Dr. William Orr To Lead Religious Emphasis Week

"A Theology for Christian Living" is the theme of the Spring Religious Emphasis Program which begins Sunday afternoon, March 14. Speaker for four days will be Dr. William F. Orr, Professor of Systematic Theology at Western Seminary, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

A native of Corinth, Miss., Dr. Orr attended Central High in Memphis while his father, the late Dr. John W. Orr was pastor of McLemore Avenue Presbyterian Church. After receiving his A.B. degree in 1928 from Southwestern, he went to Louisville Presbyterian Seminary, where he was awarded Bachelor of Divinity and Master of Theology degrees. He also holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree from Hartford Theological Seminary. During 1932-34 Dr. Orr taught Bible here at Southwestern.

The Religious Emphasis program will begin with convocation March 14 at 5:00 in Hardie Auditorium. The topic of Dr. Orr's sermon will be "Has Dispensing With God Done Us Any Good." On Mon., Tues., and Wed. mornings from 11:20-12:00 o'clock, discussion groups will be held for the students over which members of the student body will preside. An Evening Discussion for all men students will be held at 10:00 o'clock in Robb Social Room Mon. night. The following night the women students will also have a discussion group at 10:00 o'clock in Voorhies Lounge. Climaxing the events will be an Interdenominational Dedication Service at 7:00 p.m. in Hardie Auditorium Wed. evening.

Albert Evans, President of the Protestant Religious Council, will assist Professor Kelso who is presiding over all functions. The Southwestern Singers will perform at various worship services under the direction of Professor Burnet C. Tuthill.

Register Now

Registration for the first six-weeks term of the Summer Session will be conducted during the week of March 22 through 27 in the Registrar's Office. Fees may be paid at the time of registration or later; but if they are paid before June 7, the student need not report until Tuesday, June 8, the day that classes actually begin.

A penalty for late payment will be assessed if fees are not paid by 5:00 p.m. on Monday, June 7.

It is most important that all prospective summer session students now attending Southwestern register during this period, as after March 27 courses for which there has been little or no demand may be dropped from the schedule. It may also be possible to add new courses to the schedule if pre-registration shows a sufficient need for them.

If a student has any doubt as to his eligibility for the courses he expects to take, he should consult his major professor or faculty adviser in advance. Bible 51-52 is not open to students whose total semester hours at the close of the present semester are less than 86.

KD-KA Win Stunt Night

The KD's and KA's won first place in the AOPi stunt night last Saturday night, with ZTA and Kappa Sigma coming in second. These winners were announced by AOPi's new President, Poochie Swartzfager.

KD's winning production, "Daisy's Ladies' Toggery," was written by Ann Caldwell, with sets by Polly Baber, costumes by Mary Chapman and Martha Ann Hibbits, and make up by Sarah Jane Atkins. General chairman for the whole affair was Dot Henning. Frances Marshall, Ann Caldwell, and Jackie Coker had the important parts, and were admirably supported by a large, well-trained chorus of salesladies and bargain hunters.

KA's "Paradise Lost Again," had the audience in the aisles. Chief reason for this was Jerry Bennett's appearance, as a lady of questionable standards, in the midst of a gathering of lonely ones. Chandler Warren, as Jupiter, and Amel Peterson, Eric Mount, George Fischer, Wiley Umphlet, Tommy Bu-

Gym Nears Completion

As students went stumbling about in the darkened dormitory corridors on February 23, a milestone of a sort was occurring only as far away as Mallory Gymnasium. Electricity had come to it at last. The stone work and the roof have been completed, and within ten days the heating should be working. The next steps in its progress include the painting of the interior, the installation of the extensive wiring necessary, final touches on the plumbing, and the most exacting job of all, the laying of the maple floor. Then the gym will be ready for the system of fold-away seats which will allow for fourteen hundred on the floor level, with a total seating capacity of twenty-four hundred, including the balcony. An extension of Lyndale will lead into a large parking area in front of the gym. Southwestern's president, Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes, stated that he firmly believes that the gym will be completed and functioning by the end of this college year. He also added with a twinkle in his eye that if anyone who wishes to be remembered forever would donate the money for the swimming pool wing, construction on it would begin within fifteen minutes. Professor J. R. McQuiston heads the committee for the dedication, which is tentatively set for early in December.

"Poochie" Swartzfager and Bill Hughes have been chosen by the student body to reign over this year's April Fool Carnival at Southwestern. They will be crowned King William and Queen Esther at the Ball on April 2nd. Their Prince and Princess are to be Tommy Cunningham and Claudia Owen. They will be attended by Ladies-in-waiting Margaret Jones, Millye Bunn, Jean Enochs, Carolyn Milton and Lisa Rollow, and Lords-in-waiting Jim McLin, Ray-Tanner, Tommy Crais, Chandler Warren and Bennie Lamberth.

Mays Declares Night Owls We Will Win Trapped In Lynx Lair

—Don Parker—

A man of forcefulness and integrity is Southwestern's new football coach, Rick Mays. He is not new at the game of battling the pigskin, nor is all his time occupied by it.

Mr. Mays began his coaching career—surprisingly enough—here at Southwestern in 1936. Unlike most coaches who also taught classes, he was a part-time insurance salesman. From Southwestern he went to Tech High School where he coached from 1937 through 1941. After the war began, he joined the Marine Corps where he was a judo instructor. After he left the service, he went back into the insurance business. In 1948 he became the backfield coach for Central High School where he has remained up until the present time.

There will be some changes made in the attitude Coach Mays presents when referring to our '54 football season. He expects to begin training August 30 and will run the T formation. In speaking of the coming season Mr. Mays insisted, "We don't plan to lose; we are going to win!" With this spirit behind our football team and with the full enthusiastic support of the student body, 1954 looks like it will be a successful year for Southwestern in more ways than one.

Career Day For Women

The Women's Undergraduate Board is sponsoring a Career Afternoon, Friday, March 19, in Voorhies Basement from 3 to 5. The speakers will be: Margette Smith, school teacher; Barbara Mann, modeling; Joan Riley, air-line stewardess; Irma Wadell, journalism; Jean Roberts, F.B.I.; May Wallace, Air Force secretary; and Martha E. Maxwell, housewife and business woman. Refreshments will precede the talks. All women students are invited.

To our new King and Queen the titles come as a climax to a long series of honors that have been awarded them at Southwestern. Bill, a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity, is President of the Student Body this year. He holds membership in ODK, TKA, and the S Club. He is a past President of the Honor Council, a letterman in football and track, and last year was the April Fool Prince. Poochie is the new AOPi President and has been Commissioner of Undergraduate Women this year. She represented Southwestern in this year's Maid of Cotton contest, was the PiKA Dream Girl, and has been named one of Beauties for the Lynx.

Carolyn Milton, Bennie Lamberth, Ray Tanner and Chandler Warren were also in last year's April Fool Court. Prince Tommy was voted Best All-Round this year and Princess Claudia was the Most Attractive coed in 1953. Tickets are now on sale for the April Fool Ball which will last from 10 'till 2.

Senior Women Attend AAUW

Special guests today of the Memphis branch of the American Association of University Women at their March meetings in the Adult Education Center of the new Burrow Library were the senior women of Southwestern who were welcomed into membership by Miss Flora Rawls, President of the Tennessee division of the AAUW. Dr. Helen Gordon, a former student and Associate Dean of Women at Southwestern, spoke on "What Curriculum for Women." Dr. Gordon, who is present Dean of Women at LSU, was the first woman to receive an honorary degree from Southwestern. She is a former National Secretary of Chi Omega and a member of the AAUW and the Delta Kappa Gamma society. Dr. Gordon was introduced by Miss Eleanor Bosworth.

Smith to Head Honor Council

Gerald Smith and Louise Aikin have been elected President and Vice-President of the Honor Council for 1954-55. They were selected by popular vote by the student body last Wednesday and will be installed later this spring.

Gerald, a sophomore from Sumner, Mississippi, has been on the Honor Council one year. In his fraternity, Kappa Sigma, he was selected Best Pledge and is now Grand Scribe. He is a member of the S Club, Vice-president of the sophomore class, and has been guard on the football team for two years.

Louise, who has also been on the Honor Council one year, is a junior from Mobile, Alabama. She is editor of Kappa Delta, a member of the Dorm Board, the Undergraduate Board, and Y Cabinet, and secretary-treasurer of her class.

"We Just Couldn't Care Less"

It didn't last long! Drastic action on the part of a small band of students who chose to be non-conformists was watched with some interest, and for a few days our campus almost came alive. Students began to inquire of one another just what the discussion was about. What at the time seemed to be an ill-advised article in a downtown paper later proved itself a gem that caused Southwesterners to ferret out the information for themselves. Private discussions and group meetings were held; ideas formulated and petitions circulated—the student body had been jolted off its "complacent plane." But it didn't last long.

This week, like many gone by and many more to come, has been void of student body interest in Southwestern. The attitude seems easy to understand in the light of the supposedly restricted atmosphere in which our college operates. Because of the variety of courses which are required of us, it is a rare student indeed who finishes his four years without having to study something that fails to interest him at all. Add to that the perennial complaint that each professor expects the student to be completely absorbed in his particular subject, and the composite attitude of the student body becomes even more marked.

Let us be honest with ourselves. Do all these gripes really affect our student life? Why did the question which roused so much discussion become a dead issue so quickly? Why was our student body grade average a poor C plus last semester? Why is the Southwestern campus lifeless? Part of the blame may be placed on the curriculum, part on the faculty and part on that vague catch-all we call circumstance. But far and away the largest cause of the poor student body spirit rests in our own "couldn't care less" attitude.

For a while last week our campus was really alive. But it didn't last long. There are a number of projects in the wind right now that deserve our support, and, if they materialize, could do much to make our student life interesting. If they fail, will it be your fault?

"Paradise Lost Again" presented by the Kappa Alphas won first place among the fraternities at Stunt Night last Saturday. Jerry Bennett, as a lady of questionable standards, enticed a group of lonely gods, and thus paradise was lost again.

Re-Pate-tion

Fervid exclamations of "Tear it down, burn it, blow it up" are the traditional impulsive answers to what to do with Fargason Field House now that the new gym is nearing completion. Surely though, some use could be found for it.

The administration wants to use the place for a parking lot, while some happy soul had the idea of making it a temporary student union building. (We understand a petition to that effect has duly been deposited on the Prexy's desk.) The drawback to the latter idea is that the place just couldn't last out another 25 years as a temporary building. The old edifice has got varicose beams, high boiler pressure, and other symptoms of old age which won't let it take this modern pace.

I suppose it could be sold to an antique dealer as an ante-bellum mule barn, or used at next year's Homecoming pep rally—as the bonfire.

The student council has suggested it be equipped as a freshman torture chamber—didn't any of them ever take physical education — While the F.O.F. wants to install iron maidens for use on professors who give unannounced quizzes.

There is also a wild rumor about that the girls' of Voorhies have presented a petition to Dean Eleanor Bosworth requesting that the basketball floor be partitioned into about 30 little rooms, to be used as auxiliary passion pits to accommodate the overflow from the girls' dormitory.

Mention of Miss Bosworth reminds us of our own idea for efficient disposal of the building. Since Dr. J. O. Embry has been desperately seeking some way to even an old score against her, we would suggest that a six-inch cannon be placed back of each free-throw line. The two of them could bang away at each other to their hearts' content, and the wreckage used to fill in some of the deeper riverbeds in the swampy, mis-begotten stretch of desolation leading to the new gym, which the school authorities persist in calling a road.

ford, Charlie Andrews completed the ensemble. Wiley, Jerry, and Chandler wrote "Paradise," Jerry directed, and Charlie Burnett did the music.

ZTA's bittersweet "Ye Newe Toy Shop," received second place honors among the sororities. Johnnie Suduth and Salliejane Dickerson were terrific as the soldier and bride doll, and were beautifully supported by Jerry Wittman, Gladys Coppock, Cora Davis, Bennie Ann Haven, Daisy Glenn, Beth Perkins, Sam Melton, Jody Danielson, Mary Ann Wiseman, Carrie Edwards, and Yvonne Burns. The skit was written and directed by Ada Jane Walters and Jerry Wittman.

The Kappa Sig's led off "Stunt Night" with the second prize winner, "Sugar Boys from Basin Street." Jim Napier produced and introduced the act, and Gerald Smith acted as M. C. The Sugar Boys were Mark Waters, drums; Dan Adams, bass; Burt Sulcher, piano; Burton Henry, trumpet; Joe Lawson, trombone; John Nail, clarinet, and they got things real hot. Charlie Barnett and John Butterworth knocked themselves out as a dancing couple.

Other skits included: ATO's "Red Hot Riding Hood," Sigma Nu's

Campus Challenges

The Russian writers have a knack of laying bare the workings of human nature. One of them tells the story of the time when all the human graces were invited to a banquet with the gods. Here is what happened:

They talked and chatted o'er the meal,
They even laughed with temperate glee,
And each one knew the other well,
And all were good as good could be.

But there was a fly in the ointment, a discord in the symphony:

But LOVE and GRATITUDE
Alone of all seemed strangers yet;
They stared when they were introduced,
On earth they never once had met.

On His way to Jerusalem, Jesus entered a little village and was met by ten lepers who, standing at a distance, cried out, "Jesus, Master, have mercy on us." Jesus said, "Go show yourselves to the priests." And while the lepers were on their way to the priests, they were all cleansed. One of them turned back praising God, and falling on his face before Jesus, gave Him thanks. We remember that Jesus asked, "Were not ten cleansed? Where are the nine?" Do you suppose that Jesus was hurt? That He was disappointed? We know that He was. He had cured these men of leprosy, the scourge of the east, the dread disease that rots the flesh and bone and leaves hideous ulcerous sores on the body. They forgot to thank Him.

We must not be too quick to put them to scorn, for Jesus has given us greater gifts of love than healing of leprosy, but our patterns of living are not evidences of gratefulness. Our neglect of Him is a testimony of ingratitude. David the Psalmist wrote, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His bounty to me?" He considers and concludes, "O Lord, I am Thy servant." And that is the kind of gratefulness that God would have us to give.

"Some work of love begun,
Some deed of kindness done,
Something for Thee."

DDD Initiate

A Big Sister-Little Sister banquet today honoring their new initiates will climax the Tri-Deltas Post-Initiation Week. It will be held at the King Court Smorgasbord at 12:30. A program as a momento of the initiation activities will mark the place of each member. Vera Watson, pledge trainer, and Margaret Jenkins, sponsor chairman, are in charge of the arrangements.

The Trident Degree of Initiation marked the beginning of the activities last Tuesday at the sorority lodge. For the next two days the pledges wore silver tridents, signifying this degree.

On Thursday the seventeen pledges became active members by taking the Stars and Crescent degree. After the ceremony the new initiates were presented white carnation corsages by their Big Sisters, and were entertained with a party. Big and Little Sisters exchanged gifts. The pledge awards were also announced. With a 4.0 average for the first semester Jane Burns Campbell was awarded the scholarship cup with her name and the year engraved on it. Libby Shaifer was voted by the chapter as the Most Outstanding Pledge. Carolyn Townes received the Best Pledge award. Libby and Carolyn will be given crested bracelets with their names and awards engraved on them. After these presentations the initiates sang their pledge songs for judging by the members. Prizes were given for the best group song and for the best individual song.

Next week all of the actives, including the new initiates, will have their first party together at the sorority lodge.

The new initiates and their Big Sisters who will be at the banquet are:

- Mary Rogers, president of the pledge class, and her Big Sister, Mary Ann Wachel;
  - Roberta Bacon, vice-president, and Mary Ann Hackleman;
  - Anne Hixon, secretary, and Frances Van Cleave;
  - Carolyn Townes, treasurer, and Carolyn Milton;
  - Libby Shaifer, chaplain, and Margaret Jones;
  - Betsy Bell and Josie Clemens;
  - Harriet Byrd and Jean McLean;
  - Jane Burns Campbell and Peggy Fitch;
  - Charlene Jayroe and Ethel Harrell;
  - Betty Carol Johnston and Peggy Crocker;
  - Marian McClelland and Catharine Coleman;
  - Mary Wood McClintock and Meredith Newman;
  - Martha Jane Morrison and Lollie Speir;
  - Mary Mullen Rice and Ann Barr;
  - Mary Ann Short and Sallie Myhr Thomas;
  - Marilu Whiteside and Bettie Worthington;
  - Diane Worthington and Robin Sprague.
- Also at the banquet will be the two new pledges, Joy Hayes and Sally Williamson.

Pressing the Profs

By Geraldine Dozier

Our professor with the cane and the perpetual smile deserves many thanks from many past and present students of Southwestern. Dr. Ralph C. Hon, chairman of Southwestern's economics department, first instigated the present honor scholarship program here at our college. In the spring of 1941, Dr. Hon asked Dr. Diehl's permission to set up this scholarship program. The president emeritus gave his consent and generously contributed his aid and cooperation—and thus the program was put into action. "I have always been extremely grateful to Dr. Diehl for this," quoted the professor.

In speaking of the plan, Dr. Hon stated, "I feel that this has been a great factor in keeping high the scholastic rating of the college. Several of our Phi Beta Kappa students have been products of this aid plan."

The hobby, as it may be called, of this doctor of economics, is not surprising—it's reading and studying stock markets and corporations. Dr. Hon claims that he gains much pleasure from studying the methods, ups, and downs of the business world. But another hobby, which might be more appealing to us, is taking motor trips all over the United States. He has been in every state several times and has visited the campus of every prominent college and university in the west. While visiting the campuses, he also found time to meet and talk with many well-known economics professors of the west. Dr. Hon has made repeated visits to Canada during the years of '46, '49, and '52.

Boyhood

The professor spent part of his boyhood in Jonesboro, Arkansas, and part of it in Thayer, Missouri, but most of his high school days were in Missouri. During his freshman year, Dr. Hon contracted osteomyelitis in his left leg and amputation above the knee was made necessary.

"I have been somewhat of a tramp about going to school," confessed the instructor. He first attended Central College in Fayette, Mo. During his sophomore year, he went to California for summer school at the University of Southern Calif. He came back to Central his junior year to serve as editor of the annual and during this year, he decided to be an instructor in economics. Because Central College did not offer a major in this field, Dr. Hon moved to the University of Ill. where he received his B.A. After teaching one year at the Thayer high school, he went to Harvard to earn an M.A. Following this, he came back to Thayer as principal of the high school. One year while there, he coached a debating team which won first place over the eastern half of the state—around 80 teams competed. He next received a fellowship to the University of North Carolina. The man responsible for Dr. Hon's going to Carolina served as assistant to Pres. Truman during his administration. Upon receiving another fellowship, Dr. Hon went to the University of Washington, D. C., where he wrote his doctor's dissertation. The thesis, entitled "Railway Efficiency Since 1920," was turned in to the University of N. Carolina and he then received his Ph.D. in economics and business administration.

Dr. Hon first taught at Nebraska Wesleyan at Lincoln from 1929-1931. Here he was professor of economics and business administration. He then came to Southwestern to stay ten years before going to Duke University as a visiting professor. There from 1941-1943, he taught courses in finance. Moving next to Philadelphia, he acted as a senior financial analyst for the Securities and Exchange Commission of the government. In 1946, Dr. Hon returned to Southwestern where he now carries a heavy load, being the only instructor of economics at the college. After being at Southwestern a while, he felt that they shouldn't have given him a Ph.D. without a course in statistics, so to remedy the matter, he went to the University of Wisconsin and took the course, "just for the fun of it." And he did enjoy it!

Success

The success of Dr. Hon's chosen profession of teaching is continually seen in the lives of many of his former students. One former student is now superintendent of Marshall-Field, the largest department store in Chicago. Another student is a professor at the University of Indiana—another heads the department of business organization at the University of Florida. And another former student now acts as a special advisor to the director of the international division of the budget bureau in Washington. "No one attends more athletic functions at Southwestern than I do," stated our economic instructor. In 1936, he received membership in O.D.K. on this campus. Later he received an honorary membership in the "S" Club. Dr. Hon says this is one of his proudest memberships.

Coach Announces Spring Schedule

A well planned schedule of athletic events for the spring has been released by Coach Glen Johnson. Spring sports are baseball, track, golf and tennis.

The first team to get the ball rolling will be the diamond crew. On March 29 they will play Arkansas State at Jonesboro. The first home game will be on April 2 with De Pauw University invading. Other outstanding games on the 16 game card are Notre Dame and Memphis State.

Seven meets are lined up for the track men. On April 3 they travel to Jonesboro to compete against Arkansas State. First home meet brings in Wabash, Memphis State and Lambuth College for a quar-rangular event on April 6.

Golfers open at home March 30 against Ole Miss. Other foes include such standouts as the University of Florida, Memphis State, and Florida State. The Lynx will also compete in the Southern Intercollegiate Tournament at Athens, Ga., starting on April 29 and the TAIC Tournament May 7.

The tennis team starts on April 2 at Memphis State and then hosts Wabash College and Ole Miss before hitting the road again.

The schedule for spring sports are as follows:

Baseball

- March 29, Arkansas State, away.
- April 2, De Pauw University, home.

Meet the Nurses While You Can

Nita Saunders

Maybe the N present at the right of many courses listed on the schedule has puzzled many students. Those courses fixed in that manner are the ones that forty-six student nurses take here at Southwestern.

These students come from many different states to the Methodist Hospital here in Memphis to receive their training. Before their specialized training begins, a two-quarter glance at a regular liberal education is given them.

Staying only two quarters, they have very little time to mix with the student body as a whole; so it is up to the individual student to introduce himself to these nurses and get to know them. You may find them present at the chapel exercises, and at many of the religious group meetings. Earlier in the year a luncheon was given by the Student Counselors in honor of the nurses. This helped a great deal in getting to know them better.

Some of the subjects taken at Southwestern besides science are psychology, sociology, and English. Running on the quarter system, they are not able to meet our same class periods; therefore it takes a bit of extra effort on our part to meet the nurses.

Exams start on the twenty-seventh of March, so we have very little time left for making new friends. See how many you can get to know between now and then!

Model husbands often turn out to be non-working models.

For Girls Senior Awards

Two national scholarships for college senior girls are again offered for 1954-55 by the Katherine Gibbs School. These awards were originally established in 1935 and are in memory of Mrs. Katherine M. Gibbs, founder and first president of the school.

Each scholarship consists of full tuition ($620) for the secretarial training course, plus an additional cash award of $500, totaling $1,120. Two winners may select any one of the five Gibbs schools for their training — Boston, Chicago, New York, Montclair, Providence.

Winners are chosen by the Scholarship Committee on the basis of college academic record, personal and character qualifications, and potentialities for success in business.

Each college or university may recommend one candidate and each candidate must have this official endorsement. Students who may be interested in trying for one of these Katherine Gibbs awards may obtain full information from the Dean or the personnel office.

Poochie's Patter

Saturday is the big night for the S.A.E.s. They are having their annual sweetheart ball at the Panarama Room of the King Cotton. The theme this year is a Domino Ball. At the lead-out time, the outgoing sweetheart, Lisa Rollo, escorted by Tom Tosh, will present the new sweetheart with a bouquet of yellow roses and a sweetheart pin. Bill Justis is playing for the dance which will last from 9 to 12. After the dance, the S.A.E.s and dates are going to President's Island for a breakfast given by Lisa Rollow. Sounds like the most!!

Last Monday the triple D pledges surprised members with a party before chapter meeting. Cookies, nuts, potato chips, and cokes were set out on the table when the actives came to the house at four.

Congratulations to Tri Deltas on their new chapter at API!

Last Saturday night the Kappa Alphas and Kappa Deltas took first place honors at AOPi Stunt Night. Kappa Sigmas and Zetas placed second. The money made from Stunt Night will go to Philanthropic work. At Stunt Night the new AOPi officers were announced. They are: President, Esther Jane Swartzfager; Vice President, Mary G. Beggs; Recording Sec., Lisa Rollow; Corresponding Sec., Mary Rodriguez; Treasurer, Jenny Hurst; and Rush Captain, Gay Rush. Of course, I may be prejudiced, but I think it's a darn good crew. Congrats!

March 20 is the date for the Zeta Dance. They plan to have a card dance. April 2 is April Fool—tickets are on sale now, get your tickets!

After Stunt night Saturday, the P is tripped to the 3D house for an initiation and spend-the-night party. The gals had a great time—considering . . .

Don't forget Career Day March 19, sponsored by the Women's Undergraduate Board!

Congratulations to ATO for winning the National ATO Scholarship Award!
