Bowden Plans Cutback; Entire Faculty Purged

President Bowden announced this week that the entire faculty would be phased out at the end of the next fiscal year. "While we hate to make such a move," he stated, "we simply do not have the funds to continue a full-time faculty and support the development office at the same time."

Bowden pointed out that the funds that would be made available from cutting of the entire faculty would be used to increase the staff of the development office, add a number of secretaries, and hire a Vice President for Sidewalk Development. In explaining the cut,

Bowden stated that "many people will be upset over this move. But when one realizes how unnecessary a faculty is to the modern contemporary college one can see the brilliance of this move."

Mr. Lloyd Templeton of the Development Office hailed the decision as "probably the most historical move the college has made to date." "For years," he stated, "we have had to live under the illusion that a faculty is the most important part of Southwestern. Anyone with any sense realizes that a school simply cannot exist without work orders, yellow slips, pink slips, traffic tickets, and of course a development office to raise money for the ever efficient bureaucracy."

Dr. Bernice Williams, secretary of the faculty, said that she was shocked at the move. "We all realized that the day of doom was coming but we just didn't realize it would be this soon." Dr. Williams said that for her personally it would not be difficult to readjust to the new move. "I have been asked by the administration to serve as Vice President for Administrative Development and Deferred Analytical Review."

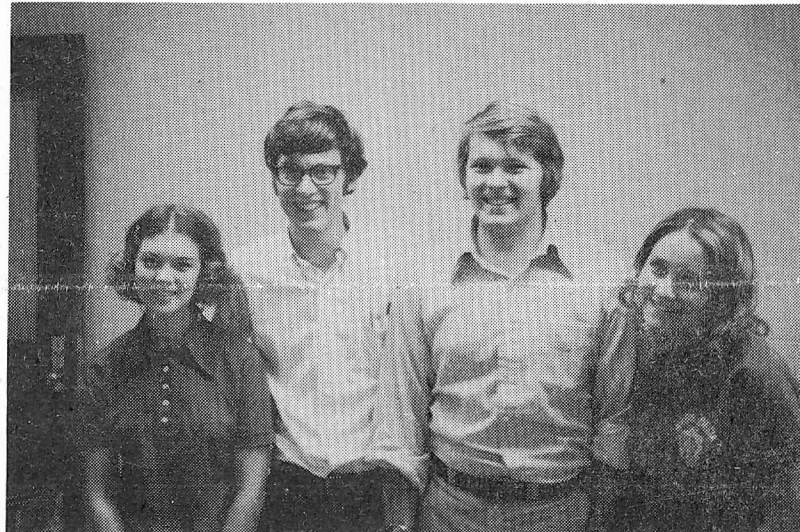

It was also announced that the analytical studies committee is now considering plans to end the funding of the admissions department. It was explained that it would only be a matter of time before students will not be necessary at the college and the funding of an admissions department will be completely unnecessary.

News Briefs

It was announced this week that ODK has voted to change the procedure for selecting dorm presidents. Instead of being chosen by election, the dorm presidents will be selected from among rising juniors and seniors who apply for the office.

Applications must be written and turned into Dean Diehl's office by May 1. Applications should include a listing of activities the applicant is committed to be involved in during the coming year. Selection will be made on the basis of time available to devote to the job, and, secondarily, financial need of the applicant. Consideration will also be given to recommendations by present dorm presidents and members of ODK.

Four Southwestern students have been awarded National Defense Education Act Fellowships for the study of Arabic this summer. Those students receiving the fellowships valued at over $1500 apiece are Carter Garber for the University of Tunis, Vikki Landon and Sandy Feustel for Georgetown University, and Arnold Wiener for Portland State University. Approximately 1,000 students nationwide applied for the fellowships.

Election Results

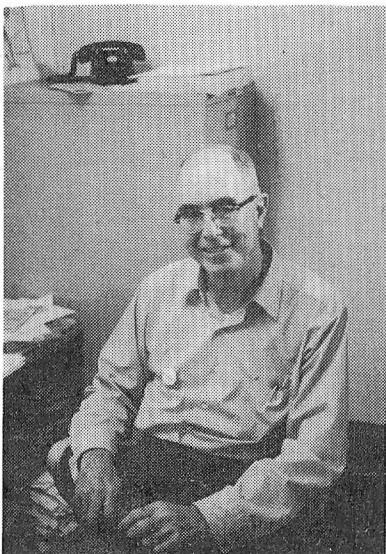

Results of this Wednesday's elections were posted two days ago. Elected to Southwestern Student Government Association posts were Duke Cain, president, Bruce Allbright, vice-president, Jane Howze, treasurer, and Clare Nichols, secretary.

The election was repeated this Wednesday because of an error on the ballot in last Wednesday's election, which caused its invalidation.

The Elections Commission has announced that election of SGA commissioners is to be today.

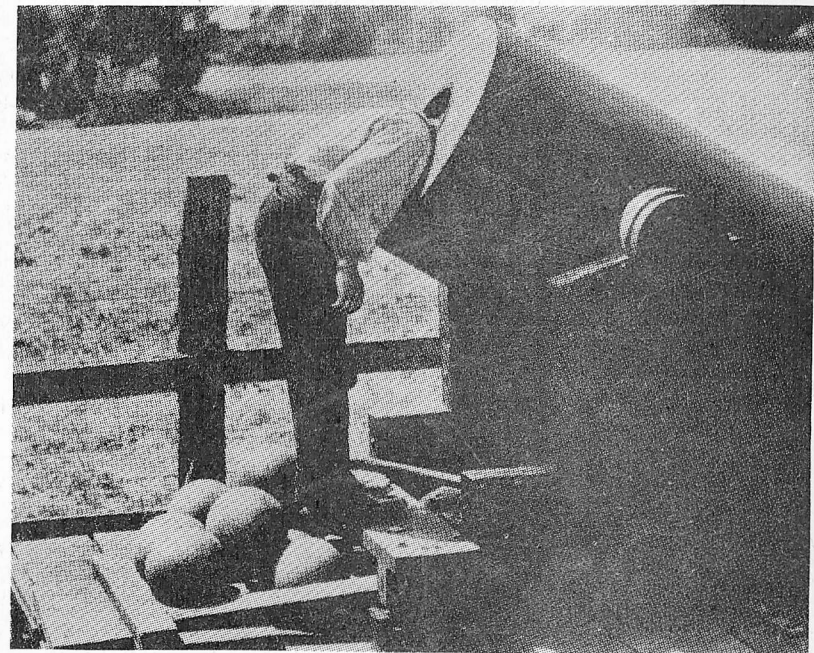

Wasfy Iskander

Dan Ross

Professors Wasfy Iskander of the Economics Department and Dan Ross of the English Department were named Outstanding Professors of the year this Monday. Cited for "Outstanding Service beyond the classroom," the two professors were chosen from a field of nominations submitted by the student body. The Education Commission announced the decision at a meeting of the Tennessee Poetry Society and awarded plaques to the two professors.

Dorm Swap Approved For Next Fall Term

Announcement of the passage of the proposed Bellingrath-Townsend dorm swap was made Tuesday for the '72-'73 school year. When it became clear that co-ed dorms were not presently feasible, a committee of Deans Williford, Diehl, and Patterson, and M. J. Williams was appointed by President Bowden to look into other possible methods of breaking up the male-female division of the campus. The idea of the dorm swap has been around several years; this was endorsed by the committee of deans and approved by the faculty. Although a copy of the administrative statement to the faculty was placed in all students' boxes, it was not clear that the swap was going to be put into effect until the women began to draw lottery numbers for room sign-up.

The choices of Townsend and Bellingrath were made because of comparable size and facilities. Men objected to the small rooms in the New Dorm, Trezevant was funded by Mr. Little as a women's dorm, and the women did not want to forfeit Voorhies.

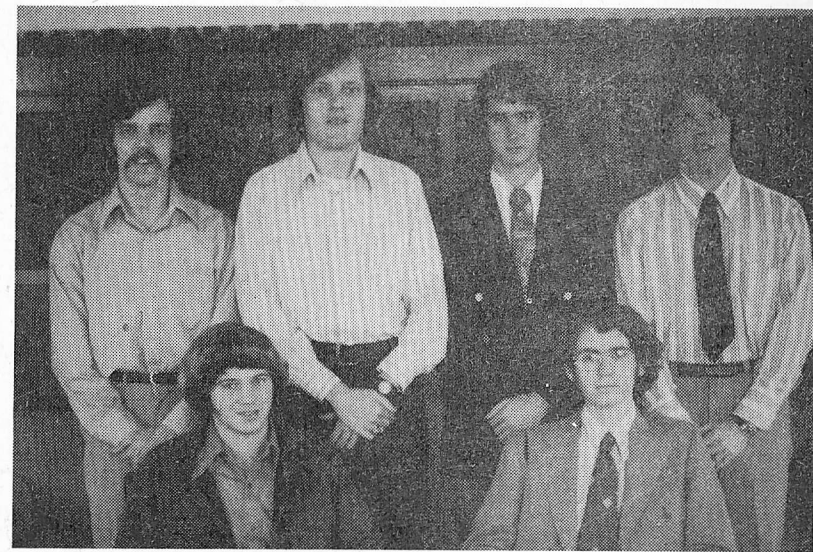

Dean Williford met with interested students last Sunday in the New Dorm to hear their arguments for and against the proposal. It was recognized by the administration that the swap could not take place without student approval, which at that point was difficult to gauge. Accordingly, a fact sheet concerning the swap was written, and four questions were devised to determine student support. More than 300 students were surveyed. Of these, approximately two-thirds thought the swap was a good idea and would aid in improving male-female relations on campus; only 40 students objected to having a dorm of the opposite sex in their dorm complex. 67 men and 63 women signed their names as being willing to sign up for a room in one of the swapped dorms. These figures were taken to the Dean's office and with this support indicated, it was decided to continue with the plan.

There are still operating details to be worked out and this will be done with student help. It is hoped that the security for Bellingrath can be tied in with the outside security and it is most likely that the East campus security will remain in Townsend. Some repairs and alterations of the involved dorms will be done, but the costs will be nominal to the students. Until estimates of what must be done and of the costs are made the actual cost per student cannot be determined.

Sou'wester Judged Best In The Nation

The National Press Association through its agent The New York Times announced in Washington this week that the Sou'wester, a student newspaper of Southwestern at Memphis, was to receive an award marking it the "best college newspaper in the country." The Sou'wester won the award for which over 2000 college newspapers competed. The Crimson of Harvard University was placed second. When contacted by telephone in Memphis, the Co-Editors, Mark Lester and Duke Cain, said they were "delighted." Cain attributed the award to the newspaper's coverage of world affairs. "While our staff is extremely small," Cain said, "they are all hard workers." Lester attributed the success of the paper this year to himself.

This is the first time that the Sou'wester has ever received the prestigious National Press Association Award. President Nixon in a telegram to the staff congratulated them on their diligent efforts and invited the editors to the White House to receive the award.

The award includes a $250,000 grant which Southwestern Treasurer M. J. Williams stated had already been spent.

Dear Dr. Smith,

WHY SAVE OVERTON PARK????? Because it is a beautiful, natural spot among the autos and skyscrapers and factories of an expanding metropolis? But stop to think—who can really enjoy Overton Park?

Monday, a man was murdered there; before this, numerous men who sit in their cars along the roads have been robbed there; my friends and I have been annoyed twice by exhibitionists between holes No. 2 and No. 3 on the golf course. There are always men walking through the woods along the edge of the course. Another friend (a student here) was chased through the park by a strange man as she was walking back from the art gallery. In short, we, and many of the people of Memphis, are afraid to use the park.

If the people of Memphis cannot use the park and they certainly can use the expressway without fear of being mugged or raped, why have a park?

Thank-you for your time and attention.

Sincerely,
A Student

Dr. Smith's Reply

Dear Student,

1. The Monday murder was apparently done by victims of drug abuse. Let us stop the drugs.

2. Murders occur on highways in great numbers. Quit building cars and highways?

3. Highway murders, more frequently than not, are caused by drunk drivers. Shall we get rid of alcohol?

4. People are robbed anywhere you can think of, even on campus.

5. Exhibitionists frequent our library. Perhaps we should close it.

6. Students have been chased on campus, by strangers too. Shall we close the college?

7. The Honor System on campus is in jeopardy. Get rid of it?

The problems that plague our society are complex and cannot be solved simply by closing our eyes to them. As long as we have more and more people, the problems will become more and more complex and less readily solvable. One real solution is: have more people, more drugs, more alcohol, more murders, more highways, more pollution, more wars . . . no more people, and our problems are solved. The park will then be a safe and sane place until, in a few hundreds of million years, the lemurs and tarsiers think it is again time to take a chance on a hominid mutant and succor a pair of them.

Let us all hope that we can come to our senses and get control of ourselves and our problems of living together before all of the above come to pass. If we are to "have dominion" over the creatures of the earth, we first have to gain dominion over ourselves. Can we survive until the year 2000?

Sincerely,
Arlo I. Smith

COP-OUT DORMS

by F. Clark

It was announced early Tuesday afternoon that the proposed swap of Townsend and Bellin-grath will actually take place after a student poll showed that students favored the switch by two to one. This is a truly amazing step considering the action taken in the past on living proposals favored by students. After copping out on a co-ed situation, the swap was proposed as an alternative that would achieve some of the goals of co-ed dorms, chiefly breaking up the East-West campus gambit.

This might set a long awaited precedent in the governing of student affairs. How would comps stand up in a student poll? Or, how about degree requirements? The point is this. We are not always appreciative of what is deemed good for us (please don't misunderstand this statement, I don't care for comps or degree requirements), especially if it involves a change from traditional procedure. And, procedure is a good term in this case where "practical" problems overruled conscious effort for a program potentially profitable socially for all those involved (as evidenced by the correspondence received by the co-ed dorm committee).

The lack of initiative on the part of our administration rivals all others. Why should they initiate? Because that's what we're paying them for. Certainly student opinion should be consulted and students should do what they can in bringing about needed and desired changes. However, it is my contention that much of the work being done on Southwestern community projects by students could and should be handled by administrators. Students are, after all, even these days in some cases, primarily students.

Critics Corner

by F. Clark

Last Friday night the Black Students Association, in conjunction with the Communication Arts Department, presented a tribute to black author Richard Wright (Black Boy, Native Son, and others). The tribute was conceived by actress Nancy Cole when she was here with her one woman show, "Gertrude Stein's Gertrude Stein." Levi Frazier was instrumental in developing the idea to its production phase.

The three principals, Linda McCoy, Gregg Boyd, and Frazier, alternated in narrating and portraying Mr. Wright through mime and short sketches. All three have previous experience and were not only competent, but quite good. Jonnetta Johnston provided the music, accompanied on one occasion by Bob Tigert. Mr. Tigert and crew served as lighting and sound technicians.

The production suffered only by its staging, that is to say, locale and position of the audience. It is hard to imagine a 20-year-old man as a four-year-old boy when you are looking up at him. (Frazier overcame even that hurdle, however, in a sequence where he tries to sell his dog.) Perhaps a more conventional stage would help. Another suggestion I might make is to expand the work if it is to be presented again.

The program was fairly well attended but by nowhere near the numbers it merited. It is a shame that such an opportunity was passed up by so many.

March of Dimes Walk

I really enjoyed helping with the 1972 March of Dimes Walkathon. At least 12,000 people participated in the actual walk, which was more than twice over the expected 5,000. Needless to say, there wasn't enough food and there weren't enough forms.

But there were lots and lots and lots of people: young, old, fat, thin, black, white, fast, slow. Yet they all had something in common: they were walking to help someone — I should say the many, many people—who cannot walk.

Supposedly, everyone who walked was being sponsored by someone who pledged to donate a certain amount of money for every mile walked to the March of Dimes fund. Some people just came through to be coming through; they didn't even want a form to be checked.

Southwestern marked the 10-mile, halfway point for the walk—and there were many who decided to sit on the curb and wait to be taken back to the fairgrounds where they had started.

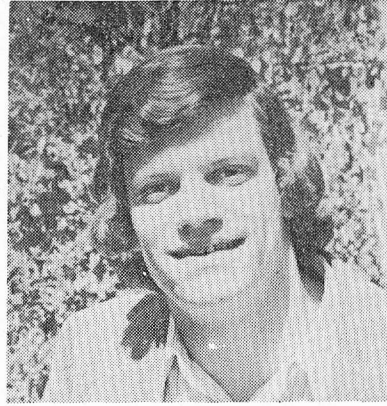

But they were few and far between. The vast majority trudged, jogged, limped, and/or blundered through the checkpoint to continue their march.

It made me feel so good—inside and just all over really—(as I'm sure it did the Memphis March of Dimes Foundation for this is the largest number of people in the entire nation to participate in the Walk) to see so many people giving of their time, and more importantly, of themselves, to help others. I was particularly impressed with the number of children, and I do mean children, who walked. Some couldn't have been more than seven or eight years old, yet there they were—tired, yet smiling and walking.

Since this is the last paper to come out this term, I would just like to say I've enjoyed writing my column and am looking forward to writing it again third term. I hope you've enjoyed it, too.

Whether you have or not, though, Good Luck on exams. Happy Easter, and have a real fling of a break.

Harmon Resigns

by Duke Cain

Dr. George Harmon announced his resignation yesterday as head of the Economics and Business Administration Department. Dr. Harmon, a graduate of the Famous Businessmen Correspondence School, stated, "I will be serving full-time as a Chicago slum lord effective May 31 of this year."

When asked why he was giving up his position, Dr. Harmon replied, "Well, teaching is, of course, a lucrative profession, but the wolf is at my door, the piper wants to be paid, and the grass looks greener on the other side of the fence." Dr. Harmon is expected to use his business expertise to devise more equitable ways of extorting widows and orphans and will, no doubt, be a boon to the Chicago community.

Famous Mystic Visits Campus

Debauchee, noted Indian mystic and Good Humor man, is scheduled to deliver a lecture on "The yellow brick road to true enlightenment," Saturday, April 1, at sunset in Fisher Memorial Gardens. Macrobiotic rice and guerrilla cookies will be served at a reception afterwards.

Debauchee, who is the spiritual advisor of the Amboy Dukes, spent 30 years meditating in isolation in the Himalayas before three drunk Americans (who thought he was an abominable snowman) brought him to the U.S.

Since then, Debauchee's philosophy of rueta-athpa, or the four-fold way to eternal happiness and whiter teeth, has been received with enthusiastic yawns everywhere he has traveled. Dozens of young people all over America have become lackadaisical followers of rueta-athpa.

Debauchee also announced that, while they lasted, official Debauchee T-shirts, rueta-athpa drinking mugs, and Eternal Happiness stationery would be on sale in the student center.

Debauchee wearing official True Enlightenment robes, also available at the Student Center.

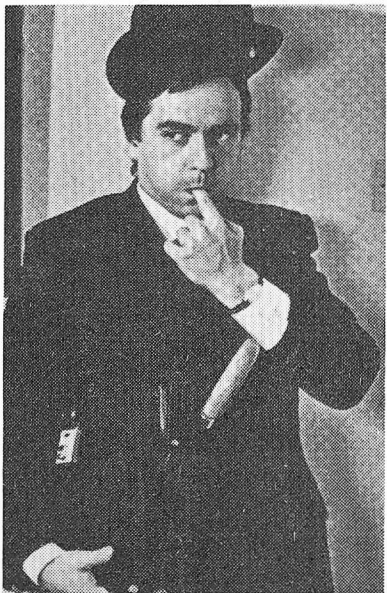

Incentive Plan Is Announced

Julius Melton, in his newly-begun post as Director of Deferred Giving, has announced a plan to raise money for the college, and at the same time enable students to earn their tuition.

Details of the plan are as follows: students can buy franchises to be admissions counselors. Each franchise would cost $1800, and would authorize the holder to enroll prospects at Southwestern. The franchise holder would get $600 for each prospect enrolled for each year the prospect was in attendance at Southwestern, and would earn a $400 bonus if the prospect completed all four years.

According to Melton a student will be able to pay for his tuition, room and board simply by enrolling 10 other students. Further, pointed out Melton, a student may earn $900 by selling franchises.

Melton urged interested parties to contact him immediately, as only a limited number, probably less than 10,000, of franchises will be sold.

Dr. Melton answering questions about new plan.

News Brief

The business office announced this week that, due to a mistake, the fiscal year '71-'72 has been lost. However, promised M. J. Williams, spokesman for the business office, it will be replaced by a year of comparable value. As of the time the Sou'wester went to press, top officials were reported trying to decide between 1941 and 1737.

The Board of Governors of the Briggs Student Center will hold a meeting sometime during the second full week of third term for the purpose of considering the petitions of campus organizations for space, office or otherwise, for the 1972-73 school year. If your organization desires an office in the Student Center next year, submit your petition to John Hille, Box 725. Include your reasons for wanting space, why you should have it and any other pertinent information. Organizations already housed in the student center are not exempt.

Due to a lack of space available, the Board will necessarily be selective. Deadline for petitions is Friday, April 28, 1972.

The BSA announced this week that they have changed their name to "The Mystic Nights of the Sea." "We felt the change was necessary when we had to move from the Black House to what is now called the 'Lodge Hall,'" they said. The funding for the move will be provided by the Welfare Commission.

Professor Ray Hill's plan for a new curriculum for the Communication Arts Department was approved this week by the Curriculum Committee. Under the new plan there will be no requirements for a major, and no classes will be taught. Students are expected to do nothing on their own in order to make the plan successful.

At the last meeting of the Publications Board new editors were selected for next year. Clark Malcolm and Mark Lester were appointed co-editors of The Southwestern Journal, Bill Symes is the new editor of Ginger, Gerald Koonce is editor and Larry Rice is the assistant editor of the Sou'wester. Andy Scot will be the Business Manager. No applications were received for the annual.

Dr. Carl Walters has asked that any students wishing to take his course "Living, Loving, Grooving, Oh Wowing and Farming Out" should contact him before the end of this week. Texts for the course include: Mathew, Mark, Luke, et al; The Bible; unknown works by Herman Hesse; Modern Calculus; and The Early Works of Pope Habebus XXV.

Susan Smith, President of the Social Regulations Council, announced that there were no trials, and no convictions by the SRC this year. According to the constitution this must be announced. "It has been a good year," she stated. "However, I really wouldn't know a bad year since the SRC has never tried anyone, let alone convicted him."

The Biology Department has completed its preliminary study of the drug, cannabis sativa, or as it is more commonly known, marijuana. In part their report reads, "Witthot Dobt, tthis is rthe mpst gfantstsiic fu!9...?"

Long Day's Journey Into Night, starring Katherine Hepburn, Ralph Richardson, and Jason Robards, will be shown Friday evening in FJ-B at 6:30 and 9 p.m. This is the excellent film version of Eugene O'Neill's autobiographical play. It is the only film in history in which all four actors were nominated for Best Actor at the Cannes Film Festival.

The Religion Department will host a series of speakers third term. Gloria Steinem will speak on the possibility of life after marriage. Dr. Spock will speak on the possibility of death after birth from standing in a draft. Roger Bendinelli will speak on the possibility of life before breakfast and death after lunch.

I. S. Seminar Series For 1972 Announced

by Mark Lester

Dr. David H. Likes announced this week the speakers for next year's International Studies Seminar Series. Heading up the list of distinguished guests is The Honorable Reelee Bor'ing, assistant chief of mission of the cultural section of the Embassy of Tibet. The topic of Mr. Bor'ing's address is the economic development of the Whocares province of Tibet. Also scheduled to speak is Richard "Dick" Nixon, former congressman from the 18th district of California. Mr. Nixon is presently serving as president of the United States. He will address himself to the topic of "Gone With the Wind — American Involvement in Viet Nam." Other speakers for next year include Baron Island, Primate of Neanderthal, KGB, IMD, O.S., Generals Smith, Lucas, McGee, Lucifer, and Harly.

The International Studies Department was established in 1955. "Colonel" Likes described his department as "the best drinkingest bunch of folks I have ever had the pleasure of associating with." When asked about the department's bill at the Four Flames restaurant which totaled over $2,000.00 last year, Likes commented, "You see, it was easy to get the dough. All I had to do was put the department under the heading of administration and the funds came flowing in."

Christians To Hold Crusade Under Tent

Plans were announced today for the annual Fellowship of Christian Athletes' tent revival. This year the revival will be sponsored by both the F.C.A. and Campus Crusade.

The location of the tent will be marked by a cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night and scheduled events are planned to last forty years. Included will be the traditional ritual water parting and a realistic portrayal of the cleansing of the temple complete with money changers and Pharisees. Jack Russell, who has been named to play the part of Christ in the festivities, commented, "It will be nice to get a break from my arduous schedule of administrative review. I haven't had much to do lately since I cancelled my math class when the last remaining major dropped out of school to join the Boy Scouts full time. Indications at this time are that I will have a 43.2% chance of driving out the money changers which, on the 5% scale of significance is comparable to the 61.2% chance I had previously calculated."

Also scheduled to make cameo appearances in the coming event are Half Bright, founder of one of the national organizations, who will play the part of a fried egg in the historical representation "The Path of Our Lord," which will take place on a scale model of the Holy Land being built on the back forty by Mid-East expert Wafsy Iskander, and Brother Al of Waco, Texas, who will be distributing Brother Al Prayer Towels, Prayer Knee Pads, and Miracle Healing Oil.

Lynx Split Two Against Harding

The Southwestern baseball team opened their season Monday against Harding College of Arkansas, splitting a double-header by winning the second game, 12-0. They dropped the first contest, 13-5.

The Lynx rode the two-hit pitching of Steve James and an opening inning ten-run outburst to defeat Harding. Ronnie Dillard began the inning with a double and then scored on Mike Sadler's double. Then Lonnie Morris sent Sadler to third with a single. An error by Harding's second baseman scored Sadler and sent Southwestern off-and-running, as they scored seven more. Dillard and Sadler each contributed another hit in the inning. James struck out five and walked three in his excellent performance.

The first game began with the Lynx scoring four runs in the first inning and booking as if they were going to take the opener. Dillard and Morris walked and scored on Sadler's triple. Rick Barkley plated Sadler with a single and then he scored on Mike Walden's triple. Southwestern's pitcher Joel Furnari was coasting along until the fourth inning when Harding exploded for nine runs. Four walks and two errors helped Harding in the big inning. John Crockett relieved Furnari and did an admirable relief job retiring the last seven batters he faced.

The Lynx show promise for an excellent season as they pounded out 18 hits to Harding's 13. James is also in excellent form, and if Southwestern can get two starting pitchers in shape to give James help, Coach Jim Harvey's Lynx could have a stellar season.

Golfers Henry Gardner (left) and Les Jaco gaze at their lucky ball before the Lynx's match last Wednesday. The four-way match had Southwestern defeating Delta State, 16-8, and the University of Morris, 17½-6½. The Linksters dropped the other decision to UT at Martin, 16-8, and lowered their record to 4-1-1. They travel to Sewanee twice during the break to participate in the TIC and Mid-South Invitational Tournaments.

SW Splits Track Meet

The Southwestern track team split a pair of dual meets Saturday, March 18, at Austin Peay State University in Clarksville, Tennessee. The Lynx defeated Carson-Newman 82-63, but were nipped 75-69 by host Austin Peay. In an unusual situation, only one meet was held, but scores were totaled twice between two teams at a time, thus producing the dual meet scores.

Phil Johnson and Ralph Allen led the thinclads as Johnson placed first in three events and second in another while Allen took places in seven events.

Individual firsts for the Lynx were John Keesee in the 880-yd run (2:00.9), Herman Morris in the 220-yd dash (22.6), and 100-yd dash (10.0), Ralph Allen, javelyn (183'10"), Phil Johnson in the long jump (22'1"), high jump (6'2"), and triple jump (44'2"), and the 440-yd relay team (Keesee, Allen, Morris, and Todd Robbin) with a time of 43.5 seconds. The Lynxcats open their home season facing John Brown University in a dual meet this Saturday, March 25. Field events start at 1 pm at Fargason Field, with running events scheduled to begin at 2:30.
