Freshmen End Slaveship

Binnie Ann Haven

Monday night with its talent show, bonfire, and dance, clinched freshman hazing. A large crowd of upperclassmen turned out to see the freshman release.

Sonny Colvert acted as "de massa ob ceremonies" and kept the audience amused with his bright remarks and witty sidelines. Harri-lyn Graves and Harriet Byrd played a piano duet entitled "Bumble Boogie." Joanna Kindig did an intricate tap routine, and Tom Huff presented a trumpet solo accompanied by Harriet Byrd.

The roaring twenties were portrayed by Mary Frances Files with her stringless ukelele, Kay Rausin and Peggy Lyn Jones with their chewing gum and charleston, accompanied by Connie White with her uke.

Harriet Byrd again gave us a rendition, this time of "A Good Man Is Hard To Find," in her best vocal style and with her own accompaniment. Bun Webb played his "hot guitar" and sang "My Gal." Don Carnes also exhibited his skill on the guitar with "Remember Me I'm The One Who Loves You," dedicated to Gerald Smith, and "When The Saints Go Marching In," with the audience joining in on the latter.

Mary Jane Crutcher, who formerly sang with a dance band, sang "If I Loved You," from Carousel. Bettie Stocket played a piano solo. Sonny ended the program by singing "Ole Man River."

Following the talent show a sign burning was held outside of Voorhies Hall. The freshmen sang joyously as their signs went up in smoke.

The dance was gaily decorated with red and black crepe paper and red balloons. All boys on campus were invited and only the freshman girls so there were plenty of surplus boys.

A mock undergraduate board meeting opened the dance. Mary Whitsett, Selma Plowman, Suzanne Whitsitt, Selma Plowman, Suzanne McCarroll, and Mary Chapman made up the board and Poochie Swartzfager, Louise Aiken, and Vernon Ware were the victims. A successful revenge was had as Poochie was commanded to kneel to freshman and give her full name as she proclaimed to all she was the lowest scum of the scum of the earth and Vernon was to say Allah, Allah, to all freshmen, while Louise had to write a thousand word thesis on insolence.

Dancing to the music of the record player was enjoyed by all until 10:00 o'clock, when hazing and the dance were officially over.

Excuse Cuts

Students may obtain information about their absence record in class and chapel on Monday afternoon, October 26, from 1:00 to 3:30, in Room 10 Palmer Hall.

Students are reminded that requests for excuse of absence must be personally presented to the Dean within one week of return from absence.

Frosh Officers Courtenay To Lead Services Are Selected For Fall Religious Week

Dot Harris

Southwestern's Fall Religious Emphasis Week commences tomorrow with Dr. Walter R. Courtenay of Nashville, Tennessee, as guest speaker. The theme for the four-day religious observance will be "Bridges for a Broken World."

Dr. Courtenay is the minister of the historic First Presbyterian Church of Nashville. He is also an author, a columnist for the Nashville Banner, and a well known radio preacher. He graduated from Maryville College, Maryville, Tennessee, and received his divinity degree from Princeton. In recognition of his work as a church and community leader, Carroll College granted him the degree of Doctor of Divinity and Ripon College, Doctor of Sacred Theology. He did graduate work at the University of Wisconsin in the fields of education and philosophy.

During the past six years five of his outstanding addresses have appeared in the Congressional Record. The "Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge" has recognized his work for the past two years with medals of merit.

The four-day Religious Emphasis period will include a Sunday vesper service and three mid-morning worship periods, with informal discussion hours for men and for women in their respective dormitories. The program is as follows:

Sunday, October 25, 5 p.m.—"Life's Third Dimension."

Monday, October 26, 10:30 — "Casualty Consciousness."

Tuesday, October 27, 10:30— "Damned by a Do-Nothing Faith."

Wednesday, October 28, 10:30— "Bridges for a Broken World."

All addresses will be given in Hardie Auditorium.

In addition to these addresses, Dr. Courtenay will lead an informal discussion group for all men students in Robb Hall Social Room, Monday at 7:30 p.m. Women students will meet for a discussion in Evergreen Hall, Tuesday at 7:30.

A special feature of the program this year, initiated at student request and sponsored by the Protestant Religious Council, will be a candle-lighting service at 6:30 Wednesday.

DR. COURTENAY

KD All Sing

On Thursday November 5, at 7:30 p.m. in Hardie Auditorium the Kappa Delta Sorority will hold its annual All Sing. The All Sing is a singing contest in which each fraternity and sorority has a group to represent it. Louise Aikin is chairman.

Before the contest begins a skit will be presented by Kappa Delta. Each group in the contest will sing two songs, the names of which are to be kept secret until that night because of the contest rules. Judging will be based on the appearance of the group as well as the songs they sing. Proceeds will be put into the fund for the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Virginia.

Intramural Football Cancelled For Year

All remaining games of the Intramural football schedule have been cancelled as of yesterday. This announcement came from Charles I. Diehl, Dean of Men, after a conference with President Peyton Rhodes and Intramural Director Bill Mabry Thursday morning.

"There are entirely too many serious injuries suffered during touch football games this year," Dean Diehl said. "As a result of these injuries, and after conferring with President Rhodes and Mr. Mabry, this decision was reached."

Three very serious injuries have happened while playing intramural football in the past week. Friday, October 16, Jerry Whitehead, a member of the Independent teams playing against the team of Kappa Alpha, sustained three fractured vertebra. He is now in traction at a Memphis hospital. Monday, October 19, while playing with his Pi KA team against the Alpha Tau Omega contingent, Dewey Harrison suffered a serious mouth injury, which might necessitate the removal of several teeth. And last Wednesday, October 21, Sidney Vise, captain of the Alpha Tau Omega team, received a broken left arm playing against Sigma Nu. This injury of Sidney's is made further serious by the fact that he is majoring in piano.

Dean Diehl did not know the reason for so many serious injuries happening in such a short period of time. "There have been serious injuries before in fraternity football," he said, "but never so many in less than a week."

When asked if there would be any provisions made for intramural athletics between now and the beginning of volleyball (November 24) Dean Diehl said that at the present there were no plans. "This will be taken up at the regular Intramural Board meeting next Monday." There will definitely be no resumption of the touch football schedule this year, and it is doubtful if Intramural Football will be retained in the Intramural Athletic Program in the future.

Dean Diehl pointed out that although varsity athletes are covered

Religious Emphasis Week

Religious Emphasis Week begins tomorrow. Lasting through Wednesday, it will cover three actual school days.

To one who has experienced many Religious Emphasis Weeks at Southwestern, it is hard to understand how these programs are always so good, how the guest speakers are always so impressive and straightforward, and how each current Religious Emphasis Week always seems better than the one previous.

This is our program—for our spiritual reaffirmation and religious bracing. Those who have no interest in Religious Emphasis Week are depriving themselves of a moral uplifting and a chance to associate with a closeness to your fellow students rarely felt.

Most valuable are the informal discussion groups—held for both men and women, that give a student a chance to air his own personal problems and provide the opportunity to hear the opinions of his schoolmates on the problems of the day.

It is with great pleasure that we welcome Religious Emphasis Week.

Dust . . . Dust . . . Dust

Most of us are too young to remember the "Dust Bowl" of some southwest states in the early 1930's, but we have read novels and heard stories about the trials of the poor citizens who inhabited this part of our country at that time. They were called "Okies," and were often seen traveling about the country in old-model cars with their worldly possessions piled on the top.

Any resemblance to an "Okie" and a Southwestern student is purely coincidental—but it is not coincidental that we have a dust bowl on the campus that is rapidly reaching the proportions of the one of the 30's.

Those fraternity houses that lie close to the road that leads to the new Mallory Memorial gymnasium are the recipients of great clouds of dust that roll up from this road whenever a vehicle passes. Due to the large amount of traffic that passes along the road each day, the lodges of Kappa Sigma, Kappa Alpha, and Sigma Nu contain a film of dust that invests everything; floors, furniture, and even bedrooms. It is absolutely impossible to maintain any resemblance of cleanliness in the above mentioned buildings.

We realize that this fall has been a particularly hot and dry one—we also realize that the Administration plans to pave the road upon completion of the gymnasium—be that as it may, the fraternity houses are still filthy and nothing is being done to stop it.

Waste crude oil costs little, and is an excellent and long-lasting dust-preventer.

Oiling "fraternity road" will cause a lot of dust and a lot of harsh words to settle.

Roll On Lynx

School spirit is an intangible and elusive thing at best, an intangible which is necessary to make a college community a fine place in which to be.

In past years, it has been something which Southwestern did not possess. But, happily, that is no longer true.

The spirit of the Student Body, even though the football team has lost its first three games, has been wonderfully evident at the games, and at planned and impromptu pep rallies.

Re-Pate-tion

Now that hazing has died a natural and, in the opinion of most upperclassmen, untimely death, and the frosh have released pent-up emotions by burning their signs and throwing Lord Tom Crais, the Most High Priest of the Sanhedran, into the Overton Park lake, the time has come for the freshmen to try to begin to assume their proper place in our beautiful, sometimes maligned, but for the most part beloved, Southwestern by the Zoo.

Perhaps most of the new students realize by now that there is a real purpose behind hazing—that the system here is designed for all to have fun and is never brutal like in some schools — and primarily, that a person who cannot gracefully conform to the rules of hazing is just not ready or sufficiently mature to attend college.

Granted that the transition from high school to college is a great one. Also granted that it is hard to get used to being on one's own and not having formal study periods or a truant officer breathing down one's neck for missing classes.

It is to be hoped that most of the new students now realize why the freshman handbook states: "Freshmen should attempt at all times to grow up."

We say thanks:

To the Southwestern players and the Kappa Delta Mother's Club for the recent production of "Behold the Star."

To Alpha Psi Omega for its "Moulin Rouge" Cabaret. Those who attended agree it was an evening well spent.

Be sure and attend:

The Pan Dance tonight. This is one dance that is a "must" for everyone.

The homecoming game and all its attending festivities.

Thought for the Week

Express your gratitude to the faculty and to the Administration for the Homecoming Weekend by attending classes the day before and the day after.

Also, just because there will be no Saturday classes, this is certainly no weekend to be running off for home, or other places. Just stick around and enjoy the fun. Believe me, it'll be well worth it!

Greek Letter Happenings

Perry Dannelley

Since Rush Week, our fraternities have begun to get things under way for the coming school year. Most of the social get-togethers at that time were in honor of the new pledges. A total of 57 boys have pledged fraternities.

One of the things of great interest in our fraternities at the present is the intramural football schedule. For the past two years Sigma Nu has won this championship.

Thanks to Pi Kappa Alpha for their support of the football team with signs and slogans.

Big things are underway in Sigma Alpha Epsilon, as they are preparing to be hosts for the chapter's national officers the weekend of Nov. 14. That is the date of the installation of the SAE chapter at Memphis State. Also, in November, the chapter is going to re-landscape the front of its house.

The sororities are preparing for fall rush week, and most of the freshman girls are trying to decide on which sorority to join. The sororities have gotten their social affairs underway with open houses. Last Tuesday night ZTA held open house honoring the professors. On Oct. 30, Chi Omega will hold open house before the pep rally for homecoming. Kappa Delta sponsored a swell comedy play, "Behold the Star," last Thursday and Friday.

—with Buddy Allison

Hazing's over, Homecoming's almost upon us, and lots of Southwesterners want to know where to go in Memphis for a good meal. With the school's activities in full swing now, there will be more and more opportunities to dine off the campus, and the question arises (not only to out-of-town students) of a restaurant that combines good food and service with prices that fit the average collegian's pocketbook.

Like steaks? One of the best steak-houses in town is The Stable, located on Bellevue betwn Union and Madison. This restaurant, another in the Early-Gary chain, features steaks as you like 'em, in a distinctive atmosphere. A good steak dinner will run between 1.85 to 2.85, which includes everything. Good seafood and chicken is also served here.

Have you ever eaten at Jim's, on Union across from the Peabody? This place features steaks; and it is here that you'll get more for your money on a steak than any other place in town. Their T-bones start at 1.25, and very good, too. A fine dish there is their Hamburger Steak at 85c. Biggest in town, they say.

Lika da good Italian food? Memphis has some very fine Italian restaurants, and the food in most of them is outstanding. Sam's Spaghetti House, on Poplar across from Ellis Auditorium, has spaghetti in any form or fashion that you would desire it; and at prices that are right. Try that old standby of spaghetti with meatballs; or, if you want something different, eat some spaghetti and chicken—both of them are delicious.

Pizza has been my favorite Italian dish for a long time, and I've found no better place to get it in this town than at Pete and Sam's, way out on Airways about two miles from the Airport. Their pizza is a lot lighter and more tender than at most places. It's a long way out, but it's worth it. However, there's a place just around the corner that serves mighty good pizza—Fracchia's, by name. I've only been in a couple of times (it's on Jackson, about four blocks up the street) but they have impressed me with their pizza both times. I hear that they have mighty good ravioli, too.

Like Barbecue? Two places in town get my vote. The first is Ray Gammon's, just across Parkway on Summer. Being an habitue, so to speak, of Ray's, I have eaten his barbecue many times and always found it delicious. I like the "brown pig" sandwich most of all, although some of you might prefer the white kind. He also has mighty good barbecue plates. The second place is The Pitchfork, at Poplar and Union extended. Such ribs they have! The dollar rib plate is one of the best buys in town.

For just plain "good eatin" you can't beat the Parkside. Pete has seen every Southwesterner in there at least once this year, and he hopes you'll come back. His lunches and dinners are very good and very inexpensively priced. The Southwestern Grill caters to the campus trade, and you do yourself wrong if you don't try their food. Like the Parkside, the Southwestern Grill has good, reasonable meals.

Here's wishing you the best in your gastronomic adventures . . .

See, you, On The Town!

Lynx Fall To Centre

Jip Walters

It was a terrific first quarter, a great first half, and then somebody took his finger out of the dike and the golden wave rushed in.

The Lynx journeyed to the home of the "Praying Colonels" of Centre College last week, via "breakdown Greyhound bus" and came back carrying a big 32-0 defeat bump on their noggins, a bunch of real physical injuries, and hurt pride. But all of this was coated with a thick icing of determination to hit the "comeback trail" when they met Hendrix College.

Sad Story

It was a hard fought, well-played game, but a sad old story was retold — penalties, fumbles — more penalties and fumbles.

On the first play of the game, halfback Jim Turner of the Lynx offense "rared" back and chunked one to James Edward Edens who took it in and scampered to about the Centre 45. Then it was "blow and go" all the way down to the Colonels 10 yard strip, with Lynx quarterback Smokey Russell doing a fine job of handling the ball. But the Cat's drive fell short of a tally and after holding the Colonels for four downs, the Lynx proceeded to try again.

Fumbles

Some nice running and blocking took the ball deep into Centre territory, but this time a fumble cut it short. On the way down, halfback Jim "Digger" Higgason and Jim Turner, plus George Gracey, fullback, were doing some fine running and blocking, and the spirit was high.

But when the Colonels finally got organized and started to drive, a completed pass, a hard charging fullback drive off the center of the Lynx line had netted two touchdowns and one extra point for a half time score of 13-0.

Missing Faces

And after the half several familiar faces were missing from the Lynx lineup as they took the field. Jim Turner was out with a head injury, and Smokey Russell had lost a tooth, received a split lip and face and was trying to find out where he was.

Crawford Street and Harry Heidelberg called most of the plays from then on, and did a good job, but the Centre boys were just too much for the injury riddled Lynx. Punt returns, wide runs, and completed passes gave the Colonels their finishing total of 32 points against the Cat's O. Ray Tanner and Reg Germany played some good ball in the line, along with Bill Hughes and others.

The Lynx are keyed up for this one with the boys from over at Hendrix (at the time of this writing before game time) and are out for blood. So we will stick our necks out unreservedly and say "They'll take this one!"

What's Your Answer?

Question: What should replace the pajama race during halftime of the Homecoming game?

Answers:

Bert Sulcer, freshman—"no comment!"

Elizabeth Carter—"Nothing . . . the pajama race is a tradition at Southwestern."

Ann Riley—thinks that the freshmen should do something constructive. What? She doesn't know.

Jimmy McLin suggested a night gown race. Frank Barton seconded the motion wholeheartedly. Billy McLean highly approved.

Margaret Ann Fagan—"I believe the band should perform instead of the frosh."

ENDING IT ALL—From the look on these freshmen's faces, little doubt could be held that they were happy at tossing signs, caps, and bonnets into the flames. This event was held on the Freshman Celebration Monday to ring out hazing's end.

Lydel Sims Says All Can Write

Edith Jean Cooper

Lydel Sims, whose daily newspaper column, Assignment Memphis, has made him one of the most popular feature writers in this part of the country, is currently winning fame in a new role—that of a college professor. In case you haven't heard from some enthusiastic member of the English 25 class, Mr. Sims is teaching creative writing at Southwestern this year. This class has proved to be one of the fastest growing seminars on the campus. At the last class meeting, several aspiring authors were forced to sit in the windows because all the chairs were taken by other would-be writers.

When he began to teach the class, Mr. Sims stated, "The way to learn to write is to write. I intend to have you all do some hard work in this course this year." How true! After four sessions of discussing the problems involved in writing, and selling what one has written, each member of the class is struggling to produce a short story, poem, or essay which might possibly appeal to the eye and the checkbook of some publisher. (If you don't believe it's a struggle ask someone in the class.)

In spite of the hard work, the class is fascinating. Those interested in writing, for publication or for personal enjoyment, should attend at least one creative writing class, just to find out what's going on. There are almost as many auditors as there are credit students in the class, so interested visitors will always feel at home. Come on over to Burrow Library some Thursday afternoon at 4:30 and bring your favorite short story plot. Mr. Sims and the members of the class will be glad to give you advice on how to work it out. After all, even Lydel Sims was a student once.

Jack Poss—"Nothing should replace it—I want to have one."

Grace Morris—"I've been looking forward to the pajama race. I'm disappointed that we aren't to see it."

Tissie Tanner says that the girls should have a pajama race.

Don Parker—"Nothing, hazing is over for the year."

'Alky' Selzer

Marian McClelland

We are glad to have Herr Edgar Selzer, affectionately referred to as "Alky," who is now in his second week at Southwestern. This blonde, blue-eyed young "Knabe" has come to us after 21 years of living in Vienna, Austria. He expects to return next year sometime.

He is one of Southwestern's newest exchange students and his presence certainly enhances this campus. If you don't believe me, listen. Herr Selzer has been named Vienna's junior chess champion for three consecutive years, and he won the Austrian Junior Class championship in 1952. He is now writing a book about the similarities between Roman and North American civilizations, and he has already had a few of his creative efforts published in the newspapers in Vienna. He is also trying his hand at teaching—he teaches a German Conversation class here. But he doesn't spend all his time writing books, teaching, and playing chess. He is rather skillful at Vienna's national sport, soccer, and he claims to be a skier of some renown.

American history, Greek History, Spanish, and Italian comprise his studies here. But Herr Selzer's main ambition is to become a lawyer and to practice in Vienna. This ambition should be recognized in about two years, he says, and meanwhile, we here at Southwestern have the privilege of his company.

The campus calendar has been swinging full blast. We've been having parties, parties, and more parties . . . everything from Moulin Rouge to open houses.

Last Saturday night the Alpha Psi's held a Moulin Rouge Party in Voorhies basement. Dancing, floor shows, and general merriment was on the agenda. An instrumental combo played for the party. The floor shows for the night were held at 9 and 11. Jennie Lee Davis sang the "Song from Moulin Rouge," "Where is Your Heart," and Mary Ellen Chambliss did a skit from the movie. The money made from this party is to be used in producing bigger and better plays for Southwestern!!

Hallelujah

Last Monday night Freshman hazing ended — Hallelujah!! The Frosh all gathered in Hardie Auditorium at 7:00 for a Freshman Talent Show where 300 were awaiting the program. Sonny Colvert in black face and cowboy boots acted as Master of Ceremonies. Included in the show were Harrilyn Graves, Harriet Eyrd, Betty Stockett, pianists; Tom Huff, trumpet; Joanna Kindig, tap dancing; Mary Jane Crutcher singing a song from "Carosel"; A gay nineties chorus; Bunn Webb and Don Carnes, guitar playing; and Sonny Colvert, sang "Ole Man River."

After the show, the Frosh migrated to Voorhies for an informal dance. Here a Freshman board tried three members of the Women's Undergraduate Board. The victims were Vernon Ware, Louise Aiken, and Poochie Swartzfager. The Frosh men, not to be outdone in revenge took the President of the Sanhedren, Tommy Crais, to the pond in the park. Tommy was quite wet, but everybody else was happy.

Bonfire

The Freshman then migrated to the back yard of Voorhies to burn signs, caps, and baby bonnets. As the Frosh stood around the fire watching their Freshman days of hazing burn, they sang "Auld Lang Syne" and "Freshman Hazing's Over." When the gang returned to the playroom for dancing a secret committee was watching closely. As the group began to bunny-hop around the room, the committee picked the Typical Freshman Boy and Girl, and the Freshest Frosh. Sonny Colvert and Fary Mullen Rice were the typical Freshmen and Pat Hesselbein and Harry Heidelberg were the Freshest Frosh. The Freshmen really rocked at their celebration—a good time was had by all!!

Founder's Day

The Zeta's celebrated their Founder's Day with a banquet at the Peabody Hotel October 15. Mary Margaret Storck was in charge of the preparations. Entertainment for the banquet consisted of a hilarious skit entitled the "Farmer's Daughter." Starring Julius Morrow, Joan Womack, Johnnie Suduth, Yvonne Burns, Nola Nurnburger, and Ada Jane Walters.

This seems to be Zeta's week—last Tuesday they held an open house at their lodge from 6-8 honoring the faculty. The decorations, planned by Mary Wiseman, featured sketches of the professors. The refreshments for the party included cokes, hot chocolate, and donuts.

Flashes—The K.D.'s have closed their house for re-modeling; Homecoming is next weekend; don't forget the Pan dance in the gym tonight from 9-12. The Ole Miss Reblaires are playing. See you there!!

Maid of Cotton

Just a reminder that all entries for the Sou'wester Maid of Cotton Contest must be in by no later than October 31. Following is a list of qualifications which all entrants must possess.

1. Be unmarried, between the ages of 19 and 25, inclusive, and have been born in a cotton growing state.
2. Be photogenic.
3. Be willing and able to meet people.
4. Be in perfect health.
5. Remember that background, personality, and appearance are of equal importance in the selection of the Maid of Cotton.
6. Be willing and able to make an international tour beginning early in January and lasting until August. If employed, the winner necessarily would have to obtain leave of absence, or, if in school, would have to suspend her studies for the duration of the tour.
7. Be at least 5 feet, 5 inches tall.
8. Be willing to travel by air on regular commercial airlines.
9. Realize that the purpose of the entire program is to stimulate interest in cotton.
10. Agree to travel with a chaperon designated by the National Cotton Council of America.
11. Understand that there will be no official remuneration, except that all expenses of the winner will be paid during her training period and the tour.
12. Understand that there will be all expenses incidental to her appearance in Memphis for the finals of the contest.
13. Agree to appear before the audience at the contest finals in cotton apparel; agree to appear before the judging committee (not before the audience) in a bathing suit.
14. Agree, if selected to appear in the finals of the contest, to be in Memphis on January 5 and 6, 1954.

Sou'wester Staff Meeting Called

A meeting of all those on the Sou'wester staff, both editorial and business, is scheduled for the Sou'wester office at one o'clock this afternoon.

Editor Buddy Allison requests that all those who now work on the Sou'wester, and all those who are interested in any phase of newspaper work please to be present.

The college paper particularly needs dependable reporters and typists.

The Protestant Religious Council is a student organization headed by the commissioner of religious activities, Albert Evans. The council itself is an executive committee composed of the president and a representative from each of these groups: the Westminster Fellowship, the Canterbury Club, the Methodist Student Fellowship, and the Baptist Student Union.

The president and representative respectively of each of these organizations are as follows: WF, Peggy Fitch and Newton Todd; CC, Don Williamson and Suzanne McCarroll; MSF, Mary Ann Hackleman and Mary Ann Wachal; BSU, Bobbie Thomas and Geraldine Dozier.

This collection of organizations centers its activities around three commissions. The worship commission, headed by Holly Mitchell, has charge over worship in the dormitories, blessings asked in the dining hall, and hymn sings.

The thought commission works hard during the fall and spring in the periods of religious emphasis by accident insurance, there is no coverage for intramural athletes, although more students participate in intramurals than in varsity sports. He gave no comment as to the reason for this.

"We realize that the decision to cancel the Intramural Football schedule would bring displeasure and disappointment, but we feel that the harm it has done this year more than surmounts the good and pleasure gained from it," the Dean stated. "The injuries this year are of such a nature that the expense to the boys' parents will be great; and the injured men will have to miss much time from school. It is regrettable, but we have no other choice in the matter."

when it leads the discussion groups. The leader of this commission is Mary Williams.

The third commission is that of outreach, which helps provide means for extending Christianity to everyone everywhere. This group is headed by Geraldine Dozier.

The purpose of the Protestant Religious Council is to keep before the minds of the students the claims of Christian truths and ideals. To further this purpose, the PRC presents such programs as the bi-ennial religious emphasis weeks like the one which begins at Southwestern tomorrow. The Council also sponsors the annual fund-raising drive — the proceeds of which are divided among various worthy organizations.
