Two SW Graduates Now Instructors

Two recent graduates of Southwestern have returned to the college in faculty and staff positions.

Lewis R. Murray, Jr., a 1958 graduate of Southwestern, is the new instructor in International Studies.

In 1958-59 he studied at the University of Bologna, Italy, specializing in western European affairs. For the past year he has continued work in the same field at the School of Advanced International Studies at the Johns Hopkins University in Washington, D. C., where he received his M.A. degree.

At Southwestern he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and was feature editor of The Lynx, the college annual.

He lives at 3672 Waynoka.

John L. Streete, III, a member of the 1960 graduating class, has been named a graduate assistant in physics.

Mr. Streete was one of four students who accompanied Professors Jack Howard Taylor and Joseph J. Freymuth of the Southwestern Physics Department with the laboratory on a research trip involving study of time-dependent infrared phenomena.

While at Southwestern, Mr. Streete was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity and vice president of the student council. He is also a member of Omicron Delta Kappa leadership fraternity and is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

BERT TUGGLE, newly elected vice president of the student body.

Chekov Film Festival Commences In AEC

The Chekov Film Festival will begin next Friday, October 7, with the showing of the Moscow Art Theatre production of "Marriage" in Russian with English subtitles and "The Boor" with Monty Woolley. An added attraction will be scenes from the Moscow Art Theatre production of Maxim Gorky's "The Lower Depths." The films will be shown at 8:00 p.m., Friday and Saturday with a Saturday matinee at 2:00. Admission is one dollar for adults and seventy-five cents for students.

Showing will be in the Adult Education Center.

The Holbrook Collection of traditional American art is still hanging. The collection of twenty-nine paintings is a good selection of the more than seven hundred works that comprise the complete collection. The Holbrook Collection hangs permanently in the Art Museum of Athens, Georgia. The local showing was arranged through the good offices of Professor Henry Madden, Southwestern Art Professor.

Freshmen Hazees Tug For Victory In Annual Mud-Hole Challenge

At 3:00 P.M., September 22, on the football field of old Southwestern, a very, very dirty thing happened. It was the annual Freshman Tug O' War which is always a special part of hazing.

The Tug O' War was supposed to have been strictly for the Freshman boys while the upperclassmen watched with amusement. However, Thursday, the course was somewhat changed.

Everything started as planned. The Freshman girls were anxiously waiting to see if they would be thrown into the mud. Some were trying to distract the boys from the grave task which was before them. It just so happened that the girls had no make-up on, (wonder why) so the boys cared nothing about their looks. (Girls, what could you expect with no make-up!)

The Tug O'War began. There were, of course, two teams; half of the Freshman boys on one team, the other half naturally was on the second team. Back and forth, the boys pulled. Tension was mounting, and the question of who would win was rolling over in the minds of every person who was on the field.

And then it happened!!!!!!! Mud went sailing through the air, along with a few upperclassmen. Girls were running and screaming as if the world had ended. Everything was completely out of control. Rocks were sailing through car windows. Confusion filled the air. Suddenly, a hush fell over the multitude. Word was out that poor Shannon Curtis had been hit by a mud ball. He was out—resting in the mud like an overgrown pig.

Many other things happened but space does not permit me to go into detail about them. I don't suppose this day will ever be forgotten. We Freshmen certainly won't forget it because it was a great day for us—our first triumph of the year!

Sophomore Tutorial Offered In History

A new sophomore tutorial to be offered this semester by Southwestern's history department is entitled, "The Nature and Purpose of History."

This course is designed for prospective history majors or other sophomores who wish to acquire a further knowledge of history, its theories, and its importance as an academic subject.

"The Nature and Purpose of History" will be presented as a departmental seminar, taught by Professors J. H. Davis, Franklin Wright, and John Hemphill. This class will meet once each week. At each meeting an article or chapter relating to the subject will be discussed. One hour credit will be given for the course, and class hours will be arranged.

All those who are interested in enrolling should see Mr. Hemphill before Wednesday, October 5. His office is #11 North Forest.

Student Council Offices Filled By Top Students

TUGGLE, VICE-PRESIDENT HOLDS KEY POSITION

Last Friday's voters elected Bert Tuggle, Senior from Alabama, to fill the Student Council vice-presidential vacancy. The Junior class named replacements Lynn Finch, Student Council representative, and Ann Fumbanks, class secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Tuggle, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Tuggle, currently of Loudonville, Ohio, began his official duties this week by programming the Student Council Assembly and meeting with the Elections Commission. As president of the Commission, a function of the vice-presidency, Mr. Tuggle plans improved organization and a possible constitutional revision.

The Vice President also serves as president of the Sanhedrin, an organization to supervise Frosh orientation and to foster school spirit. Mr. Tuggle, former president of the pep club, said students began this year "with good spirit, but I want everyone in the Pep Club."

Responsibility is not a new experience to the Evergreen, Alabama, high school graduate. As a Senior there he was president of his class, vice-president of the Beta and Key Clubs and editor of the paper.

A member of ATO fraternity, he has served as vice-president of his pledge class, pledge trainer, and Worthy Usher.

Besides executive interests, Mr. Tuggle is a three-year track letterman and was Captain of last year's undefeated team.

Mr. Tuggle is in pre-ministry and plans to enter Union Seminary in Richmond, Virginia, next fall.

The new Junior class officers elected September 23rd, Lynn Finch and Ann Fumbanks, are members of Tri-Delta Sorority. Miss Finch is secretary and recommendations chairman; Miss Fumbanks serves as rush and music chairman.

Art Lovers Mourn Mr. Myers' Death

Mr. Issac L. "Ike" Myers, who helped organize the Memphis College of Music, which later became the Southwestern Department of Music, and whose efforts as head of Arts Appreciation were largely responsible for Southwestern students' enjoyment of the Metropolitan Opera and other cultural attractions over the years, has in his recently probated will left $1,000 to Southwestern and $2,500 to the Memphis School of Music.

Southwestern showed a measure of its appreciation to Mr. Myers in 1948, when it conferred on him the honorary Doctor of Fine Arts degree. Now, twelve years later, we find even more reason to express our appreciation of the many fine things Mr. Myers has brought to the Southwestern campus and find ourselves ever more indebted to him, his efforts, and his generosity.

Francisco Gyves, pianist from Mexico who will play Friday night, will be among the last appearances sponsored by Mr. Myers.

Two Sophomores Receive Grants

Two Southwestern sophomores, Susan Smyth and Douglas Janss, have been awarded the Charles Diehl Scholarship and the George Summey Scholarship respectively. These $300 scholarships are sponsored by the National Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity and are given to students in selected colleges over the United States. Southwestern is the only college to receive two of such gifts.

This year for the first time presentations were made by the Faculty Committee on Awards and Scholarship Aid to sophomores instead of freshmen. Qualification for such awards is on the basis of "Christian character, leadership qualities and financial need."

Susan, the only girl to receive one of the awards this year, held the position of vice president of the drama club and of the Senior High Fellowship in her high school years. She was a member of the Quill and Scroll and the National Honor Society. Susan, a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, has also been on the Southwestern Dean's List for two semesters.

Doug, a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity, was editor of his high school annual and president of the Key Club. Besides holding membership in several clubs and in the National Honor Society, he served as treasurer of the Quill and Scroll. Two of his other interests

Stylus Invites Contributions

Tuesday night at 6:30 Stylus, campus literary magazine will begin work on its publication for 1960-61. The meeting will be held in the ATO house, and after the election of a Poetry Editor, Prose Editor and a Managing Editor, material will be considered for the magazine.

Anyone interested in creative writing is urged to turn in any original poetry, fiction or essays he would like to see published in the magazine. The members of Stylus will discuss the work and vote to accept or reject it. Two works must be accepted before membership into the organization will be granted.

Any member of Stylus will accept work to be considered. Manuscripts should be turned in to Jocelyn Agnew, Bert Ringold, Bette Baumgarten, Susie Bracewell, Baird Callicott, Harvey Jenkins or Professor Roper. Stylus will meet every Tuesday night all year and will accept new material at any time before the spring deadline.

About Campus

by Susie Bracewell

Well, the first full week of classes is over and I have started getting behind. It's wonderful to be back to normal after that frustrating summer when I had nothing to get behind on. Woe, it was a terrible psychological experience.

The word finally drifted up to third floor Voorhies that rush orientation and hazing are over. Those responsible tell us that we can expect a spirited and knowing breed of freshmen, sort of a superman-freshman as one English major explained it.

Of course this information may not be correct at all. The only thing you really know on third floor is when Sallie Meek is having a Prof. Green Fan Club meeting and that the SAE's are often standing beneath your window pane.

This week sororities and fraternities have busied themselves electing pledge officers. The officers of AOP's pledge class are: President, Patsy Karnowsky; Vice President, Nancy Sheffield; Secretary, Sandra Sanders; and Treasurer, Mary Lou Quinn.

Kappa Delta's pledge officers are: President, Hannah Richards; Vice President, Ruth Decker; Secretary, Lil Scott; and Treasurer, Anne Crowell.

Kappa Alpha's two newly elected officers are President, John Templeton and Vice President, Bobby Barrett.

Kappa Sigma's chapter officers for the fall semester have been announced. They are Jimmy Finley, President; Keith Arman, Grand Procurator; Oliver Dickens, Grand Master of Ceremonies; John Portwood, Grand Scribe; Mike France, Grand Treasurer and Mike Hall and Roy Wrather are Guards.

The PiKa's have also elected the officers of their pledge classes. The list of officers includes: President, Lester Gill; Vice President, Horace

YOUR STUDENT COUNCIL

By Jenny Yates

The Southwestern Student Council held its first meeting of the 1960-61 school year Tuesday night in Science Hall. The meeting was called to order by the President, Jerry Duncan. He welcomed Bert Tuggle and Lynn Finch as new members of the council. Jerry reminded the members of the Student Council of their responsibility to the students of Southwestern. The minutes were then read by Mary Elizabeth Streete.

Reports from the various commissioners were given. Bert Tuggle, who as Vice-President is now head of the Elections Commission, said that the next election will be the election of freshman class officers in about two weeks. A revision Constitution will soon take vamping of the Election Commission.

The Commissioner of Athletics, Wes Busbee, informed the council of the bus trip to Hendrix this Friday night. Wes has cleared everything with Mr. Springfield and Dean Jones. Students who are going on the trip will be excused from their Friday afternoon classes.

Bobby Barrett announced that the first FOC seminar will be held Thursday night at 6:30. Bobby also said that Jimmy Finley and Lynn Finch will be in charge of the High School Visitation Program this year.

Bette Baumgarten, Commissioner of Publications, said that the radio programs will begin next Wednesday night. She asked that all the council members participate at one time or another. Bette is sending a letter to the heads of all organizations about pictures, write-ups, etc., for the Memphis newspapers. We want to get more publicity for Southwestern this year.

Dan Bowen announced that the social committee has drawn up the rules for Homecoming. The Esquires will play for the Homecoming Dance.

Jenny Yates discussed hazing. She said that the Women's Undergraduate Board has had four meetings trying the girls who have violated the freshman regulations. Jenny also announced that a thorough evaluation of hazing will take place in the near future.

The chairman of the Library Committee, Mary Joy Pritchard, announced four of the five members of the Student Library Committee for the coming year. Four of the members are Mary Allie McClogan, Jane Cunningham, Susie Bracewell and Jack Herbert. The other member will be chosen soon. Mary Joy has met with Mr. Johnson several times. He has requested that no more pep rallies be held on the steps of the library because of the disturbance. Mary Joy also said that the conference rooms will be open this Monday, and they will be monitored.

The Pan representative, Mickey Morton, had no report. The I.F.C. representative, John Frazier, was absent.

Lela Garner, Commissioner of Religious Activities, said that the PRC retreat this past weekend was a success. Plans were made for Religious Evaluation Week which will be held October 11, 12, and 13. The theme will be "Christ and the Word in Crisis." There will be two speakers—one from the Congo and one from Japan. The services will be held in Fisher Memorial Garden. The PRC is also proposing religious discussions within fraternities and sororities if they so desire. The dorm discussions will be held as usual. The PRC is trying to get the film "Cry, the Beloved Country" to serve as an introduction to REW.

Ed Albright, chairman of the Student Center Committee, gave a summary of last year's activities. He said that the purpose of the committee was to create interest.

Across the Desk

It has been claimed that this paper has a political bias toward the Republican point of view. It has been further stated that pro-Kennedy news has been suppressed while pro-Nixon news has been played up.

To the best of our remembering, the only news run for either candidate with the exception of comment in by-lined articles was a box announcing the availability of tickets for a bus ride to hear Nixon speak and a box (grammatically incorrect) announcing the formation of a local branch of the Youth for Nixon and Lodge group.

In the first edition of this paper we said, "In as much as this is an election year, two columns will be given over to the campaign. We will select the best article written from the Democratic point of view and the best written from the Republican outlook. These will be printed parallel to one another."

We have received no information nor any column from the Democrats. To our knowledge no organization of Democratic Youth has been formed on this campus. We have received no literature from the Kennedy Headquarters. For these reasons, we have not printed any pro-Kennedy material. Should any such material be given us we will be more than happy to print it.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

As I was walking across campus on my way to Church Sunday morning, I saw, to my surprise, a man climbing a ladder in front of Palmer Social Room. My first thought was, "Is someone trying to break into Palmer Hall?" Upon closer observation I realized that the man was washing windows and that another was inside washing windows.

I would appreciate it greatly if someone would show me at least a trace of consistency, or some principle that would indicate why a school will hire janitors to wash windows on Sunday during the Church hour, but will not allow its students to play tennis or will not provide library facilities for studying at any time on Sunday.

—Sandy Winter

Dear Sir:

I have a question to put out to the student body in general. It is —why are we at college in the first place? I do not mean this in a rhetorical sense or in the light of some high purpose for living; what I mean is how much time are we wasting here at college enmeshed in needless and functionless organization? This question has been bouncing around in my mind for three years and I am finally in a position to make some evaluations. I am now equally enmeshed in organization and I can see the utter futility of it.

Consider: from the time a student hits this campus he becomes a member of some committee in Freshmen Orientation Seminars which are in turn led by upperclassmen who are on committees. He also becomes a member of some committee to provide entertainment during hazing. Next thing he knows he has been stuck either on the governing body of the freshman class or on a committee, perhaps to make sure the class comes together at certain times in Hardie, or to collect money for some obscure purpose, or to make a poster, etc. Soon he becomes aware that the whole campus is teeming with committees and committee chairmen and presidents and vice presidents and commissioners and co-secretaries, and all of them are racing from place to place nervously, tripping on each others' heels and treading on each others' toes. But he does not ask why; he, also a committeeman, merely takes it in his stride, and hurries to another meeting in order to go up a little higher on the echelon of organizations.

I.e., he is early conditioned for the rigors he will face as an upperclassman.

Student Observer Writes On Cuba

by Bert Ringold

The best concrete symbol of American excellence and general benevolence that a tourist can carry to Cuba is an American cigarette. Lucky Strikes or Camels will break the ice with any Cuban, as they are now selling for a dollar a pack in Havana. Cuban cigarettes, although they contain less nicotine, are awful. Smoking one is like drawing in on a blast furnace. Even Cubans realize this fact, so that you can safely denounce at least one of their national products, while offering them, tongue in cheek, a good, clean, smooth-smoking, apostle of democracy.

Razor blades are also scarce in Cuba, which leads to an interesting question. Has Castro used up all his American razor blades? Is he ashamed to buy them in Harlem? At any rate, the average Cuban still prefers to shave, as he still prefers a sound and safe education for his children in the U. S. if he can afford it. All of these things require the dollar. The Castro government wants a monopoly on incoming American money in order to buy the vital heavy machinery, etc., which Cuba does not produce. Private citizens want American money to buy consumer goods in the U.S., and to keep their children in American schools.

Since Cubans are allowed to take only $125 out of the country, and all buying and selling of American money is illegal, this leads to a flourishing black-market trade. Americans are required to pay their hotel bills in travelers checks, but if you are willing to take the risk you can get three pesos for every dollar you sneak in your shoe. The official exchange is one peso to one dollar, and food prices are about the same in the U.S. A clean hotel room with cold running water at the Surf Hotel costs $2.50, and provides a magnificent view of Havana Harbor, so, you can really have a nice vacation on practically nothing. The best of Cuban Rum is $4.00 a fifth in Havana, but you have it sent to the airport, (five bottles), when you leave, and get it tax-free for $1.60. There are also numerous distilleries in Havana where you can shoot the breeze over free frozen daquiris. Taxis are also very reasonable, which is only fair because you are in taking your your life in your hands when you ride in one. Taxi drivers, incidentally, may form a solid strain of sissension against the present government.

The National Militia is a kind of combination National Guard-Highway Patrol for erstwhile boy scouts. Militiamen can carry arms, and make arrests, while on duty, and they hand out parking tickets with a youthful zest. When everybody gets as fed up with the present state of things as the taxi drivers, we can look to Cuba's future with optimism, and maybe even offer a helping hand. Until then we can only stand by Guatamala, and hope for the best.

Eta Sigma Phi, classical language fraternity, will meet at the Tri-Delta House at 4:15 Tuesday, October 4. The first program of the year will center around a recording of "Oedipus Rex." Afterwards a very important business meeting will be held in which various plans for the year will be discussed.

Well, I am asking why, and at the same time admitting that I am as guilty as anyone.

I have become as entangled as possible without actually realizing it. That is the insidious thing about organizations here: you get literally pushed into them. But back to the why. Is it honestly reasonable to have twenty hundred committees going constantly for things like making posters, advising the faculty on how to spend their money (rather impertinent, that), reading announcements in chapel, teaching freshmen the glories of literature (by hacking into their study time), discussing the social events planned for a year, keeping the library quiet, deciding which organization will sponsor what, being bowed down with so many meetings that they have to miss some in order to go to others, developing veritable hunches from dragging around great folders full of important looking nonsense? I think there is a limit to organization and I think we have hit it long ago. Too much time, entirely too much time, is being taken by stupid and needless meeting and discussing when one actually goes to college to get an education. One student who went France last year said the greatest joy she found was having time to study and not cramming it in between organization meetings. We have over 50 organizations on campus now, and seem to be adding new ones all the time. You can't tell me that it takes 50 organizations plus a faculty to keep a school of 700 running.

I have a feeling that not too many people would mind not getting to put five inches of honors by their graduation picture in return for having decent grades. I also have a feeling that we could all manage to find campus friends without enduring committee meetings, hazing programs, and seminars in order to do so. I know its nice to know who to blame when things are botched up, but are endless committees worth it? I realize that our situation is almost impossible to change, but I wish it would be looked into and at least a few of the utterly useless groups be disbanded, hopefully to be followed by some of the large but also useless ones. I am not exempting the Student Council, or my position on it, from all this. There are many places here that are more show than use, and should be

by Glenn Jones

Tuesday a busload of politically-minded Southwestern students, fifty-eight strong, boarded a chartered city bus on campus to go to the foot of Court Street with one purpose in mind. That purpose was to support Vice-President Richard M. Nixon in his bid to keep Shelby County and Tennessee in the Republican column.

The bus was chartered under the auspices of Southwestern's Youth for Nixon and Lodge Club. Once loaded and appropriately decked with political banners, the bus left at 11:30 a.m. At the riverfront the group joined an already anxious and expectant crowd. Several signs were constructed for the rally as well as two large banners with the words "Southwestern Youth For Nixon and Lodge" printed on them.

The group from all indications was the largest organized body there, and it certainly was outstanding in comparison to any group from Memphis' large educational institution, M.S.U.

When the Vice-President and Mrs. Nixon arrived, the spirit of the entire crowd of 15,000 swelled to a high stage. Our group certainly added a good bit of spirit and noise to it all. Despite the rain, attendance nor spirit was hindered. Mr. Nixon's speech was brief, due to the rain, but to the point and contained his promise to campaign on a basis of what is good for the American people as a whole.

From the indications of the crowd and its spirit, political success for the G.O.P. in Shelby County is a sound possibility come November.

honestly looked at and, if not discontinued, at least modified so as not to take as much useless time. I do not mean that we need no organization. Some, alas, has to exist. But I do think we have gone far overboard and have embraced things as important that could not matter less to us, the school, or our lives. Let's take time out to be reasonable, and perhaps someday students will attend a college where they can get a good education, participate in campus activities and still have time to live a relaxed and creative existence.

—Bette Baumgarten

Politics, Science, Religion

by Sallie Meek, Sr.

Life on campus is becoming exciting. Classes are underway and hazing is nearly over and presently the freshmen will be just like people. The question is whether or not the professors will ever be that way. And three really important things have happened.

1. Nixon came. This is not a biased newspaper so I will not comment further except they showed the Southwestern sign on TV and if anybody didn't get to see it, the paint ate through the varnish on the Sou'wester office tables and there's you might say a carbon copy of the signs down there.

2. Senior Bible is beginning again. I am trying to establish an I-Thou relationship with Professor Green (actually, I even bought a ticket to see Nixon because somebody said he, Green, that is, was going to be on the bus). But all I get is an I-It relationship with Euber. It would be easier if they would let Green teach Sr. Bible.

3. An evil omen has happened and woe is going to happen to the school. The magic circle of stones carefully laid down by Beauwulf and Grendel's mother for the ancient Druids and brought carefully piece by piece to Southwestern by John Henry Davis has been broken. The circle is out behind Palmer Hall and now they have those new classrooms and they built a new sidewalk right through the circle. The wrath of the Valkyries is going to descend any day now. Southwestern has really been tempting fate lately what with Ringold going down to Cuba and all. If we're all here next week I'll write again.

Poetry Competition Open For Students

The National Poetry Association announces its Annual Competition. The closing date for the submission of manuscripts by college students is November 5.

Any student attending either junior or senior college is eligible to submit his verse. There is no limitation as to form or theme. Shorter works are preferred by the Board of Judges, because of space limitations.

Each poem must be typed or printed on a separate sheet, and must bear the name and home address of the student, as well as the name of the college attended.

Teachers and librarians are invited to submit poetry mss. for consideration for possible inclusion in the Annual National Teachers Anthology.

The closing date for the submission of mss. by College Teachers and Librarians is January 1.

The Junior Class will hold an election to determine the girl representative of that class to the Honor Council. The election will be held Saturday at 10:00 a.m. in Hardie Auditorium. All Juniors please be present.

Lynx Seek To Extend 6-Game Victory Skein

by Oliver Dickins

Seven-thirty tonight is kick-off time at Conway, Arkansas with Southwestern's Lynx clashing with the Warriors of Hendrix College.

Southwestern will be protecting its six-game winning streak in the series with the Warriors, but Hendrix has fielded one of its finest teams in years and has been given the nod by the dopesters. A point very much in the visitors' favor is that they are now entering their third season of athletic subsidies.

Warriors Improved

The Warriors, consequently, have improved tremendously since their 20-7 setback at the hands of the Lynx last year at Fargason Field. Even that loss was not as decisive as the score indicates: two touchdowns set up by a 78-yard quick kick by John Ashcraft and a long pass play were the deciding margin.

Last week Hendrix rolled over the College of the Ozarks 12-7 on a wet field. The mud cut deeply into the Warriors' air attack based on the arm of quarterback Baltimore.

Southwestern played a great defensive game last week against Millsaps, though losing 3-0. Led by tackle Butch Kimbro, the Lynx kept the opposition out of pay dirt, except for the game-clinching field goal.

"We Expect To Win"

But the showing cost the Lynx dearly. Jerry Duncan and Robert Echols were banged up a little. Coach Rick Mays will probably start Doug Meeks and Frank Weathersby in their respective slots.

"Although they are favored, they better be ready. We have a tremendously improved team over last year, and we are going to try to take it. If the breaks are even, we expect to win," commented Coach Mays.

Student Council

In '59-'60 the committee raised $1750.00. This year the committee plans to contact the alumni and all other interested people in the major cities of the synods which support Southwestern. Folders have been printed stating the purpose and need of a student center. Freshman Talent Night was also discussed. This year Freshman Talent Night will be sponsored by the Student Center Committee. It has also been suggested the awards be given to "Mr. and Miss Freshman Talent." The Student Council Dance will also be sponsored by the Student Center Committee. It will be held after the Centre-SW game on October 8th.

Two new members of the Development Committee were chosen for the coming year. Ed Albright was reappointed to his position and Susan Hunter was appointed to fill the position vacated by Lela Garner.

It was also announced that Homecoming Queen elections will be held on Wednesday, October 19th.

All students are cordially invited to attend the Student Council every Tuesday night in Science at 6:10 P.M. We represent YOU, and we welcome any and all suggestions which you might have.

Pigskin Predictions

by Prof. Prognosticator

Prediction results went pretty well for the old "Prof" last week. Another Saturday of fine gridiron activity is on tap tomorrow, with the key games of this young season scheduled at Kansas and Missouri.

Following are the predictions for this week:

- AIR FORCE over Stanford — could be closer than expected.
 - ALABAMA over Vanderbilt—fairly easy.
 - ARKANSAS over T.C.U.—upset.
 - AUBURN over Kentucky—excellent game.
 - GEORGIA TECH over Florida—Yellowjackets are tough.
 - GEORGIA over South Carolina—Bulldogs with ease.
 - ILLINOIS over West Virginia—runaway.
 - SYRACUSE over Kansas — close, and I mean real close.
 - L.S.U. over Baylor—upset.
 - MICHIGAN STATE over Michigan—good game.
 - OLE MISS over Memphis State—Tigers may make it close.
 - TENNESSEE over Mississippi State—stomp.
 - PENN STATE over Missouri—outstanding contest.
 - NOTRE DAME over Purdue—Irish too powerful.
 - OHIO STATE over Southern California—very close.
 - PITTSBURGH over Oklahoma—Pitt should roll.
 - TEXAS over Texas Tech — no sweat.
 - WASHINGTON over Navy — Huskies one of top in nation.
 - WISCONSIN over Marquette — easy.
 - TULANE over Rice—upset.
- And of course, SOUTHWESTERN over Hendrix.

BIG JERRY FONG, largest man on this year's Lynx eleven glowers menacingly from his center position. Fong, a Freshman who hails from Marianna, Arkansas, starred two years on the Arkansas All-District team.

KIMBRO SELECTED PLAYER OF WEEK

Big and brawny Butch Kimbro plays a rugged brand of football. Be it tonight or last Saturday, be it any one of the Saturdays over the past three seasons or during the coming campaign—the story's always the same: Butch is a very tough competitor, a "Most Valuable Player" just about every game.

Little wonder that down in Jackson, Mississippi, last Saturday, when little was rolling the Lynx' way, Kimbro was a still toger on defense, one of the few outstanding stalwarts on offense.

Little wonder the football squad chose Kimbro "Player of the Week" for playing typical Kimbro-style football in Southwestern's otherwise disappointing 3-0 loss to Millsaps.

Uses His Potential

"As good a defensive tackle as we could expect" was Coach Rick Mays' candid comment. Considering that Kimbro is one of the team's speediest linemen and that he throws around 225 lbs. to boot, it's surprising to no one that Butch has great potential.

What might be somewhat surprising is that Kimbro not only has potential but that he uses what he has, and for a team on which no one plays for dough or has to hustle to keep a scholarship or even a first-string berth in many instances.

Professional Scouts

It has been this Kimbro drive and determination that have made just another big guy into a mighty valuable asset. The same qualities have earned Butch a starting tackle slot for the past three seasons, made him a natural selection for this fall's alternate captain.

Even four years of top-flight football plus two-time "Player of the Week" award winner and alternate captain of the squad may not recap the most rewarding or most outstanding period of the Kimbro story. For word is that National Football League scouts have been giving the big boy from the small college more than a once-over.

Fine Tribute

Admittedly, whom the pro scouts are interested in, who gets drafted, and who makes the big leagues are not exactly identical lists, and no predictions are being made. But just the fact that the scouts are interested is a fine tribute.

And who could be more deserving?

Harriers Meet Arkansas State

Following a disheartening loss to Mississippi College at Clinton, Mississippi, last Saturday, the Southwestern roadrunners open their home campaign this afternoon against Arkansas State.

Spearheading the Lynx attack will be Mallory Chamberlin, Keith Arman, David Cooper, Pete Cornish, Dossett Foster, Bill Howard, Larry Kinney, Bert Ringold, Roy Selvidge, and Roy Wrather.

2 O'Clock Start

Starting time for this afternoon's meet is two o'clock on the north side of the gym. The four-mile course will be run in the form of a figure eight, and each harrier will pass in front of the spectators five times. Bleachers have been erected for those who plan to attend the race.

The cross country team needs support, as does any group engaged in athletic competition. Coach Mabry has done his part in arranging for the bleachers; the team has done its part in preparation for the meet, and now it's up to the student body to do its part in cheering the team.

Good Improvement

The squad improves tremendously with each practice session. Chamberlin and Arman are running in the number one and two spots respectively. Foster, Wrather, and Kenny are waging a fierce battle for the third spot. Intra-team competition is unusually keen this year, with all the top five men running relatively close time-wise.
