WE

by Jane Barr

The aim of a European student is development of a free and selfless mind. It is this aim that merits the respect he receives from Europe. It is this spirit that illuminates Europe; it is in this spirit that their power lies. Thus there develops a kinship of purpose that unites all students in a quest for individual and universal freedom.

This individuality and spirit may best be explained by the light of the Hungarian revolt.

The mind of a serious student is one that cannot be bound. The revolt of Hungarian students last year was a revolt against that which, in destroying freedom of mind, kills the spirit. "It was the only thing we could do," said a student. We had to rise up or become as dead; as we were unable to create, as we were unable to seek, we were dying within ourselves." Thus at a call meeting of the student body, a seed of revolt was planted, a declaration signed. The old people of the city barreled steamed cabbage, black bread and wine to the university. The children built fires and sang songs. The students gathered the only weapons they had: old pipes, stones, heavy books and a courageous will. The revolt began. These same old people, these same children, these same students were those mowed down before one another's eyes by tanks. The university professors were filled with black lead, the buildings burned.

Recital Features Recorder Player In Adult Ed Center

Considered to be the world's best recorder player, Carl Dolmetsch of England will perform at a recital in the Adult Education Center on November 5.

Mr. Dolmetsch plans to play five varieties of recorders, ancient European flutes, at this performance. These will range in size and sound from those similar to a bassoon to those like a piccolo. Accompanying him will be Joseph Saxby, a celebrated English harpsichordist, who will play keyboard solos on a spinet.

Student tickets to this performance, which is sponsored by the Memphis chapter of the American Recorder Society, may be purchased for $1 from Professor Davis or Professor Gravesmill.

Rhodes Explains College Raise In Tuition

Personal letters from President Peyton N. Rhodes have gone out this week to parents of all students, except seniors, announcing and explaining the reasons for an increase in tuition which will take effect next fall.

In order that students may be informed simultaneously with their parents, Dr. Rhodes has released the text of his letter to The Sou'wester, as follows:

Southwestern's faculty has long been recognized for its competence and quality. This must continue to be so, for in the last analysis it is the superior teacher who will make the lasting impressions on our sons and daughters. However, in the face of rising costs, it has been apparent for several years that faculty and staff salaries must be increased more substantially than present income has made possible.

The facts are these. The cost of instructing one student for one semester is slightly less than $500.00. The main reason this figure is so low is because those who teach and otherwise operate the college have been attempting to live on the basis of a purchasing power which is below the 1939 level. At the present time the tuition charge of $250.00 per semester actually covers only about 50% of what it costs to instruct one student. The remaining half of the instructional cost must be provided from endowment income, gifts from individuals, corporations, and the church. Despite the increase of funds received from these sources the college has been unable to provide salaries in line with increased costs of living.

In order to give some evidence of appreciation to the faculty by making possible a substantial, though by no means adequate, increase in salaries, the Board of Directors at its meeting on October 17, 1957, voted unanimously to in-

The concert will be held at Calvary Episcopal Church, where Mr. Steuterman is organist and choir master. It is regarded as one of the outstanding musical events of the Memphis season.

All selections on the program will involve both piano and organ, the performers accompanying each other in solo numbers for their respective instruments. Compositions by Handel, Menhelssohn, and American composers Leo Sowerby and Charles Griffes will be presented.

The concert is sponsored by Southwestern, and is free. All students and faculty members are cordially invited to attend.

Student Councils Meet Together Here

The first inter-Student Council meeting, held Tuesday, October 22 in Burrow Library, was attended by representatives from the Student Councils of Memphis State, Christian Brothers College, LeMoyne, Siena, and Southwestern.

Council Aim

The meeting was the first in a series whose aim is to bring together student leaders from Memphis colleges in a program for exchange of ideas and discussion of student problems, with an aim toward better serving campus student groups through a co-operative program that would move toward a solution of many common campus problems and foster a united effort in student projects.

Problems Discussed

The first meeting provided opportunity for representatives to become acquainted with each other and with the various systems of their campus Student Councils, varying with the size of the student body in organizational differences. Similar problems found in all groups were those of the problem of student interest and of communication between Student Council and Student Body. Various systems of Elections were compared, also the problem of handling decisions for the Student Body that must be made during the summer, and the problem of setting up a budget for student and student council activities. Also discussed was the possibility of obtaining a student discount system through the combined co-operation of the colleges with downtown Memphis stores.

Sou'wester Sponsors Maid of Cotton Entry

The 1958 Contest for Southwestern's Campus Maid of Cotton will be held next Friday, November 8, in Hardie Auditorium from 7:30 until 10:30. The winning girl will be selected from twenty-two entrants representing campus fraternities and sororities.

The winner will be entered in the National Maid of Cotton contest, held in Memphis in early January. The girl who wins the title of 1958 Maid of Cotton will travel more than 35,000 miles on an international tour. Her travels in behalf of the cotton industry will take her to 25 major cities in the United States and to three in Canada. In early June, a luxury liner of the British Overseas Corporation will carry her to leading fashion centers abroad.

To be eligible to be Maid of Cotton, a girl must have been born in a cotton-producing state. She must be between the ages of 19 and 25, at least five feet, five inches tall, and must never have been married.

Campus contestants will be judged on the basis of poise, personality, and intelligence, as well as appearance, both in private afternoon interviews held with the judges and in the final contest held that night in the auditorium. Included in the evening's competition will be a three-minute speech by each contestant on "Why I Would Like to be Maid of Cotton."

The contest is sponsored on campus every year by the Sou'wester.

Southwestern Hall of Fame Being Brought Up To Date

The Hall of Fame, which is on second floor Palmer, will be brought up to date in the near future when the 1954, '55, and '56 pictures are put up. Working on this project is Sam Martin, Chairman of the Hall of Fame Committee, along with the members of the committee.

At present the proper frames and bronze plates have been ordered and arrangements have been made for engraving the plates.

The regular function of the Hall of Fame Committee is the selection of members to the Hall of Fame.

Letter to Library Committee

Dear Sirs: We, the members of the Southwestern Student Council, acting on behalf of the Student Body request that the library conference rooms be re-opened for student use. We feel that since the rooms have been closed, the student body has realized their constructive value since they are the only facilities provided for group study. Therefore, if reopened we feel that the student body will strive to take better care of these facilities. We would appreciate your immediate attention to this matter.

Sincerely,
The Student Council
Diane McMillan
Library Representative

Letter to Editor

To the editor: I wish to comment on the new cartoons drawn by John Somerville which have appeared in the last few issues of the paper. It is a welcome change from the standardized "Little Man on the Campus." The new series is sparkling with originality. This new style is not bound by rules of convention or a repetitive style of humor. Instead it appears to have been written by a different author each week, yet each cartoon expertly drawn and brilliantly composed. This combination of a genius for drawing and a high quality of humor results in an eloquent, superior piece of work. Each week I wait with eager anticipation to see what the author has come up with.

Signed:
John Somerville

The Peacock's Tale Category:

by Bates Peacock

The air was wintry, rain beat down like some rhythmic message of doom. The crisis had come.

Could the ailing, alert reporters cast off their illness and produce the needed articles in time to print the Sou'wester.—Don't be ridiculous — of course not—Well, anyway people — it's good to be back in print again, after a week even if half the school is still playing Camille (cough, cough), you know, for a while there, I thought we might have Southwestern's answer to the Black Plague of London.

Congratulations to Sissy Rasberry for being Pi's newest member.

YOUR Student Council

by Beverly Finch

Your Student Council met on October 22 and October 29 in 109 Science at 6:00. First on the agenda were commissioners' reports.

Athletics: Bob Welsh, commissioner, reported that the Student Athletic Committee will be composed of the cheerleaders and the athletic commissioner.

Religious Activities: John Quinn, commissioner, reported that the PRC has decided to allocate part of the drive money to the International Christian University in Japan and for a LeMoyné College $200.00 scholarship. The PRC is also working on a South Sea Island party for the Saturday before Thanksgiving. Bob Welsh reported the decision on study groups. The purpose reads: "to add a meaningful dimension to campus life, furthering creative thought, and making students aware of their world citizenship." The first study group will be held on November 12, following an address by Brooks Hays, Arkansas Congressman, to evaluate the discussion of free world issue series.

Social: Mike Lupfer, commissioner, reported that Sigma Chi chapters have been contacted for ideas on Derby Day. A committee has been working on a proposal that mixed groups be allowed to be in fraternity houses until twelve on Saturday, if no exclusive date is on the calendar. The Student Council endorsed this proposal.

Elections: Lou Zbinden reported that he appointed a committee to look into the whole elections system with Dr. Lowry. Mike Cody also appointed a committee of juniors headed by Richard Park for evaluation of elections and the election constitution. After a joint meeting of the two committees, a united report will be presented to the Student Council.

Committee reports followed the commissioners' reports.

Linda Hardesty read the letter which stated the needs of the Kentucky family. Since the county authorities have not replied, action was deferred. Discussion on other ideas for a school-wide Christmas project ensued.

Diane McMillan, chairman of the Library Committee, read a petition to open the conference rooms which she will give to the Faculty Library Committee. A motion carried that the petition be read in a student assembly, in order that students might voice their acceptance of the responsibility of this petition.

Beverly Bowden reported that Mr. Springfield approved the request about having the robes made for April Fool.

Dan Whipple read the committee report evaluating freshman hazing. Sam Martin reported that Mr.

Student Voice

At the time of the Egyptian crisis last fall British students sent petitions to Anthony Eden expressing student opinion on the question. African students are leading in the fight for freedom there today. In Germany it is the students who will lead that country as she assumes her new-found position in the world. In Russia it is recognized that the mind of the college student is powerful and active. All over the world the voice of students is heard. It is they who are accepting the responsibility of future world leadership.

In every country except America the student voice is heard, respected, and honored. That this is not true in America is the fault of no one but ourselves. The answer to the problem is to be found not in words, but in action. What can we do to meet our responsibility?

There are students here at Southwestern who are concerned with this problem. Since we cannot accept our responsibility without having some knowledge of the problems which confront us, student discussion groups are soon to be organized. Further details of the program will be given Wednesday in student assembly.

—Bob Welch

Student Responsibility

One year ago fifty-one students were buried in the garden of the Medical University of Budapest. That same day seventeen Technical University students were executed. Since then some 22,100 Hungarian students have been deported to camps in Siberia and China.

Why?—Why has this happened? Because students in Hungary had to fight for those things which we students take for granted every day of our college life.

This week as we remember their courage it is only fitting that we pay tribute not only to these Hungarian students, living and dead, but also to all students throughout the world who are willing to face in a mature way the acute demands of modern life and if necessary to make some real sacrifice—mental as well as material—to meet these demands.

It is regrettable that some students consider themselves only spectators of this struggle. Merely because we have never had to suffer their fate or been forced to defend our lives and liberty does not signify that we are not participants in the drama. Unless we as American students meet our responsibilities as students of the world, someone else will inevitably assume our place.

Walter Cody,
President of the Student Body

Over five cases of coke bottles, by actual count, have not been returned in the past week to the concession stand in the Lair. The vending machines in the Lair were replaced by bottled drinks in answer to many student requests, but this privilege was granted with the understanding that the bottles would be returned.

The student body is asked to remember that this privilege was granted at their request and with the understanding that every effort would be made to cooperate.

If the situation does not improve, it will be necessary to charge for bottles or discontinue the selling the bottled drinks altogether.

Out Night

By Tennessee

After having MY bout with the flu, I'm all ready to have the best NIGHT OUT ever! All this, and make-up work too. We have some good movies, at least one dance, and probably one or two unheard-of type things that even I haven't done yet. Movies seem to be getting better all the time, in spite of Elvis.

Guild's Naked Eye

The Guild gives us a chance to see with The Naked Eye, which is ostensibly about the workings of the camera, but the impression I got at the previews was that it is really about a bunch of nekkid wimmen. They are the world's best excuse for taking esthetic pictures. They were also a lot of bloody corpses lying around on the streets of New York slums. Are they esthetic? No, but it gives you emotional catharsis to look at them. So much (and isn't it enough) for that.

Operation Mad Bah is at the Warner this weekend, and is highly recommended for all veterans who want to see what army life is REALLY like. It has some of my favorite people; Jack Lemmon (funny), Kathryn Grant (pretty), and Ernie Kovacs (Eddie Adams). This pic was filmed entirely without Army cooperation.

Slim Carter, one of those oh-isn't-it-just-too-cute things, is at Loew's Palace. It stars that SWEET little child Tim Hovey and a few other nondescript characters. Give this a miss if you want to spend your money right.

Reynolds at Malco

Debbie (Girl Mother) Reynolds returns to the Malco in a double bill consisting of Susan Slept Here (subtitled Wake Up Little Susie) and Tammy and the Bachelor (subtitled Life on the Mississippippi). I personally will go to the Guild.

The Devil's Hairpin will begin tomorrow at the Strand; Elvis rocks on at Loew's State; and The Black Watch Royal Highland Regiment will come here next weekend.

Pike dance

The Pike dance is Saturday night, so y'all come. And before I forget, The Ten Commandments is at the Crosstown, and this is your great big chance to get it over with now. One large tip before I go; Les Girls, one of whom is Kay Kendall, will arrive before too very long, and as it is one of the best pictures of the year, I would advise you to wait for it with bated breath and dollar bill clutched firmly in hand.

Pike Dream Girl Dance Saturday Nite

Saturday night the first fraternity dance of the year will be the Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl Dance. The dance will be at the Bon Aire Club on Summer Avenue. The dance is open to the student body. Introduced during the leadout will be Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl and two alternates. Members and dates will be: Jerry Evans and San Andrews, Jimmy Webb and Nelle Nuckles, Delmar Brown and Mandy Schmidt, Paul Ivey and Ann Myers, Charles Somerville and Dorothy Sieplein, Roy Parrymore and Bonnie Whiteleather, Jack Cunningham and date.

Pledges and dates—Ed Smith and date, Bill McWeeny and Mary Regen, John Pharr and Martha Barret, Louis Semay and Catheron Erickson, Robin Moore and Harriet Barnes, Walter Johnson and Charlene Gladney, Robert Crumpler and date, David Wessell and date, and Mac Koehler and date.

Face the Space

IT'S BIG! IT'S NEW! IT'S FOR YOU!

All around you is space. What's it for?

On that space someday will be new buildings, and we want to know what you think they should be. Here's your chance to speak up, for a big CASH PRIZE.

Omicron Delta Kappa announces its new FACE THE SPACE contest. Beginning immediately you may submit in writing your ideas concerning what building is most needed at Southwestern. We want to know why you think this building is important. And, perhaps most important, include what you feel should be inside this edifice in the way of facilities.

All entries will be judged on the basis of originality, and not primarily on literary style.

crease the basic tuition charge, which has remained constant since 1949, from $250.00 per semester to $325.00 per semester, effective with the 1958-59 session, which begins in September, 1958. The Medical and Activities Fee and room rent will remain unchanged. It is hoped that food costs will not rise to such an extent that the charge for board cannot be maintained as at present.

The added income will be used primarily to increase salaries. Some funds will be available to strengthen the scholarship program in the areas of Honor Scholarships and Leadership Awards and for demonstrably needy students in severe hardship cases. The college will be happy to furnish information to parents about loan funds, such as the Tuition Plan, when requested.

At a recent national meeting the topic of one speaker, Mr. Thomas A. Gonsler, was "The Teacher: on the block or on the pedestal?" His theme was that the great teacher belongs to the community, to society, and must be accorded a place of honor and distinction, as well as afforded financial stability in recognition of and appreciation for what he means in the life of the nation.

Mr. Gonsler is right. Too long most people have been content to accept the teacher's dedicated and underpaid services as a sort of reasonable though involuntary contribution to the education of their sons and daughters. The Ford Foundation gifts to colleges (capable of producing about 4% salary increases in general) have given a nationwide and striking emphasis to the need of doing something instead of talking about a bad situation.

In light of the rise in costs for everything else it is remarkable that Southwestern has held the line in tuition for nine years. We have done so in the awareness that many parents have made real sacrifices in order to maintain their children in college. We have imposed on our faculty too long already. I believe that every thoughtful parent will agree it is now time to make amends, even though modest, to the faculty and staff in recognition of the fact that they really belong "on a pedestal instead of on the block."

Sincerely,
Peyton N. Rhodes

Is Your Fad Just a Concept?

by Gene Botsford

"I'm sorry," says Hal Henderson, "but you'll have to speak a little louder. I've got a super-doooper giant king-size, economy-size banana in half of my left ear."

The fad, nowadays, seems to be to believe in something—preferably something that you have thought up yourself. It doesn't matter, particularly, whether or not you believe in something worth believing—the thing is, to believe in something.

The trend, also, is to have a pet theory or concept (choice college words) that you have made up yourself. The average person can't go around believing something that millions of other persons through the ages have believed in. It must be something new. The first of these world-famous contemporary theories came in 1954, when Aristotle Jones, of Duluth, Minn., came out with his "Peanut Butter" concept. After many weeks of deliberation, expert theorists came to the conclusion that, although the "peanut butter" theory made absolutely no sense, nevertheless it was worth thinking about—no one had ever thought of it before. The theory, boiled down from its extremely high-toned phrases and technical wording, simply states that when a person sits down to eat a peanut butter sandwich, he is really not eating a peanut butter sandwich at all. Mr. Jones was quite disappointed when the experts disproved his theory. The experts simply sat down and ate a peanut butter sandwich (apiece) and came to the conclusion that they definitely had eaten a peanut butter sandwich. Mr. Jones had laboriously spent many hours over metaphysics books, Gallup polls, and the like, to develop the theory, and it displeased him no end when the experts disproved it so easily.

Socrates Smith, in 1955, and Homer Khayyan, in 1956, came out with similar contemporary theories and the one of Mr. Khayyan seems to have something to it. It is so dense that we won't try to state it here; Mr. Khayyan stated, once, during his work on it, that "his brain actually hurt from a-thanking so hard!" The experts, upon looking at the concept in print, decided that their finite minds were capable of grasping it, and gave up and went to Sunday School, where no thinking was required and their brains could take a well-needed rest.

What is really needed in this world is more and more of these great concepts; as long as man is thinking in this way, he can pat himself on the back and keep telling himself that this is the most important thing in the world. And chances are that the longer he keeps telling himself this, the more likely it is that he'll believe it.

tribution to the education of their sons and daughters. The Ford Foundation gifts to colleges (capable of producing about 4% salary increases in general) have given a nationwide and striking emphasis to the need of doing something instead of talking about a bad situation.

THIS WEEK WITH THE GREEKS

By Mary Farish

Social life on the campus this week hasn't been the most exciting, but anyway a few things have happened.

The AOP's entertained the ATO's Monday night with a dessert after dinner. Chi O's ate dinner at the house, and Wednesday afternoon the pledges had a party for the actives.

Tri Delt annual Halloween open house was Thursday night with Halloween decorations and food.

The Zeta's had a party for 25 orphans Wednesday afternoon at the lodge. It's a wonderful idea, and I think all the Greek-letter organizations should do more of this sort of entertaining. Zeta is having its Annual Talent show Saturday, November 9th, at 7:30 p.m. in Hardie Auditorium. Tickets will go on sale Wednesday, November 6th in the Cloister.

Kappa Alpha open house for the Student body was Saturday afternoon after the game. Some of the members and dates ate pizza after the open house. Sunday night KA's and dates went over to the house and watched TV.

Pike possum hunt which was several week-ends ago was unintentionally left out of Greek Week. From all accounts, they really did have fun . . . possum hunting and people getting pinned and such.

Sunday night the SAE's and dates went over to the house after dinner. They played pool and listened to the HI-FI in front of an open fire place.

Coming up on the Social Calendar this week-end is the Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl dance Saturday night. The football game Saturday will be in Birmingham, Alabama.

Let's get busy, ya'll, and socialize . . . this campus is in grave danger of get-DEAD. See you next week. . . .

Student Councils

The second meeting was set tentatively for Wednesday, November 20, at Memphis State at 7:00. Representatives were asked to take selected topics back to their home councils for discussion in preparation for the next meeting. Topics selected were that of Freshman Orientation, an explanation of the whole Student Program in this, Honor Systems, U.S.N.S.A. of which Southwestern is newly a member, and the Student Discount System.

Lynx Rack Millsaps With Potent Attack

Exploding for three first-quarter touchdowns, the Lynxcats duplicated a highly successful pattern that also devastated Austin the week before at homecoming, and Southwestern went on to rack Millsaps last Saturday 29-7. They now have a 3-2 record for the season.

INTRAMURALS

by Louis Zbinden

Intramural tennis is practically over with only two matches left. Jack Rockett, last year's runner-up, has to play Bill Harris in a semi-final match to decide who will meet freshman Sam Hayes in the final match. Hayes, a dark-horse, has certainly proven his ability on the rubice in this tournament by handily conquering all opposition. The final match should prove to be a very fine one. As for team honors, the first three places now go respectively to KA, SN, and SAE, and to all appearances, it seems as if this will be the final standings.

Flagball officially started Monday when the PiKA's met the SN's. The Sigma Nus led by John Dunlap and Jim Leverett ran up a 56-0 score against the Pikes. In the game Wednesday, the KA's defeated the Kappa Sigs 24-6. Mike Ivy was the leading scorer for the KA's with 2 touchdowns.

All teams seem to be fairly even this year, and the independents are entering a strong team for league play this year.

The schedule of games next week is:

- Mon. Nov. 4—KA vs. SAE
- Tues. Nov. 5—KS vs. PiKA
- Wed. Nov. 6—KA vs. Ind.
- Thurs. Nov. 7—SAE vs. SN
- Fri. Nov. 8—KA vs. ATO

The Hungarians desired no help from the United Nations, feeling that a third world war would be the only result. They were aware of physical failure, they knew they would fail as far as the world was concerned. But the world was not the objective. The objective was a thing called self-respect, a thing called life, a thing some call God.

Their message to the world was this: We did what we had to do. We have peace for we were true to ourselves; we may not revolt again, but someone will and they, too, will become free people, they, too, will know God. This revolution will continue in youth until the end of the world. God is on our side and he has given us peace.

We, as American students, have this potential for greatness. We have this utilizing force; yet what is the reason for the comparative student silence in the United States? Can we not associate ourselves with others who fight for that which is inherent in man? Could we not know what freedom is? Have we smothered creation by complacency and convention? Do we have such fear of opinion that we are dead, the very reason that Hungary revolted? De we lable that fear "tact", "tolerance" or "quiet maturity"? The answer lies within ourselves. We can become individuals, we can become a great student body, we can know God, we can have peace. But it takes trust, it takes courage—and what's most important—a will.

Just about all the boys you can name played a fine game. Charlie Hammett filled in beautifully for the injured Bill Young, and Hammett opened the scoring on the first play of the game when he fired a pass up the middle to halfback Charlie Ames, who went fifty yards for the score. The next time the Lynx got their hands on the ball they scored again, this time on a Hammett to Clinton pass. Tommy, who continues to invite comparison with Jimmy Higgason for his stylish running, almost lost his balance, spun away from a tackler and picked his way over the goal line for the second touchdown.

Dick Foster, mite-sized speedster, scored the third touchdown of the quarter on his specialty, a dash around end. By this time Millsaps, contained by hard-rushing Lynx linemen and competent pass defense, was out of it, but the Lynx scored further insurance points on a field goal by Shep Crigler, a 21 yard effort that was perhaps the first ever kicked by a Southwestern griddier, and another touchdown by freshman halfback Malcolm Gilis, a 45-yard touchdown ramble that provided a satisfactory conclusion to the afternoon's work. Millsaps got its lone touchdown in the second quarter on a short pass over the line from quarterback Buck Aiken to end Ken Welons.

Harriers Beaten By Union; New Record Set By Fran Rath

On homecoming October 19, the Lynx's cross-country team dropped its 3rd meet against a lone victory. The defeat came at the hands of the Union University Bulldogs by a 24-31 margin. Last Saturday witnessed one of the best cross-country meets in the South as Southwestern, Mississippi State, and Vanderbilt clashed over the Lynx course.

In the homecoming meet, credit must be given efforts by Lynx harriers Mike Cody who finished 3rd, Travis Cassanova who ran 5th, and Richard Park who captured 6th place for Southwestern. Also giving it their best were Charlie Summervill, Stuart Whittle, Mac Koehler, and Bill Howard who ran 8th, 9th, 13th, and 14th respectively.

In the meet last Saturday, they finished Mississippi State 20, Memphis State 43, Vanderbilt 67, and Southwestern 95. Most outstanding in the race was Mississippi Stater Fran Rath who set a new record of 20 minutes, 3 seconds for Southwestern's 4.3 mile course. Fleet-footed Mike Cody, turned in the best time for Southwestern and finished 11th. Today the Lynx cross country team has gone against Union and Vanderbilt at Union.

Maybry Blasts Lousy Southwestern Spirit

Athletic director Bill Maybry believes he must have an "old fashioned" sense of loyalty. He contends he must have a perverted mind with a distorted sense of values, or else a mind 180 degrees out of phase with that of many Southwestern students.

To illustrate his point of view: the average attendance at Southwestern's first two home games—350; last week's attendance (with the Old Miss-Arkansas game the same afternoon at Crump Stadium) when the Lynx played Millsaps—128. Granted, the flu was responsible for the absence of 50 or 75 students. That still leaves more than 150 loyal Southwestern students doing their best to show how little Southwestern means to them! What happened to Southwestern school spirit?

Your Student Council

Springfield is attending to the pictures and bronze markers for the Hall of Fame. Next week the Student Council, minus the seniors, will meet to nominate ten or eleven seniors for the Hall of Fame.

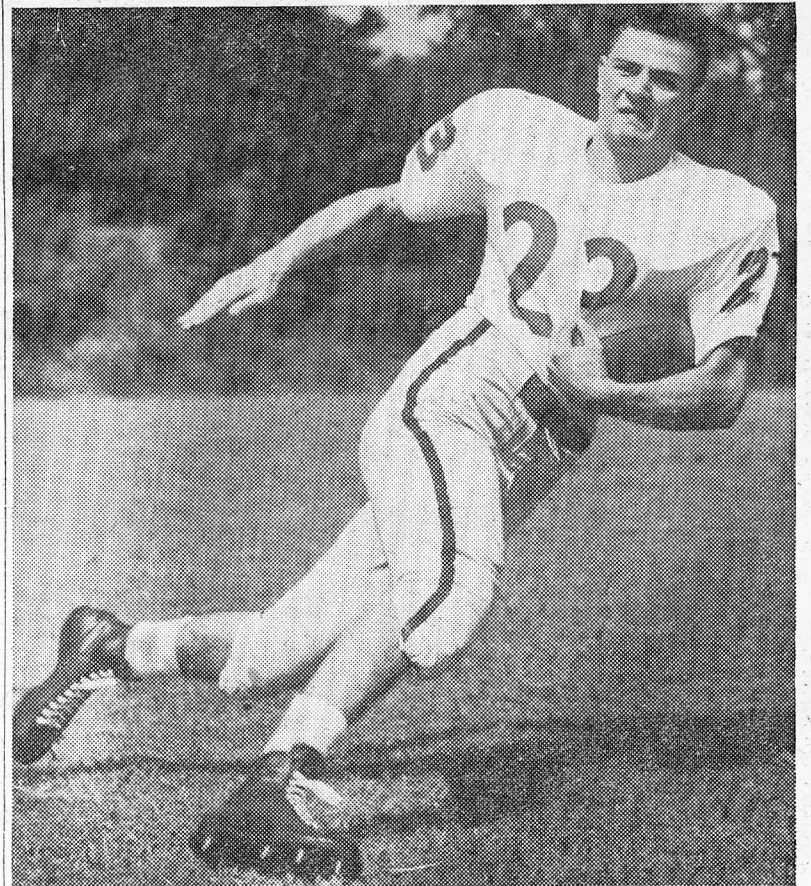

Anne Underwood, USNSA coordinator, has requested that a USNSA official make a visit to our campus.

Ideas were suggested as to how the Hungarian Revolution of a year ago might be saluted. John Quinn was appointed chairman of a committee to make definite plans.

Following adjournment of the latter meeting, hot chocolate, prepared by Beverly Bowden and poured into sample school cups sent by the Lilly Paper Cup Company, was enjoyed by members of the Student Council.

THE LITTLE BOY WITH THE BIG SCOWL is Tommy Clinton 142 pound freshman halfback with the ground-gaining abilities of a light tank. Tommy, since assuming a starting role, has established himself as the Lynx's number two ground-gainer. Part of his 202 yards includes four touchdowns. He'll do a big share of the ball carrying tomorrow against Howard.

Cats Seek Third Win Against Birmingham

Southwestern's classy Lynx crew goes after its third win in a row tomorrow against Howard in Birmingham.

By comparison of season's records, Lynx would seem to have the better of it.

They've won three and lost two, and have looked splendid in consecutive wins over Austin and Millsaps. Howard has won two and dropped four. The Bulldogs however, after a very poor start have begun to find their offense, and last week they knocked off previously undefeated Maryville 20-7. Moreover, the Lynx have yet to win a game on the road. They have lost to both Centre and Mississippi College and the Lynx defense has been far from effective away from Fargason Field.

With three senior backs out of action, Lynx are further handicapped offensively and defensively. Junior quarterback Charlie Hammett did an excellent job filling in for injured signal caller Bill Young against Millsaps. It will again be up to Charlie and running mates Tommy Clinton, Charlie Ames, Dick Foster, and Bobby Fulghum to outscore the dangerous bulldogs.

Howard relies on a potent aerial attack that has netted over 900 yards so far this season. The Bulldog team also has a penchant for upsetting favored Lynx squads as they did last year at Fargason Field 20-14. They will also have a home field advantage.

Lynx hopes for victory also are contingent upon the general health of the squad. The flu bug has been playing around in the Lynx camp, and so far stricken players include vital cogs Stony Maxwell, Wilson Viar, and June Davidson. They may be ready to play by tomorrow.

Southwestern will depend on the strong outside running of halfbacks Ames, Foster, and Clinton, who, along with the injured Young, have accounted for practically all Southwestern's yardage this season. Defensive cogs will again be Bobby Fulghum, Little All-American choice John Kopsinis, and John Oxley. The success of the Lynx attack is directly proportional to the work of the line and it is safe to say that the Lynx are going to have to score often to outdistance the Bulldogs tomorrow.
