Elks Plan Homecoming For Rev. "Gatemouth" Moore

The Bluff City Elks Lodge No. 96 and the Anna S. Church Temple No. 285, are sponsoring a "grand homecoming party" for Rev. Dwight "Gatemouth" Moore, who recently returned here from Birmingham, Ala.

The celebration has been planned for 8 P. M. Friday, Oct. 18 at the Elks Rest, 401 Beale Street.

Rev. Moore will spearhead a membership drive for the local Elks Lodge in which 1,000 members will be sought, announced Lt. George W. Lee, grand commissioner of education for the Elks.

The drive will continue until Dec. 2.

The minister was once known as "Mister Beale Street," before he switched from blues singing to preaching the gospel about seven years ago.

After leaving Memphis about six years ago, Rev. Moore went to Birmingham where he was employed by radio stations WEDR and WJLD.

During his heyday as a blues singer he appeared in shows and nightspots in New York, Chicago, Kansas City, and many other places. He also made several recordings.

The blues singer turned preacher said he was earning $1,500 a week when he suddenly got the urge to preach.

The public is invited to attend the homecoming celebration.

By JAMES LEE WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Eisenhower agreed Tuesday to discuss with five Southern Republican Congressmen plans for early withdrawal of all federal troops assigned to Little Rock in the school integration crisis.

White House news secretary James C. Hagerty announced Mr. Eisenhower's approval of the conference, which was suggested by Rep. Joel T. Broyhill (R) Va.

Commissioner Dillard Addresses Frontiers

Commissioner Stanley Dillard told about plans for improving public facilities in Memphis when he was addressing members of the local Frontiers club at a luncheon meeting Wednesday.

Pointing out that the municipal airport was self-supporting, he said plans are being made to construct a new terminal and expand the runways, as well as "set-up" 30-minute free controlled-parking. He added "no fence, we're going to acquire more land for the expansion program. He said the federal government will help finance the project on a 50-50 basis.

He said equal facilities will be provided for Negroes because it is required by the Federal Government.

"We are planning a terminal which will be adequate for air travel up to 1970," continued Dillard. He added, "changes are taking place so fast we would be unwise to plan further ahead. I predict that eventually the conventional air-pilot will be replaced with missile guided pilots."

Plugging the new hospitalization insurance plan which will go into effect, at John Gaston hospital, Nov. 1, he said "the whole country is watching our city's plan to see how it will work. E. H. Crump hospital is being operated successfully.

About 90 percent of the bills are being collected." Ellis auditorium, which is jointly operated by the city Memphis and Shelby county, will be improved. He also told about the progress of a Negro 18-hole-golf course which is being constructed at Fulton State Park. The site is being leased from the state. A club house (Continued on Page Two)

Editor Scott Receives Wire From President

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — C. A. Scott, Editor of the Atlanta Daily World, received a thank-you telegram from President Dwight D. Eisenhower Tuesday night. It read: "Thank you very much for your message of good wishes on my birthday anniversary. I am truly grateful for your thought of me."

Mr. Scott sent greetings to the President who observed his 67th birthday Monday. He wired Mr. Eisenhower:

"Sincere best wishes on your birthday and may you be blessed with continued good health to enjoy many more anniversaries."

Kasper's Punishment Certain

The United States Supreme Court has denied the petition of racist John Kasper for writ of certiorari, which if granted would have required the production of the record of his conviction for review. The denial was announced last Monday.

Kasper had been adjudged in contempt of court by a federal judge in Knoxville, Tennessee, in 1956, as an outgrowth of his activities in creating trouble, after an injunction had been issued forbidding interference with the integration of the high school at Clinton, Tennessee. A one-year sentence was imposed by the judge but bond was posted and Kasper remained free. He has remained free on the bond and continued his agitation and hate-provoking methods while his case has been appealed.

The recent action of the United States Supreme Court makes certain the punishment of Kasper. The highest court of this country, in denying this petition, placed the stamp of finality upon the litigation. The decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals which affirmed the action of the district judge must now be carried out. Since review on denial of this writ is not a matter of right, the latest development dispels further freedom on the bond. A despicable hate-monger will soon be quieted.

School Board Head Not Disturbed Over Court Rule

HOUSTON, Tex. — (INS) — Federal District Judge Ben Connelly Tuesday ordered Houston schools integrated "with all deliberate speed."

Connelly handed down his decision on a suit brought three months ago by two Negro girls who had been refused admission to Houston public grade schools in September, 1956.

Mrs. Frank Dyer, president of the Houston School Board, was not disturbed by the ruling.

School Board Head Delusions Destroyed At Little Rock, Educator Says

BY EDDIE WILLIAMS ATLANTA, GEORGIA — (SNS) — Atlanta University held its 14th Annual Charter Day Convocation Wednesday and celebrated its 90th charter anniversary.

Visitors, alumnae, students and faculty from the colleges in the University System met in Sisters Chapel on the Spelman College campus to observe the annual convocation and hear an address from the newly elected president of Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn.

President Stephen J. Wright said the recent situation in Little Rock, Ark., has helped to tear down two delusions:

One, the ideas among Negroes that the good race relations built up with whites through the years would lead to speedy implementation of the U. S. Supreme Court's decision against public school segregation.

And two, the belief among white segregationists that the integration movement was spineless, sustained by Northern liberals, and could be dissolved by doing away with the NAACP and other groups.

"With the death of these two delusions, there had to be a Little Rock somewhere," Dr. Wright said.

Several things are at stake in Little Rock where Arkansas National Guardsmen and federal troops are maintaining peace while court-ordered integration is proceeding, the Fisk president said. Among these he listed "myths created by professional Southerners, Southern industrial development, the equality of opportunity for Negroes in the South, the prestige and ultimate authority of the United States Supreme Court, and the struggle for the loyalty of the uncommitted peoples of the world."

Dr. Wright, a graduate of Hampton Institute Howard and New York Universities, said that "silence" when great issues are at stake is consent.

He was referring to a charge that the "majority of the liberal and middle of the road white Southerners had been intimidated into silence" by pro-segregation groups. "These voices need to be audible," he added.

Explaining that the pressure to integrate at all levels must not be diminished in the South, Dr. Wright challenged his audience to "descend from our ivory towers to help break the political silence."

As he looked about the Chapel, he concluded: "If the founders of this institution could look down at the potential it represents, they would know that their sacrifices were not in vain."

Move To Withdraw Troops Approved By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON — The decision to withdraw 500 paratroopers from Little Rock, Ark., and return 8,500 federalized National Guardsmen to the control of Gov. Orval Faubus was approved in advance by President Eisenhower, the White House disclosed Tuesday.

Presidential News Secretary James C. Hagerty said the withdrawal indicates that "we sincerely hope a solution on this can be reached and can be reached as soon as possible."

Last week was climaxed by an enjoyable, entertaining, and talented program. The program was sponsored by the various ninth grade homeroom teachers. John J. Taylor, president of the Senior Class, was the master of ceremonies. In a recent assembly John Taylor called the freshman "tolerated" and they proved that they would not be called "tolerated" again by presenting such a wonderful program.

TYRONE SMITH almost stole the spotlight with his delightful style of singing. I've heard a lot about Tyrone's singing but I mustn't have had the privilege of hearing him. Many say we will hear plenty about him in the near future. RAYE TAYLOR aroused the audience with her singing of "All Shookers". The most talented act was the instrumental duet by Dorothy Jones and Rosanno Quinn. The number they played on the piano was "Stars and Stripes Forever". There were three good harmonized girls' quartet the Princess' quartet, the Twilights, and the Pennettes. The four girls in the Pennettes were Vernita Williams, Martha Purnell, Elna Marshall, and Helen Willford. The one boy Freshman quartet was led by David Porter, the only freshman in the quartet. The name of the quartet was the "Marquettes" and they had a delightful arrangement of "Diana" background by Andrew Love on the saxophone. There were many other enjoyable acts there was Beverly Bunton who sang "Send Me Some Loving", a calypso dance to the record Banana Boat by Eloise Boyce and Willie Jean Gloveson and several others. The guest were Carroll "Never Walk Alone" McSwain, prize winning Barbara Griffin and the fabulous Quills. I salute the freshman class their teachers and all who were concerned, and I can freely say that was a tremendous talent program and you have proven your point to me.

Gwendolyn Manning Crowned "Miss Melrose"
Gwendolyn Manning, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manning was crowned "Miss Melrose" in an elegant ceremony held yesterday in the spacious, and beautiful Melrose Gymnasium. Gwendolyn, when interviewed seemed calm and casual and not the least bit overexcited. She stated that much of her excitement occurred when the voting was being tabulated and that it was a thrill waiting, what seem like years, for the announcement of who had won. The editor, was right on the scene while the vote was tabulated and everything went just fine. Gwendolyn Edged Jackie Joy out by about 30 votes and was a heavy favorite of the Freshman Class. A most demonstrative interpretative dance was presented by Mary Shelton, Soul stirring "Rocking Phenonia" was a piano solo done up by William Allen.

MAIN POINT
Kenneth Coffelt, attorney for the group, said the main point to be settled is whether the federal Government has the right to send troops into Arkansas without a specific request from the Governor.
LITTLE ROCK CRISIS
Arkansas Gov. Faubus, whose initial handling of integration at Central High is believed to have precipitated what is now called the "Little Rock crisis," is not satisfied with partial withdrawal of federal troops. "We are still in occupied territory," he claimed.

Faubus called out the Arkansas National Guard at the beginning of the school year to "preserve the peace" by blocking integration at Central High. The troops later were taken from under his command when President Eisenhower ordered the Guardsmen federalized and then sent paratroopers into Little Rock to disperse a mob which had prevented court-ordered integration.

SUNDAY EVENING proved to be one much fun for many of us when we were invited out by Ruby Gadsden and "Nat" Williams, both Pittsburgh Courier columnists who honored two of the nation's best known writers, Evelyn Cunningham Johnson, Detroit columnist, who writes on a women's whirl through the country as their paper the Courier present a caravan on a modern trailer. Also being honored were "Jake" Gaither, circulation manager for the national paper and "Jimmy" Johnson, Gladys's spouse and photographer for the Courier.

The gay event was given at Toney Inn. Two of the most eye catching of the fashionable dresses seen were worn by Gladys a black "after five" (crepe) and Evelyn (a beige cocktail frock). They were double breasted (each) sent them by the Memphis World, the Tri-State Defender and "Willie" Monroe, Radio Personality and close friend to Evelyn over a long period. None the less smart was our charming hostess, Ruby Gadsden who wore royal blue with the pure silk shoes that matched. The two visiting columnists were warm with charm and the first meeting was just as one had known them all along. Jake Gaither made a touching short talk as he expressed his deep feeling for the entire group of Press members present, saying newspapers usually fight one another, but tonight we are all together as one. And it was fun.

Thanks to both "Nat and Ruby" and this I say for other members of the "press" present. Editor of the Memphis World; Martha Jean Steinberg and Willie Monroe from Radio Station WDLA; Margorie Ulen, social columnist from the Defender; Miss Dorothy Butler with Mr. Henry Collins of the Defender and Lewis O. Queen To Display Gems In America

LONDON, England — (ANP) — When Queen Elizabeth crosses the Atlantic this month she will bring with her some historic items of royal jewelry never before seen in Canada or America.

Her Majesty last visited the New World in 1951 as Princess Elizabeth, and her collection of jewelry then was a modest one. Before she made that visit, however, she had her cars pierced so that she could wear the large drop earrings already in her collection.

Since that date, the Queen has become accustomed to wearing the magnificent jewels left to her by her grandmother, the late Queen Mary. During the Commonwealth tour three years ago, the Queen wore many of these superb pieces for the first time.

One famous piece — the Russian fringe tiara originally presented to Queen Alexandra — will very probably be seen in Ottawa on October 14th. On that day Her Majesty will be attending the first session of the new Canadian Parliament.

She first wore this magnificent tiara at the Opening of Parliament in Wellington, New Zealand, in January, 1954, and has continued to choose it for state openings of Commonwealth parliaments. Of simple, classical design, the tiara was presented to Queen Alexandra by certain of her friends on her Silver Wedding Anniversary in 1888.

Another tiara which Her Majesty will very probably wear during her visit to the U. S. is the Russian Diamond Tiara which was formerly the property of the Grand Duchess Vladimir. This fabulous piece can be worn with fifteen large drop pearls suspended from the diamond ovals, or alternatively, with an equal number of fine emerald drops.

When the Queen wears the emeralds she has a fine necklace and a brooch of cabochon emeralds and diamonds to go with them.

During state visits abroad, Her Majesty's historic jewels play an important role. They add to the magnificence of an occasion and despite her own affection for more modest and personal articles of jewelry, the Queen has come to appreciate the importance of her formal gems.

COTTON GINNINGS OFF In view of the huge carry-over of cotton from past years now on hand, it is interesting to learn that 1,611,793 running bales of cotton from this year's crop were ginned prior to Sept. 16. This compared with 3,258,885 ginned to the same date last year and 2,797,813 two years ago. Included in the ginnings were 559 bales of American-Egyptian cotton, compared with 378 last year and 67 two years ago.

PET MILK HOME ECONOMIST

By LOUISE R. PROTHRO If you've always thought it was hard to make a perfect cream pie, I've got wonderful news for you. They're easy as can be when you use Pet Evaporated Milk and Pet Milk recipes! The delicious BANANA CREAM PIE I want to tell you about today, for instance, is smoother — and richer — than you could ever make with any other form of milk. Yet the recipe is unusually easy, because it calls for packaged vanilla pudding powder and just a few other simple ingredients. The big secret, you see, is the Pet Milk you use. Pet Milk is

BANANA CREAM PIE 1 package vanilla pudding powder 2 unbeaten egg yolks 1 cup Pet Evaporated Milk 3-4 cup water 1 ripe banana 2 eggs whites 1-4 cup sugar Mix pudding powder and egg yolks in a 1 1/2-qt. saucepan. Stir in gradually a mixture of the milk and water. Cook and stir until mixture comes to a full, all-over boil and is thick, about 5 minutes. Re-

"World Moving Too Fast," Juvenile Judge Says Here

Today's youth needs a great deal of parental love and friendship and adult guidance and leadership, explained Miss Elizabeth McCain, a Memphis juvenile court judge, when she was addressing the 14th Ward Civic Club at Bethel Presbyterian church last Monday evening.

"Adolescence is like one on his way without a map," said the judge. "We are living in a too fast moving world and sometime adults don't prepare youth for the physical changes in their bodies as well as neglecting to help them adjust emotionally."

Judge McCain said that most of the youthful law-offenders who come before her are charged with larceny, shoplifting, burglary and other misdemeanors. Most of the offenders are basically dishonest within themselves, therefore, dishonest with others, she explained. She faulted common-law marriage as one of the causes of immoral children. She pleaded with the audience to help fight common-law marriages in their communities as well as help combat juvenile delinquency. "It is a problem which will require the efforts of churches, community organizations and individuals to fight," she predicted. Adding, "Punishment is not the right answer, nor is the proposed Goodwill Homes, Inc., for Negro orphans." She quickly emphasized that the Negro orphan home had been a long-time dream of hers. On concluding Judge McCain said "we need to put our hands in God's hand because he can help when none other can."

She spoke on "Problems of Youth." Presiding at the meeting was Z. L. Bonner, president of the club.

President Endorses 17th Annual Bible Observance Week

NEW YORK CITY — (ANP) — From his vacation headquarters in Newport, Rhode Island, President Eisenhower on Thursday wired Charles R. Hook, national chairman for the forthcoming 17th annual National Bible Week observation, a warm message in which he endorses the all faiths event. Sponsored by the Laymen's National Committee, Inc., this year's Bible Week is October 21 through 27.

The President's message follows: "National Bible Week focuses attention on the best known book in the world. From its inspired pages people in all lands have gained strength and direction in ages past. From its eternal truth our children's will continue to gain help and comfort for years to come. Congratulations to the members of the Laymen's National Committee for their sponsorship of this annual observance." — Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R) N. Y., said the "official feeling" was that naming members of the commission under recess appointments would only mean trouble for the appointees when they came up for confirmation after Congress went back to work.

Hagerty insisted, however, that the President expects to designate members of the commission "soon," and that this should be before Congress returns in January.

The new leader has been active for several years in cancer work and has just completed serving as Vice President of the state cancer organization. He is Tennessee Vice President and General Manager for Southern Bell Telephone Company.

Dr. Fowle gave the president's annual message to the members and stated that the year 1956 was marked by progress and continuing advance in the work of the Tennessee Division of the ACS. He emphasized the importance of the public's support for the organization's continued success by revealing that lung cancer killed 24,500 men and 4,500 women in America last year. "This was six times as many as twenty years ago," he stated.

"We know from past experience that there will be 450,000 new cancer cases in the United States this year. In excess of 40 million living Americans will someday develop cancer if greater advances in finding its cause and cure are not made. One out of every four of our citizens will be stricken and every other home will be visited if the present rate continues.

"We have been encouraged by the fact that through research, education and service more than 800,000 living American citizens have been cured of cancer. An additional 700,000 will be added to this number in the next few years, as no one is regarded as cured until five years after the disease has been arrested. Last year 75,000 more of our people could have been saved by surgery, radiation, early diagnosis and treatment," he revealed.

Among other major achievements during the recent fiscal year, Dr. Fowle stressed the withdrawal of the organization from hospitalization effective last August. He said funds from various governmental sources are now assuming the responsibility of providing hospitalization to medically indigent Tennessee citizens. "This makes it possible for more funds to be channeled into other important programs of cancer control."

The appointment of a committee on systology, or the study of cancer in Tennessee was a major step in cancer research and control, according to Dr. Fowle. This committee recommended that five systology scholarships be established at the University of Tennessee College. The Charter Day Convocation speaker was introduced by Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University. Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, offered prayer and the Atlanta-Morehouse-Spelman Chorus

AME Bishops Petitioned To Call Extra General Conference Session

Ministers Ask Review Of Nichols Case And Council

CINCINNATI, Ohio—A group of 300 African Methodist Episcopal ministers from all sections of the country gathered here last week at the Jones Tabernacle AME Church and petitioned the Bishops' Council of the Church to consider the possibility of holding an extra session of the General Conference.

The group met during a meeting of the Bishops Council called to consider the transfer of Bishop Frederick Jordan to the Eighth Episcopal District (Louisiana and Mississippi).

Bishop Jordan had asked that he be removed from the Fifth District, indicating poor health as the reason for the transfer. Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., president of the Bishops' Council, was transferred from the Eighth to the Fifth District (California, Missouri and the Northwest). Thus the two bishops exchanged Districts.

The ministers, who asked Dr. Ralph Jackson of Memphis, Tenn., president of the "Brotherhood," a strong intra-church organization responsible for the passage of much of the new church law adopted in Miami, Florida, in 1956, to preside. A strong resolution with only two dissenting votes from the approximately 300 present, was adopted.

NICHOLS CASE ISSUE
The resolution called for the Bishops' Council to use all legitimate efforts for the immediate calling of an extra session of the General Conference in order to (1) Review the right of the Judicial Council to reverse the action of the Committee of Trial in the Bishop D. Ward Nichols case; (2) To review the conduct of the Judicial Council during its recent meeting in Cleveland, Ohio, at which time it reversed the guilty verdict against Bishop D. Ward Nichols; (3) To regulate receipts of the church general budget moneys and adjust the delegate quota to the General Conference.

The resolution was received by the Bishops' Council and a committee of three Bishops was named to consider the possibility of calling the extra session, how it is to be financed and the site of the Conference if it is to be called.

The Committee was instructed to report back to the Bishops' Council in St. Louis, Mo., on December 6 during the annual meeting of the National Council of Churches.

The prevailing attitude among the ministers who were present at the Cincinnati meeting was that there is growing concern within the church that immediate action must be taken to protect the gains made under the new legislation passed at the Miami General Conference.

Many of the ministers felt that a complete clarification of the Judicial Council's action in overruling the findings of the Committee of Trial in the Bishop D. Ward Nichols trial is necessary. Because of this the ministers said that the church should use all legitimate means to bring about the calling of an extra-session.

WILLIAM STEWART HEADS AME COUNCIL OF COLLEGE
COLUMBIA, S. C. — William B. Stewart, president of Edward Waters College, was elected president of the recently organized Council of AME College Presidents at a meeting held this week at Allen University.

The meeting was held in conjunction with a workshop of AME college business managers called by H. Talcott Smith, CPA, representing the General Board of the Church. The workshop was held to develop a uniform system in auditing accounts of the church-connected schools.

During the meeting standardized procedures were outlined by Smith to the business managers, who under the reorganization of the church's administration of school affairs, will be given a greater responsibility for handling fiscal matters.

UNIFY EFFORTS
The college presidents in electing Stewart stated that they had organized for the purpose of unifying their efforts in behalf of the improvement and perpetuation of the church's administration of school affairs, will be given a greater responsibility for handling fiscal matters.

Active participants were assured of finding hospitality and friendship in sisterhood. The speaker was Mrs. Ethel Oliver, president of Beta Sigma chapter.

D. C. Deltas Make Plans For Confab

With an eye toward their national convention to be held in Washington, D. C. next August, District of Columbia members of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority gathered at a reception in the nation's capital recently and initiated an intense campaign aimed at corraling their membership forces.

Sponsored by Beta Sigma chapter, the reception was held at the stately Alpha Phi Alpha House.

More than 150 Deltas were urged, as members of the hostess chapter, to actively participate in the 1958 convention, particularly in view of the local members' role as hostess chapter.

Active participants were assured of finding hospitality and friendship in sisterhood. The speaker was Mrs. Ethel Oliver, president of Beta Sigma chapter.

Speaking also was Mrs. Patricia Roberts Harris, the sorority's national executive director, who outlined the new role of Greek-letter societies in American life.

Deltas are blazing new trails in civic participation, stated Mrs. Harris, pointing to the official relationships existing between Delta and such national agencies as the American Red Cross, the YWCA, the Community Chest and various government agencies.

Delta trains and provides local volunteers to assist these public service agencies.

These agencies regard the Delta organization as one of their major sources of volunteer personnel, Mrs. Harris revealed.

She urged members of the local chapter to be hostess to each delegate to the coming convention.

All officers of Beta Sigma chapter were present to greet the members at this "Delta Roundup," chaired by Mrs. Theodora Daniel, vice president of Beta Sigma chapter.

Present also were two of the sorority's founders, Mrs. Florence Fletcher Toms and Dr. Eliza R. Shipplin.

Your Teeth

THE DENTIST AND MOUTH CANCER

By PETER GARVIN, D. M. D.
EACH YEAR 5,000 to 7,500 Americans die of oral cancer. It can develop in any of the following structures: the lips, mouth, tongue or jaws. Your dentist plays a unique role in preventing this yearly death toll from growing larger.

The malignant tumors in these oral areas occur commonly in persons who otherwise seemingly enjoy excellent health. Many of them have seldom, if ever, needed to consult a physician, at least not for any complaint that would require a thorough examination of the oral cavity.

When you make your twice-yearly visit to the dentist, his examination is not confined to the teeth alone. His intimate knowledge of all the structures of the oral cavity enables him to quickly detect abnormal changes.

EARLY SYMPTOMS
The symptoms of early cancer are seldom discomforting or painful. When a malignant tumor begins to develop in the gum, on the hard palate (roof of the mouth), the edge of the tongue or the inner surface of the cheek, it is logical for you to seek out a dentist since any of these could arise from trouble in the teeth.

Statistics show a dentist was consulted first in roughly one-third of the cases of detected cancer of the oral cavity.

The dentist's role in detecting early oral cancer is indeed important. However, his opportunity to prevent this disease is of vital importance too.

The general factors apparently associated with the development of cancer, such as heredity and nutritional deficiencies, are beyond the control of the dentist. The local factors capable of triggering a malignant growth are frequently easily correctible by him.

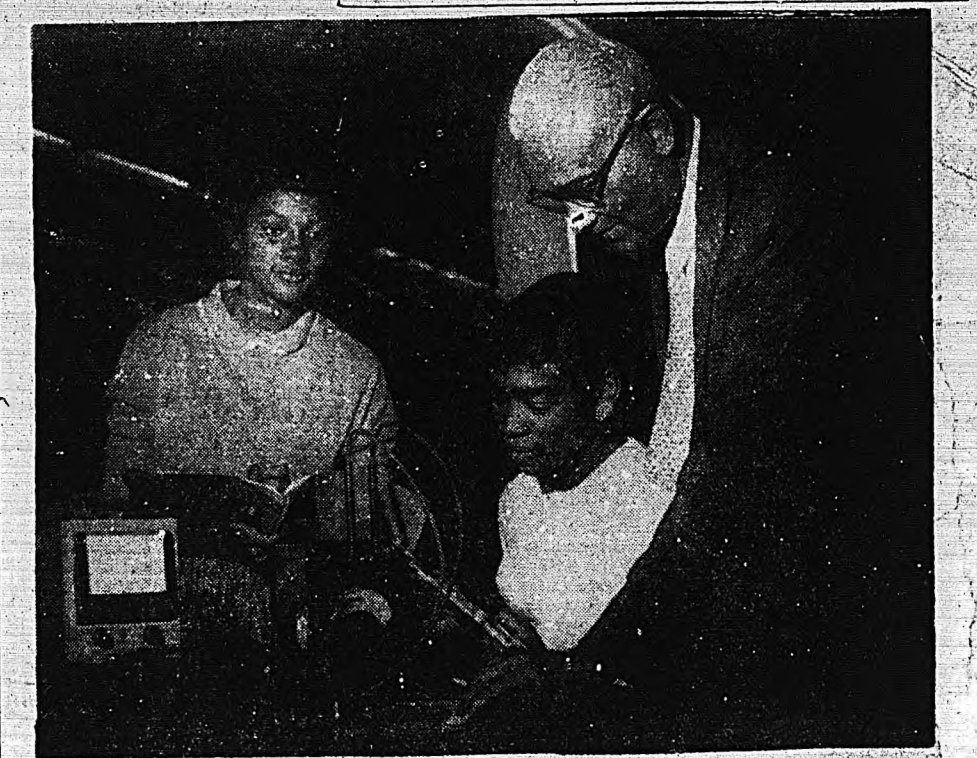

LOCAL FACTORS VARIED
These local factors are numerous and varied. They include teeth roughened by wear or dental decay, crowns and fillings badly placed with overhanging margins, partial bridges that no longer fit well and irritate the gum tissue under them, and impacted and crooked teeth.

Mouth hygiene apparently influences the occurrence of oral cancer. Malignancy occurs with greater frequency in dirty mouths in need of dental care than in those which are clean and well cared for.

Ill-fitting complete dentures which chronically irritate a region of the mouth for a period of years are in all probability an important contributing factor to certain types of

No love is lost; for no true love Can never be given in vain. The love that is not reciprocated Returns to the giver again.

To make him more pure, more tender and strong More sympathetic to pain. For love that is given can never be lost But returns to the giver again.

Dear Eleanor:
What would you do? I have been married many years to a man I know now I can never love. He knew I didn't love him as I have always told him the truth. He knows I love another. But I don't believe in divorce where there are children and we have five, all small.

He works hard brings his pay home but the rest is up to me. I often wonder whether he really loves me or just needs me as he depends on me for everything.

He is so weak. I can't respect him but I've been thinking that if I told him little white lies maybe I could make him believe I do love him thus making one of us happy.

Would you or would it only cause more heartache? Please answer as I have no one else to talk to.

Answer:
It is enough to take the heart out of any man to know that the woman he loves doesn't return his affection and thinks he is weak.

Young people have the idea that marriage is falling desperately in love and keeping up this feeling at a high pitch for life but real marriage it is not like that.

Of course, people fall in love but they find that no matter how much physical attraction there is between them, they will soon lose each others affection if they do not "work at" making a success of marriage. They have to adjust themselves to each other's peculiarities—they have to learn to stop dwelling on each other's faults and praise each other for their good qualities.

Instead of brooding over how weak your husband is, why not tell him how glad you are that he is a good man who works so hard to support you and the children. Let him know that you admire him and don't feel it necessary to remind him that he is no movie star just because your heart falls to do flip flaps whenever he is around.

So put this other man out of your mind and be thankful that you have a husband who loves you and brings his pay home. Try being thoughtful and loving towards him and you may be surprised to find what the result may be! You may build up your husband's confidence in himself and he will cease being weak. If a man knows his wife thinks he is fine and believes in his abilities, he will try to live up to her ideal of him. But if his wife belittles him he has to be a strong character to succeed.

We often find happiness much quicker by trying to make others happy.

ACCRA, Ghana — (NNPA) — Wilson C. Flake, United States Ambassador to Ghana, in a statement issued here Wednesday night, apologized to K. A. Gbedemah, Finance minister of Ghana, for the racial discrimination practiced against him in a Dover, Del., restaurant.

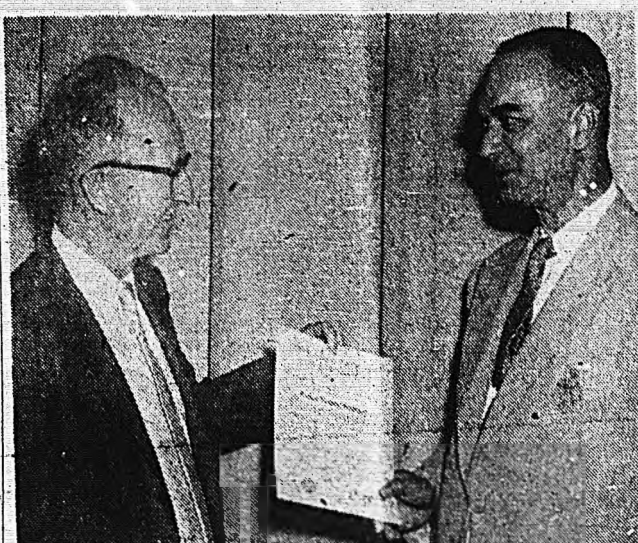

He described the incident as "exceptional and isolated."

"He and Mrs. Gbedemah visited my home and dined with my wife and me two days before he left Ghana."

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

By the NNPA News Service

An inquiry into the relationship of juvenile delinquency to unemployment among youth indicates very clearly that unemployed and out-of-school youth represent a group which is particularly vulnerable to delinquency.

This does not mean that there is a simple and invariable cause and effect relationship between unemployment and crime.

But it is recognized that the same instability and the same anti-social tendencies which cause a boy or girl to drift into delinquency may also prevent the procurement of employment.

Society's goal for all youth is in a broad sense, one and the same. It seeks or should seek to equip every youngster in such a manner as to enable him to develop and utilize his ability so as to become a productive member of adult society.

This nation's first line of defense in preventing juvenile delinquency is the school.

The strength of this line is directly related to the condition of the schools of this country.

The lamentable condition of the nation's schools, particularly segregated schools, must be faced realistically by the local, state and Federal Governments.

SYSTEM UNPREPARED

The school system, which is the only agency that touches the lives of all children throughout the country is grossly unprepared to give students concrete assistance in finding their way into the labor market.

The school teacher observes and works with children during their formative years. Through such relationships, the school must should-

Fort Valley Pays Tribute To Founders, Dedicates Building

FORT VALLEY, Ga. — Fort Valley State College paused on last week to pay tribute to those far-sighted men who founded the institutions that gave rise to the present college. The founders of the parent institutions were a group of White and Negro citizens who chartered a school in Fort Valley in 1895 and another similar group who chartered a school in Forsyth in 1902. These institutions were merged in 1939 to become The Fort Valley State College.

The Founders' Day address was given by W. J. Kennedy, President of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company. Mr. Kennedy, a native of Andersonville, Ga., and a product of American Institute, traced the development of education in Georgia and the South, paid tribute to church groups of all denominations, the Freedmen's Bureau, and private citizens whose labors in Negro education paved the way for a public school system that embraced Negro youth as a new partner in democracy.

Mr. Kennedy stated that approximately 3,000,000 young people are in college today but that less than 100,000 are Negroes yet Negroes constitute 10 per cent of the population. He made a plea for young people to remain in school and for the development of new concepts of family life that would place Negroes on a plane equal to that of other Americans.

Eloise Walker, great granddaughter of founder Isaac Miller, read the original charter. Mrs. Jessie Emma D. Brown spoke on "Mr. Hunt As J. Kneek Him." The Invocation and the benediction were pronounced by Dean Julius C. Simmons.

At the grave of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, the audience sang "We Are Climbing Jacob's Ladder" and wreaths were placed on the graves by H. A. Hunt, III.

DEDICATION OF HUBBARD EDUCATION BUILDING

The Founders' Day audience journeyed from the graves of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt to the William M. Hubbard Education Building. The dedicatory prayer was offered by Dean Julius C. Simmons. President Troup presented Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, Chancellor of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia.

Prior to presenting the keys to the new education center to President Troup, Chancellor Caldwell commended the college for its Founders' Day program and said "Fort Valley is becoming a great university. Its influence is felt in institution and is getting to take on some of the characteristics of a Georgia and surrounding states."

The keys to the William M. Hubbard Education Building were accepted by President Troup who said that he accepted them with deep pride and with deep humility.

What About Life In The 1980's?

It is a common belief that the coming 25 years will be the most revolutionary quarter-century in history. Within our lifetime, we will witness an era of unprecedented scientific and social achievement.

According to an article in the October issue of Town and Country magazine, based on a Kiplinger report, America's growingest quarter-century lies ahead. From a total of 170,000,000 in 1957, U. S. population will soar to 250,000,000 by 1982. In 1982 this country will be one of young people, far better than three out of four will be under 45. But there will also be about 25,000,000 over 65.

A new kind of house, available only at upper-bracket prices, is on the way. Its designers say it may be round instead of square; it will blend into the outdoors and bring nature inside. Its materials will be plastic and aluminum and steel and glass. There will be luminous ceilings, windows that operate by push button, and television screens that hang on walls like a picture.

If it's a small world now, in 1982 it will be even smaller. No country or city will be more than 24 hours away. A holiday in Europe will be the privilege of millions, and the Orient will become a vast new vacation area. Travelers of 1982 will ride in supersonic jet planes whose speed is designated as Mach 2 or Mach 3. Cruising speed will be 1,500 miles per hour, cruising space 50,000 feet. Paris will be just over two hours from New York.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE CHRISTIAN MINISTER

International Sunday School Lesson for October 20, 1957

MEMORY SELECTION: "How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? And how shall they hear without a preacher?" — Romans 10:14.

This lesson in which Paul defends his apostleship and describes the life of a minister of the gospel, gives us an opportunity to consider the work of the minister today—his sense of call from God, his concern for the spiritual welfare of others his self-discipline, and also the responsibility of the members of his church to provide for his welfare.

It seems that a group of the members of the Corinthian church had become critical of Paul and had raised questions concerning his apostleship. Doesn't that sound familiar?

Paul answered their charges by affirming his apostleship and explaining his reasons for refusing to accept material support from the church at Corinth. However, he set in the strongest and most emphatic of terms, his idea of the right of the minister to financial support from his congregation and the obligation of the church in this regard.

His reasons are simple to see: First, he said, only an ingrate would refuse to meet the physical needs of a person who had led him to Christ. Second, that God has always planned that his ministers would be supported by use of the gifts which people brought to God. And, third, through the financial support received from his church, the minister is able to devote his full time to God's work.

The first necessity for the real minister is that he have a sincere, direct call from God. While he may not have the experience of Paul on the Damascus road, this evidence of God's call should be just as real to him as was Paul's. If he follows this call, the direction of his life will be completely changed, so much so that his friends will see the difference.

New Yorker Named To Welfare Post

NEW YORK — (NNPA) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner announced the appointment of James R. Dumpson, career social worker and teacher, as First Deputy Welfare Commissioner, succeeding Mrs. Crystal M. Potter, effective at the end of this year.

The post paid $12,750 but was increased by the Board of Estimate to $15,000 last month.

Mr. Dumpson is now director of the Welfare Department's Bureau of Child Welfare. A former adviser to the United Nations he entered city service in 1954 as executive director of the Commission on Foster Care of Children.

Mr. Dumpson is 48, married, and lives in Manhattan.

Woman's "Who's Who" In Making

CHICAGO — American women are much more modest than the men. That's one of the first conclusions drawn by the editors of "Who's Who," now busy compiling the first edition of "Who's Who of American Women," to be published sometime next year.

"We've already had replies from over 12,000 outstanding women requested by us to supply personal data," says Wheeler Sammons, Jr., associate publisher of "Who's Who in America," "and, outside of their exceptional responsiveness to the idea of this new Who's Who for women alone, that's the big thing we've noticed about them; their modesty."

"Who's Who of American Women" is a book designed to honor upward of 20,000 ladies whose achievement is substantial but not quite on the level of the requirement for including their names in "Who's Who in America." Women VIP's already in "Who's Who in America" will also be included.

Sammons, who has spent over 20 years in the biographical reference field, adds: "Biographical sketches sent us by the men in 'Who's Who in America' contain all sorts of odds and ends of which the men are clearly very proud but which, if we included them, would double the size of 'Who's Who,' already a huge book. The classic case is the fellow who included the news that he had been named a 'Man of Distinction' by some whisky company."

But the ladies, he says, are holding their sketches to essentials and in many cases send along notes expressing their surprise and appreciation at being selected for "Who's Who of American Women."

"Not many of them seem shy about the age business, either," according to Sammons, "now do they juggle the involved problems of multiple marriages. They spell out the facts, apparently with no hesitations."

Sammons said the new book is being prepared by his firm, Marquis-Who's Who, Inc., which has been publishing "Who's Who in America" for 60 years, in cooperation with the Women's Archives at Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., headed by Mrs. Elizabeth Borden.

Considering the above, what are our obligations in his behalf? Someone has suggested that first, there should be love and respect. If we truly love Christ, we should love his representative and respect his calling. Second, we should pray for him and try to understand his problems. Our earnest prayers and sympathetic understanding will strengthen him. And, third, we should support him adequately from a financial standpoint and cooperate with him, helping him in every way possible.

IMPORTANCE OF BABY TEETH

It is the duty of every prospective mother to learn and to put into practice everything that is possible to preserve her own health and that of her child. In the case of the child, it commences before birth, and should be carried on until he is old enough to take over for himself. This he will do if properly trained by a careful and intelligent mother.

There are plenty of informative books on the market now that give sensible instruction on the subject. They will be studied by earnest, inquiring mothers. Diet of the pregnant woman is largely a determining factor in her own health and that of her child.

The expectant mother should keep in touch with her physician and dentist. They will gladly instruct her as to her method of preparation for the little stranger and tell her where she can find books and pamphlets that will give her reliable information.

Some mothers are amazingly ignorant and negligent about the importance of taking proper care of the first or milk teeth of their little ones. The mouth should be kept sweet and clean. The first set of teeth are very important and play a very useful part in the future welfare of the child.

In the first place everything pertaining to the human body has a very definite and important function to perform. The baby teeth should receive the most meticulous care. Their presence is necessary for mastication food and for proper development of speech. They are also necessary for the growth and development of the gums, the jaws, face, and head. If they did not serve a necessary purpose they would not exist.

The loss of a single baby or foundation tooth, until it has been absorbed into a permanent tooth, and nature is ready to cast off the shell, is a misfortune. Some ignorant mothers actually allow the foundation teeth to decay in the child's mouth and they do nothing to prevent it.

The development of the foundation teeth require good, nutritious food. All babies need plenty of milk to furnish calcium with which to build teeth and bones.

Every one of the twenty foundation teeth should be in the mouth by the time he is 2-1/2 or 3 years old. They are necessary for properly chewing the food and the maintenance of health.

If several of these baby teeth are lost, nature cannot properly carry out her designs. The face and jaws will lack the assistance that would have been afforded by helpful, well-developed, properly functioning baby teeth. Crooked, crowded teeth are often caused by neglect and consequent loss of foundation teeth.

Perhaps today's fast living accounts for the tremendous increase in the number of ulcer sufferers in America today.

Modern research has definitely established a connection between our emotions and ulcer trouble. Sensible diet and moderation in our living habits are the best safeguards against ulcer trouble.

A deficiency in one of the B vitamins (B is known as the nerve vitamin) pantothenic acid, may be a factor in producing ulcers of the duodenum. The duodenum is the first section of the small intestine and a common place for an ulcer to begin.

From experiments on rats it has been found that adrenal cortical hormones produce gastric acidity but no ulcers, unless the rats lack the B vitamin.

All of this is not to say that if you eat foods high in vitamin B and take vitamin B complex pills you will not develop an ulcer. There is as yet, not enough complete evidence to make this statement. To many factors work together to make an ulcer patient. However, it would do no harm and may do a great deal of good to choose foods high in the B vitamin in your daily diet.

Keep away from situations which create tensions for you. Get enough rest and sleep. The American high powered push for the dollar is taking a heavy toll in heart and ulcer patients—to name just two ailments.

HEALTH HINTS

By Dr. Frank G. Plouffe, President, National Chiropractic Association

— And How's Your Liver? —

Not so many years back it was customary, when inquiring about somebody's health, to ask, "How's your liver?" The decline of this query hasn't altered the understanding about the vital importance of the liver and another member of this blood-purifying team: the gall bladder. Both are vital because neither have "spares". The human body is blessed with two of certain organs: the eyes, the ears, the kidneys, and others. If one kidney ceases to function, the other can carry the overload and operate. The heart, the liver and the gall bladder are single entities. Knock them out and the final epitaph must be written.

Actually, the liver isn't an organ but is, rather, a large gland, irregular in shape, reddish brown, and soft. It receives the blood from the heart, filters and stores the food elements, makes important changes in proteins, eliminates poisonous substances, and secretes bile into the gall bladder. If there are dietetic abuses, there can be ruptures, infection, atrophy, falling a change of the fibre known as cirrhosis (hardening), fatty degeneration, and tumors.

Anyone who has drawn a fat hen will note the liver may be very light and very soft, so that it spreads under the fingers. This is "fatty degeneration", caused by too much rich food and not enough exercise. The human liver in adipose persons acts similarly under these abuses. Fatty degeneration ensues.

The liver will not function normally and may become diseased if there is interference of normal nerve energy to the liver. This calls for chiropractic restoration of this force. Impediments of nerve force can also act similarly on the gall bladder. Chiropractic care and correct diet are recommended as an aid to nature in restoring these organs to normal function.

YMCA Challenged To Furnish Lead

"Fasten tight your moral and spiritual seat belts, there's turbulent weather ahead," T. M. Alexander, Butler Street YMCA board chairman, warned agency planners Sunday in describing "conditions of state." However, the speaker said all would be well if workers in the YMCA made more meaningful the letter "C" — Christian — by taking the lead, molding public sentiment and creating goodwill.

Alexander keynoted the planning conference which was presided over by M. R. Austell, chairman of the Executive Program Committee. Following dinner the group broke up into departmental workshops and returned with recommendations for the year ahead.

A Gray-Y Charter Day exercise followed with the Rev. M. J. Wynn, of Gammon Seminary, delivering the principal message. Butler Street YMCA Secretary Warren Cochran termed the planning conference one of the best he has experienced.

Queen's Visit May Start New Perfume Fashion

By NORA W. MARTIN
PARIS — (INS) — Queen Elizabeth's visit to the United States may start a new fashion in perfume.

The lovely young queen is known to like the delicate fragrance of flowers. When she visited Paris last April, French society women took to wearing light flowery perfumes in preference to heavy and heady scents.

Paris fashion sleuths report that violet-scented soap has seen a new vogue among elegant French ladies since it became the favorite of Great Britain's charming queen.

The delicate fragrance of jasmijn has also been adopted by young French ladies because a special jasmijn toilet water was offered by the combined French perfume makers to her majesty.

Into the famous and unique jasmijn toilet water went 45,000 jasmijn blossoms. It was presented in a crystal bottle. To keep this fragrant creation unique and exclusive for the queen, the recipe for the scent was destroyed and the mold for the bottle smashed. But the fashion for jasmijn perfume has persisted in Paris.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

BY FRANCES DELL
The outdoor living-room is becoming more important than ever before. Houses built on small, city lots often feature this area as an important selling point.

The size of the outdoor room depends on the demands of the family. For best results it is walled in on the exposed sides for privacy.

The city gardener usually confines his main efforts on this area. The gardener, with more land, is fast following the example of his country cousin because of the high cost of competent help.

Flowering plants can be grown in large pots and moved into the outdoor living room to furnish warmth and color. The background planting should be evergreen.

In some sections of the country, mainly California and Texas, heating systems are installed to extend the life of the outdoor living room. Enclosed on at least three sides hot water heating pipes are placed in the ground coverings. It is possible to use an outdoor living room some of almost every month of the year in many sections of the U.S.A.

An outdoor living room is a perfect place to entertain. It never becomes as noisy or cigarette smoke filled as the same floor space inside a home. The relaxed informal air it gives to a party is in keeping with our modern way of life.

Something new for the house

"that has everything" is the last word in comfort at the water's edge—a pool house.

A play house by the edge of the pool is no longer a luxury of just a few families with large estates. With the increase in the number of family pools, it is only natural that the number of pool houses has increased.

A pool with a pool house will turn your home into a summer resort where you make your own rules. The pool house may be an unpretentious roofless dressing room or may be a small house used for weekend guests.

The more elaborate versions have living rooms with glass walls overlooking the pool, bars, and fireplaces. With heat installed, the pool house makes a year-round family room.

The best type of furniture for a pool playhouse should be easy to care for. It is best made of wrought iron, aluminum, redwood, rattan or chrome easy to care for upholstery of plastic and metal will be a joy.

Floor coverings of tile, or grass matting are attractive and appropriate.

A small apartment-sized electric box and stove will be a real joy.

This all sounds a bit grand, but remember pools are becoming cheaper to install each year. After a pool, the pool house is the next step.

YOUR TEETH

By PETER GARVIN, D.M.D.

THE EXTRACTION OF TEETH
When the conversation turns to dentistry, everyone's favorite topic seems to be the extraction of teeth. Some recall it as an operation of some consequence; others, as a simple, uncomplicated procedure.

Unfortunately, this dental operation cannot always be a simple one. It is a surgical operation involving both bony and soft tissues. It must be performed in an area to which there is limited accessibility. It is further complicated by numerous variable factors beyond the control of both patient and dentist.

In most cases a dentist can, after careful study of the dental x-rays and visual examination of the teeth, determine if an impending extraction will be difficult or relatively easy.

The following listings of the common factors that influence the extraction of teeth should help you to understand why some extractions are more complicated than others.

IMPACTION. Impacted teeth are either unerupted or only partially erupted into position. They are prevented from coming into place because they are wedged against other teeth, are growing in the wrong direction or overlaid with bone. There can be no simple extraction when these teeth are involved.

EXCESSIVE DENTAL DECAY. If the crown is badly broken down preference to heavy and heady scents.

EXCESSIVE DENTAL DECAY. If the crown is badly broken down

DENSITY OF BONE SURROUNDING THE TOOTH. To extract a tooth, it must be freed from the bone that surrounds it. This is accomplished by exerting a slow, steady pressure to the tooth with the dental forceps (similar in appearance to the common pliers).

As the tooth is slightly moved in predetermined directions, the bony sockets become enlarged until the tooth becomes free enough to be lifted out of the jaw.

When bone surrounding the tooth becomes exceptionally dense because of advanced age, previous disease, or other causes, it is very difficult to enlarge the bony tooth socket and free the roots.

These are just a few of the factors that influence the removal of a tooth. There are many more. From this you can see why some extractions can be simple and others quite complicated.

In Fashion Now

A modified version of the rounded look suggestive of the 20's has jelled into a definite fashion trend.

To put this look over, the fashion industry has spent thousands of dollars on advertising and on extreme samples of the rounded look in dresses, suits, coats and evening clothes to be shown at fashion shows across the country and on T. V.

As little as the American woman may realize it, she is softened for the "kill" by the more drastic designs. She gets used to seeing them in all the fashion publications, newspapers, etc. This puts her in the mood to accept the soft less extreme examples of a new look. She is also made to feel that the clothes hanging in her closet are more or less "old hat."

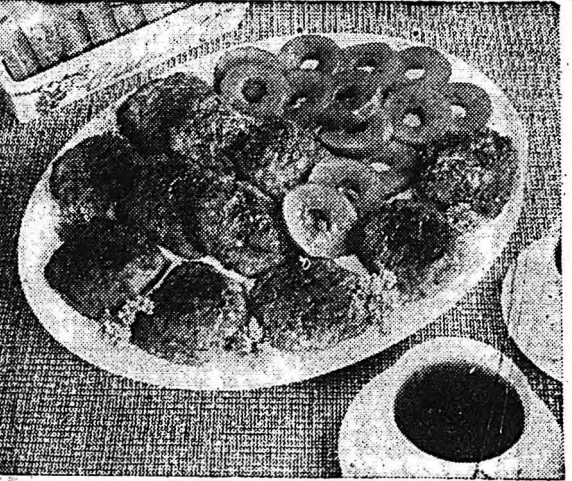

This is nothing new. It has been going on, probably, for as long as women have been interested in clothes. This is not to say it is a "bad thing" — "salesmanship" is the word for it.

It is humorous to see women follow the dictates of the fashion publicist like slaves. Not many can afford to and the ones that do are not very wise — because next year it will be something else.

Do what the "great ladies" of fashion do. Find becoming lines colors and general accessories that do the most for you and stick to them. Take the new lines and adapt them to your own best features.

Pork Sausage and Fried Apples Fits Breakfast or Supper Menus

By Nancy Carter
Ever since the early days of the Colonial colonists along the Eastern coast the robust dish of golden brown sausage patties and sweet spicy fried apples spelled Fall. Our grandfathers and their fathers considered this a breakfast dish but there's no reason why it can't be served for an old fashioned family supper. By the way, if you'd like a collection of the favorite old time recipes write to me: Nancy Carter, P. O. Box 4358, Atlanta, Ga. Ask for free "Colonial Tidewater Recipes."

Try sausage and fried apples for breakfast along with hot biscuits or cornbread, honey or apple butter, and pots of fragrant coffee. If it is to be a supper main dish, I like to serve green peas and a relish tray of carrots and celery plus an enormous plate of hot baking powder biscuits. I always put my grandmother's crockery milk pitcher on the table too so everyone may have plenty of milk to drink.

HOW TO BUY SAUSAGE

There's a great difference in the flavor and consistency of pork sausage. Better quality pork sausage is sold in your supermarket with a brand name as a buying guide. Read the ingredient phrase on the package to make sure you are getting "pure pork" sausage. Take your choice of links, patties or sausage meat in rolls or packages. Some are called "country style" because of its coarser grind.

Don't cook sausage over high heat. Fry slowly to cook thoroughly and brown evenly. This way the meat won't be hard and dry. Be sure sausage is grey inside with no trace of pink.

SAUSAGE WITH FRIED APPLES
Shape fresh pork sausage into patties and pan fry slowly until done. Remove from pan and set in warm place. Pour off most of the fat. Slice, but do not peel fresh tart apples about 1/4" thick. Put apples in hot skillet. Sprinkle generously with brown sugar. Cover and fry slowly until almost tender. Remove cover; cook until apples are glazed. Season with ground cinnamon and clove, if desired. Serve in center of hot platter with sausage around edge.

Along The Sports Trail

BY SAM BROWN

N MOTH BALLS
With the baseball season for 1957 rapped in moth balls and the world champions Milwaukee Braves being blasted as the new rulers of the game from coast to coast, we are ready to turn to more seasonal sports, although from time to time mention will be made of the many changes in personnel of the various teams before the start of the 1958 season.

The New York Yankees with their baseball ego somewhat deflated by a few days ago by our good friend, Herbert Davenport, that talkative barber at the M-Y Barber Shop, who stated that just because many fans felt until the last out in the game that the Yankees somehow would win, he too, wondered if the Yankees were guided by some unseen power, and would snatch victory out of defeat.

EXT FOUR YEARS
"Why," added (Mr. Herbert as he refers to himself) "I believe that the Yankees were in the National League, there would be three or four teams that would quit ahead of them." He continues, as we try to get in a word "look how close the Braves played them, and only Saturday game was a one-sided boring affair. The Braves will be hard to beat for the next four or five years."

We didn't agree with our good friend in the statement that the Yankees would be a fourth or fifth place team in the National League, because on the strength of the games played National League teams of the fall classic the Yankees hold commanding edge over them all. The Braves team is the only team in the National League the Yankees have not beaten. Oh, well, just one man's opinion.

When the Braves transferred from Boston to Milwaukee, it proved a gold mine for the owners, as the team has drawn well over a million fans each year, with the total reaching more than two millions the past two seasons. Now, with the world series cut, the Braves owners are really in the blue chips.

MR. HERBERT
Sometimes we think that the Milwaukee prospered played a big part in the decision of the Giants and Dodgers moving to the West Coast. Just how prosperous these two clubs will be in their new homes is left to be seen, but as our barber friend, Mr. Herbert puts it, "they won't find another Milwaukee, wherever they go."

Now with both the Giants and Dodgers gone from New York City, no doubt efforts will be made to get another National League team to take up in the big city. If St. Louis, Pittsburgh Cincinnati and Milwaukee can support a major league club, surely, big New York City with its 11,000,000 inhabitants in Greater New York, can support two clubs.

To the average baseball fan it is still a mystery why the Dodgers and Giants move out of the big city although some of the reasons given are that the Dodgers had outgrown their quarters, while the Giants were not drawing so well in spite of the 'Say-Hey Kid' Willie Mays. There are other reasons given which might be just as significant as these.

HORSE RACING
Some claim that horse racing had cut into the attendance at the ball parks, and after night racing was introduced, baseball has really suffered. It is reported that the race horse bookie is practically out of business, and a man can no longer place a bet and go on to the ball game. All the while he is enjoying the game and participating in the play at the same time.

Since it requires so much trouble to participate and see a game at the same time, Mr. John Q. Public just forgets the ball game and goes to the race track. Human nature being what it is, sometimes we feel that man is at his best when he is taking a chance, whether it is exploring outer space or taking a chance on a horse race.

If no other team doesn't move into Yankee Stadium with the Yankees, then, the Bombers will have the largest field from which to draw their support than any other of their opponents.

COMMENTS ON SPORTS

FOOTBALL
BY PETE FRITCHE
WASHINGTON — Norte Dame seems to be on the road back after a fearful year in 1956, which ranked one of the New York Yankees finishing last in the American League—a rare and many splended thing.

But the big test for the Irish, who always play a whooping schedule, will come a little later in the season. That will be when they run to Michigan State and Oklahoma in two successive weekends. On November 9th the Irish have the assure of taking on mighty Michigan State.

And however, badly the Spartans beat them—if they do the Sooners will be trying to out do them in a following Saturday. It will be recalled that last year the Spartans mowed the Irish down by more than thirty points. The Sooners, who thought they were number one in the country, ran the total into the forties.

The Irish should not be so weak this year, even though they aren't expected to win either of these games. Nevertheless, after they had played two contests this year they had won as many as they won all last year.

The importance of this looms very large to coach Terry Brennan who started the season on very slippery ice. Another carnage for the team, like that in 1956, would have finished Brennan's tenure as head football coach at South Bend, although it has never been put that bluntly.

The Irish play a tough schedule and always have. They might lose a few games a month they're not yet accustomed to and their critics say they lose hard. But they can't lose half a dozen games and be an easy mark for the likes of Oklahoma and Michigan State.

That's why some improvement had to come this year or else. The Irish have plenty of good material—they get their pick from boys all over the country. With everyone knowing this, the coach at South Bend must produce results. Notre Dame fans are like New York Yankees baseball fans. They aren't thrilled to the quick to win—they expect to win. They're crushed to lose.

Today I am happy to spotlight the talented and versatile individual in Mablee Mabry, a freshman at Owens College. Mablee is the daughter of Mrs. Hester Mabry, who resides at 1495 Wabash Ave. Her hobbies are sewing and reading. Mablee is as active in school affairs as well as in social life. She is a member of the New Bethel Baptist Church. She is a Business Administration major. After graduation she plans to further her education in the field of Business. On the subject of going steady she states "I believe that it is left up to the individuals involved to decide whether they want to go steady. So hats off to Miss Mabry our student of the week. MID-WEEK VESPER SERVICES STILL COLLEGE TOP WEEK ATTRACTION
The weekly Mid-Week Vesper Service is proving to be more than just a gathering. All eyes and hearts are aware of the fact that God is our maker and He the king of glory shall reign eternally. The services began with a beautiful prelude at the piano by Mrs. Graham who is back with us after a brief illness. Invocation was by the college minister Rev. Lofton, after which the student body stood and sang "Stand Up For Jesus." Then the group was led into prayer and unison reading by the college minister.

Two upper classmen came forth for the offertory, the college choir stood and sang sacred music, "Holy Ghost with Light Divine." Meditation and prayer followed. The college minister came forth with his soul touching message. The college choir then closed the program out with hymn, Lift Him Up, the benediction was said.
RELIGIOUS LEADER AND SONG WRITER TO SPEAK
Miss Lucy E. Campbell, noted leader of education and gospel song writer thrilled the student body and college faculty with strong words

HAMILTON HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

BY BERTHA HOOKS & LILLIAN FISHER

According to Webster Dictionary, school is a place to be taught and disciplined. But to many of us, school is a place our parents and the law requires us, up to a certain age, to attend. Students go to school for many reasons other than the ones stated above.

Some of us go to school to be associated with other children of our own age. Some go to show off their clothes. Some go to gossip and taunt others, while still others go to keep from having to work.

Then there is that other group of students who go to school to be exposed to first hand knowledge and to benefit from the years of learning and experience which the teachers have at our disposal.

Whatever may be your reason for going to school you go, so why not have something to show for it. For in later years you will be glad because in this world an education is the most important element you can possess.

Upset-minded Hamilton, allegedly having recovered from an alleged attack of Asian flu which supposedly assailed the team when it journeyed to East St. Louis, Ill. two weeks ago, struggled "feverishly" to crack the Manassas jinx which has plagued the Southside school for six frustrating years. The Wildcats curtailed what appeared would be an early and easy Manassas TD in the Alpha stanza. The Tigers, paced by their hard-running backfield nucleus in Billy "B" Phillip Rena "Ned" Curtis, David "Tarzan" Mitchell, and Peter "Mo" Mosby, and the plotting of Willie Simpson, had taken the kickoff to the Manassas 45 and had quickly plowed from that point to the Hamilton 12 where the Wildcats' forward wall suddenly turned from putty into a brick wall.

Evidently psychologically lifted by stepping the Gold and Blue's first breasting thrust for pro-circus paydirt: the unstart Hamiltonians, on the wizard of their highly-rated and impressive field general, little Kermit Stepter who seems assured of an All-Memphis berth, unleashed a devastating ground attack, that was spearheaded by wing-footed HB Millard Dintlers, which took its toll of Tigers and carried the rubber to the Manassas one-year-ling. The occasion is rare when prep teams hold an opponent on downs so close to the promised land, and even mighty Manassas proved no exception as Hamilton HB Cowl Smith scampered around right end to score six points for his teammates. The attempted conversion was blocked.

BLOWN CONVERSION
The shocked Manassas footballers could do no better than return the resulting kick-off to the vicinity of the Manassas 25 where they surprisingly could gain no yardage. It was at this point that Manassas' Head Coach Johnny Johnson sent his ace single wing QB into the game, Melvin Brown, who got out of an Asian flu hospital bed to play. On third down, Brown faded uncharacteristically back and heaved a pass that could compete with Sputnik to "Bo" Phillips who took the ball at Hamilton's 55 and was off to the races on a spectacular 45-yard run as Hamilton's pass defenders tried futilely to catch the jet-propelled missile. The conversion clicked, and Manassas went ahead, 7-6.

The lead changed hands again several plays, fumbles and penalties later in the early moments of the second period. It was Hamilton's ball, 4th in 13 when QB Stepter, who looked like he was going to be tilted by a swarm of Tigers, eagle-eyed Walter Stephens all by himself on the Manassas 3. Stephens accepted the Stepter aerial with grace and walked into the end zone to score what resulted in Hamilton's final TD for the night. Try for the PAT was good and Hamilton was in front again.

Wildcats Fight Hard But Can't Break Tigers Jinx

BY MELVIN GREER

Manassas' powerful but flu-riddled Tigers sputtered lously for eight minutes on a muddy turf before finally emerging from their misery to subdue Hamilton High's underdog but tenacious Wildcats, 21 to 13. Tuesday night at Melrose Stadium in a knock-down-drag-out Prep League thriller.

Upset-minded Hamilton, allegedly having recovered from an alleged attack of Asian flu which supposedly assailed the team when it journeyed to East St. Louis, Ill. two weeks ago, struggled "feverishly" to crack the Manassas jinx which has plagued the Southside school for six frustrating years. MANASSAS STRIKES BACK

The lead changed for a third time that night when Manassas swiftly retaliated by wrecking Hamilton's tissue-thin pass defense, for the second lathel time to move to the Hamilton 25 where a short pass was rifled to end Nathaniel Odell on the Hamilton 7. Odell juggled the ball for a split second and then amazingly ran a circle around a Hamilton pass defender directly behind him before going the short distance for the touchdown. David "Tarzan" Mitchell, who also plowed thru center for Manassas' first PAT, did likewise again to give his buddies a 14-13 half-time

Keeping The Virgil Hawkins Record Straight

Left politics and cold war strategy eclipse the real meaning of the Virgil Hawkins case in which he sought entrance to the law school of the University of Florida, the record should be kept consistent with the disposition of the affair.

In the first place, there is nothing new, in what the Supreme Court decided as some would cite to the contrary. It is the time set policy of the court that one exhaust all local means before a case is channeled to the Supreme Court. That is common court procedure and the precedent has been laid down in other such cases.

The Atherine Lucy case and the coming up from Clarendon County South Carolina, are all well established.

In the now current Little Rock affair, the local federal district judge is the one who issued that order, Judge Ronald Davies.

This case did not have to go up to the Supreme Court because Judge Davies in his review found that its merits would warrant just what he decided, and the army went to the rescue of the government and those persons affected by his order when they were refused the franchise granted under the orders of the court.

So, in keeping with a policy of consistency, there was nothing left for the courts to do but as it did in the Virgil Hawkins case.

However, it should be apparent by this time that since going the rounds of the federal district court is merely procedural, the state has time to admit Hawkins on the merits of the case and in keeping with what has already happened in like cases.

Maybe, the time will be ripe in this case for the state to consider admitting the student, rather than wait for the certain inevitable. It would more become a state of the moderation, like Florida, not to relish being pushed into something, it otherwise has an option on making voluntarily.

Soon or late, the states might see fit to drop all this law suit fanfare, which in the end is a disservice to our pretended legal ethics, and go on admitting such students as qualify for matriculation in these graduate schools. We are desperately in need of scientists, engineers, lawyers and physicians in these critical times. Our technical courses and graduate schools might find the answers through a process of color blindness.

LET'S NOT FIDDLE WHILE ROME BURNS.

Do Your Part In Checking This Flu And Gold Epidemic

Apparently there is an unusual increase in individuals being laid up with colds and in some cases pneumonia. This is significant in that this epidemic takes over before the advent of cold weather. Exposure to the inclement weather could not be assigned the cause. Therefore, it behooves every one to take due caution by which these colds are picked up.

It will be noted that in some sections the Asian flu is taking its toll; some casualties have been reported and this also should be a signal of warning to those who might be of service in the checking of these cases by keeping down the spread as much as possible.

Last year it will be recalled that schools closed and church meetings were checked in an effort to forestall an epidemic.

From health reports there seems to be a rise in the flu epidemic. The spread of this disease often results from carelessness and the failure of those who are not infected to keep as much as possible away from catching distance of the epidemic.

The spread of bad colds is alarming; let the populace assist in precautions as well as in the application of old fashion home remedies of the days of our fathers, where doctors were hard to get.

So, do your part in helping to check the spread of this flu epidemic.

Wear that hat, and button up that chest. These are helpful hints.

The President Passes Another Milestone

October 14th., 1957 comes in to take its place among the important dates in the annals of this country, the 67th birthday of our President Dwight David Eisenhower. While he passed the day quietly and at his task as the nation's chief executive, the country at large hailed it as they naturally would, in keeping with that broad-minded patriot who himself had placed country above all else.

It is indeed fortunate that the President came around to another milestone in robust health; that his spirits and his courage had not been dimmed and that there is every reason on the surface that he will serve out his term to retire to many more years of usefulness.

The nation rejoices in that he is making the stride of gallantry that the critical times demand, and despite this curious political weather, he is the same powerful spirit as when he first took the oath of office to serve as the nation's chief executive.

His life and his work remain those paramount suggestions for the making of men and countries better. They carry with them in all their elegance and consistency the embodiment of the faith of those early morning stars of liberty who envisioned a free land, a government of, for and by the people.

Congratulations, Mr. President, the world has been blessed

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Says Government Must Uphold Constitution

To the Editor:
The sentiments expressed in this letter are believed to represent the feelings of the great majority of the people of the United States and are being given wide distribution as an open and justifiable attack on subversive groups that operate under cover of darkness in direct violation of the Constitution of the United States Supreme Court, and who, by their un-American and criminal acts are incurring for the people of this nation the hatred of millions of persons throughout the entire world.

They are constantly engendering a spirit of ill will that, if left to run unchecked, will lead to revolution or an other world war. They are now centering their infamous attacks upon the United States Supreme Court's desegregation edict and are proclaiming long and loud that their states' rights are being jeopardized.

In the question of integration and enforcement there is no states' rights are being jeopardized or interfered with in the slightest degree though sinister and conniving persons are trying hard to make it so appear.

They did the same back in 1861-1865 when they forced a four year "br ther kill brother" war upon the people of this nation and since that time they have had 92 years to establish the "gradual integration" they now profess to be seeking.

The 48 states of this union are the homeland and the property of all the citizens of this vast and beautiful country, regardless of race, creed, color, and integration and equal opportunities are the rights of all people of this nation. They are human rights, rights based upon a law.

Integration is the law of this land and any violent efforts made by organized or unorganized mobs to nullify it should be construed

Canadian U. Students Burn Faubus In Effigy

TORONTO, Canada — (ANP) — Students of the University of Toronto burned Gov. Orval Faubus in effigy on the campus here last week.

Armed with signs reading "Down with Governor Faubus," the students, clad in white hoods and carrying torches, set fire to an image of the Arkansas governor while 200 other students watched and cheered. School police stood by, but took no action.

MEALTIME MELODIES!

The apple is one of our most widely grown and prized fruits. It was cultivated even before recorded history. Today, at least thirty-five of our states raise apples commercially, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture keeps crop statistics on 19 different varieties.

You've heard the old saying — An apple a day will keep the doctor away. Scientific research shows the apple to have both nutritional and medical value.

Apples contain vitamins A, C, Thiamine and Riboflavin. With liberal use, they provide a good supplemental source of such minerals as calcium, phosphorus and iron. This vitamin and mineral content puts apples on the list of protective foods. The roughage in apples help to maintain normal intestinal activity.

The apple also contains levulose, a sugar quickly turned into energy. Crisp, firm apples help keep the teeth clean and the gums in good condition and also help in the digestion of foods containing proteins and fats.

Apples are enjoyable for eating whether raw or cooked. This apple crisp is proof of plenty.

APPLE CRISP
Use a good cooking apple. Peel, core, and slice into 7x7 inch pan; 3 pounds tart apples, 7 or 8 large cooking apples. Add sugar to taste. The apple layer when cooked should be about 3-4 inch thick. If the apples are dry and sweet, dot them with butter. Sprinkle them with lemon juice

Threat To Integrate

CRESTVIEW, Fla. — (ANP) — A purported threat to integrate the all-white Crestview High School here by an unidentified Negro caller last week was described as a hoax by the Crestview police department.

However, the caller, identified only as a Major Carney stationed at nearby Eglin Air Force Base, succeeded in creating tension, as an estimated 100 whites massed in front of the school after the integration threat was disclosed.

The call was made to the police department by the man who said he was Carney. However, Col. W. S. Evans, chief public information officer at Eglin, denied that any such Negro officer was stationed at Eglin.

According to police, the caller said: "We are going to integrate Crestview High school. We are expecting protection."

POWER OVER THE CLAY
"And the vessel he was making of clay was spoiled in the potter's hand, and he reworked it into another vessel, as it seemed good to the potter to do."—Jeremiah 18:4.

Jeremiah, the prophet, was trying to interpret the word of God for his people and he used a familiar figure of the potter of clay. He brings in a new element as he describes the power of the potter to remodel the clay and work it into another vessel. He said to Israel that God could do to lives what the potter had done to the clay, which was not only to patch it up but also to make something quite new out of it. It was a word of confidence and hope which men caught in their own mistakes could hardly accept.

Jeremiah was speaking of the miraculous power of God to make like new. I'm sure one thing should be clear to us, that life is not reversible. How often we speak of the desire to go back and live our youth over, or to make another decision. Some people spend too much time crying over what cannot be done again. This means that the mists of life are not to be erased and the mistakes we have made can never be eliminated.

The psychologist is quick to point out how our childhood experiences are with us forever.

We are more aware of this than any other generation, though we do very little about it. This becomes a source of tremendous pessimism. The boy or girl who has gone wrong, for example, often doubts that there is any answer for his misspent years. The harm we have done cannot be undone and we actually live as if we have committed unforgivable sins. It does seem obvious to us that men go through some experience from which they never recover and their lives have been marred and cracked and there is no healing. Here comes the answer to our problems of Jeremiah and Jesus Christ. God does perform the miracle of remaking the vessel. This has happened many times in conversion when men found their lives changed in a moment of time. It is not true that individuals are to carry the mark of their sins forever. The potter has the skill to reshape the clay and out of it there comes something entirely different.

If we do not see this as often as we wish, at last we see it enough to know that it can happen. When ever there is the power of the Gospel preached, there is a miracle performed, and the poor, broken, scratched vessel is turned into something complete and beautiful. When we become new creatures in Christ, we live to the glory of God.

and grated rind. The success of this dish depends upon the flavor of the apples, which should be tart. A good apple needs no additional ingredients.

Work like pastry with a pastry blender or a blender knife or the finger-tips may be used, but the mixture must be lightly worked so that it does not become oily.

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup brown sugar
1-2 cup butter
1-2 t. salt if butter is unsalted
1 t. cinnamon.

Spread these ingredients over the apples. They may crumble but that is unimportant. Bake the cake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F for about 35 minutes, or until the apples are done. Serve it hot or cold with: whipped cream.

Councilman Offers To Start Fund For Little Rock "Nine"

DENVER — (INS) — A Denver city councilman has offered to start a scholarship fund campaign for the nine Negro students attending Central High School in Little Rock.

Alvin Caldwell, first Negro to serve on the Denver Council, made the offer to Mrs. Daisy Bates, the president of the Little Rock chapter of the NAACP.

In a letter to Mrs. Bates, Caldwell said:

"A number of Denver citizens have expressed a desire to do something to show their admiration of the nine courageous young students who have endured great personal sacrifice and possible physical harm in this fight for equality."

YOU CAN DIE LAUGHING

By A.A. FAIR (ERLE STANLEY GARDNER)

CHAPTER 24
THE SIGN on the office door said: AARON BEDFORD, INVESTMENTS, ENTER.

I entered the office. There was a secretarial desk, an interoffice communication system, and a battery of files. No one was in the outer office. The door to the inner office was ajar.

I walked through to the inner office and saw a woman sitting at a desk. She had two wicker clothesbaskets on the floor that she was filling with papers. She was so preoccupied she hadn't heard me come in.

"Mrs. Bedford?" I asked.

She looked up at me in startled surprise. "Yes."

"I'm Donald Lam," I told her, smiling.

"Well?" she asked.

She was a raven-haired brunette with high coloring and curves. She looked well in black and she was as cautious as a boxer coming out for the first round.

"I'm interested in finding out something about your husband's property in California," I told her.

"There isn't any."

"Oh, I understood there was."

"There isn't any. My husband sold out his California holdings before his death. What is your interest in the matter, Mr. Lam?"

"I'm trying to check certain titles in California. Isn't there a section of land somewhere near the town of Yucca?"

She permitted herself a frosty smile. "I would hardly refer to that as property. It is a desolate stretch of desert land. It isn't good for anything. You can't raise a thing on it except dust."

I moved over closer to her and turned on the personality. "Do you think this section of land would be a good buy?"

Her eyes surveyed me and she warmed up a little. "A good buy for whom?"

"For me."

She smiled. "No."

"But your husband owned it."

"What if he did?"

"He was a shrewd investor."

"What does that prove?"

"He wouldn't have purchased it unless he felt it was worthwhile."

"How do you know he purchased it?"

"He owned it."

"Exactly."

"I'm afraid I don't understand."

"I said."

She warmed up all at once.

"Sit down," she invited. "I'll tell you about that piece of property. My husband acquired it in a trade. It was the 'something to boot' that a good horse trader always asks for. My husband had what amounted to a superstition about trades. He always wanted something to boot.

"This time the man he was trading with said he'd throw in a whole section of land in California. My husband was always conscious of the great potential value of any tract of land, so he concluded the deal."

"Six months ago when we were in California, we drove out to look at the place. It took me a couple of days to get over the depressed feeling that followed seeing that run-down, dilapidated compilation of utter nothing."

"Years ago some poor man had spent an enormous amount of time and money living there trying to dig a well. The cabin is a moldy, rat-infested, leaky monument of futility. The well starts with dry decomposed granite and ends in decomposed dry granite."

"We sold off all our California holdings except that section of land. There were some California relatives who had been licking their chops at the thought of inheriting some of my husband's property. I told him to keep that section of land for them to fight over." She laughed and her laugh was cold and harsh.

"Could you," I asked, "tell me anything about those relatives in California?"

"I know quite a bit about them, but I have never met either of them. One is very nice but greedy. The other is very brash, grasping and greedy."

"One of them is a Mrs. Drury Wells?"

"I believe so. She's by far the nicer of the two."

"And there's a Lucille Patton in Sacramento?" I asked. "You know her?"

"I know her like a book," she said savagely and then added, "However, as I said, I've never met her."

"You've corresponded?" I asked.

She made a gesture with her head and said, "Not with me. The correspondence was with my husband."

"How about minerals?" I asked. "Isn't it possible your husband thought the property might be valuable for oil?"

She smiled and pointed to a couple of chunks of black rock up on the bookshelf above the desk. "See that rock?" she asked.

I nodded.

"That came from this section of land," she said. "That Yvonne Wells thought it was oil rock just because it was black. She sent it to my husband, told him it came from his property in the desert. She thought there might be oil there. Oil in that formation! It's a joke. So I told my husband to tell her that he was leaving her that piece of property in his will and if there was oil there it would make her rich."

Again, Mrs. Bedford laughed. The laugh was mirthless, gloating, discordant. "You see, Mr. Lam, my husband's lawyer said it was advisable to mention the value of any tract of land, so he will. He suggested Aaron leave each of them one hundred dollars. I told him to leave them all the California property, then to sell off everything except that section of land. My husband said he had promised them something substantial, so I told him to leave Yvonne some money if he wanted, but I would have scratched his eyes out if he'd left anything to that creature in Sacramento."

"I don't want to sound bitter, Mr. Lam, but that Patton woman was absolutely, utterly impossible! I don't know why I should be telling you all this, only I've been bottled up under great emotional tension and . . . well, you're easy to talk to. You have listening eyes."

She smiled at me.

"Thank you," I said.

"You seem to have a sympathetic personality. I wouldn't want to see you spend any money on that property and get stung."

"Thanks a lot," I said.

"There was a moment of silence. "How did the California relatives take the news of Mr. Bedford's marriage?" I asked.

"That gave her a chance to gloat. She was lonely and wanted someone to talk to and talking about the California relatives was a pleasant diversion for her."

"Those two women resented me. How they resented me! They almost had their greedy little fingers enmeshed in Aaron's fortune. Then I came along, Aaron loved me and we were married. You could fairly feel the terrific surge of bitter disappointment. Do you think they tried to understand me? Heavens no! I was the gold digger. I was the adventuresome, the ex-hat-check girl who had become a hostess. I was the schemer! band."

"Can you imagine that, Mr. Lam? Those brazen gold-digging little tramps with their goey letters of cuddling affection, their avaricious eyes on Aaron's fortune, thinking I was a gold digger? I could laugh in their faces, only I wouldn't do it. They're here to eat me. They thought I might not see through their scheming letters. Bosh! I knew them like a book. It takes one woman to know another. I fixed that precious pair!"

Mrs. Bedford's husband got mixed up in a "deal"—and what else? Donald's getting close to the answer to the big question in this case. Continue "You Can Die Laughing" here Monday.
