GIRLS STEAL IDEA FROM BOYS TO GIVE CURLING IRON BANQUET

Last Monday night the Curling Iron Banquet (a direct steal from the Gridiron Banquet) was held in the dining hall, which takes an awful beating. The embroglio, which incidentally is a very good word, was sponsored by the Y.W.C.A. and tickets were retailed at a small fortune by means of high pressure salesmanship and under unfair business practices. Dr. Amacker, please note.

Margaret Kyle was the gal who was elected to shine as toastmistress. This selection might be compared with Ralph Brown, who was the men's torture master. Who said comparisons were odious? Who said anything? Certainly nobody at the Curling Iron Banquet. The brisk little battle officially got under way after a meal in which, according to one charming coed whose name is being withheld for a price, "the food was very good—for a change."

Dorothy Steuwer (God save the queen!) arose first and made a very amusing discourse which kept the gals in stitches, and we mean literally. The kernel in this nutty morsel was that Edith Kelso was nominated for "Mamie Moran." Someone put up Frances Gladding, but the honor was conferred upon Edith after serious deliberation. But this was only the beginning, for Jo! Anne Potts, the social democrat, condescended to enter into the spirit of the merry little affair and nominated for the "Snakiest Snake," guess who, Rose Lynn Barnard. There was no competition here as everyone agreed that she was a professional, but there were a few who silently disagreed with the decision. These few, however, were the ones who don't yet know that fish can swim or that water runs downstream.

For "Haggiest Hag" Elizabeth Cobb entered Linda Catherine Terry who came, of course, looking the part. This was a unanimous decision, which should make Linda very happy, but will cause no surprise in masculine circles. Jane Bray's chances for acquiring this coveted crown were destroyed when someone pointed out that the only reason the choir failed to make a trip to the Mardi Gras was that a picture of the choir was sent to

New Orleans and that Jane was on the front row.

Next, "Nellie the Nert" entered the field in the form of Steuwer. She was wonderfully aided by Margaret Jones, who made a very funny speech none of which we were able to find out, and which should not worry you. Anybody who is dumb enough to turn a boat over at an "S" Club picnic certainly deserves the title. But anyone who gives a repeat performance of this feat within a week at Maywood is all wet. Carol Krausnick never had a chance to win, in spite of promises of all the beer that their little tummies would hold.

Virginia Mangum then nominated for "Archaic Antiquity" and declared that any Southwestern coed who could blush certainly deserved the title, which is an axiom. Anyway, her candidate was Dorothy Miller, and the poor girl blushed so that her face looked more like a beet than ever. Bernadine Taylor quite appropriately was an also-ran.

By this time yawns were very evident, and private gossip groups were being organized to relieve the tedium. But before the thing came to a merciful end, Pete Moore nominated Anne Spence for "Twimbly Twirk" or "Twinkly Twerp" or something, was in turn nominated herself, and swept into office in a landslide. She got so many votes the Republicans are considering her for 1940.

Sometime or other during the evening the Chi Omegas gave a skit, "The Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter", in which Sara Boothe was the heroine, Anne Rose Wallace the hero, and Adair Tate the lighthouse. Other events on the program were songs by the Kappa Delta trio, Jean Abel, Elizabeth Day, and Mary Louise West, and two solos by Georgianna Awsumb. And that's all the reporting that I have on the Curling Iron Banquet.

Now, if you don't like this feature, you look me up, because I don't like it, either, and maybe we'll get to be real good friends. As it is now, I only have one friend and I hate him because his name is Louie and he told me to write this article. This was no job for a man, and I am a man. I can prove it.

Ricker Wins Award Of Miller-Hawkins

Scholarship To Business College Given Annually To Senior From Southwestern

John Ricker, a senior, has been awarded the business scholarship offered annually by Miller-Hawkins Business College, it was announced yesterday by the Southwestern Faculty Committee on Scholarships. Ricker will take a secretarial course including such subjects as typing, shorthand, and spelling.

Ricker is past president of Sigma Nu, Panhellenic representative, and secretary of the Dance Committee. He was a member of the debating team in his sophomore year, and also during his second year at Southwestern was a sports writer for the Sou'wester.

Ricker is the first male student to get the award in several years. Last year the award was given to Miss Virginia Hoshall. Miss Hoshall later became a member of the staff of a Tupelo, Miss. hospital and was unable to accept the scholarship. The scholarship was then given to Miss Nancy Warden, who is now studying at Miller-Hawkins.

Members of the Faculty Committee on Scholarships are Professors R. C. Hon, R. L. MacQueen, R. S. Pond, and P. N. Rhodes.

Band Marches In Parade

The Southwestern Band marched in the Cotton Carnival floral parade Thursday morning at 11. They will also play during the Grand Mummies' parade which will be the closing event of the Carnival.

A new feature this year on the Commencement program will be the performance of the college choir. Prof. Tutill announces that in conjunction with the band the choir will sing the professional "God of Our Fathers" and Hadyn's "The Heavens Are Telling" at the final graduation exercises, Tuesday morning, June 7.

Evergreen Hall Has Picnic

Only Girls Allowed On Outdoor Party Held Last Wednesday

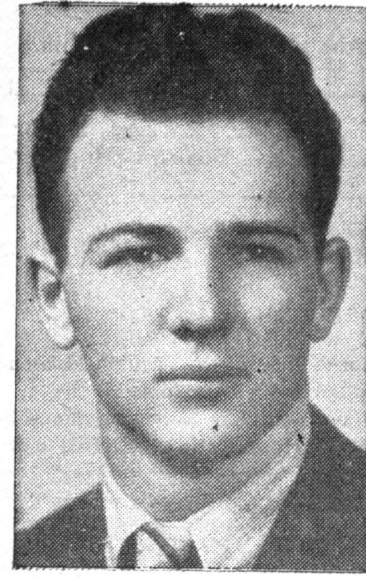

Evergreen Hall gave a picnic last Wednesday. Only those girls who live in the girls' dormitory were allowed to go. They all adjourned to the picnic grounds in Overton Park about five o'clock to enjoy a private party.

The high spot of the afternoon was a softball game. It is rumored that Meredith Moorhead starred in this game. She actually caught the ball once.

Mrs. Rutner acted as chaperon for the party. And only girls attended.

Kelly Made Head Of Service Club

Mayton and Griesbeck Elected Other Officers; Woolsey Made New Member

Billy Kelly, Wallace Mayton, and George Griesbeck were elected officers of the Southwestern Service Club for the coming year last Friday in the Bell Room of Neely Hall. Kelly was chosen president, Mayton is the new vice president, and Griesbeck is the secretary-treasurer. John Woolsey was selected as the representative of the non-fraternity group.

Kelly is former president of the Honor Council, a member of the Publications Board, and a member of Kappa Sigma, social fraternity. Mayton, a junior, is a member of the Christian Union Cabinet, vice president of the Bible Class, and a member of Alpha Tau Omega. Griesbeck, a junior, is president of Kappa Alpha, social fraternity, member of the band, and member of the Panhellenic Council. He is the retiring president of the Service Club.

The Service Club is organized to aid incoming freshmen, to act as hosts to visiting college teams and guests of the college, and to act as ushers at athletic contests. Members of the club are Sam Hill, Cecil New, George Humphrey, John McGrady, Waddy West, Herbert Bingham, Bruce Crill, Harold Falls, Levon Self, Billy Davidson, William Worthington, Steve Frazier and Al Wunderlich.

Some Students Join In Carnival Gaiety

Several members of the Southwestern student body are at present participating in the Carnival. Led by the famous perennial prince, Hubert Turley, the students have almost taken over the carnival court. Turley has been a prince for three straight years now but he never has the same princess—guess he can take it. Among the princesses are Elise Smithwick (and her prince is none other than Jac Ruffin) her sidekick, Ki Farnsworth, Annie Rose Wallace, and lots of ex-Southwesternites such as Ann Maury, and Virginia Morrow.

For the princes besides Turley we have Billy Murrah, Bill Reid, Waddy West, Judson McKellar, and the aforementioned Jac Ruffin. Lewis Graeber and Charles Taylor represent the alumni in the South's greatest party.

According to reports the boys and girls are having a big time but there has been nothing to equal last year's combine of Archer and Leatherman. The rest of the student body got their chance yesterday when the ball for the out-of-town princesses was held. It seems that each princess was given a ticket to the Peabody for that night and told to find her own date. The boys attended (practically in a body) when this rumor got about.

Congratulations

Congratulations are again in order, this time for the S club for planning such a fine day. Everyone is already looking forward to the next one.

Everybody Vote

The vote in the election for president of the student body was almost four hundred. This shows a remarkable revival of interest on the part of the students. However, even this record does not include every one in the college. Actually it is possible and certainly desirable that every student should vote. The aim of the elections commission should be a hundred per cent vote. Every student should be sure to take advantage of his privilege of the polls.

Delayed Rushing

We urged in a recent editorial that the Panhellenic council adopt a plan of delayed rushing. Now is the time to do something about this idea. It seems that many of the students favor the plan and their views should be given an airing in the meeting to formulate the rules for next year. The council must decide this matter soon if they are to give it fair consideration. Below is a reprint of our editorial advocating the idea. In fairness to the other side we are running a letter attacking the new plan in this issue.

New Rushing System Needed

The system of rushing on the Southwestern campus is well-organized and efficient. The rushing is quickly finished and students can get down to work. All this is fine but—this hurry makes for many mistakes by freshmen and by fraternities. It would seem that to become thoroughly acquainted with Southwestern, its students and its fraternities, is a difficult job to perform in one week, and that is a week of silence. This system causes some freshmen to pledge fraternities with which they find themselves totally uncongenial. It causes fraternities to pass on and pledge men who are really not suitable for their specific groups. Thus, fraternities are not groups of friends banded together for the pleasures of comradeship, but social clubs containing a weird assortment of members. Perhaps a successful change would be to defer the rushing week until the end of the first report period or even the first semester. Then scholastic requirements could be adopted which must be attained before any freshmen can pledge. This would enable those who find it difficult to become acclimated to college work, to avoid fraternity diversion which might hinder their adjustment. This would mean that every member of a fraternity and every prospective pledge would have sufficient opportunity to become acquainted. Pledging could be put on a real selective basis. This new system would require certain regulation. The rush week could be conducted as usual. But in the period intervening before rushing no actual entertaining—by expenditure of money or parties given by alumni—of prospective pledges would be permitted. However, it would be perfectly legitimate to talk to freshmen or to go places with them.

This would cement the freshman class into a unit not divided by fraternity ties. It would enable them to become really certain of which fraternity they preferred. It would assure the fraternities an equal chance at all men and enable them to adopt a policy of seeking real brothers, not mere pledges.

Lynx Chat

Glimpsed at the PIKA—

Elizabeth Bigger covered with gardenias and getting a big rush. . . . Jack Ferris up from Millsaps, greeting all his old friends. . . . Martha Ann and P. S. waltzing off with the prize in the waltz contest. Gabbard getting ready for the Derby in the "old Kentucky Way". . . . Mary and Charlie breezing in for a few minutes. Levon and date Harriette met the crowd with broad smiles which broadened as the evening went on. . . . P. S. Weaver and Martha Ann walked off with the honors in the waltz contest, but Jack Pilkington and Lulu really looked good. . . . Wonder why Sam Hill and Stella were so late? . . . Gabbard getting ready for the Derby in the "Old Kentucky" way. . . . Ruth Lee looking her sweetest for date Pouncey who really seemed to be enjoying the dance—and Ruth. . . . Ralph Brown coming out with his best girl and really showing her a good time.

S Club—

Rosa and W. C. sitting out the entire dance. Must be true love. . . . Jo M. seems to have caught Charlie Perry at last. It just shows what you can do if you try. The holiday gave Henry Boothe a chance to do a 'little courtin' on the side with Mary Margaret Wilson. . . . Eugene Keller and Virginia Ann Ragsdale made a full day of it, too. . . . Not watching the events but taking advantage of their leisure time were Carolyn Carroll and Henri Watson in the shade of the red oak tree. . . . Dr. "History" Davis caused quite a thrill among the girls watching the volley ball game, especially Georgianna Awsumb. . . . On to the dance where the crowning of Nellie the Nert Steuwer started things going. . . . Tommy Oskada was certainly trying to live up to his perfect lover title by giving all the girls a big rush (how about that, Marjorie?). . . . Kite Morton and his newest flame, Jean Venn, really enjoying themselves in the grand march. . . . We saw the queen and her tall, dark and handsome leaving about thirty minutes early—wonder why? . . . An orchid to Tudor for some really swell music and by the way, we saw a couple of the aforementioned flowers on Nancy Millen's shoulder, but we couldn't discover the sender (or sucker).

Here and There—

That beaming face of Rose Lynn's is due to the fact that Erskine has asked her to receive at the ATO spring formal. Why, oh why, didn't Lauren write sooner? . . . We have to hand it to Virginia Waggener—we didn't think anybody but Bernadine could get a date with Warren. . . . Hartwell Morton must be slipping—he had to beg a certain Tri-Delt half an hour before she would give him a date for the S Club steak fry. . . . What is this strange power of Howard McKensie's? First Betsy and now his S Club date think he's "just wonderful". . . . Latest report on the Gabbard, Yerger, Fowler, Hollinger rectangle: Fowler is ahead with two dates, but Hollinger seems to be steadily gaining ground. . . . We forgot about Dr. History Davis who, refused by Miss Rettger, went off to swing it with 3 other ladies instead.

AN IDEA FOR SOUTHWESTERN

One of the most unique colleges in the U. S.—an institution that has never had an endowment—will celebrate the 50th anniversary of its founding this year. The College of Puget Sound has never had outside support, and has passed through the last eight years with its income always exceeding its expenditures. It has 600 students, four buildings and a 40-acre campus.

Letter to the Editor

I have been asked to set down a few negative arguments concerning delayed fraternity rushing at Southwestern. I take delayed rushing to mean that the whole first semester of the college year would be considered closed season on rushing. Should delayed rushing mean a quiet season for a month or six weeks period, the arguments which I shall advance will not be applicable in toto.

To begin with, the problems of enforcing a quiet season for a whole semester completely preclude the feasibility of such a proposal. To offer arguments to support such an observation seem almost facetious, but one thought may not be amiss. We have only to look at the difficulties which the sororities have in the enforcement of their rule that the summer season is closed. These difficulties prevail even though the girls are not on the campus, and do not have the opportunity of everyday school contact. I am assuming that during a closed season fraternity men would not be allowed to have private conversation with freshmen. If upperclassmen were not prohibited from association with freshmen, we are certainly safe in saying that violations would be the rule, not the exception.

Let's use an old proverb. "Birds of a feather flock together". There would be a perfectly natural tendency for large groups of freshmen to form in cliques before the end of the quiet season. These groups most probably would not wish to break up when the time came to join a fraternity. Consequently, we would have fraternities taking in large groups of men of similar tastes, qualities, and interests. We would have one fraternity composed of athletes, one of "tea hounds", another of some other particular type of men, instead of fraternities composed of diversified types of men. The case is admittedly an extreme one, but the secular trend would lead to just such a situation.

It is my belief that our present system is not the ideal one, but the protagonists of delayed rushing should seek a more desirable substitute than a season closed for a whole semester.

Perhaps a two-week rushing program, beginning with the opening of school—perhaps an extension of the closed season from one, as we currently have, to a two or three week period, but the Saints preserve the Panhellenic Council and the spirit of friendliness which we now have in our "happy family" if we try to silence our fraternity "hot-boxers" for five long months. Think also of our pocket-books and our seniority privileges. We would not only be allowing freshmen to walk in the side door of Palmer and sit on the grass; we would have seniors directing them to the greenest and coolest spots.

Sincerely,
STEVE FRAZIER.

Book Review

Pepita, by Victoria Sackville-West.

The fascinating story of the author's grandmother, Pepita, composes the first section of this family memoir. Pepita, a beautiful Spanish dancer, was mistress of Sir Lionel Sackville-West, English diplomat, and the almost incredible tale of her life, painted in colorful prose, provides delightful reading. In the second part, the mother of the writer is the subject about whom the daughter affectionately but rather candidly writes. This Lady Sackville-West, incidentally, was once said by Kipling to be the most wonderful person he had ever met.

Atoms, Men, and Stars, by Rogers Rusk.

The layman of today, reading only snatches of science here and there, is apt to have only a hazy and confused idea of the tremendous advances occurring in this great realm. He hears talk of heavy water, Einstein's relativity, cosmic rays, and countless other rather forbidding phrases; but he is unable to so arrange them as to see clearly the startling new conceptions of matter, life, and motion. However, Dr. Rusk solves this problem delightfully by placing before us a broad but simple survey of the latest developments in physical science. While writing simply and interestingly, he has avoided the mistake of trying to oversimplify, so that his data remains strictly reliable.

The River, by Pare Lorentz.

The much talked of motion picture of some month's back has now been put in book form, still retaining its thrill and its drama. To the magnificent pictures which compose most of the book is added a text, political in form and dynamic in effect. The Mississippi and its effect on the entire nation is portrayed in all its tragedy. This mighty stream, the basis of our country, has great economic significance about which every well educated person should know. For this reason we recommend the book to all.

Praises of Covington Are Adequately Sung By Gordon Bachemin

About 20 miles from New Orleans, Louisiana, is the gay little village of Covington. This charming place with a population of nearly 3,000 carefree Creoles is connected with New Orleans by the Watson Williams automobile bridge, which until quite recently was the longest automobile bridge in the world.

Gordon Bachemin says that it is very hard to describe this place adequately. Rows of palm trees flanking its numerous paved streets, and cool breezes from Lake Ponchartrain make Covington a delightful town. There are no industries located there for the town is mainly a summer resort for the people of New Orleans. There is an immense gambling hall in Covington which is run by politicians of the neighboring metropolis. One of the best eighteen-hole golf courses in southern Louisiana furnishes the townspeople with additional recreation.

According to Mr. Bachemin, there is no place in the world like Covington.

Mr. John B. Ferguson To Attend Commencement Exercises Will Receive Gift

John B. Ferguson, of Clarksville, the oldest living graduate of Southwestern, who received his B.A. degree back in 1877, is coming to Memphis June 5, 6 and 7 to attend the 63rd Commencement exercises of the college.

Mr. Ferguson, now in his eighty-eighth year, will be the house guest of his nephew, Dr. Robin F. Mason, and Mrs. Mason, 1801 Vinton. Mr. Ferguson will be presented with a walking cane by the Southwestern chapter of the Omicron Delta Kappa fraternity during his visit here.

In his letter of acceptance received at Southwestern yesterday, Mr. Ferguson stated:

"This courtesy touches me deeply and I will surely come unless providentially prevented. To receive a walking cane presented by the Southwestern chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa is an honor any man should be proud to receive. Accordingly, I shall gratefully accept it."

Mr. Ferguson graduated from Southwestern when the college was located at Clarksville. After completing his work at Southwestern, Mr. Ferguson taught school for seven years and then took up farming near Clarksville, where he has been residing for the past 57 years. He has visited in Memphis many times and has had the pleasure of many hours on the campus at Southwestern. Mr. Ferguson recalls that Dr. J. R. Wilson, father of the late Woodrow Wilson, taught theology at Southwestern, many years ago, and very often spoke of his son Woodrow who later became President of the United States.

That Thing Called Swing
Billboard, entertainment weekly, comes up with an interesting, if not accurate survey of collegiate opinion about that thing called "swing." The Billboard researchers queried some 55 college editors throughout the nation as to their opinions concerning favorite campus bands, trends in music preferences, etc., then dished out facts 'n' figures citing Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey 'n' Hal Kemp as the three favorites in that order and swing as still tops, though on the wane. Although we don't doubt the overwhelming campus popularity of the three maestros mentioned, we hesitate to take as final the preferences of 55 individuals as an accurate sampling of collegiate opinion. To indicate a few fallacies in the Billboard survey—Larry Clinton, who is a new name in band ranks and who has played but few proms—never at a hotel, night spot or theatre for an extended engagement—rated mention, while old favorites like Fred Waring, Duke Ellington and Jan Garber never were named. Yet, on a national scale, the latter three are much better known and far more popular than Clinton. Only one university in Washington was used to test the opinion of West Coast collegians. While on the subject of swing, Dr. Donald Laird, director of the Colgate Psychological Laboratory, comes out with the theory that the legendary Pied Piper of Hamelin was the Benny Goodman of his day. Dr. Laird claims that swing increases the tempo of the heart beat above the normal 72 beats, and that the Pied Piper must have done just that to enchant first the rats then the children of Hamelin.

...Dick Wright
Dick Wright, Santa Ana Junior College student, has collected a dictionary of swing slang. Here are a few that you may not heard of: "The cats" are the players in a good swing band and when they hold a "jam session" it isn't a raid on the ice box, but a get-together of swing men who play together for the fun of it. "Mugging heavy" isn't a new love term around college, but it is a musical term meaning playing soft swing music with a heavy beat. When the lads have a "setting in" they are just playing in a band of which they are not a member. Fifteen years ago it would have been known as straight jazz; today the same music is called "corny".

Other popular terms among these men are "skinbeater" drummer; "suitcase", drums; "long hair", symphony player; "gobblepipe", saxophone; "doghouse", bass violin; "moth box", piano; "iron horn", cornet "grunt horn", tuba; and "agony pipe", clarinet.

Dance To Be Held For Lynx Alumni

Annual Affair Will Take Place On Monday Night, June 6, In the Gymnasium

The annual alumni dance of Southwestern will be held on Monday night, June 6, in the gymnasium, with around 500 alumni expected to be in attendance.

Alumni from everywhere are invited to be here for the dance, for it promises to be one of the happiest occasions of the Commencement season.

William Armstrong, '28-'30, is chairman of the floor committee, and will choose several helpers who will aid him in making plans for the dance, to guarantee that it goes over in a big way.

The admission will be $1 per couple, and stags also will pay one dollar.

The gymnasium at Southwestern will be decorated in the school colors of red and black, and everything will be done to make the occasion one long to be remembered by alumni who will be here to attend the Commencement exercises.

The dance will begin at 9:30 o'clock, and will be concluded at 1.

Prof. Boeker Talks On Tragedy Of War In Defeated Germany

Tuesday noon in Room 208, Prof. Alexander Boeker gave a one-hour talk on Post-War Germany, continuing his series of lectures on world affairs. The talk was partly autobiographical as Prof. Boeker brought in his childhood impressions of the war. "In fact," he said, "it is very hard for me to distinguish what I really heard and saw, from what I have learned since." Prof. Boeker recalls being put to bed as a child with his clothes and shoes laid ready beside his bed in case of one of the air-raids, which occurred about four or five times a month. One of his most vivid impressions was his parents' distress when the house of one of their best friends was bombed. To him, who as a child saw none of the tragedy, the air-raids were thrilling, and the deprivations which he and his family had to undergo contained the elements of excitement and adventure.

The food problem was one of the greatest to the German citizens during the war. With no meat at all, the populace was fed on artificial food products and on bread, which had to be carefully metered out. This condition continued even after the Armistice because of the blockade which the British imposed for no apparent reason.

When the troops had returned home and demobilization took place, other problems arose. Two and a half million men had to be assimilated into the poverty-stricken and jobless population. They settled mainly in the cities on the western coast and their instability and idleness together with the depression of the national spirit, contributed greatly to the political ferment.

STERLING YOUNG

At the University of Kentucky, they're having a "clean-up-the-campus" contest. There is a weekly selection of the best slogan and a prize of $5. The winner last week was "Grass Closed for Repairs. Detour on Sidewalk". Another killer was "Don't be a McCarthy. There are others to mow it down".

Three presidents elected in one year and still no president in office is the unique record of the University of Minnesota's Rangers Club. Elections have been held each quarter since last spring, and each time the new president failed to return to classes for the quarter that he was supposed to head the organization.

Claridge Opens Roof With New Orchestra

Sterling Young and his orchestra opened a three week engagement last Wednesday on the new Starlight Roof Garden atop Hotel Claridge.

Sterling is coming to Memphis directly from the popular Stevens Hotel in Chicago. Although little known in the South he has won the plaudits of dancers on the West Coast since his band was organized in 1935. Before organizing his own orchestra Sterling was the featured violinist with Ted Fio Rito.

With him are two vocalists, Charming Bobby Ennis who hails from Hattiesburg, Mississippi, and Gil Dagenais from Chicago.

A new feature of the Claridge this summer is luncheon music daily from twelve-thirty to two every day in the air-conditioned Twentieth Century Room, excepting Sunday and Monday.

Lynx Trackmen To Close Season In Carnival Meet

Turner To Race Don Lash, Cunningham and Romani

TEAM IS UNDEFEATED

Winfrey, Smith, Turner And Nettles Lead Attack

Southwestern's track team, undefeated in two years, completes its 1938 season tonight at Crump Stadium in the Cotton Carnival meet. Coach Chicken High has entered 19 men in tonight's meet in an effort to bring the team trophy to Southwestern for the second year in succession. The Lynx nosed out the University of Indiana Hoosiers by one point last year.

Gaylon Smith, Henry Turner, Orley Nettles, and Captain Will Rhea Winfrey are expected to lead the Southwestern forces. Smith will compete in the 100-yard dash, pole vault, discus, and shotput; Turner, the mile, half-mile, and two-mile; Nettles, the javelin, discus, and high jump; Winfrey, the shotput and discus.

The Lynxmen will be facing some of the best trackmen in the country. Turner in particular will be facing strong competition. He will go up against such stars as Glenn Cunningham, Don Lash, Archie San Romani, Ray Sears, and Ed Rogan in the feature event of the meet, the E. H. Crump mile.

Sidelines

By THOMAS PAPPAS
FLYING HIGH — Coach Chicken High is flying high. The little tanned fellow with the serious look on his face, has come up with two undefeated track teams, his Tech High and Southwestern squads.

For years we heard of Chicken High as a football, basketball, and track hero, and now it looks as though he's going to come to the fore as a famous coach. For when a coach can bring both a high school and a college team through undefeated seasons, then it's time the folks took notice. And when his college team goes through two years without a defeat in dual competition, well, the fellow must have something on the ball. Who knows, we may have another Dean Cromwell or Lawson Robertson right here on our campus.

HOSS SASSER—This Jimmy Sasser guy seems to be living up to his nickname of "Hoss". Two weeks ago, Hoss beat McKay Boswell in the 220-yard dash at Sewanee to mark the first time Boswell has been beaten in that event by a teammate in several seasons. Then last Saturday, in the triangular meet with Ole Miss and Millsaps, Hoss repeated his triumph over Boswell and ran so darn fast he tied the Southwestern record for the event, 22.5 seconds. So it would seem Hoss Sasser is appropriately christened.

CARNIVAL MEET — We suppose you've heard there's going to be a big track meet at Crump Stadium tonight. Well, your very own Southwestern track team is going to be there in the midst of it all, and it would certainly help if the student body as a whole was there to cheer them on. A little concerted cheering would help to destroy those rumors of no student body spirit.

Lynx Raquetmen Meet Ole Miss Here Tomorrow

Lynx Defeat Miss. College On "S" Club Day, 5-2

WHITE WILL PLAY NO. 1

T. I. A. A. Matches To Be On May 20-21

Boasting three consecutive victories, Southwestern's improving tennis team meets the Ole Miss netmen on the Lynx courts tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Lynx have never lost a match to the Mississippians, and off the improved play of Captain Macon Smith and the steady performance of Tom White and Charles Floyd tomorrow's meet should see the Lynx record remain intact.

White will again occupy the number one slot for the Lynx with Smith at number two, Floyd at number three, and Billy Murrah at number four. Captain Smith topped Floyd from the number two spot this week. Waddy West and George Futris, other two members of the team, will compete if six singles and three doubles matches are played, as planned.

Thursday, the Sewanee Tigers, led by Alex Guerry, one of the better tennisers in the state, will arrive to meet Southwestern here. The Lynx were scheduled to play the Tigers on the recent tour through Middle Tennessee but were rained out.

Friday, the Tennessee Intercollegiate Athletic Association tennis tourney will get under way on the Southwestern courts and will continue through Saturday. The Lynx are defending champions.

Lynx Golf Team Leaves On Trip

To Meet Washington University; Gain Revenge On Ole Miss In Match Saturday

This is the first trip of the year for the golfers but other prospective matches with Louisiana State University and the University of Alabama may take them to Baton Rouge and Tuscaloosa. The Lynx are scheduled for a match with the Louisiana State Tigers on Monday, May 16.

Last Saturday, the team got revenge on the Ole Miss golfers by trouncing the Red and Blue color bearers 14 1/2 to 3 1/2 at Galloway Park. The Rebels defeated the Lynx, 16 to 2, two weeks ago in Oxford, Miss.
