WILLIS McCABE TO COACH FROSH

CHATT'NOOGAN GIVES $50,000.00 TO S'WESTERN

J. T. Lupton Gives Big Boost to Campaign

IS ROANOKE GRAD.

Has Given Large Sums to Other Colleges

A letter written by President Charles E. Diehl for publication appears below announcing the gift of $50,000 by Mr. J. T. Lupton of Chattanooga. The announcement was made just before Christmas.

"It gives us pleasure to announce a recent gift of $50,000 to Southwestern from Mr. J. T. Lupton, of Chattanooga, Tenn. In addition to the money already subscribed in recent campaigns, it was estimated that it would require $400,000 to stabilize Southwestern. That amount of money will not provide fully for the needs of Southwestern, but it will finish paying off the mortgage indebtedness and will add sufficient money to the endowment to meet minimum financial requirements of the outstanding agencies. This must be done before Southwestern is eligible to receive gifts from corporations and foundations. Mr. Lupton's gift is one of several which is conditioned upon this total amount being raised, and it serves as a tremendous lever in raising this sum.

"Mr. J. T. Lupton is unique among the well-to-do members of the Southern Presbyterian Church. He is, so far as I know, the only well-to-do member of that Church, certainly throughout this section, who has caught the vision of Christian education as the solution for the world's ills to the extent of investing heavily in that enterprise. There are many members of other denominations whose names are familiar in the educational world, who have given largely to the colleges of their denomination. Mr. Asa Candler is credited with giving to Emory University some seven millions of dollars. In making his first gift of one million in 1914, he wrote as follows: 'I am profoundly impressed that what our country needs is not more secular education, but more of the education that is fundamentally and intentionally religious. I see no way by which such religious education can be supplied without institutions of learning owned and controlled by the churches.'

L. E. Harrison Died On Jan. 4

L. E. Harrison, aged 74, father of Mr. Woodson Harrison, Southwestern house manager, died last Friday morning in Nashville.

Mr. Woodson Harrison was at the bedside of his father during the last week of his illness. The death of Mr. Harrison comes as a double blow to the family of Southwestern's Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Harrison's father having died only a few weeks ago.

The sympathy of the student body is extended to Mr. Harrison in his sorrow.

Howry Back After Mastoid Operation

Friends of Erle Howry are glad to see him back at school after he underwent an operation for mastoid trouble recently. He is still wearing a bandage on his head, but it is hoped that his trouble is completely over.

Erle says that after the operation he enjoyed his stay in the hospital among the good-looking nurses.

Sophocleans Meet

The Sophoclean Club will meet Jan. 16 at the home of Dr. C. L. Townsend.

HAIL TO THEE, "SOUTHWESTER"

Paper Braves Floods to Reach Public

Students are fortunate to get the Sou'wester this week. Tuesday night and Wednesday such torrents poured in the publications room that it was necessary to gradually move out as the oncoming waters carried everything before them. Most of the sports articles were written on the first flight of steps. Martha McFerrin wrote the Zeta party on the first landing, book reviews and news articles were written at the top of the steps.

The concrete walls, generally water proof, were unable to withstand the recent downpour. Therefore the typewriters, desks and glue pot and shears took an aqueous ride.

RUMOR SPIKED BY NITIST CLUB

Girls Not Allowed At Any Meetings

No co-eds will ever be allowed to attend meetings of the Nitist philosophers, said members Wednesday night at the meeting in the Bell Room of Hugh M. Neely hall as they definitely spiked the rumor which had been making the rounds on the campus. The Nitist Club is for men philosophers only and questions are discussed that would not be of concern to feminine minds.

"Free Love" was the title of the paper read by John Hagan at the meeting Wednesday. At the last meeting before the holidays a paper on "Inheritance" was read by William Berson.

The Nitist Club is one of Southwestern's most active organizations and is one of the few organizations having sufficiently interesting meetings to hold its members in regular attendance.

FORMER EDITOR TO BE MARRIED

An announcement that will come as a surprise to friends and classmates of John P. Simmons, former editor of the Sou'wester, is that of his marriage which will take place Jan. 15. His bride will be Miss Fredrica Duttlinger of Memphis. The wedding will be at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Duttlinger, 935 Poplar.

J. P. is a graduate of Southwestern, class of 1926. He was one of Southwestern's most outstanding students. He is now in charge of the Presbyterian Church at Picaune, Miss. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

WHY DO WE HAVE MIDDLE NAMES?

By J. P. HOLLIFIELD

Today is a day of mystery solutions, and to be up to the moment one has to be a sort of a super-sleuth. . . here is a chance to find out if you really are one. During matriculation we are asked to specify our middle names—but why?

Just suppose that once on a midnight dreary our middle names were to migrate from the office files and assert themselves as really being useful. . . the campus would certainly be transformed. Then we could boast a LAKE which would probably be known as BASQUETTE (the upper-classmen would be sure to LOVE IT). The golfers would be delighted to find a RIDGWAY all our own and wouldn't we be PHELAN funny to see a BERRY when we knew all the time that it was WINTER and yet we have AUGUST. Would you TRIMBLE when you met HEZE-

DR. VALE HOLDS FINE SERVICES; MANY ATTEND

Speaks Twice a Day To Good Audiences

TENN. SCHOOLED

Holds Degrees From 3 Tenn. Schools

Large audiences have been greeting Dr. Roy E. Vale of Oak Park, Ill., every evening in Hardie Auditorium where he has been having evangelistic meetings. Dr. Vale speaks to the entire student body every morning at chapel. The meeting will close January 11.

This week of evangelistic services in the concensus of student opinion has been one of the best if not the best that has been held during the time of the present student body at Southwestern.

Dr. Vale has brought some excellent messages that explain man's place in the universe and that give a practical relation of religion and every day life. His address on Tuesday morning, "The Relay Race of Life," was of especial interest.

Dr. Vale was born in Ewington, Ohio, but Tennessee can almost claim him as a son, since he holds degrees from three Tennessee schools. He did his undergraduate work at Washington and Tusculum College, Greenville, Tenn., and received his degree of Doctor of Divinity from Princeton Theological seminary. He received his Doctor of Laws degree from Washington College, Maryville, Tenn.

ORATORS WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

Six Southwestern Men In W.C.T.U. Contest

Southwestern orators will enter the first part of the state wide oratorical contest conducted by the Women's Christian Temperance Union tonight at the Hotel Peabody. The subject of the orations is "Eternal Vigilance Is the Price of Prohibition."

Schools in the western division of Tennessee will compete tonight and the winner will be given a prize of $25 together with the privilege of representing this division at the state-wide meet in Nashville Jan. 18.

The champion of the state contest will be awarded $100. Southwestern contestants in the first elimination contest tonight are Malcolm Richie, Vernon McGee, Roger Wright, Claude Bowen, James Randle and Vernon W. Bradley.

Howdy! 1930, Says Jimmy H.

Emphasizes Remark With Splash

Three dark figures, guided by the feeble rays of a flickering oil lamp, made their way to the bank of the mighty Spring river on the night of December 31 as the ghostly hour of twelve approached. The light of the lamp faded away as the supply of oil gave out and the mysterious three were plunged into darkness. Then the light of a burning Western Story magazine flared up and one of the figures was seen to be removing his clothing. Another was holding a match in his hand. When only ten seconds remained until the arrival of the hour of the rat the unclad figure plunged into the icy waters and began to swim. After ten seconds had passed and the light, tortured by the cold winter wind of Hardie, Arkansas, was getting low, one-half of the Hughes twins, better known as Jimmy, crawled out onto the bank where Perry Bynum and the other half of the twins were waiting and the year of 1930 was ushered into existence in a novel way.

FIVE STUDENTS ARE DISMISSED

Two Gone for Semester; Three For Year

Five students, three of them freshmen, have been suspended from school by the faculty for poor scholarship. Two of these were suspended for the rest of this semester. Three were suspended for the year.

There are 32 students still on probation from the report period which ended in November. There are ten more students which have been put on probation recently for not doing passing work, making 42 students altogether on probation at the present time according to reports from Dean R. W. Hartley's office.

These 42 students must show improvement in their studies in order to be removed from probation and save themselves from being "shipped."

The general plan which determines whether a student is "eligible" for probation or not is as follows: if he is taking five subjects he must pass three successfully to keep off of probation, and if he is taking four subjects he must pass three successfully. Probation means that a student who is doing failing work in three or more subjects must show improvement in those subjects in a certain length of time or else be asked to leave Southwestern. There are some exceptions. Some students are on probation who were put on for doing failing work in three or more subjects and who now are doing passing work in three or more subjects, but who have not been removed from probation because they have not showed marked enough improvement.

"Forty-two is not an unusual number," said Dean Hartley, "to be on probation." Students must study, and probation is one way to make students study and save themselves possibly the trouble of packing their grips and buying their tickets for home.

Five is not an unusual number to be suspended for scholarship from a school of Southwestern's size since that number constitutes scarcely one per cent of the student body.

French Circle Meets

Le Cercle Francais will meet this afternoon at the home of Jennie Burford Puryear with Irene Hyman as assistant hostess. Dr. R. W. Scott will read a paper on medieval French literature. The papers of those who have been invited to join the club will be read and judged.

SUCCEEDS WES; WILL COACH IN FOOTBALL ALSO

Adams Now With Glass Co. in Toledo

COACH TWO YEARS

McCabe's Appointment Wins Approval

Willis McCabe was chosen this week to succeed Wes Adams as coach of the freshmen teams. Adams resigned on Dec. 31.

The resignation of Adams came as a distinct surprise to Lynx supporters and students, owing to his great success with the Bobcat teams in the past. Although Wes is fond of coaching he figures that he can write his name higher in the business world. He is now connected with the Owens Illinois Glass Company of Toledo, Ohio. In his new job Wes will be with one of his former teammates of the gridiron, Sid Davis, captain of the 1926 eleven.

Adams is a native of Brownsville, Tenn., and a graduate of Southwestern. He was varsity quarterback for three years and won praise for his ability and good judgment.

Taking up his coaching duties in the fall of '27, he had a fine season with his young Lynx, winning seven games and losing one. In 1928 the Bobcats won five games and lost one. During the season just ended his charges won three and lost two. Although they lost two games the team of '29 was considered one of the best ever assembled at Southwestern. Wes also coached the Bobcat baseball teams and had a fine season last year. He coached the basketball team up until the time of the Christmas holidays.

Wes instilled a fighting spirit in his men that was characteristic of his playing during the time that he was a wearer of the red and black.

McCabe will succeed Adams as coach and Don Fuller as business manager of athletics. He was coach of the varsity basketball team last year that was runner up in the championship tournament in Jackson.

He is a graduate of Central High School of Memphis and the University of Tennessee. In his high school and college career McCabe was a three letter man in sports, playing on the varsity football, baseball and basketball teams. He played quarterback on the football team, guard on the basketball team and pitcher on the baseball nine.

McCabe's first job will be the handling of the Bobcat basketball team in its present season. He will also handle the football and baseball teams of the frosh.

Alumni Magazine Has Good Articles

The December issue of the Southwestern Alumni Magazine, of which Prof. M. L. MacQueen is editor, made its appearance two days before Christmas to serve as a Christmas present to its many subscribers. The back of the magazine was red to emphasize the holiday spirit.

There were many interesting articles, among them an autobiography of Southwestern's oldest living alumnus, T. H. Elliott of Lafayette, Ky. There were also intimate glimpses of some of the faculty with pictures of each, outstanding among which was one of students' beloved Dr. "Frenchy" Townsend with his head buried in a mystery story, the kind of story Dr. Townsend best likes.

The next issue will be out in March, and Prof. MacQueen is even now busily engaged in gathering copy.

SURE, WE'LL LISTEN TO HIM

Attendance and attention at the services which have been held all week in Hardie Auditorium by Dr. Roy E. Vale of Oak Park, Ill., have been unusually fine. Dr. Vale attracted the student body to him by his first address on Monday morning.

It all goes to show that all this bunk that is being constantly passed around to tear down the forces of religion and enlightened thought especially in this modern age, goes for naught. Students are willing to listen to a man speak when he has something to say. They don't and won't listen to a man who finds fault with the other fellow and who feels it is his duty to uplift the world.

Dr. Vale says what he has to say in a wide-awake, forceful manner and makes one know that he knows what he's talking about. He doesn't hem and he doesn't haw. He goes to the point, and he makes the point so that everyone is sure of its meaning. Everyone ought to bring his parents or friends to hear Dr. Vale at least once before the adjournment of the evangelistic meeting takes place.

GOODBYE AND HELLO

The resignation of Wes Adams struck a general note of dismay and almost distress in the student body. Wes is Southwestern's. He went through his four years here wearing the red and black; he carries his degree from Southwestern, and he bears away with him the record of being an excellent football coach. Wes had the ability to make all the fellows like him. He will be missed by everyone, not only the football, baseball and basketball men. His person wobbling up to read the scripture at chapel with his face getting red gradually from his collar line up to his ears will never be forgotten by those who knew Wes. The best wishes of the student body go with him in his new business career.

In the same breath that we regret Wes' leaving us we are glad to welcome Willis McCabe, a friend of many Southwesterners and no stranger among us. He has made an excellent athletic record himself, and he coached Southwestern's winning varsity basketball squad last year. The student body welcomes him and gives him the glad hand.

ARE YOU IGNORANT?

As a rule students come from their home towns to college able to talk fairly straight without the element of "cussing." It is at college when contact with individuals from all over the country is made that a student sometimes feels it is essential to be "grown up" and have the atmosphere of sophistication and "hardness" that most "cussing" habits are formed. It doesn't hurt anyone else if a fellow wants to "cuss" all the time; it supposedly gives a feeling of satisfaction to the user of profanity. However, someone has said that one sure way of showing one's ignorance is to employ profanity to a great extent. It shows that he or she hasn't sufficient knowledge or sufficient intelligence to speak one's thoughts with any other words but profane ones which add no meaning to a statement. The use of profanity usually shows a small vocabulary and a mind unacquainted with intelligent words. Therefore profanity is used because it is easiest to follow the line of least resistance.

There's nothing terribly wicked in using "cuss" words, because the user's thoughts seldom are in tone with his language. Sometimes a good old-fashioned cuss word may make one feel a lot better if he has just mashed a finger while driving a nail; but a constant and eloquent flow of profanity shows ignorance.

The Day Dreamer

I'd like to be a poet guy,
The kind that makes you wanta cry,
Or lets imagination fly
And bears you with him to the sky.

I'd like to fill the world's great need
For men of learning and good breed,
And have the world of fashion heed
My every utterance and creed.

I'd like to be the potentate
Of some high, influential state,
And be considered good and great,
But such, alas, is not my fate.

I'd like to do a million things
Of which a poet often sings,
But only in my dreams I do;
Thank God my dreams don't all come true!

Alumni Member Here

The Rev. John A. Redhead, graduate of Southwestern in 1926 and of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., last June, was a visitor on the campus Monday. He occupied the pulpit at Idlewild Sunday.

When he was a student here John was one of the most popular and outstanding fellows on the campus in scholastic and athletic circles. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Chi Delta Phi Meets

A mountaineer program was enjoyed by members of Chi Delta Phi at the home of Jennie Burford Puryear Wednesday afternoon. A number of co-eds have been asked to submit papers to be judged for membership. The papers will be judged after the second semester begins, and those chosen will be initiated at that time.

New Student Enrolls

Kathryn Brown of Memphis was the only new student to matriculate at the close of the Christmas holidays. She is a transfer from Sweetbriar and has taken up her work in the freshman class. She is a sister of Palmer Brown, former student at Southwestern, now at W. & L.

LETTERS GIVEN TO TRACK MEN

Varsity Men and Frosh Are Rewarded

Members of Southwestern's cross-country track team were given letters and numerals this week by the Athletic Association. The privilege of wearing these emblems was granted by the faculty committee on athletics.

Four varsity men and two freshmen received the coveted emblems. The members of the varsity receiving an "S" were Perry Bynum, Roger Wright, Malcolm McMillan and Elbert Huffman. Members of the freshman team were Riley McGaughran and H. C. Levitch.

The track team was fairly successful during the last season. On Nov. 11 the harriers stepped out and won the first annual American Legion run, winning three of the first four places. Wright was the individual star, capturing first place in very good time. Bynum won third.

The meet with Mississippi College on Thanksgiving day was the high point of the season. The Lynx did not fare so well in this meet. Due to inclement weather some of the Lynx men were not in the best of shape and did not do their best. The Choctaws won the meet but Wright captured individual honors by winning first place in the surprisingly fast time of 15 minutes 7 seconds for the three miles.

The cross-country season ended with the intra-mural race on Dec. 6. Freshman McGaughran won first place in the two and a half mile classic in 12 minutes 21 seconds. Kappa Sigma fraternity and the freshman class won silver loving cups presented by the Athletic Association.

$50,000.00 DONATED

"There are many men and women of small means or of moderate means in the Southern Presbyterian Church who have caught the vision of the importance of supporting the church colleges, even to the point of sacrifice, but there are few well-to-do individuals among us who seem to realize that the church which does not maintain a few strong colleges will soon be a decadent church. It is of the utmost importance to keep the church abreast of modern thought and life, and to assert the compatibility of Christianity and enlightenment.

"A number of years ago, as the result of careful thought, with the background of a wide and successful experience in life, Mr. Lupton came to the same conclusion that was reached by Mr. Asa Candler as expressed in the quotation above, and he determined to make his philanthropic investments in the realm of Christian education. He has given large sums to that cause, and in this philanthropy he is making the most enduring and far-reaching investments that can be made. When the cause of Southwestern was presented to him, he saw at a glance the importance of stabilizing this great Presbyterian college in the strategic location which Memphis offers. He saw that the future of the Southern Presbyterian Church in the Mississippi Valley is dependent upon the adequate establishment of Southwestern at Memphis, and, in spite of the fact that he was already heavily burdened with previous commitments, he gladly gave $50,000 towards the stabilizing of this institution.

"Mr. Lupton is a native of Winchester, Virginia, is a graduate of Roanoke College, and he resides in the Synod of Appalachia. He is, therefore, not an alumnus of Southwestern, nor even a resident in one of the four co-operating Synods, and yet his clear vision of the future and his generous heart prompted him to make this investment. It is earnestly hoped that Mr. Lupton's example will be followed by those upon whose generosity we have a more natural claim, and that the needs of Southwestern will be fully met in the future.

Chas. E. Diehl,
President Southwestern."

BOOK REVIEW

By
Hazel Edmunds

MRS. CRADDOCK, BY W. SOMERSET MAUGHM.

First, I am not the person to review a book of W. Somerset Maughm for I am so prejudiced in favor of Mr. Maughm that even if the book were not good, I am afraid I should give it my sanction. Since I read "Rain" and saw it enacted by memorable Jeanne Eagles (at her best) I have become a devoted admirer of the author and I hungrily devour all of his works of fiction. However, "Mrs. Craddock" is a fine novel, but not one of the author's best works of genius. It is interesting to know that when Maughm wrote "Mrs. Craddock" it was refused by all important English publishers until he had removed the passages which they considered shocking. This book was several years being published. The author of "Rain" was not the man to run pencil marks through a few risqué lines because some tightlipped old fossil publishers blushed at their naughtiness.

"Mrs. Craddock" is a story with one central interest, one woman's passionate love for a man, its change to hate and gradually cooling to indifference. I suppose the following quotation might have been responsible for the flutterings the sensitive shockable nerves of those feeble publishers felt: "Oh, yes, she wanted him to take her in his arms and kiss her; in imagination she felt his lips upon hers, and the warmth of his breath made her faint with the anguish of love."

I think jealousy probably motivates the publishers' reaction to the book. Few women have loved as wildly as Mrs. Craddock but many have learned the futility of such emotion. Particularly where cold, inanimate, ambitious men are concerned. The novel is probably of wider interest to women than to men. The world is too full of Edward Craddocks for his wife, Bertha, to even be a popular heroine. Her friends are numbered among people even as you and I, and even I have a sense of humor.

Evergreen Hall

Many lovely Christmas presents have been displayed in the girl's dormitory since the holidays; but Geneva took the prize when she appeared one day last week with her husband, Joe Von Almen, in tow. They were married on the 23rd and are going to make their home in Blytheville. They stayed at the dormitory only long enough for Geneva to pack some things and say "Good-bye" to everyone.

Only one casualty during Christmas is a very good record, but had the holidays lasted about a week longer, some others would probably have been reported missing. Gertie Mayo and Allison Cole both came back with that look which says, "I wish I had never left home!"

Olive Walker has moved into the dormitory in Geneva Jones' place and is rooming with Jimmie Walls.

Al Murray carried Ruth Harris off for the week-end. All the other inmates stayed at the dormitory and pretended they liked it.

Marion Mills holds the diamond studded horseshoe as the luckiest girl in Evergreen Hall. The hat box which contained a big share of Marion's earthly possessions and which she lost between the station and the dormitory, was picked up by a lady who broadcasted her find over the radio. A friend of Marion's was listening in; result—hatbox recovered.

KAPPA SIGMA FRATERNITY CAN FINALLY SAY, "HOUSE FINISHED"

Old Lady Hard Luck Been on Heels of Brothers for Two Years, But Gypped At Last

"It won't be long now" seems to have become the slogan of Phi Chapter of Kappa Sigma at Southwestern, in regard to its lodge on Fraternity Row. Exactly two years ago, the members of Phi Chapter, hoping to save money, began to dig the basement of the house. After so long a time, the basement was finally finished and the stately mansion began taking form over that sodden hole in the ground, but calamity overtook the chapter. When school let out, the proud structure yet lacked a roof, due to lack of funds in the treasury.

However, the Kappa Sigs must have certainly done something during the summer, for when school once again resumed in the fall of '28, work continued on the lodge. First the roof was installed, then the lighting fixtures, and everything seemed to be going hotsy-totsy when Fate once again intervened and work on the house came to a standstill. The basement began leaking—three times the Kappa Sigs pumped five thousand gallons of muddy water out of there. During this period of great disappointment, the Kappa Sigs had to suffer under such wise-cracks as: "When're you all gonna throw a swimmin' party?", "We hear you're plannin on raisin' fish out there", "Installed your diving board yet?" However, they never whimpered, but continued about their business with smiling faces and heavy hearts. Charlie Terry proudly insisted that "our lodge will be open before school lets out," and when Terry was no more, Jack DuBose took up the battle-cry.

Now it looks as if the Kappa Sigs' dream is to be suddenly realized—their house, absolutely, lacks only an electric light line from the street to be complete. Mr. Tutwiler of the Memphis Power & Light Co. has promised to install this line gratis at the company's earliest convenience. The Kappa Sigs have completed all

Pugilists Win In First Bouts Dec. 18

Watson and Woods Are Champions of City

ROGER WRIGHT

The youngest of all Southwestern men's activities, boxing, stood its first flame test creditably in a recent bout. A team composed of Ray Woods, Jack Chambliss, Fiore Caltagirone, Jack Watson, Sloan "Wormy" Williams, "Pee Wee" Hines, and Malcolm Smith made its debut Dec. 18 at the Y. M. C. A. in an All-Memphis tournament. All the boys won their bouts on that night, except Chambliss who fought a hard and creditable fight against one of the best and most experienced boxers of his weight in the city. Jack fought his opponent to a draw in the first three rounds, but was out-pointed in the fourth.

Two nights later the survivors from the first bouts met again at the "Y" in the finals. Excitement rose to a high pitch on that night, as first Southwestern and then the "Y" would seem to gain an edge on the other all through the successive matches. Williams put up a hard battle, but finally lost after having made a fine effort.

Watson was proclaimed winner over Caltagirone in the third "lively mixing" round, and also champion welter-weight of Memphis. Woods won in the first round by a technical knockout. A hard left jab to the chin was responsible. This bout decided that Woods was junior welter-weight champion of Memphis. Smith, fighting under a handicap, a boil in his ear, fought the last fight of the night. By this time enthusiasm was at its height, as this was the deciding bout of the tournament. A punch on the ailing ear did for Smith in the second round. Southwestern lost the tournament, but not before the boys had made a splendid showing. These boys are to be congratulated for having done so well, especially after having had only three weeks training. Woods and Watson come in for an extra amount of praise, since they are both All-Memphis Champions in their respective weights, having shown plenty of pluck and fight.

George Pahlberg, boxing instructor, assisted by Bobby Coleman, a one-time popular Memphis boxer, has extensive plans under way in order to foster boxing in Southwestern. He intends to enter a team in the Tri-States Tournament the last part of January. A Southwestern tournament will be held later in the year with the "Y," the Catholic Club, the Elks Club, and outsiders participating.

plans for a formal opening and dedication of Southwestern's first fraternity house, not later than April 12, 1930, the date of the founding of Phi Chapter. Hail to them—pioneers!

SUPPORTERS OF SOUTHWESTERN

We believe that educated people should understand these truths.

Public Utilities render services that are essential to modern living standards. These services directly contribute to the convenience and comfort of people hourly each day. They have raised living standards, brought us up to a new plane of material existence; and are, in fact, the agencies by which modern living standards are maintained.

Without these services, present-day conditions would be turned backward half a century, and we would revert to the days of the tallow candle and the ox-drawn cart.

In addition to their contribution to the convenience and comfort of people, utilities are economic factors of important worth to their communities—stimulating channels of trade and business activities with their large pay-rolls and immense purchases of supplies.

These are facts that educated people should understand.

Lynx Begin Cage Work Against 'Y' Triangles Tonite

Burke Sure Team Will Make Great Showing; Reserves Ready

The Lynx cagemen will start the ball rolling in their 1930 basketball schedule when they invade the domain of the Y. M. C. A. Triangles tonight. The battle should be one "worthy of the Gods," as the Triangles have one of the strongest quintets in this section of the country, and the Lynx men are to be rivaled only by last year's Southwestern team. Coach Webb Burke stated that he was certain to be well satisfied with the Lynx showing against the Triangles. The game tonight will be of great interest to the people of Memphis as well as Southwestern students, for it is to be a determining factor in naming the city champions.

After a week of hard, after-holiday practicing and scrimmaging, Coach Burke has portioned out the regulars and subs. A strong first team has been organized with Chauncey "Fox" Barbour displaying signals at forward. His co-mate has turned out to be none other than "Sugar" Diehl, an excellent floor and basket man. Raspberry, with his head high in the air, holds down the center position, while Bob Russell and "Popsie" Gerrard are the fightin' guards on the team. The second squad has a steel backbone in Morris Ford at forward, and Bob Logan at center. Royce Moore and Ward Harris alternate at the other forward position, with "Ducky" Delay and Russell Brigance ably functioning as guards.

On the two reserve teams are plenty of men to give the regulars trouble. Jimmy Hughes and George Hightower jumping center; Johnny Hughes, Paul Jones, Jess Harris, and Jimmy Dainwood as forwards; Bill Puddephat, Bobby Carpenter, Jimmy Hamilton, and Maclin Riley on the guard positions.

SPRING FOOTBALL TO FOLLOW EXAMS

Spring football will begin within a week after examinations and last for one month. According to Coach Webb Burke, practices will be held three times a week and if enough candidates come out there will be several scrimmages with perhaps a game or two to climax the session.

More attention will be paid to the fundamentals of the game than to any organization of teams. With a large freshman squad and most of the varsity men expecting to turn out, there should be, from all indications, plenty of material for the Lynx mentor.
