

Ole Miss Rebels Down Lynx In Return Game

Bobcats Turn Tables On Stars For 26-25 Win

For the second time in two weeks, the Southwestern Lynx went down to the Rebels of Ole Miss. Hampered by the close and consistent guarding of the Lynx' star, Junie Blakemore, the Waddlemen were nevertheless able to rack up a total of 42 points against the 49 of their opposition. The attack of the visitors was led by Kellar, with 20 points to his credit.

The unerring sharpshooting eyes of the Mississippians spelt the doom of the home team, as they made nineteen of their twenty-one free throws good. The Southwesterners percentage was only .500, with ten out of twenty foul shots misfiring.

Starters for the Lynx, with the points scored by them, were Jones, forward, 12; Orenstein, forward, 3; Blakemore, center, 16; McGrady, guard, 6; and Waller, guard, 3. Substitute forward West accounted for one field goal.

Kellar's 20 led the scoring for the Rebels, with Egger and Hovious each adding ten to the slate. Simpson, Blackwell, and substitute Davidson had 3 points each.

In the opener, the Bobcats downed their opponents, the Jewish All-Stars, 26 to 25, in a hard-fought battle. Jimmy Collier led the scoring with 9, being followed by Conner Hemmon with 5. Dub Bowen netted 4, and Small, Cocke, Wellford, and Tankersley, 2 each. Collier and Hemmon were subs, with Bowen, Small, Cocke, Wellford, and Tankersley starting.

The next home game for the varsity is slated for February 7, when they will meet LSU in the gym.

Notes to You

WEATHER NOTE: Education took a holiday recently at Connors (Okla.) State Agricultural College . . . not because it wanted to but because it was frozen out of house and home.

When a sudden cold wave descended, all water pipes in the college buildings were frozen, students and boilers didn't have water—so classes were dismissed until the first thaw. "Thaw, thaw, stay away," was the students' chant for several days.

DOROTHY DIX NOTE: Most unorthodox was a query received recently by an Ohio State University faculty office: "Can you tell me the approximate cost of loving per month for a couple?" Needless to say, the question was not answered as written.

COLOR NOTE: Superstitions come and superstitions go, claims the University of Idaho's Psychologist Allan C. Lemon, but one that college students stick with is this: Blondes are less trustworthy than brunettes.

CORRESPONDENCE NOTE: Believed the longest personal telegram in history, Alabama Polytechnic Institute students despatched a 7,000 word wire to Bandman Kay Kyser inviting him to play on their campus. The wire was signed by every member of the student body.

When you first saw this
You probably thought
It was a poem;
By this time
You should be certain
That is is not.
Isn't it funny
How people will keep
Reading when they
Know so well that
They are being fooled?

Warning

Rock a bye, freshie
On a tree top,
As long as you study
Your grades will never drop,

But if you neglect,
Your grades will fall,
And down will come freshie,
Report card and all.

Kappa Alphas Lead Basketball Race

Non-Frats, ATO's In Second, Third Places In Standings

The strong Kappa Alpha team which was chosen on these pages as the pre-season favorite forged to the lead in the tight basketball race by taking two out of three games last week.

On Thursday they defeated the SAE quintet 49-4. In regard to the game, the less said, the better. On Friday night they met their first defeat, being upset by the Kappa Sigs 15-12. They came back the following Tuesday, and staved off a last-minute rally to defeat a strong ATO team, 27-6. This game was by far the best of the year and a feature of it was the excellent team play of the winners. The excellent floor play and accurate shooting of Bill Maybry has been a great factor in the Kappa Alpha victories. His total of 38 points makes him the individual high scorer for games to date.

In runner-up position are the Non-frats who have had the best week with a total of three victories against no defeats. In a close, hard-fought game, they defeated the Kappa Sigs 24 to 20. They returned to the winners column two days later by eking out a 23-20 victory over the Sigma Nus. As usual, they overwhelmed the pitiful SAE's 42-26.

In the final game played Tuesday night, the Sigma Nus were victorious over the Kappa Sigs by a count of 24-20. The excellent shooting, from all angles, of Frank England and Robert Rhodes were the bright spots of the game.

THIS COLLEGIATE WORLD

We knew it would happen—but we'd hoped it wouldn't. The gulping season has been officially and dramatically opened for another college year—and watch out for your laurels, you "winners" of last year!

First entry in the 1939-1940 derby is Franklin and Marshall College's Jimmy Addy, a frosh from Pittsburgh. For a mere 50-cent piece (they were getting ten dollar bills for stunts last year), he calmly swallowed a shaker-full of pepper—and then not quite so calmly sneezed a mighty sneeze.

Camp Depression residents at University of North Dakota believe in elections that hurt the feelings of no one. After electing their president last week, they elected every remaining one of the organization's 36 members a vice-president. But, so the vice-presidents wouldn't have to do anything, the president was made secretary and treasurer too!

Incidentally, Camp Depression is housed in seven freight train cabooses—so you might say they're being railroaded into an education.

Robert E. Benchley, the Bob Benchley who rides the "bounding broomstick" on an airwaves program, has at last climbed the heights to immortal fame. Students of Loyola College in Baltimore have founded a Benchley Literary Circle to study modern American humor—and they'll first thoroughly examine the literary works of the new "dean of American humorists."

The club's pin will undoubtedly be a bench with a broom leaning on it!

She wasn't exactly cross-eyed—one of her eyes just ignored the other.—John Galsworthy.

EPISCOPAL CLUB MEETS

The Rev. Vernon W. Lane addressed the Episcopal Club, Wednesday night in the S. A. E. lodge. William Belcher, president, presided. Afterwards the group held a round table discussion on topics pertaining to Christian principles.

Plans for raising money for a page in the annual were brought up, and the club discussed a program of social welfare work for the coming semester.

Hardwood Trip Unsuccessful For Lynx

Blakemore Is High Scorer With 61 Points For Trip

After dropping their opener to Arkansas College here, Coach Bob Waddle's hardwood quintet took to the road January 10. The first scheduled out-of-towner was at Oxford, Miss., where the Lynx met Ole Miss.

After a slow start which placed the Rebels ahead 16-3, George Blakemore's scoring gained the Lynx 24 points, eight of which were foul shots. The Lynx held their 23-22 lead only a short time, for the superior reserve strength of the Rebels told in the final score, 51-40.

Southwestern proceeded to Clinton for a game with the Mississippi College Choctaws. Tony Canzoneri was missing from the line-up in this game, having returned to Memphis in order not to miss classes. Here, too, a first half lull proved the downfall of the Lynx, playing against the unaccustomed zone defense of the Mississippians. The final score read: Mississippi College 51, Southwestern 36. Jones countered several times for the Lynx with sparkling shots from his forward position, but Blakemore was again high scorer with 16 points, 8 of them free throws. Beryl Waller turned in a highly creditable performance in the guard position left vacant by the absent Canzoneri.

The Lynx moved over to Jackson the next night to play the Millsaps Majors, recent victors over Ole Miss. The Majors were definitely playing Blakemore, and concentrated their defensive efforts on him. These efforts were vain for Junie was again high point man, this time scoring 21 points from all angles. John McGrady's brilliant ball handling was an outstanding feature of this game. A Choctaw spurt in the closing minutes of play snatched victory from the Lynx.

This was the final game of the trip, and the Lynx returned home for their return game with Ole Miss. Their next out-of-towner is with Arkansas College at Batesville Saturday night.

Library Notes

Do you like to read in bed at night? Do you rage inwardly when you know that you must go to sleep if you are to get to chapel on time and yet the book is just well started? We have cast around among the more recent books for some which are either collections of fairly long short stories, or which in themselves are just long enough to give you a good stopping place. We only hope that you don't get so amused at Dorothy Parker, or so excited with Walter Edmonds, or so incensed at Erskine Caldwell that you find yourself wide awake instead of soothed to sleep as you had planned. (N. B. Don't try "Horsie" by D. P. as a sedative.)

Walter Edmonds, of "Drums Along the Mohawk" fame, has made a collection of his short stories and called it "Mostly Canallers." Nearly all of the stories are laid around the Erie Canal, but they range from the bloody account of a brawl to the placidness of a near fairy story.

"Here Lies," the collected stories of Dorothy Parker, contains all of her best stories, including those in "After Such Pleasures," which has also recently been added to our collection. Mrs. Parker prefers to be known as a satirist, but Ruth McKenny, author of "Industrial Valley," says satire "seems a faltering word for the passionate and caustic tales set down in this book."

"Uncle Tom's Children," by Richard Wright, is an expression of race hatred written by a Chicago negro. There are four long short stories, each describing some episode of mob-rule, and apt to be a bit infuriating.

In "Southways," Erskine Caldwell has again chosen distressing and disgraceful conditions in the South as his chief theme. His critics do not consider these stories up to his usual standard, and Jonathan Daniels, author of "A Southerner Discovers the South," insists that the ways described are not "Southways."

Readers who liked "Young Lonigan" and the other parts of the Stud Lonigan trilogy by James T. Farrell may enjoy his collection of short stories,

"Can All This Grandeur Perish?" There is a rather cynical realism about them that sets them apart and to some readers will make them distasteful.

Stephen Vincent Benet's "Johnny Pye and the Fool-Killer" is a delightful little book. The story is half-fable, half-folk tale of the type for which Benet has earned an enviable reputation. It is the story of Johnny Pye's efforts from boyhood to ripe old age to elude the "Fool-Killer."

"Valedictory," by Mackinley Kantor, is seemingly the American counterpart of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips." It is the sympathetic story of the lovable old janitor of a middle-western town's public school.

There is a new and revised edition of "Number, the Language of Science," by Tobias Dantzig. This is a most interesting book on the evolution of mathematics. Einstein says of it: "The evolution of mathematical thought from the earliest times to the latest constructions is presented here with admirable consistency and originality and in a wonderfully lively style."
