Fraternities and Scholarship

The argument that fraternities and sororities take an over-amount of students' time and hinder their scholastic progress is used in many colleges as grounds for not permitting them to organize on those campuses. The same argument might well be applied to Southwestern although our scholastic standing as a whole is reasonably high.

According to figures compiled in the registrar's office, the highest fraternity group average is only 2.09, while the lowest is 1.86, barely within college limits. Perhaps the low requirement for initiation—four D's and a C—is to blame for the general low standard of scholarship among the fraternities. Among the sororities, the condition is somewhat better since the individual groups have set higher standards for entrance.

We know that you are saying that fraternities are not study clubs, but merely social groups. This may be true, but it cannot sensibly be used to refute our contention. A scholastic failure never contributes to the welfare of his fraternity in the end, despite the few much-cited examples. For their own benefit, fraternities should regard a higher scholastic requirement as a protection against undesirables, rather than a restriction.

Again, as last year, we suggest that some individual fraternity start the movement by raising its own standard and that the Panhellenic Councils consider the question.

How About a Band Trip?

Again we come to the subject of the band. Now that the first thrill of the new uniform has worn off, it is timely to consider the band from the standpoint of the members. Now well equipped and generally of high standard the band is handicapped by lack of members.

Too often the presence of the band is taken for granted. It is regarded as a fixture. At football games, parades, pep meetings, concerts, civic functions, track meets, and so on and on, the band is always present. The inconveniences that these appearances, as well as the regular practices, may work on the individual members is never considered, and the feeling of school loyalty, the pure love of music, or even the new uniform, can hardly counterbalance.

There is little in the present band set-up to attract or hold members, either by way of credit or compensation. One credit hour per semester to be substituted for the required physical education credit is the only concrete thing offered. In addition, the band members are usually given one trip to play at an out-of-town game. This year not even this has been definitely arranged.

We select the band as the Unappreciated-Group-of-the-Month and recommend that some plan be made to reinforce the dubious theory that "loyalty to the band is its own reward."

- Suppose you were dining at the Waldorf-Astoria—well, we know you aren't and haven't ever been, but just suppose you were—and when the head waiter presented you with the bill, you thought it $2.00 too much. What would you do? (a) pay and consider it a tip; (b) pay and take enough silverware to make up the difference; (c) pay without bothering to figure it out; (d) call the manager and get thrown out?
- If you were with a woman and approaching a revolving door, would you (a) go ahead of her and start things going; (b) wait for her to enter; (c) catch her by the arm and gaily shove you both into a 10-inch section?
- You are in the class room and the professor asks you to remove your gum. Do you (a) blush, like Elize Smithwick, and do so; (b) chew right ahead while glaring him in the eye; (c) wrap gum neatly and put it on his desk after class?
- If you were in the barber's chair having a hair cut and suddenly changed your mind, would you (a)

- jump down and risk being severed from ear to ear; (b) sit quietly and broach the subject to barber calmly; (c) shout "Hold everything!"
  - On a Pullman, at 11 P.M., you awake to find a hand groping around in your compartment. Would you (a) scream for porter; (b) shake the hand using fraternity grip; (c) turn over and go to sleep?
  - Is it permissible for a spinster to go to a bachelor's apartment to inspect his woodcarvings?
  - Should a young married woman remove her gloves while making a call?
  - Should a young man ever take his date to a possibly embarrassing show?
- Answers:
- (d)
  - (c)
  - (a), if you are Elize Smithwick in history class.
  - I dunno.
  - Charge it up to experience.
  - If both are over 70, blind, and toothless.
  - No, she might have dishpan hands.
  - Mother says no.

Awake betimes in my pent house apartment with the shouts of pandemonium ringing in my ears. What a busy week we have in store for us . . . Picnics, dances, steak-frys, and hayrides.

Friday was the first college club night and most of Southwestern appeared, being as it was two-for-one-night. Giving the freshettes a thrill were some of our dormitory flashes, Graeber, Tom Mobley, Henri Watson, and Alec Cortner (better watch out, Tutt, because, well—you ask him). When Mott didn't appear after the first intermission, P. S. was in such a state that Ruffin and Smithwick had a hard time cheering him up . . . "Tea-hound" England, of course, was there. He hasn't missed a dance yet. . . . Droop and Dub trying to work up a case . . . As for Saturday classes. . . . At the Zeta Dance:—Mr. "Strong and Silent Type" there with dilated eyes and everything rushing Paula Harris, who incidentally, wins the nomination for Miss Popularity as far as the stag line goes. . . . Irma Hill was escorted by Williams of the black curly hair and the gridiron, and, if we may say so, many a heart beat faster . . . "Greek" Steuwer saved the day with an orchid; remember the Commercial? . . . Lillie Roberts with hair on head and "Dub" was giving everyone the "glad to see you" look. . . . Bennie Joyner dangling a red balloon in each prospective stag's face. . . . Irene Rhea "trucking on down" with many a handsome young "ed". . . . Dorothy Gregory attracted attention and enjoyed it. . . . Nena Williams seen dancing with Clifford Cast. . . . Billy Smith escorting President Elizabeth Nesbitt of the pledge group. . . . Kate Weaver flashing her personality to advantage and its results showing on the face of Herman Crowder. . . . Kate Parker in one of those "Don't breathe" dresses, there's no strap insurance. . . .

Being as there weren't no game or "S" Club dance we must dig our dirt from who's seen with who on campus . . . Ardeanne Heiskell, as usual, looking for George Scott and keeping his attention when she finds him . . . Dorothy Stacy enjoys the sciences due to the influence of a certain Mr. Simpson . . . Elizabeth Greer and Bob Watts, always together and never apart . . . ditto Virginia Ragsdale and Bob Siedentoff . . . Walker Sandlin and Dorothy McGehee; it all started on the Palmer terrace because they were early arrivals. . . .

Dots and Dashes . . . Bland Cannon has gone highbrow on us . . . We wish that he would give more of his valuable time to a few of the Southwestern coeds or at least act like he knows they are here . . . Waggener and Prewitt rushing in class fifteen minutes late blushing claiming they didn't hear the bell . . . My! My! . . . Toni screaming special from???? . . . Jean Reeves holding J. Sarafian's hand, thinking it was somebody else. Oh yeah! . . . Jimmy Allman showing his high school annual around to let you know that he was president of the senior class . . . Jane Graves, the gal with the ear-rings, paying a visit to Robb Hall to telephone . . . Sneed sub-consciously writing Kitty throughout an essay . . . for further information about what's going on see Bill Morgan who knows something about everything, and if he doesn't know, he'll tell you anyway.

Kappa Sigma will entertain tomorrow evening in the fraternity lodge with an intermission party during the "S" Club dance. The affair will be in honor of the members of the varsity football team.

Improvement Of Chapel Program Discussed at Meeting; Committees Named

Elizabeth Paine was elected secretary of the Episcopal Club at their meeting Wednesday, October 12, at the Kappa Sigma house. Miss Paine replaces Courtney Rettger who is attending Vanderbilt University.

Shepherd Tate, president of the organization, presided. A round table discussion was held on the well-worn subject, "How the chapel program at Southwestern can be improved."

William Belcher was appointed head of the transportation committee which arranges for dormitory students to attend the bi-monthly corporate communion services. George Scott is chairman of the program committee and George Humphrey, attendance.

Mr. Dave Rose, curator of St. Mary's Cathedral, and Mr. Chas. Hale, rector of St. Luke's Church which sponsors the organization, were special guests. The next meeting of the club will be held next Wednesday at the Chi Omega lodge. A round table discussion will be held on "Escatology."

Lynx Theatre Broadcasts

"Actresses Are Born" Is Second Play Presented Over DMC

The Lynx Theater of the Air will present its second broadcast over WMC at 3:45 this afternoon. Ardeanne Heiskell and Steve Nrazier will play the leading roles in the play, "Actresses Are Born." The supporting cast includes Selby Bobzien, Kitty Bright Tipton, James Cogswell, Vivienne Birmingham, George Jackson, and Mary Jane Warden. Randall MacInnes is in charge of the production.

Dear Alma Mater

(Dorm Stanza)

Have you seen the shell-like tints Of sky, and gold of autumn's mints, Shed on slates of purple's gray, As night is twisting out the day? Watched iron networks, fine as lace, As wrinkles on a father's face Bending to a roof of white— Triangled out of frozen night, Orange oblongs gleam and glare To show who was—is not now there.

Chorus:
All those gilded window sils
Are simply running up light bills.

Under a very inviting poster in the library, with a young man gracefully reclining, heels in the air, and with the caption "Books for Leisure," some entertaining volumes are gathering dust. Maybe the caption is poor according to Dr. A's applied psychology. Maybe there's so little leisure around here that nobody thinks the books could possibly be meant for him. Maybe "Verboten" or "Beware of Temptation" might attract more notice. Anyway, it's a pity for Thornton Wilder's Our Town to sit forlorn and neglected when it's still attracting such crowds to the stage presentation in New York, and when it's such an unusual and at the same time delightful play to read. And the same goes for Amphytrion 38, that brilliant French farce by Jean Giraudoux, which S. N. Behrman has adapted into English. There are other selections, too, equally as interesting and as pleasant to read.

Among the new fiction Edith Wharton's unfinished novel, The Buccaneers, is interesting from several points of view. In its incomplete state it gives some insight into the author's craftsmanship, for which she is particularly and justly noted, but it is complete enough to give a well rounded story of perfectly plausible human beings. The buccaneers are of the social variety, the lovely daughters and ambitious mothers of the 80's, who, failing to crash Newport's social heights, invade England's beau monde with a certain degree of success. We're always complaining that publishers nowadays will publish anything, and we set up a wall that they had even come to publishing unfinished manuscripts. We'll excuse the publishers in this case, though. We'll even congratulate them.

Far removed from the dazzling setting of Mrs. Wharton's novel is Marjorie Kennan Rawling's The Yearling.

It's not one of the newest books in the library, but it hasn't been read nearly as much as it deserves. The scene is laid in the Florida scrub pine country, which Mrs. Rawlings has already made so familiar and vivid in her previous novel, South Moon Under. The characters are true and appealing in their simplicity. Penny Baxter we won't forget soon, and twelve year old Jody's love for his pet deer, called Flag on account of his little white waving tail, gives a delicate but gripping interest to the story. In fact, we give The Yearling at least a half dozen stars.

First collegiate courses in pulp and paper technology were offered by the University of Maine 25 years ago.

Students Named To Compete In State Elimination

Seven To Represent College In Rhodes Contest

TWO MAY BE CHOSEN

District Elimination Will Be Held Dec. 13-15

Seven Southwestern men have been accepted as applicants for entrance in the state Rhodes Scholarship elimination, Prof. John H. Davis, secretary of the local committee, announced.

The applicants are Hylton Neill, Norman Shapiro, and Thomas McLemore from Tennessee; Herbert Bingham from Arkansas; Henry Mobley, Shepherd Tate, and George Humphrey from Mississippi. All candidates are required to make applications to the state secretary by Nov. 5. Eliminations will be held Dec. 13-15, and two will be chosen to represent Tennessee in the district eliminations with 10 candidates from Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida colleges and universities. From these, four will be chosen as Rhodes scholars.

Candidates must be unmarried, male, between the ages of 19 and 25 and must have at least junior standing. The selections are made on the basis of scholastic ability, personality, moral force of character, and physical vigor.

The Rhodes scholarships provide a stipend of $2,000 a year and are tenable for three years, subject to the continued approval of the college at Oxford of which the scholar is a member. In the past 10 years Southwestern has had two Rhodes scholars.

Members of the Southwestern faculty who are Oxford graduates are Prof. John H. Davis, secretary of the state selections committee; W. R. Cooper, R. P. Strickler, A. B. Kelso, C. P. Lee, and D. M. Amacker.

STEP RIGHT UP FOR YOUR COPY OF THE LAMBETH WALK

Ever since the astounding popularity of the now deceased "Big Apple," the newly aroused jitterbugs have been eagerly waiting for its happy successor. Among the recent "follow-up" dance-routines are the Yam, Lindy-Hop and the Lambeth Walk. The first two are Hollywood and Harlem products respectively. The latter, however, comes to the United States from across the Big Pond, and has received a warm welcome from cosmopolitan New Yorkers.

Even though you read Life, you're liable not to know exactly how the Lambeth Walk is done, and you probably don't know its background. Neither do we, but Dame Rumor has it two ways—one, that Benny Goodman dished it out to his devotees on one of his other shows, and two, that an orchestra playing at the St. Regis in New York introduced it to America because it was the hit from an English musical comedy of this season.

The Lambeth Walk is an imitation of the cockney's strut, which is a jaunty, bouncing step full of pep, wiggle, and vim. Partners (just two, please) take 8 steps away from each other, dash back, link arms, or other miscellaneous appendages, strut around each other, part again for 8 steps, repeat, etc., etc. The routine ends with partners facing, knees slightly bent, slapping the latter and shouting "Doin' the Lambeth Walk—Oi." At first glance, the Oi looks like a Yiddish afterthought, but it's supposed to be a typical Cockney ejaculation.

Although this kind of dance would be a startling innovation in present campus shag style, it has practical value. Instead of having to pry Joe from Betty, the stag could catch the girl on the "8 steps, Scat!" part. To me it sounds like an adaptation of a child's game called "May I?" Well, they're renovating nursery rhymes into swing songs, why not revive the "13 Month Old Stumble" and call it the Lambeth Walk. Maybe the baby's name was Little Lambeth, and perhaps that's the true story of the Lambeth Walk.

Meet the Prof

Meet Dr. Atkinson, professor of psychology, more familiarly known to his pupils as Dr. A . . . born and reared in Clarksville, Tennessee, former home of Southwestern . . . says he's "one-half English, one-quarter Dutch, and one-quarter Scotch, not one quart of Scotch" . . . went to Castle Heights prep school . . . attended Southwestern one year, then to Peabody College at Nashville for a B.A. . . also has master's degree in political science from Columbia, has majored in philosophy at Vanderbilt, and has doctor's degree in psychology from Peabody. . .

Dodged all extra-curricular activities in school, and says his most embarrassing moment was when he was elected chaplain of a literary society at Castle Heights . . . worked one summer as a newspaper reporter, one as a farm laborer in a tobacco patch . . . in 1918 went to military training school at Tennessee and Vermont . . . took a whole summer off to decide on his vocation. . .

Has been teaching for twenty-two years, fifteen at Southwestern . . . says this is the first year he has a girl in his class whose grandmother he used to teach . . . for the past seven summers he has run a boys' camp, which is now at Maywood . . . says his hobby is "nutting," human nutting, doing mental adjustment work with problem children and grown-ups around town . . . says he's learned more about human nature from this than from text-books . . . also likes Bob Burns and mountain stories. . .

Says most people don't know what real psychology is . . . they have hold of popular psychology and are worse off than they would be without it . . . doesn't think much of how-to-win-friends stuff . . . says psychology won't make you a big shot, a campus politician, or teach you any short-cut methods to manage people without any effort . . . says psychology will help a person understand himself and others better . . . would advise an unemotional, matter-of-fact attitude towards psychology, or for that matter, towards almost anything. . .

Is married . . . has one child, Patricia, aged nine . . . called Patty . . . and in the fifth grade at Miss Hutchison's school . . . of Patty, Dr. A modestly says, "She's smarter than her mama, but she's not as smart as I am." . . . Thank you, Dr. Atkinson.

Southwestern To Meet Birmingham-Southern

The return of big Will Rhea Winfrey to the lineup is a ray of sunshine to the Lynx cause. Out for two weeks with a stone bruise on his foot, Will Rhea is about ready for the wars again. Winfrey's hard running and blocking have been sorely missed.

With Nettles, Canzoneri and Red Bergfeld ailing, the end situation is Southwestern's weakest point. Coach Ed Kubale has been drilling Bill Little and Luke Dawson to handle the terminal positions against Birmingham-Southern. Fred Partin, recently switched to tackle, was switched back to end to act as a reserve tomorrow. Pete Baker, the center who covered himself with glory and covered Chattanooga with gore, is another who has been tried at end this week. He will probably understudy at the position tomorrow.

Panthers Defeated 47-14
Birmingham-Southern, champions of the Dixie Conference last year (though defeated by Southwestern, 26-7), have a much stronger team than last week's 47 to 14 loss to Murray State Teachers indicates. The Panthers have a sturdy, fast-charging line and a set of fleet, elusive backs.

Coach Gillem of the Panthers has been working his charges hard all week. He was greatly displeased with the showing made against Murray State, and has been striving to whip his team to razor-sharp tension for the Southwestern game.

Fritz Reiner, famed orchestra leader, is conducting a music appreciation course at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Kent Dean Portrays Man-of-the-Campus

When it comes to describing the college man of 1938, so many and varied are the paragraphic portrayals that he is at once a master-mind and a dolt, a play-boy and a great student. None has so brilliantly painted the picture as Kent State University's Dean R. E. Manchester, who sets the man-of-the-campus on his pedestal in the following manner:

"The college man is a living paradox. Most people cannot understand him and those who do, come to their conclusions by indirect proof. He talks of the future but worships the past. He is liberal in his conversation but conservative in his action. He is radical in his opinions on politics, but elects stand-patters to the class offices. He demands freedom of thinking but defends with all his strength the traditions of his institution. He takes wild stands on religious theories yet attends college and universities that are created and maintained by orthodox creeds. He preaches democracy yet supports the most rigid campus caste system. He demands that his university maintains the highest athletic standards yet in the same breath also demands a professional football team. He scoffs at his profs yet defends them strenuously when they are criticized. He rebels against rules but sets up more rigid ones when given the opportunity. He hazes the high school graduate who comes with a boy scout badge on his coat, but he covers his own vest with medals and keys. He invents and uses the most outlandish slang on the street, but reads and writes pure English in his room. He clamors for self government but doesn't want it after he gets it. He laughs at convention but insists upon it. He cuts classes the day before a vacation but comes back three days early.

"You ask 'What are we going to do about it?' We are going to praise the Lord that we have him and that he is just what he is, a walking contradiction of himself."

Like it? We thought you would!

Chi Omega Entertains

Pledges Honored With Steak Fry At Whitehaven

The members of Chi Omega sorority entertained Thursday evening from five to eight o'clock with a steak fry near Whitehaven, Tennessee.

The affair was given in honor of the pledge group, Kitty Bright Tipton, president; Mary Heath Butler, vice-president; Jean Williamson, treasurer; Cary Eckert, secretary; Mary Ware, Barbara Dean, Nora Armstrong, Catherine Walker, Annabelle Paine, Sara Lowrance, Louise Blue, and Mary Crawford.

AOPi's Entertain Mothers

Tea Given Monday Afternoon for Both Members' and Pledges' Mothers

The active members of Alpha Omicron Pi entertained Monday afternoon with a tea complimenting the mothers of both the members and pledges. The sorority house was attractively decorated in fall flowers. Mr. R. W. Johnson presided over the lace-draped tea table. Slender yellow tapers in silver holders and large silver trays of original open-faced sandwiches formed a perfect setting for the large crystal punch bowl.

Miss Betsy Fowler, president of the chapter, received the guests assisted by the other officers of the sorority.

Some especially invited guests were: Mrs. Charles Diehl, Mrs. M. H. Townsend, Mrs. S. K. Westerbrook, Mrs. I. A. Rutland, and Mr. George Webster.

Fourth Quarter Touchdown Brings Victory

By WADDY WEST

In defeating the University of Chattanooga at Chattanooga last Friday by a score of 12 to 6, Southwestern was fortunate that football games nowadays have two halves.

Fighting desperately to recover the mental state of the Centenary game, the Lynx suffered many agonized moments before their first Dixie conference victory was tucked under a reduced belt line.

Two minutes following the opening of the second half of the game Southwestern found themselves Gaylon Smithless through the inconsiderate efforts of the 'Noogans. When Thurman Scott, Moccasin back, raced 75 yards with Charlie Perry's 50-yard punt, the Lynx suggested a picture of the morning after the night before. Everyone agreed that Scott had spelt ultimate defeat for Southwestern in tripping the light fantastic with Perry's punt—that is, everyone but the Lynx.

Recoiling brilliantly, Icky Orenstein sparked the Lynx with a fever that left the Moccasins with few legs to stand on. To begin with Icky fired a pass to Captain Nettles for a big gain. In a few moments, Rex Wilson's accurate corner kicking had Chattanooga in a hole and the Lynx came into possession of the ball on the Moccasin 14-yard line. Another Orenstein to Nettles pass was completed on the three yard stripe and carried on over by Nettles.

This score only sharpened the Lynx hooks. Again Wilson and Orenstein went to work. Wilson seemed to call the right plays at exactly the right moments. Passes from Orenstein to Wilson and Nettles put the Lynx nine yards from a second score. With Chilluns, two weeks ago I promised you a 12-0 triumph over Centenary. And what happened? Centenary won, 6-0. Last week I prophesied a Lynx victory over Chattanooga by three touchdowns. And what happened? The Lynx won, 12 to 6.

It seems, mah little mens and womens, I just can't pick a football score. So, I have decided to tell you not how much the Lynx will outscore Birmingham-Southern tomorrow, but only that Southwestern will emerge victorious. How d'ya like that "emerge victorious?" Scrumptious sports writin', huh?

Now that I have spoken, and have predicted a Lynx Cat victory, Coach Kubale can quit tearing his hair and get a little sleep.

Congratulations are in order for the State Teachers College football team. Last year, the Tutors were in dire distress. I believe there was even talk of doing away with football at the college. Then the student body, the faculty, and the alumni gathered around and decided the time was ripe for a pigskin rejuvenation. Result: the Teachers have won their first five games of the season and there is every possibility of them finishing their schedule undefeated. Quite a change from last year when, if I'm not very badly mistaken, the Pedagogues didn't annex a single victory.

Perhaps not this year, but certainly within the next two, Southwestern and State Teachers should be steady football rivals. That little incident that 'Nooga on the run, Orenstein drove his way to the four-yard line. Ed French took the ball on the next play and ploughed through the center of the Moccasin line to score. French tried to pass for the extra point but it was incomplete.

Wilson, French, and Orenstein were not the whole show for Southwestern. The entire line permitted only four first downs for Chattanooga's night's work. Bill Little brought cheers of approval by his play. Fred Partin and Oney Ellis, Lynx tackles, were there when needed to open holes for the Lynx backs. But when looking back over the game, it is the effective passing and running of Orenstein and the generalship of Wilson that seems to stick in one's mind as a job well done.

climaxed the last Lynx-Teachers game years ago should be forgotten by now and it would be a healthy thing for football in Memphis if the two colleges would resume relations.

Mr. Walter Stewart of the Commercial Appeal, he of the bull-frog stare and the bulldog set of jaw, has been conducting a poll of his readers (?) recently to choose what he speaks of as an All-American nickname for Gaylon Smith. You know, something on the order of "Whizzer" White, "Sweet" Lalanne, "Slingin' Sam" Baugh, et cetera, et cetera, and so forth.

There have been numerous suggestions—at least according to Mr. Stewart—and among them were such awful things as Beebe Bomber, Beebe Bullet, Catfish, Shotgun, Slasher, How'm I Doin', Hey-Hey, Plunger, Crasher, Sleep-it-off, Smasher, Gasher, Lasher, A-tisket A-tasket, and so on far into the night.

Now, I am not sports editor of the Commercial Appeal (Heaven forbid!) and I am not even Walter Stewart (Thank goo'ness), BUT I believe Gaylon doesn't need anything more than the name of Gaylon. To me, the name Gaylon sticks in my memory. It is not an ordinary name and it is a name that attracts attention. SO, I say, let us continue to call him Gaylon Smith. After all, that's his name, you know.

Henry P. Mobley, the cheer-leader from Mississippi, the prexy of the student body, the answer to one or two maidens' prayers (Gosh, what awful prayers) walked into the Sou'wester office the other day and announced he was going to write a cheer. Hang it, somebody had to write a cheer!

So with pencil and paper in hand, Mr. Mobley sat him down with never a thought in his head. After 17 hours and 49 minutes of solid thought—well, maybe not so solid—this is what he wrote:

Winnie Winkle! Uncle Walt!
If we don't beat 'em
'Tain't our fault.
On! Team!

We Can't All Be Insane, Says Harvard Research Professor

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—(ACP)—Ordinary people have nothing on geniuses when it comes to insanity, much though popular beliefs may lead you to believe otherwise.

Authority for this "don't you believe it" item is Harvard University's Dr. E. M. East, who, after a great deal of careful research, proclaims: "We ordinary people realize that we are not geniuses, and we invent a reason for not making the grade that is soothing our egos. Our nervous systems are sound and healthy. We are mediocrities because we are well-balanced and do things like other people. All we needed to make us geniuses was an inherited or acquired mental taint, something that would have made our actions eccentric."

There are nine college alumni associations that are more than 100 years old.
