Social activities.

Other founders to whom members paid reverence were the late Dr. and Mrs. J.E. Walker who gave much time and money to the church.

Dr. W.H. Luster, Mr. E.E. Bright and Mrs. M.W. Bonner who also gave much to the church.

Other members of the Founders' Day Committee were Mr. H.L. Jackson, Mrs. Ida Lockard, Mrs. Ceneta Qualls,

MRS. JAMES BYAS AND MRS. JOSEPH WESTBROOK HOLD "GET OUT AND VOTE RALLY" FOR MRS. JOHN JAY HOOKER AND MRS. ALBERT GORE

A large group of interested citizens attended a "Get Out and Vote" Rally in the Parish House of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church (that is surrounded by the Foote and Clayborne Homes Sunday evening. The purpose of the event was to talk with voters—giving them facts and to present Mrs. John Jay Hooker and Mrs. Nancy Gore, daughter of Senator Albert Gore who spoke for their husband and father.

Others who spoke (candidates) were Tommie Powell, Harold Ford, Michael Osborn Gobe Talarico, Atty. I.H. Murphy, and Dr. Vasco Smith, who was M.C....Mrs. James Byas who gave the rally, along with Mrs. Joseph Westbrook, spoke a group of popular matrons assisted...Among those whom I recognized were Mrs. Rufus Thomas, Mrs. Charles Pinkston and Mrs. Vasco Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis Jr. and Dr. and Mrs. Leland Atkins came in from the Islands (where they had a marvelous week of sunshine) and were off again Friday after arriving home on Wednesday for Detroit. The occasion was a week-end party given by a group who entertain out-of-town friends once every few years. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Ike Graves. Dr. and Mrs. Atkins were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Cutrell (she the former Miss Wiletta Faulkner of Memphis).

Mrs. Arvis Latting (June) and the Moon Baby (Sparky) are back after visiting Mr. Latting's step-father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn McGorkle in Detroit. Thelma, who has been ill, is now up and back in school.

Jo Bridges is still on the go. She attended events last week...A J-U-G Ball in Washington, D.C. and one given by the J-U-G-S in Detroit. She had a conference the last of the week with John Johnson of Ebony at his Chicago office...This past Sunday, Jo was off for New York City.

Word comes to me from Alpha Brawner...that she will sing in Macbeth on January 29 in Louisville.

Dr. Clara Brawner and her baby, Jewel, flew up to Illinois where they saw her cousin Tom Darden (a star with the University of Michigan) play Purdue on the Purdue campus.

The SST

Of interest is a recent report released by Senators Jackson and Magnuson (D-Wash.) that indicates the future U.S. supersonic transport, involved in much controversy in recent years, will make less noise during takeoff and landing than today's jets.

Supporters of the transport believe the Library of Congress report will dispel much "misinformation and unfounded allegations" which have been spread about it, in the words of Senator Jackson.

There has been a concerted effort on the part of economists, doubters and those concerned over pollution to have the President abandon the U.S. SST project; that would, of course, leave supersonic field open to the Russians and to the joint British-French aircraft, the Concorde. President Nixon has refused to follow this advice.

It will be good scientific and economic news for the nation if the U.S. supersonic transport can be successfully built, if it does not prove a problem because of noise, the sonic boom or pollution. Keeping in mind the fact that the two Senators have a political motive in that Boeing's plant in Washington is working on the SST project, the report is nevertheless encouraging, and one hopes, justified by the facts.

Comes November Third

This November the 3rd., will be one of the most meaningful datelines in our modern history. Those who have lived through the last century, and now see the birth of a new one, better understand what it has meant to a wilderness of "Bozart" with a one party legend glorified and tied around its neck, in complicity in government at the hand of unqualified office holders and the millions of tax payers poured down the drain of selfishness, feather-bedding and wholesale favoritism.

Our local front, there is the rarity of two sets of candidates running for office. The Republican and the Democrats. We all know how the old days handed the voters hand picked candidates who ran in primaries restricted to the hill to be finally elected by default.

November 3., will spell out a new day and a new order. It will disclose candidates elected from both parties to office; it will represent more nearly the impulse of the people, while showing to the world that two parties can work out this problem in the South better than one.

Thusly, our electorate will emerge from the rat holes of wasted energies, rabid confusion, family squabbles of petty quarrels, into the clear sunlight of a free ballot, a fair count, — ONE MAN AND ONE VOTE.

Papers And Writers

Why is it that after seeing a football game fans want to read about it in the newspaper? Why do people who have attended important civic or social events want to read about them afterwards?

It is because the newspaper attempts to give an interpretation of what happened. In a football game, for instance, the sports writer says what the turning point was, how the game was won etc. The test of that sports writer is how clearly and wisely he evaluated the game.

The same is true in other reporting. The better the writers at accurate, objective reporting and the necessary interpretation, the better the newspaper. The better the editor in evaluating events, his background, the better the editorials.

The fine line of excellence in American journalism is to provide intelligent and limited (necessary) interpretation with factual reporting of news events. In England and in other countries there is so much interpretation in news columns the result often is editorialized news. In this country the free press tradition demands objective news reporting in the news columns and opinion limited to editorials, signed columns and features.

How objective the news interpretation of a newspaper is, is a measure of that newspaper, almost as important as the quality and tone of its editorials.

The Cuban Base

Assuming the Russians are building a missile sub base at Cienfuegos in Cuba, which is called a Cuban base, what can the United States do about it under the generally accepted rules of international law?

If Cuba is a sovereign state, and if the late President John Kennedy pledged the United States to refrain from attacking Cuba if Soviet missiles were removed, what now can be done if Cuba offers port facilities to Soviet missile subs, as do bases in Spain and Scotland for U.S. missile subs?

These are tough questions involving international law and world opinion on the one hand and strong American opinion on the other. While denying they are building a missile sub base, the Russians are apparently continuing to assist the Cubans in building one. The issue is thus building up into a major one for the Nixon Administration. With Vietnam and the Middle East, it could soon become the third major dilemma in the foreign policy field.

Hallowe'en

Hallowe'en has its origin among the Druids centuries before the Christian era and from the Roman festival of Pomona. Later the church adopted the day as a special one, and the name is of Christian origin, referring to the eve of All Hallows Day.

Druid customs were so firmly entrenched that although the Romans outlawed their observances in both Britain and Ireland during their occupation many of the observances survive to this day. Hallowe'en is one.

To the Druids, October 31st was the end of the year and thus the festival. The Druids also believed this was the time good souls of the dead went into animals, especially the cat. They believed punishment of the wicked could be lightened by gifts and prayers. (The 31st is also Protestant Reformation Day, dating from Martin Luther's rejection in 1517 of the church's teaching that one could buy indulgences for both the living and dead.)

In the United States the day has come to be associated with young people, who gather in goodies in trick or treat calls—a vast improvement over the mischief and destruction of former years.

Saga of an Old DC-2 Plane Now Restaurant

The DC-2 permanently grounded to become a restaurant.

By STEVE LUBBY

Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper
IT'S A LONG WAY from sunny California, U.S.A., to the Lakeside Square at Hameenlinna in Finland, but an old Douglas DC-2, airliner found the way—and the familiar inquiry "coffee, tea or milk?" is still heard many times each day aboard the vintage aircraft. She is now a restaurant.

The first—and only—DC-1 rolled out of her hanger on June 22, 1933, ordered by TWA. It exceeded the expectations of the airline, following its delivery less than three months later and, with certain improvements, TWA ordered 20 more Douglas transports to be known as the DC-2.

One hundred ninety DC-2s were eventually built and enjoyed quite a success until the DC-3, with still further improvements, came along. By March, 1935, a DC-2 had set the transcontinental west-east transport record: 15 hours, 39 minutes.

Today, DC-2s are rare, indeed. The aircraft—which-is-a-restaurant in Finland was delivered in 1935 to KLM, the Dutch airline—and by the time she stopped flying for the last time 20 years ago, she had a checkered career, indeed.

Christened DeHaan (The Cock), the plane opened up KLM service between Amsterdam, Frankfurt and Milan. Later she served on the Amsterdam-Djakarta route, but not for long; it was 1937, and the newer, larger, more powerful DC-3 was making aviation history. DeHaan was sold to the Swedish AB Aerotransport.

HEAVY war clouds covered Europe, and Finland had become an object of attack. The Finnish Air Force purchased the old DC-2, and she was renamed Hanssin-Jukka. She became a bomber-of-sorts—thanks to two bomb cassettes and a simple trapdoor mechanism. But on her very first flight as a bomber, engine trouble grounded her.

Hanssin-Jukka was converted into a freighter. She carried petroleum products, provisions, medicines and medical staffs. At Nuernberg she was the object of one of several bombings; she was often struck by flak.

AFTER the war years, Hanssin-Jukka was sold and was primarily used in cartographic work. After 7,500 hours of flying time, the old plane was put into retirement. She was rescued from a potential blowtorch by flying enthusiast Osmo Rantala, who had once flown the DC-2.

Rantala disassembled the plane and transported her more than 200 miles in trucks to Lakeside Square in the Finnish town of Hameenlinna and rebuilt the California-built plane as a restaurant.

Still "piloted" by Osmo Rantala, she has been visited by many who "knew her when." The ancient DC-2, a remnant of earlier years, stands proud in mid-town in Hameenlinna, known as "The Coffee-House Hanssin-Jukka." It is believed to be the only restaurant of its kind in the world.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, D.C. — President Nixon might have had an eye on 1972 when he vetoed the recent bill to limit television advertising in political campaigns. The President listed a number of objections to the bill, many impressive. But it is also true that passage of the bill would have acted to nullify the present Republican advantage of superior financial resources.

In addition, some think Mr. Nixon sought to avoid televised debates in the 1972 presidential election with his veto. Among other things, the vetoed bill would have repealed the equal-time amendment which was one reason Mr. Nixon gave for avoiding such debates with Hubert Humphrey in 1968. He said it would have required the networks to give George Wallace equal time and he didn't want to give him such exposure.

Thus for 1972 it can still be said that televised debates would require third-party candidates to have the same exposure; this could mean no televised debates. The President says the vetoed bill would have favored incumbents by limiting television advertising, which is probably true. He also says it would hurt urban candidates, who must pay more for time and discriminated against television and radio as

Letters To The Editor

Reader Hits Democrat Record On Civil Rights

TO THE EDITOR:

It sounds ironical, indeed, to hear the civil-rights workers criticizing Mr. Nixon's so-called "Southern Strategy." The "Southern Strategy" that should be of greater concern to the civil rights workers is that of the Negro Democrats of the solid South. Obviously, Mr. Nixon's strategy is to break up the stranglehold that the Democrats have on the solid South. This should be of the greatest aid to the cause of civil rights. On the other hand the Negro Democrats are the political bed-fellows of the southern Democrats, thus giving aid and support to the anti Negro solid South — the greatest obstacle of the civil rights movement.

No American of average intelligence would argue the fact that the South has been under the absolute political control of anti-Negro Democrats since 1776. It was the determination of the southern Democrats to keep the Negro in slavery that led to the Civil War. It has been the aim of the Democrats of the solid South to keep the Negro a second class citizen that has led to the laws and practices of segregation in every phase of life throughout the South. It has been the Democrats of the solid South that have led the fight in Congress against every civil-rights proposal that has ever come before the law makers of the nation. It was the Democrats of the solid South who signed the "Southern Manifesto" pledging themselves to do everything in their power to prevent the implementation of the solid South who initiated and led the movement to impeach Chief Justice Earl Warren — the Republican.

Every vote for the Democrat ticket in the South, whether by a Negro or for a Negro, aids and abets the anti-Negro Democrats of the solid South, whose true representatives are the Wallaces, Maddoxes, Carters, Harrises, etc.

Beware of the advice of any Negro leader who publicly denounces Mr. Nixon's civil-rights record and then joins the political ranks of Lester Maddox and Jimmy Carter — the well-known leaders of the anti-Negro solid South. Such a leader is a traitor to the cause of civil rights and unworthy of a following.

opposed to other news media. But supporters of the bill say the President didn't raise the points when the bill was being debated and feel the President was under pressure from many G.O.P. candidates to veto the bill because it would, overall, help Democrats more than Republicans.

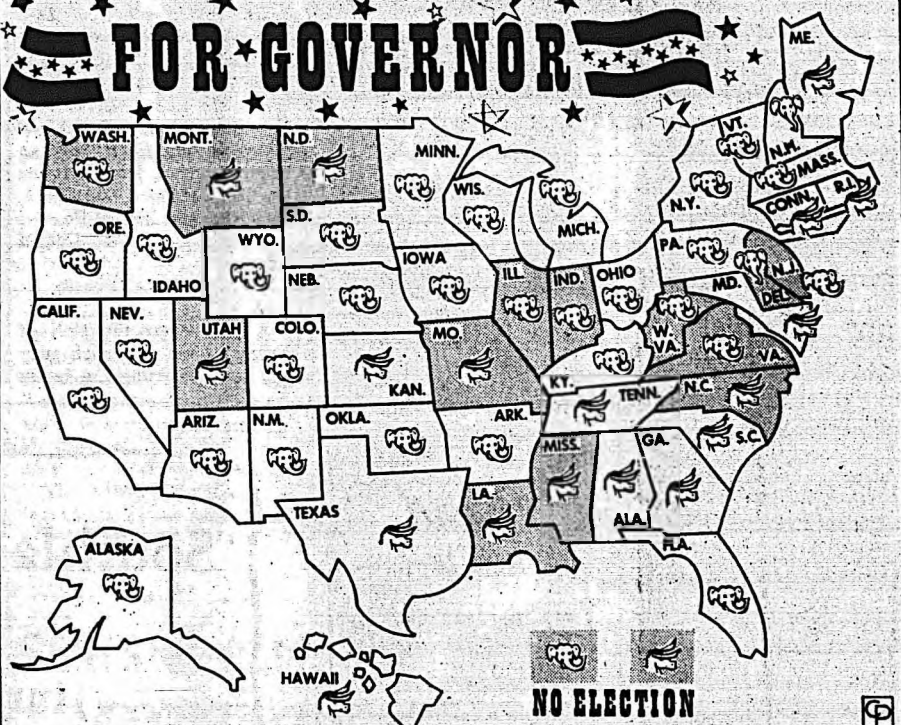

Supporters will attempt to pass the measure over the President's veto in the reassembled Congress on November 16th. They are given only a slim chance of doing so. If the veto is upheld, it probably means no televised debates between the presidential candidates two years hence.

This, and the failure of Congress to pass a constitutional amendment reforming the electoral college, strongly indicates the 1972 presidential campaign will include all the third-party elements and dangers of the 1968 campaign. Some White House personnel think, however, that the voter appeal of Wallace will be distinctly less, because of the fact that President Nixon has moved positively to restore law and order to the country.

They believe another key factor will be the Supreme Court's decision on school busing. If the court accepts the Nixon Administration argument, and the neighborhood school concept is basically retained, this might make things more difficult for Wallace in some states.

No. 107 Emma Hart Willard was one of the first two women elected to the Hall of Fame for Great Americans, the other being Maria Mitchell, astronomer. Both were scientists. As a biologist, Mrs. Willard made epochal researches of respiratory effects in circulation of the blood. The predominantly male electors, doubtless chose her for a niche in the Hall of Fame as a great educator.

A determined devotion to teaching was evidenced early by the daughter of Samuel and Lydia Hinsdale Hart. Having absorbed all that was taught in a district school at Berlin, Conn., she became an instructress herself at sixteen (in 1803), and continued her own education at nearby academies. She took charge of an academy in Vermont when twenty, and evolved concepts she summarized later.

"In searching for the fundamental principles of the science of teaching, I find a few principles as indisputable as the first principles of mathematics. One is this, he is the best teacher who makes the best use of his own time and that of his pupils. For time is all that is given by God in which to do the work of improvement. . . . What is the first rule in making the best use of time? It is to seek first and most to improve in the best things. . . . Great skill is required of the teacher in assigning to each pupil an order of studies suitable to his age (and aptitudes), and selecting such modes of teaching as shall make a little time go far."

She stressed, "Adopt no subterfuge, pretend not to think the child is better than he is, but deal plainly and truly."

The methods attracted attention of Governor De Witt Clinton, of New York, who invited Mrs. Willard to move her academy to that State. He supported her petition to the legislature, which brought, it was recorded, "the first law ever passed with the direct objective of improving female education."

The resultant Troy Female Seminary eventually renamed in her honor was to place its founder among "the greatest teachers and benefactors of her sex" in 19th century America; a fitting biographer summarized. . . . Meanwhile, she married John Willard and bore him a son. There was a second marriage, 29 years later to Christian Yates, but she remained Mrs. Willard to beneficiaries of her educational methods. . . . It is timely to remember Women Who Made America Great! This space will be devoted to them in the following weeks.

Backing Dunn

As between the candidacy of John Jay Hooker and Winfield Dunn, I choose Winfield Dunn against the candidacy of John J. Hooker. I do this because of the attitude Dr. Dunn takes on the position of welfare to aid my hopeless black people of the ghetto, by knocking down rat-infested shacks and replacing them with livable housing projects. I do this because of Dr. Dunn's attitude towards welfare programs for the poor that will increase family income to $1600. This will certainly improve the lot of our people in the ghettos.

"Dr. Dunn is forthright in his position towards the inalienable rights of each citizen. Mr. Hooker is evasive. When Mr. Hooker ran for governor the first time he assumed, more or less the role of a liberal. Now he denies vehemently the liberal label. He seems confused as to whether he should label himself as a conservative or a middle of the roader. His last time out, he waged a campaign with full blast for the Negro vote. This time somebody seems to have put a hush - hush on acquiring the Negro vote. I haven't heard Mr. Hooker's voice or any of his Negro constituents on the radio or television appealing to the Negro for his vote. This is causing a lot of unanswered questions to flick in and out of my mind with disconcerting vividness.

"I am not satisfied with Dr. Dunn's position on busing. I am not satisfied with his position on neighborhood schools, but at least he hasn't been wishy-washy on the subject. I have been asked by some to answer the question: Shall Negroes now employed in government positions be turned out if Dr. Dunn is elected? I passed the question on to Dr. Dunn and his answer is that not only will Negroes hold their positions in government, but their future employment will be expanded to whatever positions they might aspire and their attainments can equal.

"I have been asked by some to answer this question: 'What about Dr. Dunn's ultra-conservatism?' And I passed this question on to Dr. Dunn and his answer is that, 'I may be conservative in fiscal policy, but I think all men should have justice and fair play. I don't want to be the governor for the radicals of the extreme right nor the radicals of the extreme left. I want to be the governor of all the people. I want to bring them all together in a community of fellow ship and get behind pushing the state forward.'

"I asked Dr. Dunn about his position on busing. His reply was that, 'I have taken the position against busing not because of a racial feeling, but it isn't sound from a fiscal policy. I believe there are other ways to solve the problem. Why spend millions of dollars for busing when the problem will almost solve itself?'

"Let me make it clear that I haven't plucked these questions and answers from Dr. Dunn out of political spring water and sweet lemonade. There were other folks around at the time such as Messrs. Harry Welford, Lewis Donelson, III, Nat D. Williams, Jackson Gales, Dudley Martin, Mrs. R. Q. Venson, Bert Fernie Briscoe, Jacques Beauchamp, and a number of others. So I choose Dr. Dunn because I think he is the better of the two.

"Dr. Dunn and I have differed a lot of times. Sometimes with bitter words; sometimes with unkind speech, but I don't think he hated me because I differed. I know I didn't hate him because he differed with me. I have heard his words and saw his face many times, but now I believe I have seen his heart. His heart has changed on many of the problems that our society is confronted with today. And I have changed on many of the problems that our society is confronted with today. And I have changed myself in my estimate of his sense of fair play and in his integrity.

"Finally, I again state my policy that I have no quarrel with those who will split the ticket and vote for Senator Albert Gore, but I appeal to you, my fellow citizens, to go to the polls on November 3, and vote for Dr. Winfield Dunn for Governor of the great State of Tennessee."

Ex-Minister's Wife Says Blacks Worthy Of Help

NEW YORK — The wife of a former Protestant minister, who is white, declared in a magazine article, released recently, that the Blacks have the "right" to demand money from churches for use by the Black community.

"For too long the Black man has contributed his sweat and tears to all of America's white institutions, including the church, and has received little in return," Mrs. Floyd Marker of El Sobrante, California charged in the current issue of Redbook magazine.

Mrs. Marker, whose husband left the ministry in 1968, said that he did so because of the racial prejudice he found among the majority of church members. Mrs. Marker said that when she and her husband

Mrs. Marker recalled in her Redbook article that she first became involved in civil rights in 1950 in Reno, Nevada, when she witnessed the racial injustice which existed there in hotels and restaurants former St. Louis Hawks star Zelmo Beaty performing at center with ex-Tennessee standout Red Robbins at forward.

The Texas Chaparrals were the ABA's highest scoring team last season as guards Ron Boone and Glen Combs sparked the offense from their back court positions.

The Floridians are led by Larry Jones, 6-3 guard from Toledo. Jones is the ABA's leading career scorer and last season set a pro record by scoring over 30 points in 21 consecutive games.

The Pros' current starting lineup has Jimmy Jones, 6-4, Grambling, and Steve Jones, 6-5, Oregon, at guards; Craig Raymond, 6-11, Brigham Young, at center, and Wendell Ladner, 6-5 Southern Mississippi, and Gerald Govan, 6-10, St. Mary's at forward.

She continued her fight as her husband moved around from parish to parish in Central California. The prejudice she found among parishioners made her realize why the Black man has gone from "nonviolence to militancy," she said.

Mrs. Marker, who with her husband, is now working outside the Church to accomplish necessary changes, expressed the hope that the Church will change and become relevant to the world in which we live.

Monday Night Football Hangover

Rick Du Brow, television critic for UPI disagrees with most opinion-experts on the Monday night professional football on ABC-TV, noting: "I think there's a psychological reason for success in addition to the basic interest of fans." Editors of Ebony Magazine will present three distinguished Atlanta awards - Georgia Tech quarterback Eddie McCashan, Mrs. Corretta Scott King and Mrs. Kernona Clayton, Tuesday evening, November 7 at the Regency Hyatt House, Oldest point - in service coach in the SWAC is Prairie View's Alexander Durley.

ABC-TV's Monday night pro football games have been criticized not only from the saturation viewpoint of NFL games but for their relative low ratings. Most sports writers have commented that they were especially objectionable in view of the fact that that generally rest when they are played from the long sports week-ends.

Nevertheless, sell out crowds have greeted the Monday night games in all cities where they have been scheduled. Simultaneously, the games have been tremendously accepted in homes, throughout the USA, who are simply tired of old re-read movies, a not unfunny comedy situations. Anyhow, Monday night is a low point in TV viewing, generally since most people are simply puffed out from strenuous going over the weekend, church, club meetings, teas, and in-law visiting.

AS A RESULT OF HEAVY Traffic social and church obligations, in the past, there has been no place like home on Monday nights. So a stay-at-home market for TV football has been created by many potential fans, who otherwise, missed the regular game airings.

RICK DU BROW of UPI - sees the Monday night games as follows: "A Monday night prime time football game on top of the Saturday and Sunday gridiron contests is video's version of, and contributing to, the 'long weekend way of life' that is so attractive to working people.

"It helps take the drudgery out of Mondays. The day's work, to a rabid football fan, seems like only a minor interruption to three glorious days of sports action. Suddenly, it no longer seems like a five-day work week. Mondays are part of the past weekends. And once Monday night games are over, it is only three working days before next weekend's holiday mood begins again on Fridays.

"For a nation in which leisure time activities have become a business, the scheduling Monday night football games was an astute move."

By the way...

by Joe Black

When was the last time your child, mother, wife or daughter took a leisurely stroll through the neighborhood or the park...all alone? I know the answer. And so do you. And that answer is very closely related to the reason why so many black families today are arming themselves with guns. In most cases they're not protecting themselves against the white man. They're seeking protection from some of our very own black brothers.

Think about that for a moment. Black communities arming themselves to protect black women from being robbed, raped, and mugged by black men. I'm not implying that the situation would be any more acceptable if blacks vented these horrible frustrations on whites. What I'm getting at is the reasons for these conditions in the first place. It's my opinion that the double standard of justice is one of those reasons. Black people have discovered that robbing, mugging...yes, even killing a black person is not the offense it is when that same crime is committed against a white. It's a dual standard of justice, a mockery of law and order. But it exists. It's real. Disgustingly real.

It is clear that the streets in the black community will not be safe until a crime against a black citizen is considered just as deplorable as that same crime committed against a white citizen. To make it so must be our aim and our responsibility if our women and children are ever to walk our streets in safety again.

Daryl Johnson Enjoying Great Season With Patriots

Most of them read, "Don't Open Until Christmas." This one had the legend, "Don't Open Until December," and when Boston cornerback Daryl Johnson entrusted it to the club's publicity man headed, "It's a good prediction...You'll be surprised."

Beyond that Johnson has refused to budge. In his third year with the Patriots, Johnson is enjoying an incredible season. The club is 1-4 receptions.

The day a fellow takes a job as a cornerback he can expect to be beaten. The story among defensive backs is "Why not? They make more money than we do." "They" meaning the high-priced wide receivers. "They" haven't been doing too well against D.J. this year.

The match-ups on Johnson this year and their receptions have been: Paul Warfield, Miami (1); George Sauer, New York Jets (1); Eddie Hinton, Baltimore (1); Otis Taylor, Kansas City (1); and Cliff McNeill, New York Giants (0). McNeill caught a TD pass last week in the Giants victory over Boston but it was while Johnson was on the sideline recovering from a temporary injury.

Johnson has injured a lot of feelings among some high-priced talent to date with his ability to smother their finest efforts. This he traces to a new attitude -- increased confidence and a willingness to gamble. He plays closer to his rivals now and directly in front.

As a final gesture of commitment to this new policy, he threw away his little black book, a compendium of weaknesses, apparent and otherwise, among the men he faced in his first two seasons.

Johnson was a tremendous draft by the Patriots, a pick-up in the eighth round after the 1967 season out of Morgan State. He had an unusual background. He had never played on a losing team, high school (Maggie Walker, Richmond, Va.), or at Morgan State where a 26-game winning streak was compiled during his time.

He had started as a defensive back as a college sophomore, moved to quarterback, and wound up helping coach the defense in his senior year. For relaxation he used to watch the Baltimore Colts on Sundays.

When he got to Boston he showed enough to cause John Charles to be moved from cornerback to safety. He made one interception his first year, two the next, and has had only one this year. Try bouncing his figures off some of the AFC's more frustrated receiving talent for bafflement.

FOR THE RECORD - Frank

Tommy Agee, the Alabama born star of the New York Mets will spend the winter hunting. He dislikes fishing. Another manager in the Puerto Rican Winter League, is Roberto Clemente of the National League Pittsburgh Pirates.

Alexander Durley, Head Football Coach at Prairie View A&M College is the last remaining link among the South western Athletic Conference "Big Five Coaches."

Billy Nicks, former PV coach who won five national titles and eight SWAC Championships; the late Fred "Pop Long," who coached some 35 years at Wiley, the late A. W. Mumford of Southern; Zip Gayles, who had championship teams at Longston when Longston was a member of SWAC and Durley, were SWAC's Big Five.

Durley, a native of Pittsburgh, Texas began his college coaching career under Monford at Texas College in Tyler where he later became Head Coach and posted a 45-15-8 record from 1942 to 1949. He went to Texas Southern University and stayed from 1949 to 1964. His record at Texas Southern was 101-55-7.

After four years away from coaching, Durley took the Athletic Director and Head Coaching position at Prairie View. His first year at Prairie View wasn't one he enjoyed talking about. He had a 4-5 season.

Prairie View's current won loss record is no criteria for a fan to judge Durley. He is known for his ability to put together an explosive offense that is combined with smartness and exceptionally well-drilled units. The Durley coached teams are capable of moving the pike in great distances in one devastating assault.

Rican Winter League, for the third consecutive year..... There is a parallel in the Joe Caldwell squabble with that of ex-Prairie View cager Zelmo Beaty, who has his hassle with the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA last season. Beaty is now playing for the Utah Stars, formerly the Los Angeles Stars. For a while appeared that Beaty would not accompany the team from Los Angeles to Utah because of Mormon you - know - what.

Throughout his coaching career he has produced some outstanding players and citizens. Some of the Durley coached boys are: Lawyers Doctors, Pharmacists, Preachers, Teachers, Coaches, and Professional Athletes. Homer Jones (Cleveland Browns), Warren Wells (Oakland Raiders), Andrew Rice (San Diego Chargers), Winston Hill, (New York Jets) and W. K. Hicks, (New York Jets), are a few of his players in the pro ranks.

Kim Braswell Scores Victory For Ga. 19-3

BY HERB SPARROW

LEXINGTON, Ky. UPI-Kim Braswell's four field goals and a 65-yard scoring pass from Mike Cavan to Charles Whitmore carried Georgia to a 19-3 Southeastern Conference victory over Kentucky Saturday.

Braswell's field goals, from 19, 30, 35, and 43 yards, tied the SEC single-game record set by Auburn's John Riley in 1969 against Kentucky.

Whitmore set a Georgia single-game record with 10 pass interceptions for 187 yards. Cavan showed the form he disconnected on 15 of 27 passes for 202 yards.

After a scoreless first quarter, Braswell put Georgia on the boards in the second period with his first field goal. Minutes later Cavan connected with Whitmore on their bomb and Georgia took a 10-0 lead at halftime.

Kentucky's only score came in the third quarter on a 37-yard field goal by Bobby Jones but Braswell came back with a 35-yarder and added two more in the last quarter.

OILERS LOSE BOYETTE

HOUSTON (UPI) - Middle linebacker Garland Boyette of the Houston Oilers has an injury to the arch of his foot and may not be able to play against the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday, Coach Wally Lemm said Tuesday.

Boyette, a 6-1, 245-pound seven-year veteran from Grambling, was all right when the team returned from San Diego Sunday, but now is on crutches. Lemm said Boyette did not know how he suffered the injury.

If Boyette cannot play, either second-year man Lloyd Wainscott or veteran Olen Underwood, who lost his starting job at outside linebacker this year, will start.

Lemm also announced the acquisition of running back Tom Smiley, a former Lamar Tech fullback, from the Denver Broncos. Smiley, who was just released from military service, was acquired for a draft choice.

Muhammad Ali In Triumphant Return Against Jerry Quarry

UPI - Cassius Clay, boxing as Muhammad Ali, made his triumphant return to the ring after three and a half years absence by scoring a technical knockout Monday night over tough Jerry Quarry in the third round at Municipal Auditorium.

Clay showing his old speed of hand and foot, stabbed open a deep cut over Quarry's left eye during the third round and the California Irishman was forced by his handlers to quit at the end of that session.

During the nine minutes of boxing that the fight last, Clay appeared trim and fit much the same as he had back in March 1967, when he last appeared in a boxing ring defending his heavyweight championship with a knockout over Zora Foley.

Following instructions shouted at him by handler Bundini Brown, Clay stabbed and stabbed and stabbed at Quarry's eye at long range and completely dominated the punching.

For two rounds, those ripping lefts stung and redounded Quarry's face and Clay, Scaling 213 1/2 pounds to Quarry's 197 1/2 easily won those two rounds as Quarry landed only a half dozen effective punches.

Midway in the third round, Quarry, desperately trying to get inside Clay's five - inch longer reach, pummeled the former champion to the ropes with two thumping lefts, but just when it seemed Quarry might have his best moment of the fight, Clay ripped another of those trip-hammer lefts and that one did the damage - by opening the cut over Quarry's eye.

The Irishman fought desperately for the closing minute of the fight and managed to avoid further damage. But Manager Teddy Benham stepped in front of Quarry when he returned to his corner, took one look at the cut and signalled that he was stopping the fight. Close Security precautions were taken in the hours preceding Clay-Quarry heavy-weight fight as officials obviously feared potential trouble. With Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox making inflammatory statements about the fight and urging a boycott, officials were cautious in monitoring the comings and goings of persons working in and around the Municipal Auditorium the site of the fight.

Technicians toiled to get ready for the fight, plain clothes detectives with guns and flashlights searched the building. We don't expect a ny trouble but we want to be ready for any a uniformed policeman said.

"We hadn't had any threats or anything like that but we're going to be ready in case anything happens."

Police even checked all cases that was brought into the building, including camera bags, portable picture transmitters and other darkroom equipment.
