TURNER RAPS BLACK CRITICS

Jesse H. Turner, the "Mr. Civil Rights" of Memphis, hurled a blast this week at the local black critics of three prominent black ministers - the Rev. James M. Lawson, the Rev. J. C. Miller and Father Jim Lyke.

Here is Mr. Turner's prepared statement: "It was most distressing to me to listen to the personal vilification of several of our community leaders by some of the witnesses who appeared at our public hearing, Nov. 5.

As a part of the Negro community, and being involved in many efforts to solve the many and varied problems we, as a race, face, I keep abreast of the feeling of the community on all major issues. I did not need a public hearing to determine the pulse of the black community regarding the WOPC.

us with an opportunity (1) to hear specific objections to the proposed reconstruction plan and (2) to receive alternative proposals. Regrettably much of the time at the public hearing was consumed by a number of witnesses attacking, personally, Rev. James Lawson, Rev. J. C. Miller, Father Jim Lyke, black members of the local governing bodies and black clergy in general because they have not always agreed with the protestors.

divided as to methods and tactics however, the fact that leaders are divided must not of itself be the basis for personal attacks on them. I have not always agreed with Rev. Lawson, Rev. Miller, Father Lyke or the individual Negro members of the City Council; however, these men have provided invaluable services to our community, attempting to solve our difficult problems. Also, service rendered to the community by black clergy is so outstanding, in general, that it needs no defense from me or anyone else.

committee of WOPC which hired Mr. Washington Butler as executive director of the committee; I thought Mr. Butler was eminently qualified then, and I think he is still qualified to serve as director. In fact, I believe that we shall have difficulty in finding a person of Mr. Butler's stature for the position, however, the selection of a director to fight poverty should be made by the members of the board of that Committee. I believe that they should be free to make that choice as we were when we selected Mr. Butler.

MY WEEKLY SERMON

By
REV. BLAIR T. HUNT,
PASTOR
MEMPHIS BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH
MEMPHIS, TENN.

My Weekly Sermon After The Ball
 Text: "Be sure your sin will find you out." Numbers 32:23.

"Whoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." Gal 6:7

The subject of this discourse is based upon sentiments embedded in the words of a sweet, lilting refrain of a waltz tune of years ago... An easy whistling tune:

"After the ball is over after the break of morn, after the dangers are leaving after the stars are gone, many a heart could be aching if you could read them all many the hopes which have vanished, after the ball."

A little girl curious begged of an old man a story. "Why are you lonely? Why are you sad?" She asked. The old man unbosomed his soul to a mere child. He returns in memory to the halcyon days of his youth. He visualizes again that far of night when to him the world was young and when he was young and felt that the world was his, when he could say, "my only books are women's looks."

And his sweetheart, she too was young, possessed of all the winging visions and vaulting dreams of youth. She possessed the beauty which men craved... whose petaled ears listened to men's sweet nothings that set her soul on fire.

The old man heard again the lilting song of the mocking bird which sent its melodies to the mantle of night with its overcast of stars. The night was young and the lady beautiful. Bright lights were flashing in the ballroom, soft the music, the setting superb. The backdrop was redolent with romance.

Then enters the serpent, then comes the weighting of values: This is so true of life, unless we take with us the invisible Christ. How often we are filled with remorse... "After the ball." There are many "Balls" in this life. The ball of youth, going down slippery lanes, lower and lower, no breaks. There is the ball of selfishness which leads to the friendless cold of an abandoned and cheerless old age. There is the ball of lust which leaves us with only the empty husks of existence and a mountain of griefs and regrets. There is the ball of continued sin which leads to the torments of hell. "The wages of sin is death. The gift of God is eternal life."

There is the ball of the alcoholic indulgences which steals away the mind and opens the flood gates of sinful indulgences... Serpents will coil themselves around your neck... Hiss in your ears and seize you with their fangs. You shall have woes and wounds.

Then there is the ball to which you may go with Jesus the christ as your unseen companion. Then, and then only, will "your nights be carpets of star dust spun from a loom ever spinning, and your days be gold as the pollen the daffodil hides in his mold."

"Be sure your sins will find you out." "Whoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." After the ball is over, after the break of morn,

Don't let it be "a weeping and a wailing, and a gnashing of teeth"... But sons of eternal bliss... with nothing else save sweet memories. Remember, Now, Jesus The Christ.

Full employment still seen as Nixon goal.

NATO approval expected on new nuclear plan.

Braves Reserve 38 Players On 1970-71 Winter Roster

Three of the top ten active National League hitters and a youngster who broke the International League batting record last season head up the 38 players reserved by the Atlanta Braves on the 1970-71 Winter Roster which is being submitted to the Commissioner of Baseball's office Sunday.

Rico Carty, Hank Aaron and Orlando Cepeda are the three who rank among the top ten active hitters in the league. Carty, in fact, has the highest lifetime average at .322 of any player currently in the big leagues. His major league - leading - 366 pace last season boosted his career mark 11 points, five ahead of the number two man in the majors, Roberto Clemente at .316. Aaron ranks third in the big leagues among active players with a .312 lifetime average. While Cepeda ranks seventh in the National League at a .299.

The Young candidate for the Braves center field job next year is Ralph Garr. The 24-year-old speedster hit .386 at Richmond of the International League last season to set a modern day league record. In fact, the only IL player to approach Garr's .386 mark in the past 20 years roster appeared on it last winter. The six newcomers are pitchers Tom Kelley, Don Cardwell and Dick Grant; infielders Hal Breeden and Marty Perez and outfielder Curtis Moore.

Twenty-nine of the players saw action with the Braves during the 1970 season, while eight played the season in the minor leagues and one didn't play in 1970 at all. Cecil Upshaw missed the entire year with an injured right finger on his right hand.

One player on the roster came to the Braves in an off-season deal this fall. Shortstop Marty Perez was obtained from the California Angels on October 23 in exchange for minor league catcher John Burns and cash. The average player on the Braves 1970 - 71 Winter Roster is 27 years old, weighs 193 pounds and is an even six feet tall.

DELTA PRESENT EBONY FASHION FAIR

Ebony's Fashion Fair at Ellis Auditorium Wednesday evening of last week was a tremendous show...and members of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority (who presented them) had a packed house. The show is a traveling one sponsored all over the nation by Ebony owners John Johnson and his attractive wife. Eunice, who travels all over Europe and here to get the latest styles each year.

We saw the newest styles by many top designers...but especially was I impressed by those done by Cecil Chapman, the Grecian styles all soft and feminine frocks by Dozia... Teal Trains, Christian Dior, and Jean Louis, Ben Reig and Malcolm Starr, all that I know are carried at LaCledes here and other stores I am sure. I love Italian styles especially Tita Ross's.

Again this year I went with Mrs. Emmitt Woods, a Delta woman. Among the very first persons to be noticed were Mattie Crossley, that brilliant and charming past-president of the local graduate chapter...the Brooks sister, Mose Yvonne Hooks and Phyllis Kelly, also two charmers.

We went in a bit after the theatre lights had been dimmed, so I noticed only a few persons. Sitting next to me was pretty Ann Mitchell whose husband, Willie Mitchell, is famed as an orchestra leader and recording artist. Ann wore a smart blonde mink suit (mini) with silver lama boots dotted with rhinestones. Had a chance to talk with Ann about her gift from her husband, a hundred thousand dollar ($100,000) Kajar mink coat (a rare breed of mink trimmed in sable with real ruby buttons. The coat, that has had much publicity, is kept always in a vault at Ann's furriers...and it is an exact duplicate of one that Richard Burton gave "Liz" Taylor (only a bit larger than Ann's small size at one-hundred thirty thousand.) I believe Ann, who is delightful company, had just come in that evening from California by plane. However, her driver dropped her, a friend and sister-in-law off in her Mark III. She's just as attractive as her three pretty daughters.

Others whom I chatted with or nodded during the evening were Mrs. Phil Booth and her mother, Mrs. C. M. Roulhac, Mrs. M. Woods, Mrs. Russell Sugarmon, Mrs. Mary Collier, Mrs. J. A. Hayes, Mrs. Hazzelle Lewis, Mrs. Fred Rivers, Mrs. C. H. Brown (Jerry), Miss Gertrude Walker, Atty. A. A. Latting, Mrs. Leon Griffin, Mrs. Leita Mason, who always looks good; Mrs. B. T. Johnson with Mrs. Charles Fletcher of Hermantown, Mrs. Gerald Howell and her two daughters, Mrs. Robert Tharpe and Ray. I also chatted with the famed A. Jackson Jr., a Stax Star and pretty little Ken Bridges, who looks exactly like her mother, Josephine Bridges. Ken wore the new midi coat. Jo was there, but I missed her. Saw Mrs. George Hunt and her little sweetie pie, and Marva Hunt is as pretty and sweet as ever.

Sunday evening Jimmy and I saw fashions, arts as well as a collection by Adele Simpson at LaCledes' Preview and Champagne Reception...and the event was a fabulous one. In fact, I could well say that the evening was a delightful one.

She is a member of Delta Sigma Theta and is presently employed as a Psychologist in the Public School system in D.C.

The groom earned his B.A. degree from Morgan State in Baltimore and is a senior in the Law School at Georgetown University in Washington. He is a member of Phi Sigma Tau National Society in Philosophy, Delta Theta Phi Law Fraternity, Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha National Forensic Honor Society. He is employed by Equal Opportunity in the District of Columbia. A California reception is planned for the Thanksgiving weekend.

MRS. R.S. LEWIS SR. IS HOSTESS TO PHYLLIS WHEATLEY MEMBERS

Mr. R. S. Lewis, Sr., was hostess at the attractive residence of her son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis to members of the Phyllis Wheatley Club members on Thursday of last week.

The group of ladies, who still love getting together after many years had their usual good time. According to several of them food was delicious as it always is when either of the Lewis females entertain... and we all know that the huge Studio Apartment is a delightful place to spend an evening.

An only guest was Mrs. Maece Walker. Members attending were Mrs. C.M. Roulhac, Miss Mattie Bell, Mrs. Peter Jones, Mrs. Annie Bell Allyne, Mrs. W. W. Gibson, Miss Allison Vance, Mrs. Clarence Pope, Mrs. Julian Smith, Mrs. Harry Cash, president of the group...Mrs. Hollis Price, Mrs. O. B. Plan Recital For Pianist

A 16-year old piano student, who has been acclaimed by music critics as one of the most gifted artists of our time, will be presented in a recital Sunday afternoon, Nov. 22, at the Longview-Heights Seventh Day Adventist Church at 685 E. Mallory. The public is invited.

The young artist is Gail Denise Jones, daughter of Claude Jones, Sr., of Memphis, and the late Mrs. Jones.

She is presently a junior at Highland Academy at Portland, Tenn. where he is majoring in music. Her interest in the piano was created when her parents gave her a toy instrument at the age of three and she began picking out tunes that she learned at church.

A native of Brooklyn N.Y. she was brought to Memphis by her parents in 1957. Her mother enrolled her in the Hattie B. Mosley School of Music at the age of six.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Mosley, Miss Jones had received six awards and pins from the National Guild of Piano Teachers and two awards from the Memphis Press-Scimitar for participation on the Ted Mack Talent at the Fairgrounds.

In 1969, Miss Jones won an award at the Scholarship Music Festival and was privileged to study under the noted Dr. Hubert A. Herman, who presented her in the summer Music Festival concert and again before this graduate students.

Proceeds from the concert will go to the Athletic and Recreation Division of the Missionary Volunteer Society of the Longview Heights Seventh Day Adventist Church for the benefit of the church and young people of the community.

The concert will be presented in the church's sanctuary. Donations will be one dollar for adults and 50 cents for students.

Literary Club In Big Start

Members of the Elite Literary Club are off to another fine year. Having as its theme: "The Performing Arts" the year was begun with a travelogue in color slides, give by Mrs. Russell B. Sugarmon, Sr., on their recent tour of Europe and the Far East.

Mrs. Sugarmon brought these parts of the world so close that one could actually feel their nearness. It was all a real treat that the members continue to retain fond memories of.

Mrs. N. F. (Carrie) Nabors and Mrs. M. J. (Sylvia) Owens were hostesses for the meeting and served a delicious repast following the business meeting, presided over by the president, Mrs. T. J. (Ruth) Beauchamp.

The next meeting was just as impressive as Mr. John Whittaker professor of Music of LeMoyne Owen College and chairman of the Humanities Division, presented a vivid history of the opera and played excerpts from several of the most popular operas.

With each he gave a story which was very interesting and informative... a presentation long to be remembered by the "Elite Ladies."

Mrs. Martelle Trigg and Mrs. Omega Shelton were hostesses at Mrs. Trigg's home on South Parkway. These ladies, too, served a delicious repast. Among the members present were: Mrs. E. G. Olive (Ida), Mrs. George West (Louise), Mrs. Milton Brandon (Grace), Mrs. Henry Collins (Ruth), Mrs. H. H. Jones, Mrs. Esther Ester, Mrs. Charles (Omega) Shelton, Mrs. J. A. (Alpha Jo) Beauchamp, Mrs. T. J. (Ruth) Beauchamp, Mrs. M. J. Owens, Mrs. W. F. Nabors, Mrs. Helen West, and Mrs. Lillian Jones.

Now comes the revelation that film companies are not only editing films for television audiences but adding new scenes, and plots. Vincent Canby, writing in the New York Times, reveals that one studio is now filming replacement parts of many films, some replacement parts running to ten or fifteen minutes or more, some with completely new actors and plots.

One can understand why much of today's so-called film art cannot be shown, as is, on the nation's television screens. On the other hand, in the case of the majority of foreign and domestic films of a more serious nature, the viewer should have the opportunity to see them as they were filmed and written. Otherwise, reviews mean nothing, and the set owner is always at the mercy of studio rewrite men

Spotlight On 'La Traviata'

Memphis State University Opera Theater, dividing its presentations into two series this season, announces guest artists for its second production of the season, Verdi's perennially popular "La Traviata."

The distinguished artists appearing in Series A, Saturday, Dec. 5, which will be the first presentation of the opera, are Metropolitan Opera stars John Alexander and Jean Fenn. Series B, which features an all-student cast, will be staged Dec. 9, 10, and 12.

Mr. Alexander who recently appeared in Memphis opposite Joan Sutherland in the Mer's touring production of "Norma," will sing the leading role of Alfredo. Making her MSU debut as the courtesan, Violetta, will be Miss Fenn. Resident baritone George Osborne will sing the role of Alfredo's father, The Elder Germont, and the entire production will be staged by David Morelock and conducted by Robert Girffith.

Tickets for La Traviata went on sale Nov. 16 at the MSU Box Office, located in the University Center. Persons may call 321-1043 for reservations. Curtain time is 8 p.m. and the staging will be performed at the Harding Academy Auditorium 1000 Cherry Road.

ed "How can the general church survive when we have 15 national conventions a year to support?"

Bishop Patterson specifically mentioned the "Pastors and Ministers' Conventions."

"This is the pastors and ministers convention," he said, referring to the general convocation. "Let the choir sing here, and have music workshops here during this convocation. We don't need a music convention."

The general council of the church is made up of bishops, pastors and ordained elders. Bishop Patterson was applauded several times as he made the statement.

Lakeview School News

Lakeview School has recently organized its Red Cross Council for this year under the leadership of Mrs. Kay Mitchell, third grade teacher. Two students from each class, grades three through eight, were chosen to represent their room.

Officers elected were: William Yarbrough, chairman; Annie Mann, vice chairman; Laneta Poindexter, secretary, and Janice Jones, Treasurer.

The group has just completed a successful membership drive and is now working on a project filling friendship boxes to the set to other countries. The third grade made Halloween favors to be sent to Western State Hospital, Bolivar, Tenn. The second grade is making Thanksgiving favors to be sent to Western State.

A Y-Teen Club for Junior high school girls is being organized by Mrs. Margaret Humphries. The group met recently and elected officers. Gurtha Hampton was elected president with Patricia Guess selected as vice-president. Laverne McQuarter was chosen to be the secretary. Mary Ann Curtis was voted to be the treasurer. The group is busy getting as many girls to join as possible.

An Abuse Of Citizenship

Those who strike against government, and their ranks are growing, have set a precedent that, no matter how it is rationalized, presents a deadly threat to freedom and self government. This is what the law says about the person who accepts employment with the federal government: "An individual may not accept or hold a position in the Government of the United States or District of Columbia if he—(1) advocates the overthrow of our constitutional form of Government; (2) is a member of an organization that he knows advocates the overthrow of our constitutional form of government; (3) participates in a strike, or asserts the right to strike, against the Government of the United States or the government of the District of Columbia; or (4) is a member of an organization of employees of the Government of the United States or of individuals employed by the government of the District of Columbia that he knows asserts the right to strike against the Government of the United States or the government of the District of Columbia."

Striking against government is an abuse of citizenship. There is no other word for it.

Law, Order With Justice

Dr. James H. Cheek, the comparatively new president of Howard University, came to Atlanta last Sunday and addressed a conference sponsored by the Atlanta Board of Education and the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Dr. Cheek is quoted as saying he sees some white supremacy implication by those who oppose racial balance.

He also saw a growing crisis in education but it was only a crisis and not a dilemma.

We agree on the latter point and we believe the American people and our government, local and national will meet this crisis.

On the question of racial balance we do not believe it is essential that we seek this for the students

It had to be taken into consideration for teachers in order to protect us in keeping a fair proportion of them. But for students, we think we can basically accept the concept of the children going to their closest school without any consideration for race.

"There is a need for an education which liberates both black and white. Education which makes men free, for only the educated are truly free."

We also agree with this observation.

We must understand that many white people have some unfounded fears about integration and these fears must be educated out of them.

However, in a radio interview, President Cheek in response to a question stated something which we think is correct.

When asked if he thought the phrase "law and order" was a code for repression, Pres. Cheek replied yes. "We think he is wrong in this opinion and we all must join in defense of law and order with the added two words "with justice."

We must have law and order or we have chaos.

The law and order phase was used over a century ago when it was exclaimed by the law officials to stop mobsters bent on lynching white house thieves and cat- the rustlers in the west.

So there is nothing wrong with the phrase but it can make a difference by those who use it.

It is the duty of citizens to help see that "law and order" is upheld with justice.

The Theater

A theatrical producer recently interviewed in U.S. News and World Report expressed the opinion that the decline in the New York Theater business was a serious cultural problem with national consequences. He noted that business this season was the worst ever, in number of shows, suggested the government might have to subsidize the industry.

There is one basic reason for the decline in theater business in New York and that is that producers are not giving the average American good entertainment at a fair price. For years procuring tickets has involved a racket, prices to a rare success being jacked up as far as possible. Theatrical fare in New York has also been notoriously offbeat for years.

If ever there was a case when the federal government should not initiate a handout program for private industry, this is it. If good plays are produced, at a fair price, the public will attend them. Perhaps a new group, in another city, can offer good theater to America—in Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles or elsewhere. The crime level and general atmosphere in New York City has undoubtedly been a factor in discouraging some to visit that city.

Taft & Stevenson

One result of the recent elections is the emergence of two relatively young political leaders who could conceivably become candidates for national office in the future. Both new U.S. Senators have famous names—Robert Taft Jr. and Adlai Stevenson 3rd.

Of the two, Taft is far ahead in political experience and his chances of becoming a candidate for national office are certainly brighter during the six-year term both men were elected to on November 3rd. That is because Taft has already served as Speaker of the House in Ohio and in Congress. He will, of course, have more of a national audience in the Senate.

Stevenson was impressive in defeating an incumbent in Illinois but is not considered as far along the political road as Taft, who had lost one bid for the Senate before his recent victory.

Interestingly, neither man's father reached the White House, though each came close. The late Senator Robert Taft was unfortunate enough to collide head-on with General Dwight D. Eisenhower when his star at last seemed to be on the rise in the Republican Party and he narrowly missed the G.O.P. nomination in 1952, which went to Ike. Stevenson ran twice, as the Democratic nominee—and was beaten both in 1952 and 1956 by Eisenhower.

If President Nixon is reelected in 1972, Taft could be a contender for national consideration in 1976; Stevenson, on the other hand, will be up against Ted Kennedy and several other Democratic hopefuls if he should make a bid that year. Their states give each Senator a starting boost; both Illinois and Ohio are key electoral vote states in all nomination and campaign planning.

WOMAN TO WOMAN

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK UPI — A psychiatrist who deals with troubled adolescents recommends that parents try to raise their offspring to function as mature human beings.

It's not being done to a great extent now, says Dr. E. J. Pawlowski, head of the Wakefield Medical and Educational Center in Wakefield, Mass.

If it were done, he maintains, teen-agers wouldn't be falling back on drugs, wouldn't be given to sexual exploitation and wouldn't be contributing to the ever-widening generation gap.

Dr. Pawlowski, the father of four and married to a physician, said contemporary teenagers find the world upsetting because they are raised in an overprotected, undisciplined and materialistically-oriented environment. "This is no fault of their own, it is the fault of their parents," he said.

Dr. Pawlowski's definition of maturity: "A mature person does not exploit anyone and does not allow anyone to exploit himself or anyone else." "If parents raised mature human beings," he said, "mature leaders would emerge on the world scene and there probably would be peace in the world."

The psychiatrist's blueprint for maturity is contained in a textbook he authored for use in high schools. Called "Path to Permanent Peace" Vantage Press, the book is being used in a demonstration project under Dr. Pawlowski's direction at St. John's Preparatory School in Danvers, Mass. Dr. Pawlowski, a native of Wakefield, served with the Army in the South Pacific during World War II. He received his medical degree from Marquette University School of Medicine and his training in child psychiatry at Georgetown Medical Center and the Massachusetts General Hospital. He is a diplomate of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology. Some of his other recommendations for parents interested in raising children who will have a high level of maturity: "Start giving children orders beginning when they can first understand 'yes' from no."

Explanations should accompany the orders.

"The order-giving is gradually changed to giving guidance and advice as the child grows older and more intelligent."

"By the time the child enters into the adolescent period, he should be able to bear many responsibilities and make many of his own decisions. The parents by this time should be giving almost no orders and there should be a gradual diminution of the guidance and advice-giving. Otherwise, if this practice should continue, the child will grow up to be a dependent, advice and decision-seeking adult."

Children raised along these lines develop maturity. The psychiatrist said his theories have been borne out in 14 years of practice.

NOTES, COMMENTS

Animals do not learn from the experience of other animals and the saying applies to men.

One of the mysteries of life is how some people manage to think so much of themselves.

It is easier to spend money than to save it and this explains why so many have so little to spend.

One of the easiest things in the world to do is to stand to one side and tell the rest of the people what to do.

Nikita's Memoirs

As Moscow reports were telling of the confinement of Nikita Khrushchev to his bed because of what was said to be a heart condition recently, Time Incorporated announced it was publishing the former Russian Premier's reminiscences in serialized form, later this month.

Because considerable secrecy and speculation surrounded the announcement, interest in the memoirs is great; it is generally believed, however, that publication of the book in the west has the approval of the Soviet Government, or at least a major faction of the Russian leadership.

If that be true, the book might be almost wholly typical propaganda, perhaps intended as a source of foreign exchange. There is a chance, of course, that the book will contain revelations, as some who have read the manuscript claim.

It is rare to read the memoirs of a former Russian Communist leader and while the book must be read keeping in mind its propaganda purpose, it will be of value in several ways in analyzing the Soviet Union and the flamboyant leader who launched Russia on the path of peaceful coexistence with the West, though with bombastic words and threats.

Wisdom is the art of listening to the soft voice of truth rather than the incessant babble of selfishness, ignorance and superstition.

Don't strain yourself trying to reform the world. It has been here a long time without you and will last a long time after you depart.

The man who attempts something unusual is generally laughed at, if he fails, and hailed as a great guy if he succeeds.

BING-CROSBY gives his singing voice a rest in one of ABC's new "Movie of the Week" specials of the new season, "Dr. Cook's Garden." He plays a small-town New England doctor in this suspense drama that was an Ira Levin play on Broadway in the 1968-69 season.

TV NOTES

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of television's best documentary series, "The Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau," is back on ABC for the new season. There will be four new programs in the one-hour skein and repeats of four old ones. The first new item is "The Tragedy of the Red Salmon," scheduled for a November airing.

WHERE were you and what were you doing on Sept. 3, 1951? Mary Stuart has no trouble recalling her where-and-what. She was on the initial telecast of the CBS "Search for Tomorrow" program in the leading role of Joanne Tate. She's still at it as video's longest-running daytime drama series enters its 20th year.

JACK BENNY'S guest stars on his Nov. 16 NBC special will be Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra and Dinah Shore. It is a 20th video anniversary for Benny, whose first network television program was broadcast on Oct. 28, 1950.

regularly donate through their place of business. According to the Red Cross, the drive is competitive, with each school seeking to have the most blood donated in its name. Each donor will be able to cast a ballot for the nursing school of his choice on the day of the drive.

The school receiving the most votes will win the rotating Red Cross Student Activities Trophy. Donated by civic Abe Goldberg, the trophy was won last year by the Emory University Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing.

On the day of the drive, the students will man the blood center, assisting Red Cross staff nurses in registering donors, serving in the canteen and acting as hostesses. Miss Wells stated that there will be plenty of pretty nurses on hand to provide courage for first time donors.

POLITICS AS A CAREER

By MABLE SANFORD LEWIS

"Candidates and workers today must be schooled in the art and science of winning elections." To be a winner one of the first ground rules is that a candidate cannot possibly be his own campaign manager.

Oftentimes this a hard point to get across to the candidate, but it is absolutely fundamental. He is simply too close to the situation. He is too involved emotionally and otherwise to make the necessary decisions that require a sense of detachment.

Of course, the candidate cannot be completely indifferent to campaign strategy. He has to lay out the guidelines and set some general policy for the campaign manager but at the same time it is very important that the campaign manager be given as much discretion as possible from the very outset.

The campaign manager must be selected on the basis of personal competence and not on the basis of personal acquaintance. A person does not seek out a doctor or an attorney solely on the basis of friendship, and it should be the same with selecting a campaign manager.

The campaign manager has to be skilled in what he is seeking to accomplish, and your friends may not have that skill. He has to know the ins and outs, all the aspects of the district. He has to know something about research, about fund-raising, about scheduling, about the population composition of the district, about advertising, and about promotion. The candidate should seek out the very best professional manager available and see that he has ample authority which to act. Getting people to vote is an individual selling job. Several years ago the Advertising Council of the United Council of the United States carried on an effective campaign, the theme of which was: All Business is Local. Nevertheless, it was a national promotional seller-buyer relation. And so it is with elections — all voting is local. We can talk about the national campaigns, we can buy time on television networks that cover a wide area, we can put bumper strips on cars and signs in store windows — each of these has its part. But we should remember that all voting is local. It involves personal contact and that is the important element in any promotional program, whether it is selling washing machines or candidates.

Not long ago the Maytag Company celebrated the sale of its three millionth washing machine. How did they accomplish such a feat? They sold them one at a time — one at a time. And the way people get elected is by selling voters on a one-at-a-time basis.

Next week my column will be on "How To Sell a Candidate."

Women Who Made America Great

By CLARK KINNAIRD

MARRIAGE in 1840 of Amelia Jenks, young (aged 22) governess for three children of a family at Waterloo, N. Y., to editor of the town weekly, Dexter Bloomer, was to be fortuitous for American womanhood. As incentive to helping him with hard work at the Seneca County Courier, Whig organ at the county-seat, he let her write unsigned pieces on issues of the time from the distaff viewpoint—as Anne Royall had sounded off in personal journalism at Washington, D. C., and as Margaret Fuller was bestirring women (and men!) at Boston.

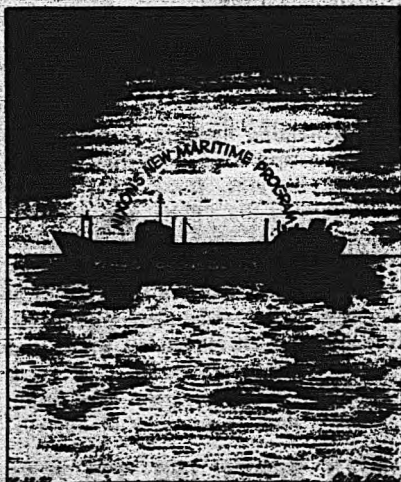

Amelia attended, as a somewhat partisan reporter, the historic women's rights convention at Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1848, but did not join those roused by Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton in a declaration of rights: "All men and all women are created equal." More importantly, she proceeded to start The Lily, first periodical for women published by a woman, to agitate for prohibition of alcoholic liquors, and of inequalities of women in marriage, property-holding, education, and voting legislation. An incidental crusade was for reform in women's dress injurious to health and safety—such as shoes and lacing that constricted feet and torsos, monstrous prolongation of skirts, bonnets non-protective from sunstroke. Shortened skirts, with pantaloons falling lower, had been improvised for outdoor work by women at Oneida Community, and adopted by Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Miller, an ardent suffragette. Mrs. Bloomer gave the costume endorsement in The Lily, which was gaining a wide circulation and influence. Hence, dubbing of the trouser-aspect garments as "Bloomers," for that equal rights demander, as humorists chided married women for insisting on making "wearing the pants" more than a phrase.

The notoriety served her well. Crowds turned out to hear her speak in "bloomers." However, she eventually disassociated herself from the costume, for "There were questions of greater importance than the length of the skirt."

Golden 'Cats

This is Griselle Walton back on the scene bringing you the latest soul around the Mighty Melrose Wildcats Den.

ACTIVITIES

Our Homecoming was celebrated during the week of Nov. 9-13. During this week there were many activities.

On Nov. 9, we presented our Annual Coronation in the school auditorium. As the Coronation our grade and organization queens, and Mr. and Miss Melrose were presented.

The grade queens were very formally attired in their gold shingle style gowns, and the organization queens were very colorful in their pink and yellow designed gowns.

During the coronation many tributes were made to Miss Melrose. Our R. O. T. C. sponsors presented a tribute to our queen and also the Thespians and Senior Glee Club.

On Nov. 11, our ROTC, sponsors, our band and majorettes, R. O. T. C. officers and Drill Team participated in the Veterans Day Parade. In this parade our superb Drill Team won second place in the reviewing stand competition and our mighty band sponsors won third place.

On Nov. 13, the Wildcats celebrated their most exciting day. During this day, we held our swinging homecoming pep rally in the gymnasium. The cheerleaders soaked plenty much soul. At the rally we presented our various queens and Mr. and Miss Melrose. The organizations were in their bright new uniforms. Each club also competed for the spirit stick. The Jacquelines were given the spirit stick for the most pep. Our faculty did a soulful cheer at the pep rally. Some teachers showing pep were Mrs. Maple, Mrs. Moultrie, Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. Collier, Mrs. Echols, and Mrs. Irvin.

getting hot the audience was cooled by the funeral procession led by the football team and also the burial of the Carver Coras. The acting preacher was Freddie Edwards.

SPORTS

On Nov. 13, our Homecoming game was held at our stadium against Carver. The Mighty Wildcats defeated the Carver Cobras 6-0. Some players doing their thing were: Odell Brooks, Nathaniel Parris, Carl Wright, Henry Jones, James Thompson, Kenneth Hill, Terrance Matthews, Louis Davis, Freddie Edwards, and others.

Memphis Pros Await Texas

The Memphis Pros have five games remaining in Nov. and all five will be against fellow Western Division rivals.

The Pros invade Utah Saturday night (8:30 CST) and Denver Sunday (8 CRT) before returning home for a Wednesday night, Nov. 25, showdown with the Texas Chaparrals.

The Pros' final two November assignments, both at home, will be against the Utah Stars Sunday night, Nov. 29, and vs. the Denver Rockets Monday night, Nov. 30.

A five-game win streak at mid-month boosted the Pros into contention for the Western Division's top rung, but Babe McCarthy still isn't satisfied that his club is functioning at its best.

"I guess I'm expecting too much too soon," he said. "But I know we have a club that can beat anybody in the league once we start clicking. And we will."

Both the Floridians and Chaparrals can attest to this. Against the Floridians Nov. 4, the Pros copped a 112-106 win as the Joneses-Steve and Jimmy - pumped in 23 points apiece to offset a 32-point night by Floridian guard Mack Calvin. Calvin is still the ABA's leading scorer.

Texas has felt the sting of defeat twice in as many tries against the Pros this season. Memphis nipped the Texas, 116-114, Nov. 3 at Sikeston, Mo. and then drilled the Chaps, 105-91, in Memphis Nov. 9.

The Pros' starters and their scoring averages: James Jones (13.8) and Steve Jones (19.1) at guard, Craig Raymond (9.7) at center and Wendell Ladner (5.1) and Gerald Gowan (10.1) at forward.

All games involving the Pros are carried over WREC Radio 60.

Most Worthy Grand Matron

The Matrons and Patrons Council of Memphis and Shelby County honored its most Worthy Grand Matron of the Tenn. Jurisdiction, Mrs. Etta M. Sherman, the night of Oct. 28 at Greater Mt. Moriah Baptist Church, 1098 S. Wellington.

The fall motif was carried out in the beautifully decorated dining room against which setting Mrs. Mozetta Vaughn gave a touching rendition of the "Lord's Prayer" in song.

The honoree was accompanied by the associate Grand Patron, Clarence Isabel, and Most Worthy Grand Master of the State of Tennessee, Charles Williams.

Mrs. Rosa Maulden of Gilbratter Chapter, No. 36, sang "Give Her Roses Now."

An appreciable number of persons was present from all over the State of Tenn., among whom was the grand associate matron of Knoxville, Tenn.

Other O. E. S. members were also beautifully gowned in "after five" and evening attire.

Representatives of all departments of the O. E. S. participated in the program of which Mrs. Ruth F. Collins was chairman. Mrs. Alice Jackson was chairman of refreshments and Mrs. H. Redding general chairman.

Hamilton High

This is Norma Boone, and Evelyn Wells bringing you the latest happening around our Big Boss, and Bad Wildcats Den.

The mighty Wildcats defeated Overton by the score of 28-6. Some of the outstanding players were John Williams, Michael Ford, Michael Miles, Randy Strickland, Larry Scruggs, James Powell, Paul Tate, James Boone, Paul Thacker, Charles Clayborn and Robert Harris. Touchdowns were made by Larry Stevenson, Darryl Hudson, Larry Simmons and Jerry Rhodes.

This week our spotlight is on the Les Dames Charmants. Their advisor is Miss M. A. Martin. Officers are: President Norma Boone, Vice-president - Pamela Brown, Secretary - Landra Williams, Second Vice - President Monty Denison, Treasurer - Maxine Clanton, Assistant Treasurer Phyllis Kyle, Sgt. at Arms Ann Green, Business Manager Cheryl Payne and Christy Miller, Parliamentarian Gwen Bernard and Chaplain Jacqueline Booker.

Other club members are Sylvia Boyd, Joyce Burns, Patricia Daxridge, Charlotte Faulkner, Brenda Freeman, Paula Gray, Shariene Hardin, Phyllis Jackson, Bridgette Jones Vivian Poag, Marvis Shaw, Carmen Tinsley, Mary Tooles, Sheila Winfrey and Delores Jeffries.

On the sport scene, the Wildcats played their last game Friday, November 13. They played host to Kingsbury. Thank you coaches and team for doing all they could during this football season. We would also like to commend our vivacious cheerleaders.

Would God condemn man to eternal hell?

Perhaps you've asked the question. Is God vengeful? Does He commit man to everlasting hell? If so, how can He then be loving?

In fact, the Bible clearly indicates that there is no eternally burning hell. True, sinners will perish, but there will be no endless punishing.

The Bible tells us that when Christ returns to earth, He will raise the righteous dead to life. Those living, who have claimed Him as their Lord, will be caught up with them to dwell with Him in heaven.

After 1,000 years, Christ and the saved will return to earth with the Holy City. At this time the wicked dead will be raised to life. Led by Satan, they will encircle the Holy City in an attempt to take it. But fire will fall from heaven and destroy them. THIS IS HELL-FIRE!

Once it has consumed the wicked, the fire dies. Hell is over and the earth will be cleansed from sin. (Check the Bible, Malachi 4:1-3; Jude 6 & 7; Revelation 20:7-9; 21:8.)

Fantastic? Yes, but real. This is the Bible account of what will occur. Perhaps you've wondered what the Bible has to say on this and other related topics. A special brochure with more detailed information is yours for the asking. Just complete the coupon below. No one will call on you.

Food is the fuel of the body. Your automobile requires no oil or gas when it is resting, but your body does. When lying at perfect rest, sleeping soundly the body is using fuel which was taken in as food. It uses much more when exercising.

The foods that store fat in the body are mostly starches, such as bread, cereals, rice, hominy, potatoes, pastry, cakes, pies, and fats of all kinds—cream butter and fat meats. "Then," queries my overweight friend, "must I leave all those things out of my diet in order to lose weight?"

By no means. That has been tried to the detriment of the health of the victims. Of course, the fat-making foods should be eaten more sparingly. Many fat people eat too much starch. In fact, they eat too much of everything.

In order to reduce without causing hunger, weakness, or discomfort, the person should never try to reduce too rapidly. The vegetables such as cabbage, turnips, kale and greens of all kinds, contain valuable vitamins and are laxative. They can be eaten freely, for they don't produce fat. Half a head of lettuce at dinner is quite filling. A combination of raw fruits and vegetables is extremely wholesome and very satisfying. Lemon juice is preferred by some as a dressing.

Meat, bread or potatoes, one or two fresh vegetables, and a raw salad, and if desired a simple dessert, is quite enough for a dinner. In fact, one could get along on less especially if trying to reduce.

If there's a feeling of hunger in the middle of the morning or afternoon, try eating some fruit. It often proves very satisfying. A glass of tomato, orange, or grapefruit juice is strengthening and filling.

TV COMMENT

CAROL BURNETT is one of the top comedienne in show business. Perhaps one reason for her success is her strong belief in the power of positive thinking and gay optimism. This she learned from her late, dearly loved grandmother, whom she called Nanny. At the close of her show, Carol will wink an eye and pull her earlobe. It is reported that this is a signal to Nanny that everything is going well.

DAN AUGUST is an hour long series built around a veteran, hard-nosed homicide detective in a small southern California community. Burt Reynolds stars as Dan August.

The show is produced by Quinn Martin, who also produces "The F.B.I." Walter Pidgeon appears in one of the segments wearing judge's robes. Pidgeon is now in his 73rd year.

HOGAN'S HEROES have been in a German POW camp for six years now. The series is supposed to be funny, which is a tall assignment for the script writers. Being a POW is no picnic.

THE WHITE HOUSE CHRISTMAS TREE begins its journey to Washington from this forest site near Nemo, S.D. The tree is 78 feet tall and measures 29 1/2 feet across at the base. The traditional lighting ceremony is set for Dec. 16.

MARION JACKSON Views Sports of The World

THE MOVING FINGER OF SPORTS

South Carolina State College has consented to a request by Johnson C. Smith University that the non-conference game (SIAC-CIAA) scheduled between the two institutions on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26 in Orangeburg, be cancelled. The Charlotte, N. C. Golden Bulls will participate in a CIAA playoff classic on that date. Atlanta Falcons play the Miami Dolphins in the ABC-TV nationally-televised Monday Night NFL game, Nov. 30th. . . .

Archie Moore, the former world light heavyweight champion, is still spearheading a youth program, titled "Any Boy Can". The ex-champ now lives in San Diego, Calif., from which he travels coast-to-coast, assisting in various youth programs.

Ancient Archie, as old headlines use to tag him, was one of the oldest men ever to fend a light-heavyweight championship. Archie new sports a white beard and exudes that easy charm and grace which characterized his magnificent boxing career.

Moore pinpoints a message that urges youths to stay away from drugs, remain in school and try to learn to love their fellowman.

TRAGEDY IN THE SKY — The chartered Southern Airways jet that plunged to earth carrying 75 persons, including the Marshall University football team and coaching staff to their death, was the worst in aviation history.

Looking back, 31 persons including 14 Wichita State University players perished last October 2 when their airliner crashed in the Colorado Rockies. In 1960 a plane crash 22 persons including 16 members of the California State Polytechnic team, enroute to Logan, Utah for a game with Utah State.

IN THAT FATAL ACCIDENT, a National Transportation Safety Board showed the plane, a Martin 404 was overweight and unable to make the altitude to clear the Continental Divide.

AN ATLANTAN MOURNED — Bereavement and grief hit Atlanta like a bombshell. One of the football players who died was Larry Brown, 587 English Avenue, N. W. and a graduate of Samuel H. Archer High School.

SPORTS HAVE BEEN HAUNTED by tragedy in recent years, but remarkably 10 years passed since the Cal Poly team from San Luis Obispo, Calif., died in a wreck at Toledo, Ohio, that claimed a total of 22 lives.

The only worst disaster involving American sports figures occurred in Belgium on February 15, 1961, when 18 members of the U. S. Olympic skating team were killed.

The Marshall University team was returning from Greenville, N. C., where it had lost to East Carolina College, 17-14.

There have been four major foreign plane accidents involving sports figures. In 1949, 18 members of the Turin Soccer Club, the Italian champions, were killed when their plane struck a cathedral. A year later, 13 Brazilian athletes were killed in a plane wreck in Brazil and on Feb. 6, 1958, seven members of England's highly-regarded Manchester United Soccer team died in a crash in Munich, Germany. Eight Danish soccer players died in a plane crash in Copenhagen in 1960. Six Czechoslovakian soccer players died in a 1956 Czech wreck.

A number of sports luminaries have died in plane crashes. Laurence Owen, regarded as the "queen of figure skating," died in the Brussels disaster that virtually wiped out U. S. figure skating for five years. Miss Owens, 18 at the time of her death, had won the North American title the week before the crash and was en route to Prague as the favorite in the world championships.

Other sports notables who have died in plane wrecks include Notre Dame Football Coach Knute Rockne, Middleweight Boxing Champion Marcel Cerdan Sr., pro golfer Tony Lama, All Star infielder Kenney Hubbs and former World Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

IRONICALLY ENOUGH — Southern Airways is a favorite of many Deep South schools playing inter-sectional competition. Although, the ill-fated flight was the first-ever for the Marshall University team, the airline carries about 20 football teams on charter flights each weekend, including most Southeastern Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference teams and such independents as Florida State University.

It should be remembered that the airline carried the Braves' "400" Club to a week-end series with the Montreal

Expos in Canada last Summer and previously to Florida Spring training at West Palm Beach and to the Astrodome in Houston, Texas.

S. C. — J. C. SMITH GAME POSTPONED — South Carolina State College has consented to a request made by Johnson C. Smith University that the non-conference football game between the two institutions scheduled for Thanksgiving Day in Orangeburg be cancelled.

Johnson C. Smith has received a bid from the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (CIAA), of which it is a member, to participate in a conference playoff championship game on Thanksgiving.

"In view of the fact that they have been invited to perform in a conference playoff game which may lead to a bowl game in the Astrodome, we felt that we should not force them to play us and lose that opportunity," said a member of the S. C. State athletic committee.

Niekro Tops Atlanta Pitchers Vs. Individual Clubs In 1970

SEATTLE — George Mikan was symbolic of the era in which he played. So is Lenny Wilkens, a present-day star in the National Basketball Association.

While their playing styles are as different as can be, they have some things in common. When the NBA's Silver Anniversary Season opened, the list of all-time scoring leaders looked like this:

L. WILKENS Sea. 10 712 4073, 3624, 11,770, 16.5. G. Mikan, Minn. 9 520, 4097, 3570, 11,764, 22.6. There they were in the record book, almost identical in points scored. Yet while Mikan was 6-foot-10 and 250 pounds, Wilkens is only 6-1 and 185 points. Mikan dominated the game in ball-control, plodding game of the late-1940s and early 1950s with the Minneapolis Lakers. Wilkens, also a product of his time is quick graceful and a more accurate shooter. He does not dominate the game.

A festive evening of food, fellowship and frivolity highlighted the evening in which the stage play "Count Dracula" was presented by a group of talented actors.

Mrs. Joseph H. Jacobs served as chairman for the wives and sweethearts party. The presence of the 100 Per Centers was acknowledged by the Talley-Ho management and the cast of "Count Dracula", which was a captivating and pulsating mystery drama.

Appreciation was expressed for the evening's entertainment by A. L. Thompson, president of the 100 Per Centers.

Among the guests present were Mesdames and Messrs. Jack Adams, Brady Barnett, Theba M. Brown, T. J. Crittenden, Wesley T. Dobbs, Smith G. Fleming, Marion E. Jackson, Joseph H. Jacobs, Ralph A. Albany State Rams Stun Savannah State Tigers

ALBANY, Ga. — Albany State honoring its 1960 undefeated, unscored upon team, uncorked a devastating passing attack to overwhelm Savannah State College 33-13 and averted the dismal day that an early morning rain had threatened.

With 19 points on the scoreboard in the first half, it was just a matter of time. The outcome was never in question as the Rams struck for six points in the first period. Sylvester Bing, the Rams' split end, snatched a 23 yard pass from quarterback Kenne Burke for the initial score. Thomas Frazier missed the conversion but the Rams were off and running.

Roy Howard, the Rams' substitute split end, clenched the victory when he hauled in a 34-yard Burke pass in the end zone. Frazier's conversion made it 14-0 and the Rams were never headed.

Burke, refusing to sit on the lead, took to the air again for the insurance touchdown. This time he hit Arthur Cameron, a converted flanker, coming out of backfield with his touchdown pass. Burke hit on five TD passes.

The game, for all practical purposes, was over at that point but Burke, enjoying one of his better days, struck again with a 30-yard fling to Eddie Wilson to put the game out of reach 26-0.

Savannah, then, roared back in an attempt to avoid a riot. Tiger quarterback Walter Gregory, mixing his plays beautifully, put Savannah into the act as he scouted 15 yards for the score, capping the Tig-gers' first serious scoring threat with 1:40 left in the third period.

The Rams, with the famous 1960 team looking on, continued the onslaught as Burke connected again and again with accurate passes. To wrap up the Ram's scoring for the day, Burke hit his tight end on a 14 yard toss.

Burke, coming off a bad day against Alabama A & M, hit on 21 of 37 passes for 318 yards and five touchdowns to add spice to the annual homecoming festivities.

IT WON'T BE LONG—perhaps in another two weeks—before the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio, greets its 500,000th visitor since the doors first opened in September of 1963. As this was completed, the Hall had been host to 495,310 fans, thanks in large part to all-time record attendances throughout 1970. This year, attendance at the game's shrine has exceeded 100,000 for the first time (compared to the previous record of 80,881 in 1969 and the 1968 mark of 58,833) and attendance has reached a record high for each of the 10 months this year. . . .

FOOTBALL

BY PEPE FRITCHIE

Washington, D.C. — The Texas-Arkansas game on December 5th may decide what team goes to the Cotton Bowl but if that team has to face Notre Dame it will be a dubious honor.

Razorbacks will be without Bill Burnett, a hard driving fullback for which ever was one, and that might handicap them. But they have lived with the memory of Texas' come-from-behind-win last season for a long time and have the desire.

Texas has been strong this year but perhaps not as strong as last season when they rallied for a magnificent come-from-behind victory over the Irish in the Cotton Bowl on January 1st. That earned Texas the unquestioned number-one crown.

As this is written, however, Notre Dame looks like the best choice for the national mythical collegiate title at season's end. The Irish have run over everyone, though an upset in one of their last games could change the picture, of course.

It has been a long road back for the Irish, who traditionally have fielded good football teams. They should remain a football power for many years with the quality of coaching now existing at South Bend. And they have a tremendous recruiting asset in being the nation's leading Catholic university, considering the fact that there are now 45,000,000 Catholics in the nation, about twice the number of Baptists, for example, the largest Protestant denomination.

All they needed at South Bend in recent years was better coaching; that need is filled and Notre Dame is likely to remain a power for years to come.

WATTA CAKE! — Carol Huffman puts the finishing touches on what GE calls the "world's brightest birthday cake," proclaiming the fifth anniversary of those 400-watt Lucalox lamps in Cleveland. Each lamp produces 27 times as much light as the conventional 100-watt lamp.

Know THE Weather

Why is lightning seldom heard during the mid-winter months?

Lightning is an electrical discharge. It's a child of turbulent, billowing clouds—most often the thunderhead.

Winter clouds are usually of the stratus variety from the north and they seldom produce lightning. They don't usually contain high-velocity updrafts and downdrafts which produce a rapid transfer of electrically charged particles.

May 6, respectively.

Another top Braves pitching performance against one club was by Jim Nash, who was 3-0 with three complete games in three starts against San Diego. Nash allowed only four earned runs in 27 innings against the Padres for a 1.33 earned run average.

The Padres were also the team the overall Braves staff had the best ERA against for the season. In 18 games, Atlanta pitchers gave up 56 earned runs in 160 innings to San Diego hitters for a 3.15 ERA.

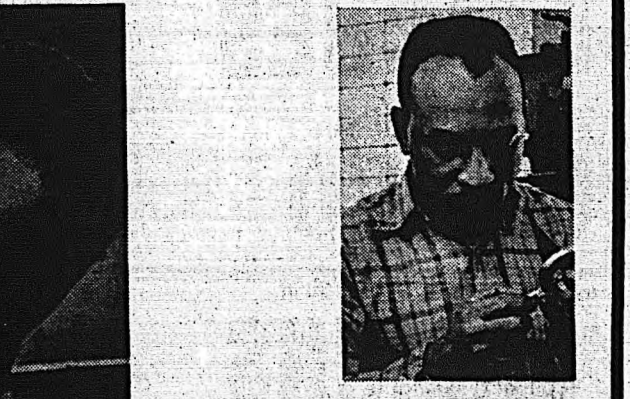

The Poorest Braves team pitching performance came against Pittsburgh, despite Niekro's two shutouts, in 12 games against the Pirates, the Braves allowed 65 earned runs in 104 innings for a 5.63 ERA. Atlanta split its season series against the Pirates with six victories and six losses.

In other team categories, the Braves pitched their highest number of complete games versus San Diego with eight, and the Atlanta pitchers' 121 strikeouts against the Padres were also more than against any other club.

The most bases-on-balls were given up to the San Francisco Giants with 75 for the year, while the fewest were conceded to Pittsburgh with 31.
