Coaches Duckworth and Lear

Firings Arouse Ire

The termination of the contracts of Coaches Duckworth and Lear and the writing of a new contract for a lesser position for Coach Maybry have led to angry reactions and a new look at the role of athletics at Southwestern. Amid the wild accusation, false rumors, and general misinterpretations that have been made of these actions, the Outlook has tried to sort out the real reasons for the shake-up and the real objections to it.

The re-organization is a result of information gathered by the administration for the past year and a half. The studies were supplemented by a report submitted by an ad-hoc "Goal 22" committee (see The Sou'wester, April 25, 1975) consisting of two alumni appointed by the Alumni Executive Committee, six students selected by the SGA, two administrators appointed by the President, two faculty members selected by the faculty, and two trustees appointed by the Board Chairman. Professor Donald Tucker chaired the committee. The student members were John Daniel, Herb Gunn, Carl Hill, Jim Ramsey, Patty Smith, and Jan Weeks. The report cited problems of a lack of interest and support by the college community for the varsity program, declining enrollment in P. E. (though it pointed out that some innovative courses had been well received), poor operation and maintenance of the gym facilities, and a lack of some necessary facilities (adequate weight-lifting rooms, enough racketball courts, a swimming pool) and poor morale among some staff (they feel their efforts go unappreciated by the community).

It further notes the positions of basketball coach and athletic director as particularly in need of improvement. The intramurals program was cited as being the healthiest.

The report concludes that present financial sources are spread too thin, staff salaries are too low, that more money should be allocated or part of the present program eliminated, and that a larger percentage of the budget be devoted to non-varsity athletics. They felt that the administration had allowed a level of performance that would be intolerable in other areas of the college community.

The report has been criticized on several counts. The claim has been made that the committee didn't do the job that it was set up to do; i.e., make specific recommendations on ways to correct the situation. Professor Tucker admits that there is truth to this, but states in defense "No one was able to tell us what our job was—we got conflicting suggestions from everyone we asked. Considering the wide variety of opinions held by people on the committee, I am surprised that we could agree on this much." The report was also criticized for stating both that no further economies could be made in the varsity program and that a larger percentage of the budget should go to non-varsity programs.

The coaches have complained frequently in the past about their shrinking budget, their lack of faculty status, and a lack of support from the administration. In defense of the charge of neglecting P.

Kinney Coordinators Chosen

Brian Sudderth and Lynn Reecer have been selected to serve as Kinney Coordinators for the 1976-77 academic year. Brian, a rising senior from Little Rock, Arkansas, is presently involved in the Kinney Program as a tutor of eleventh grade students at White Station High School. In addition, Brian has served as class representative on the Honor Council and Social Regulations Council. Lynn, a rising junior from Nashville, Tennessee, is working under the Kinney Program at the Shelby County Penal Farm. It is her second year of volunteer work at the Penal Farm. Also this past year, Lynn has served as student representative on the Administrative Policy Committee.

Brian and Lynn will succeed Katherine Bullard and John Daniel, 1975-76 Coordinators.

Mortar Board Drops Sexists Requirments

For the first time in its 57-year history, Mortar Board, a national women's honor society, will extend its membership to men. However, the organization also voted to strengthen its purpose, "to promote and advance the status of women."

The move to admit men was prompted by Title IX of the Civil Rights Act, Educational Amendment of 1972, which reads, "No person . . . shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

Mortar Board held its first Special National Conference on October 18, 1975, to consider how to respond to Title IX and resolved to remove references to sex as a membership criterion in the Constitution and ByLaws. The constitutional amendment was approved by a chapter vote of 135 to 32.

Other alternatives considered by the Conference were to:

1) cease to exist as a national organization

2) exist as a private honor society, separating itself from the institution and severing any formal affiliation or relationship with colleges and universities.

3) consider a merger with a traditional, male honor society or honorary group.

4) consider court action relating to Title IX of the Educational Amendment of 1972.

The Southwestern Chapter of Mortar Board approved the amendment unanimously, with one member absent for the vote.

Editorial Pay Attention Next Time

The exclamations of surprise and anger at the firing of Coaches Duckworth and Lear and the demoting of Coach Maybry reveal that a sizeable part of the student body is totally uninformed about any role they have in governing this college.

The accusations that these actions were planned and executed by Dean Williford without letting anyone know a shake-up was about to happen are misrepresentations of the facts. The complaint that the people who investigated the Athletic Department were not people familiar with the program is wrong.

The Athletic Department has been under study by various Board of Trustees committees for a year and a half. The work of these committees has been one of the areas most often given coverage in the newspaper, with extensive articles in Sou'wester issues of April 25, 1975, and March 21, 1975, with a mention of athletics as recently as February 6, 1976. The student Board of Trustees members organized open forums last April for discussion of the athletic program. Every effort possible was made to inform the student and to give the students a chance to give opinions to their representatives.

Are the students on this campus so naive as to believe that it is not worth their trouble to get involved in evaluations of things important to them? Were they unaware that all the discussion concerning alternative ways of running the athletic program would eventually lead to action? Did they not realize that "re-organization" means a change in some personnel?

We naturally have sympathy and a desire to help the people who have been dismissed. But the information the administration had to act on pointed to these dismissals as the best thing for the long-range future of the program. After all the time spent discussing and gathering proposals, it is impossible to fault the administration for deciding they had discussed enough.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The inefficiency of the bureaucratic power structure at Southwestern has never been better demonstrated than it was in the firings of Coaches Bill Maybry, Don Lear, and Don Duckworth. Dean Anne Marie Williford has stated that the decision was hers alone, but that it was based on the recommendations of the Goal 22 committee.

When the Goal 22 committee reported back to the SCL Committee with its findings, many SCL committee members felt that the Goal 22 committee had not fulfilled its purpose. The Goal 22 committee was appointed to investigate the possibilities of upgrading all facets of the Athletic Department (e.g., varsity, intramurals, physical education), and to make some specific recommendations for doing so.

One SCL committee member felt that the Goal 22 committee "completely missed the point of what it was meant to be." Instead of a constructive report containing specific recommendations, the SCLC received a vaguely worded document that contained some inaccurate observations about the Athletic Department. Another committee member stated that the report was "a product of frustration," because of the committee's inability to decide what it really wanted out of the Athletic Department.

One of the alleged reasons for the firings is that the coaches did not devote enough time and attention to the intramural and P. E. programs. The accompanying charge that the coaches were insensitive to the needs of students not involved in varsity programs seems to be an observation made by some committee members, who are too far removed from the P. E. and intramural activities to make a valid judgement on the programs.

While the report states that a majority of the 196 students polled considered the P. E. program to be either fair or poor," it must be pointed out that out of all the course-evaluation questionnaires received from students taking P. E., not one contained a negative response.

When the charge is made that "the Athletic Department is the weakest on campus," it must be remembered that Southwestern is the only school in the CAC whose coaches do not have either tenure or faculty status. Consequently, they have no voice in making the policies that affect them. Also, in the past eight years the athletic budget has been cut by both the cost of living, and direct cuts by the administration. Maybry also made an unsolicited budget cut last year in the varsity program and redistributed that money into the intramural and P. E. programs.

It seems that the decision to fire coaches Lear, Maybry, and Duckworth is a consequence of basic weaknesses in the bureaucracy of SW. First of all, the Goal 22 committee completely failed to fulfill its task, and actually evaded its responsibility. Secondly, the committee made its report before it knew what it wanted. Thirdly, the administrative arm charged with making the final decision had to base her decision on a vague committee report, and had little, if any, firsthand knowledge of the activities of the Athletic Department.

There is little hope of this decision being reversed. However, the entire SW community should be concerned about this faulty decision-making process, and seek to correct it. Unless some kind of change is made in either the power structure, or the decision-making process, we may expect similar incidents to occur.

H. Scott Prosterman

Dear Editor:

Earlier this year I wrote a letter complaining about the obtrusive, unsightly, utilitarian gates which were planted around all but one of the campus entrances this past summer. The gates were an idea of former Security director Larry Poppa. They were hesitatingly approved by the Administration (hesitatingly, the administration had serious doubts as to the feasibility in regard to crime reduction, but decided to give them the old $1800 college try.)

Every night this past week I have been involved in on-campus activities which ended at nine o'clock. When trying to leave via Charles Place, I have found the gate locked at that time. Tonight, I attempted to enter the campus at six o'clock and found the gate to be locked. My home is across Jackson on the north-east corner of campus. To drive to school via Charles Place, it is one quarter of a mile if I have to find that Charles Place is closed first. (That's three times as much gas. My money and nerves are budgeted very tightly.) The gates, no matter what color, are irritating enough, locked early all week and since the North Parkway entrance was never locked, I have come to the decision that the answer I received from Security was an untruth—a lie.

Another cause for the misinformation has been offered to me by several students, the majority of whom work for the Security force. Their explanation, which I fear to be the truth, is that Director McQuown is making sweeping changes in Security policy with little or no opposition from his administrative superiors—if he is even informing them.

Southwestern, aside from big ideas, is a small community. I have felt in my three and a half years here that care has been taken to amalgamate all newcomers to the community, and to the concern for the individual, which that community boasts as its top priority. If such is the case, why has the new Security director not been given the same consideration? Mr. McQuown should have been informed by his employers that he is working for a community of individuals, and that it has been accepted school policy to inform, in advance, those individuals of any action which may affect them.

I am against the 6:00 p.m. locking of the Charles Place entrance, but I will not argue those pros and cons until I have been given a satisfactory explanation as to why the Southwestern community was not informed in any way whatsoever

Student Elections Results

Last Wednesday, Southwestern held student elections for officers of the SGA, SRC, and Honor Council. The results of a very close race for SGA President saw Steve Wade as the winner. Bobbo Jetmundsen won as Vice-President, Alice (J.) Smith as Secretary and Frances Clevenger as Treasurer.

Bill Harkins ran unopposed for Honor Council President and Katherine Bullard was elected Vice-President of the Honor Council.

Brian Sudderth is the new SRC President.

as to why the change has taken place. This matter may appear to be of little consequence, but I am talking about more than a closed gate. I can't hack the big problems when such needless, petty obstructions are in my way.

Dear Editor:

This past Saturday, WLYX was privileged to have as its guest the Italian Minister of Tourism. This gentleman is an official of the Italian Government and an experienced international traveler. His trip to Southwestern was for the particular purpose of an interview for WLYX and WSWM.

When the gentleman arrived on campus with his escort the first student whom he approached for directions to the radio studios was unable to assist him. The second student whom he approached directed him to the green transmitter facility near the intramural softball field. Finally, he was directed to the Student Center parking lot, where Dr. Donald Tucker, who was on his way to the studios to conduct the interview, saw him in his confusion, and brought him to the studios.

Is this campus so large that an enterprise which occupies two floors of one of the largest buildings on campus may pass unnoticed? I was embarrassed when I learned of this incident, and I believe that we all should be.

Sincerely,

Robert M. Reynolds, Jr.

WUB RE-ORGANIZED

The Women's Undergraduate Board has been re-organized under the leadership of new co-ordinators Carol Massenburg and Katherine Pritchard.

Some activities planned by WUB for the near future are: A Common House on April 15, featuring Holly Near, a folk blues singer; Women's Weekend, a weekend (April 22-24) of speakers and activities which will showcase the talents and achievements of local and campus women; a square dance to be held at the end of this term and an ice-cream social to be held sometime during third term. Also in the planning stage is a presentation for this year's Renaissance Festival.

ous criminal problems on this campus. In addition to the thefts, robberies, and shootings Van Cleave mentioned, I have noted innumerable rapes of both sexes, muggings, and the death of a Security officer. Yet I still feel the enactment of his suggestion of arming the Security guards would be a serious error, and would not deal with the problem at all.

Arming the guards in their present state of training would open the risk of a person being accidentally shot. A person untrained in the gun arts would not know how to properly deal with the situation arising on campus. I cannot think of any situation where the possession of a gun would enable the guards to resolve a criminal incident. At most, in encountering an armed assailant, there would be the likelihood of a shoot-out.

To hire properly trained armed guards would, conservatively, triple the cost of Security (trained professionals are expensive). And even then there would be doubt about the increased effectiveness due to this solution. Very few incidents involved the encountering of an armed assailant by a guard. The largest benefit from this would be the deterrent to would-be criminals who would know that armed guards patrol the campus.

The solution enacted by the administration of installing lights three years ago has seemed to drastically cut down on campus crimes. Other preventive measures such as increased patrolling of the campus by the guards would probably help. Also, a little healthy paranoia by the students. If the students would be more observant of non-students on campus and report to Security suspicious persons seen on campus, I believe that this would cut down more on crime than any other measure.

League Leaders Tied

The soccer team battled to a 2-2 tie with the league-leading Internationals Sunday at Overton Park. The Internationals severely hampered by injuries from a recent fight, trailed the whole game as the Lynxcats showed improved passing and teamwork on the attack. For the first time in a long while, Southwestern appeared to be controlling the game.

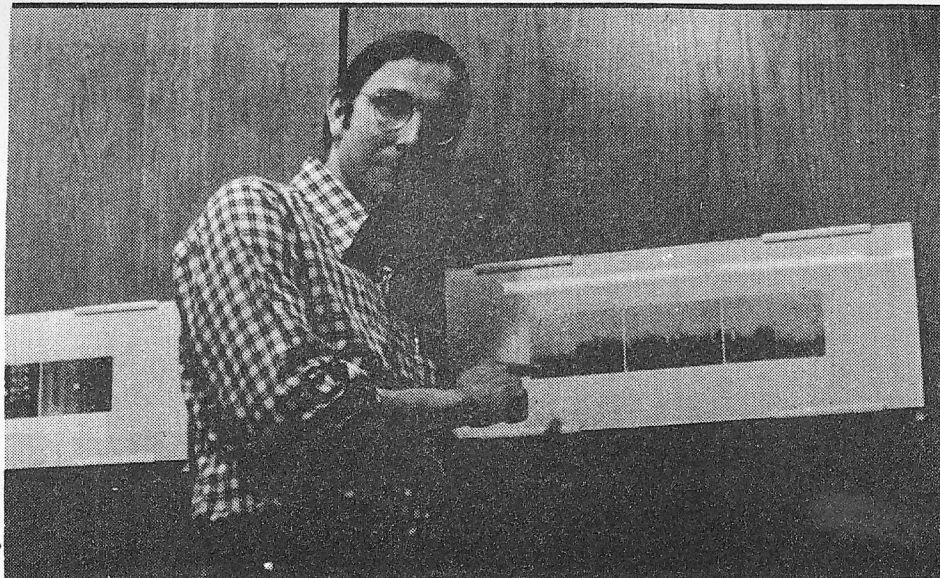

Southwestern scored almost immediately after the opening kickoff. Winger Dave Ekstroll received a through pass from Taylor Phillips and his shot to the rear corner caught the goalkeeper out of position. At the half, the Lynx led 1-0.

The Internationals tied the score in the second half when the ball dribbled underneath goalkeeper Shane O'Neill. Southwestern came back only minutes later. Ekstroll took a corner kick that beat the goalkeeper and bounced along the goal line, and Philips' push shot squirted between a defender and the far side post. The Lynxcats began to run out of gas late in the second half, however, and the Internationals tied it up again, this time for good, with a beautiful shot into the upper right corner.

Southwestern will meet the Butterflies here this Sunday. The Butterflies battled to a tie and lost a forward against CBC last week.

Dean Williford has asked the varsity football and basketball teams and the Alumni Executive Committee to select representatives to a Search Committee for an Athletic Director.

Coaches Controversy

E. courses, it was pointed out that P. E. offerings had tripled in the past year.

In the wake of several hostile articles in the city newspapers and an afternoon-long meeting with concerned students, President Daughdrill met these and other criticisms in a letter to the Southwestern Trustees concerning the changes. (A limited number of copies of the five-page statement are available in the President's Office.) Daughdrill cited the worst problem as being a "we-they gap between the Athletic Department and the rest of the campus that, if continued, would erode confidence in our athletic program." He felt that because of this, "many varsity athletes feel apologetic and defensive about being athletes." Daughdrill went on to say that this feeling has been increased, not diminished, by the present staff. In an interview last Wednesday, Daughdrill summed things up by saying that "a large part of the problem was that we couldn't get them (the coaches) to see what the problem was."

Critics pointed out that it would be difficult to replace the coaches with the salaries at the level they are now, and that now is a particularly difficult time for football coaches to find employment (they are usually hired in January).

Daughdrill states that he was unaware of the "hiring cycle" for football coaches and that Dean Williford did not learn until after the fact that January was the time for football coaches to seek employment. The administration plans to extend the football coaches' salary beyond their July 1st termination date, if needed to allow them time to seek other employment.

Daughdrill added that he had already received requests for information from interested applicants, and that the challenge of the position will hopefully draw dedicated personnel.

Lynx End 11 Win Season

by Pat Wade

Southwestern's Lynxcats brought their season to an end last week by splitting two contests. The Cats' record ends up at 11-14 in a moderately successful season, up from last year's 8-15 mark.

On Thursday the 26th, in the wake of the firing of Coach Duckworth, the players dedicated the game to him and came out on top of Union 72-68. The victory ended a four game losing streak for the Lynx.

The fired up Cats roared out to a 43-31 halftime lead, but Union came back in the second half and pulled ahead. The Cats regained the lead and held off several late Union rallies to claim victory.

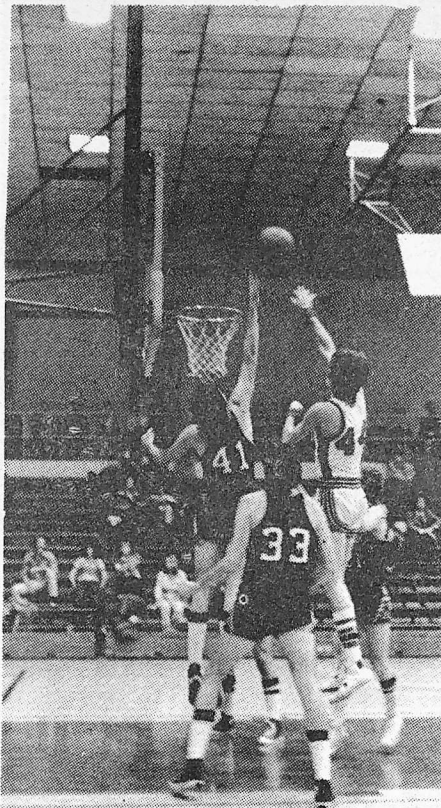

The Lynxcats' two seniors, Steve Dreher and Dan Anderson, led the way. Dreher got a game high 20 points before fouling out while Anderson scored 17 points and hauled down a game high 12 rebounds. Mark Carroll and Greg Fields got 16 and 12 respectively from the outside. Willie Hulon added 6 points and 10 rebounds. The Cats shot 48% from the field to 39% for Union. The Cats won the game at the charity stripe connecting on 14 of 17, while Union hit 6 of 8.

Last Saturday, the Cats played their final game of the season at Centre in a C.A.C. battle. The Cats showed signs of life but they were too few in number. Centre built up a 42-31 halftime lead, but in the second half the Cats battled back to within four points at 48-44. Centre quenched the rally with a seven point spurt and held on to win 87-78.

The big thorn in the Cats' side was Centre's Tony York who scored 26 points and pulled down 17 rebounds, both game highs. The Cats had a chance to keep in the game but shot miserably at the foul line, hitting only 6 of 16, with the normally accurate Dan Anderson connecting on only 3 of 10. Centre, on the other hand, hit 19 of 27 from the foul line, a difference of 13 points. The Cats hit two more field goals than Centre and both teams shot 46% from the field, 36 of 78 for the Lynx to Centre's 34 of 74.

Greg Fields led the Lynx with 19 while Anderson scored 15 points and got 9 rebounds. Mark Carroll got 13, while Richard Carter came off the bench to score 10 points and pull down 8 rebounds. David McWilliams got 7, Steve Dreher 6, and 4 apiece for Willie Hulon and Smitty Charlton.

Previously, the Cats had beaten Centre easily at home 79-68. The Cats finished at 2-6 in the C.A.C. and 11-14 overall.
