Zeta Tau Alpha To Give Dance For Pledges

Affair Will Be In Lodge Saturday At 8; Nautical Setting

The Zetas will entertain their pledge group with a Sailor Dance in the Zeta lodge tomorrow night at 8 p.m. Nautical decorations such as anchors, portholes, life preservers, a helm, and gang plank will be used. The boys will come as sailors, while the Zetas and their special guests from other sororities will be dressed as the sweethearts from the different ports.

Dorothy Steuwer, the president of the sorority, will come as Scarlett O'Hara, and will be gowned in white tulle dress with hoopskirts, and she will wear gardenias in her hair. Her escort is Mark Hammond. Iris Pearce will attend as a Scotch lassie in a red and blue plaid kiltie, cocked hat, and knee length stockings. She will be escorted by B. W. Beaumont.

Bennie Joyner, secretary, will be attired in a Russian costume with fur-trimmed skirt, fur cossack hat and red boots. She will be escorted by Gene Vaccaro. Kate Parker, treasurer of the sorority, will attend as an Irish Colleen, wearing a white satin dress with a flared skirt which will be sprinkled with traditional shamrocks. Her sailor escort will be James Allman. Marie Palmer, historian, will be robed in a Grecian costume of flowing chiffon draped in graceful folds, and trimmed with silver ribbons. Her hair will be tied with crossing bands of silver, and will be arranged in the upswept mode. She will attend with escort.

Jane Chilton Adams, president of the pledge group, will come as a Chinese girl and will wear an imported Chinese formal of brilliant colored satin, and she will wear chrysantheums in her hair. She will be escorted by Ernest Hall. Jean McKenny, vice president of the pledge group, will be a Swedish girl, and will wear a costume with full blue and orange striped skirt, white apron and multicolored embroidered blouse. She will attend with Audie Scott. Nena Williams, secretary-treasurer of the pledge group, will be attired as an Indian princess, and will be bedecked in a white doe-skin dress accented with red, blue and green feathers. She will be escorted by Bob Beasley.

Elizabeth Hicks and Mary Vance Rhodes will attend as Spanish señoritas in red and black costumes featuring full bouffant skirts and black lace shawls; they will attend with Charles Rucker and Allen Hilzheim respectively. Mary Virginia Smith will

The Student Says

QUESTION

Would you be in favor of Southwestern's playing a post-season game with State Teachers College?

ANSWERS

Harry Morris, senior: Decidedly not. The team will soon have finished one of the hardest schedules they could possibly have had, and I would not be in favor of a post-season game with any team. The boys have had enough football for one season. They will need all the time left this year to catch up on their studies.

Rowlett Sneed, sophomore: No. We are definitely out of their class. Why, they haven't got any material to stand up against boys like Whisky Jim.

Frank England, junior: Of course, I'm in favor of any kind of post-season game every year. I could start at the first of the year and ask all during the season and maybe I could get a date for the post-season game.

Baxter Pouncey, junior: Yes. I would like to settle the question once and for all. Otherwise the matter will be brought up every year and remain undecided.

Deacon Craft, junior: No. We all need a rest after this year's hard schedule.

Mary Ann Simonton, freshman: Yes. I am just beginning to understand what football is all about and I think I could enjoy a game now.

HOMECOMING RESULTS

Sigma Alpha Epsilon won the prize for the best Homecoming Day decorations and Kappa Sigma was awarded the ashstand for selling the most tickets to the dance Saturday night. The announcements were made by Walker Wellford. This is the second straight year that the Kappa Sigs have sold the most tickets. The award last year was a card table.

Clemson's Drill Squad Surprised At No Jitterbugs

Clemson's crack drill platoon made a hit at the game Saturday. The formations and commands were executed so well by the cadets that the whole thing seemed effortless. But the life of a military man is not easy and its especially tough to be a member of Clemson's crack platoon.

The members of the platoon number forty-eight, plus a commander and an alternate commander they are all seniors, and were picked from about three hundred candidates that tried out last June. At the end of a cadet's junior year he is eligible to compete for a place on the platoon. The three hundred drill before the officers who pick forty-eight. The platoon commander is chosen by the platoon.

These forty-eight cadets go through an intensive summer training course at a military camp, usually Fort McClellan in Alabama. There they are given instruction in military maneuvers and actual fighting with machine gun, gas masks and infantry. At the end of the course the cadets return to school and represent Clemson in all competitive drills. They have been to Washington, D. C., earlier this Fall and have an invitation to drill during the half of the Sugar Bowl game in New Orleans. The trips usually last a week-end, from Friday until Monday, and the boys say it's worth missing a few classes since they get to see so much of the country. They travel in automobiles, paying their own hotel expenses.

Clemson is at Clemson, S. C., near Greenville. It is a military college with a student body, all men, of twenty-one hundred. No coeds are allowed except during hop season, when dates from Baltimore to Jacksonville are imported, and bands such as Larry Clinton, Hal Kemp, and Glenn Miller play for the dance series. The cadets were surprised at Southwestern for two reasons: one, because they thought it was twice as large as it is, and two, because they didn't see any jitterbugs at the dance.

"We never dance any other way in South Carolina," they declared, and promptly demonstrated their point, which was well carried. Another surprise that they forgot to mention was that the Clemson team didn't romp all over us, as the football experts expected. The cadets declined to discuss the matter.

The platoon commander did not lead them at the game Saturday. He had such a sore throat that he was unable to yell the commands. So the alternate commander took his place. It was the first time that the alternate commander had drilled the platoon.

Band Will Make Trip To Shreveport Game

Will Leave Tonight After Christmas Parade; May Stay Until Sunday

Prof. Burnet C. Tuthill announces that the Southwestern Band will depart for Shreveport tonight immediately after marching in the Christmas parade. As usual, a special train coach has been reserved for the trip. The train will arrive at Shreveport early tomorrow morning, and the band members will be given free time until the game.

Centenary has declared a holiday over the week-end, so Southwestern band members who wish to remain in the city for the festivities will be given special return tickets to be used Sunday morning, but the others will leave for home Saturday night. This marks the first time the band has traveled to Shreveport for a game.

Memphis Symphony Gives An Excellent Performance

The Memphis Symphony opened its second season Tuesday night at the Orpheum Theatre with an excellent, if not brilliant, performance. The orchestra, under the direction of Burnet C. Tuthill, showed a marked improvement over last year, and it was so favorably received by the audience that Mr. Tuthill had to explain that there would be no encores due to the "great amount of time expended on the difficult program presented."

Highlighting the evening's performance was Miss Eugenia Buxton's masterful playing of the Beethoven Concerto No. 1. We quote the music critic of the Commercial Appeal in saying that "no delicate nuance of its classical passages escaped her, nor did any of its robust humor. Each note rang clear as a diamond in a black velvet case, dramatically individual."

'YW' To Give Food To Needy Family

Girls Contribute To Basket In Social Room; Sent On Thanksgiving

The Y. W. C. A. Cabinet decided at their last meeting to provide a basket of food to be delivered to a needy family on Thanksgiving Day. Harriette Hollis, who is in charge of arrangements, has placed a basket in the girls' social room and requests all girl students to contribute non-perishable food.

The family was selected by Jane Leavell, a former Southwestern student, who is now connected with a social service agency.

The next Y. W. C. A. meeting will be held December 8th in one of the sorority lodges.

Torch Society To Visit Art Gallery

Trip To Be Made Next Thursday; Any Student Interested May Go

Torch Society is sponsoring a trip to the Brook's Art Gallery for anyone who is interested in seeing the exhibits next Thursday at 3:45. The exhibits include original commercial paintings used in national advertising; and samples of weaving from Finland.

Mrs. Clark, who is in charge of the exhibits, will speak to the group about them. After the trip to the gallery, the group will go to the Kappa Delta house for tea.

All students who wish to go, meet in the cloister at 3:30.

American Students Have It Easy—French Version

"If American boys and girls think they have to go to school too many hours out of the day," says Madeliene Erabant, "then they should go to France where the students attend school from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m." Madeliene, who is now continuing her education at Southwestern, says that no definite comparison can be made between the French and American schools because the manners and customs are so different. The French have no definite divisions in the school years; there are no grammar and high schools from which the students graduate, they just go to school. Whereas, American students take five subjects, the French take ten or sometimes more. This means that the French student receives his education in a shorter time as the work is more compact.

"Another thing that is different is the students in the school; all of the girls go to one school, while all of the boys go to a separate one; the two are never together," says Miss Erabant.

The French have the problem of the noonday meal just as Americans, but they are much more consistent than in this country. By that is meant that the French always eat their noonday meal at home, where all the family meets to talk over the happenings of the day. This is the most important meal of the day.

Debating Class Meets For First Time

Prof. C. P. Lee conducted the first debate meeting Wednesday with six students present. There will be two questions this year: "Resolved, that there should be government ownership of railroads," and "Resolved, that the U. S. should follow a strict economic and military isolation." Material on the latter subject was distributed to the following students present at the meeting: Russel Weiner, Allen Webb, George Case, Jim McNeese, Arthur Friedman, and John Summerfield.

Kappa Sigs To Hold Open House

Invitations To Submit Papers Are Given To Seventeen Students

A new literary society at Southwestern was formed on November 2nd at a combined meeting of the Stylus Chapter of Sigma Upsilon and the Blue Stockings when those two societies combined to form the Stylus Club, a local campus organization for both men and women. In order to form the new society, it was necessary that the Stylus Chapter withdraw its affiliation with the national literary fraternity, Sigma Upsilon. The Blue Stockings, the women's organization, was a local society.

The meeting at which the organization took place was held at the home of Miss Katherine McCulloch, former president of the Blue Stockings. At that meeting, the officers for the new society were elected. They are: William McBurney, president; Katherine McCulloch, vice-president; William Bobo, secretary; Jac Ruffin, treasurer. A committee was appointed by the president to draw up a ritual for the new society and another to plan programs for the meetings. The ritual committee consists of: Anne Potts, Kathleen Fransioli, Annie Few Work, and Dr. McIlwaine, adviser. Katherine McCulloch and Jac Ruffin compose the program committee. Plans are to study contemporary literature at the programs during the year and to end the year's work with a banquet, featuring a guest speaker of literary note.

Each year new members will be taken into the society upon the merit of creative literary compositions, usually essays and short stories, to the club. Those who are invited to submit compositions are students showing creative literary talent and who are advanced as far as the second semester of the sophomore year.

This year invitations have been issued to: John Kier, Billy Murphy, Robert Price, David Osborne, William Donelson, William Belcher, Newton Jones, Diana Wallace, Dorothy Stacy, Hester Mosby, Elise Smithwick, Bertha Flattau, Harriette Hollis, Ruth Mitchell, Maxine Allen, Stella Jones, and Jane Lederer. Compositions are to be turned in before December 1.

The Stylus Club will hold its meetings on the 2nd and 4th Thursdays of each month at the homes of members and at fraternity and sorority houses.

CHI BETA PHI MEETS

John Flanniken and Ned Hermann were initiated into Chi Beta Phi, honorary scientific fraternity, at the last regular meeting held on Tuesday, November 14. Tom Simpson, president of the local chapter, presided at the meeting. A short talk on the aims and ideals of Chi Beta Phi was given by Ralph Alperin and Billy Murrah presented an intensely interesting paper on "Anoesthesia, Soporifics, and Narcotics."

ATO'S ELECT CANNON

At a recent meeting A.T.O. fraternity elected Bland Cannon president to succeed Harold Falls, who resigned. Other officers are: H. C. Robertson, vice president; Charles Reed, treasurer; Henry Lynch, secretary; W. J. Hearn, usher; Ned Hermann, sentinel; and Tom Mobley, reporter.

Stylus Club Unites With Blue Stockings

Kappa Sigma fraternity will entertain with an open house for the entire student body this afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 in the campus lodge. Refreshments will be served and music will be furnished by radio and record player. All students are cordially invited to attend.

Spanish Club Will Elect New Officers

Campaign Speeches To Be Made In Spanish; Will Sing Spanish Songs

A meeting of the Spanish Club will be held in the A.O.Pi sorority lodge, Wednesday, November 29. Election of officers will take place before which there will be nominations and campaign speeches made in Spanish by committees chosen at the last meeting. Jo Gillfillan, chairman, Barbara Dean, and Norma Bright will support one ticket and Marjorie McElroy, chairman, Catherine Hollinger, and William Surber, the other. The new officers will be installed at the first meeting after the election.

Dr. Storn, faculty adviser, and members of the club will give news reports and other literary contributions. There is a supply of new song books which will be used in the singing of Spanish songs at the end of the meeting.

Plans will be made for a special Christmas meeting and program. Catherine Hollinger is in charge of the arrangements and refreshments.

ALLEN CRAFT GIVES SERMON

The Ministerial Club conducted services at the Presbyterian Church in West Memphis, Arkansas, last Sunday, November 19th. Allen Craft gave the sermon.

Lynx Leave For Shreveport And Final Battle

Cats Favored Over Centenary Who Have Lost 7 Out Of 8

Southwestern closes its 1939 football season tomorrow against the Centenary Gentlemen of Shreveport, Louisiana. This will be the second meeting of the two teams. The first meeting occurred last year when the Gentlemen gave the Lynx their only loss of the 1938 season, beating them 6 to 0.

For the first time this year the Lynx are given the nod over the opposing team. While the Lynx have had a none too successful season, Centenary has had an even worse one. So far this season the Gentlemen have not won a single contest, having lost 7 out of 8 games, one having been tied. The men from Shreveport, however, are noted for their inconsistency; they may offer little resistance to the Lynx, and then again they might rise up and knock Southwestern back into the end-zone. To be optimistic is the best policy so we'll say that the Lynx can consider this their third victory of the season.

Barnes New Star

The Gentlemen have two great backs in the persons of Weenie Bynum and James Barnes. Barnes did not get into the news until last week's game with Baylor University. His work in the last half of the game was good enough, however, to put him in the starting tailback position in place of Bynum against Southwestern.

Centenary is pointing for the Southwestern game as much this year as the Lynx were pointing for them last year. Their thus far poor season makes them determined to end up with a few victories. Then, too, they have the advantage of the probable let-down by Southwestern after last week's grueling game with Clemson.

Same Line-Up

Southwestern will open with the same line-up as that used in the past three games. Dawson and Canzoneri will occupy the end positions; Heaton and Fuller will remain at tackle; Capt. Harry Morris will be flanked at center by guards Drees and Bailey. Andrew will open at fullback; Orenstein at quarterback; Underwood at half and either Pouncey or Winfrey at the other halfback position, depending on the condition of Will Rhea's knee. Lockridge, Conn and Cast will probably see quite a bit of service before the final whistle. Lockridge especially will be used after the whale of a good defense game he played in the last quarter of the Clemson contest.

Seven Seniors

Four of these men in the opening line-up will be playing their last game of football under the Red and Black colors. These four are Capt. Harry Morris, Alt. Capt. Will Rhea Winfrey, Doyle Fuller, and Luke Dawson. Other seniors on the squad are Charles Perry, J. P. Cavender and Bill Little.

To say that they are playing their last game is not a positive statement, because there has been and is going on in Memphis a movement to promote a post-season game with State Teachers of Memphis. While such a game would undoubtedly be of interest to all persons in the surrounding territory as well as to students of both colleges, consideration must be given to the extremely hard schedule which the Lynx will have completed. In all fairness, however, the players themselves should be given the final say so as to whether they wish to play the game or not. Southwestern is definitely the better of the two and the only good that could result from the game would be the acquisition of more money from the gate receipts.

EPISCOPAL CLUB MEETS

Rev. Wm. G. Gehri addressed the Episcopal Club Wednesday night, in the Kappa Delta lodge at 7:30. W. H. Belcher, president, presided. Afterwards the group held a discussion.

The club discussed the monthly corporate communions. The various committees gave their reports, and plans were brought up for a means of raising money for a page in the annual.

Comment by the Editor

Southwestern students, whether or not they attended the concert of the Memphis Symphony Orchestra last Tuesday night, may take a justifiable pride in two facts. First, that the group from which the symphony grew was a Southwestern-Memphis College of Music orchestra. This was organized a year or so ago, and performed so capably that public interest supported it to such a degree as to make its expansion into a civic proposition feasible. At present, there are more than twice as many outsiders as Southwesterners in the aggregation. Any degree of success which the orchestra may attain will reflect credit upon the original group and will afford college supporters a certain amount of gratification.

The second thing in which we may take pride is the fact that out of our own faculty has come the man responsible for the idea, and the one who organized, trained, and directed the group. Professor Tuthill, we know, has spent a great deal of time in working with the group, and in addition to the great amount of personal satisfaction which accrues to him out of cultural accomplishment and contribution may be added the esteem which we here at Southwestern hold for him and his efforts.

How About Escorts For Sponsors?

A conversation the other day with a member of the faculty, who requests that his name be withheld, developed an interesting suggestion. It has to do with our football games, and although it will be a full year before the occasion arises again, we mention it while it is new. He says that at many other college football games, sponsors for the game are escorted by a couple of the men students, leaders of various campus clubs, and the like. They are not there in any sense to detract from the attention accorded the sponsors, but merely as ex-officio escorts, to prevent the girls' becoming lonesome during the game, if nothing else. He says Southwestern is the first college he has ever seen at which sponsors sit by themselves during the games. The idea will probably at least be favored by the men.

Music Requirement Suggested

Still along the musical line. A pupil in one of Professor Tuthill's classes turned in a paper which the professor was kind enough to show us, and which set forth what seems to be a rather sensible suggestion. The idea was that a year of music appreciation be required before conferring of a degree.

Certainly a person is not well rounded or fully endowed with the beginnings of a liberal education who graduates after four years work without any training or any knowledge whatsoever of musical values and techniques. And surely there are many of us here who would profit from and enjoy such instruction, both in itself and as a means to further enjoyment. The only reason which we can conceivably offer for not availing ourselves of such instruction is inertia. At any rate, it's a suggestion worth thinking about.

Credit Where Credit Is Due

To Bland Cannon, head cheer leader, and assistant cheer leaders Dub Worthington, Claude Romine, Clay Alexander and Bob McCrary, for consistently doing good work on a hard job. It's no easy thing to put yourself in front of an oftentimes indifferent student body and try to wheedle a decent sounding yell out of them, but these boys have been out there putting forth their best efforts on a thankless job, and they deserve mention for doing so.

To Mr. Johnny Rollo, for his good work all last week in preparing the large football out of which Queen Kitty stepped last Saturday. The fact that the event took place before the maximum crowd was present in no way detracts from the fact that Mr. Rollo's brain child was a masterpiece in itself. Those of you who never saw it closely or watched it work in several trial runs missed a treat. Because it was really the berries.

To the football team which held the ninth ranking Clemson Tigers to three touchdowns, and which settled down after a shaky start and fought a superior ranked team tooth and nail and was on an even basis. There is no use speculating what might have been the outcome had Southwestern played the first half as they did the second. Suffice to say that the boys made a grand showing, and played a game of which there is nothing to feel the least bit bad about.

To the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity for the very novel decorations which they displayed last Saturday. Those of you who saw "the end of the Tiger" will agree that it struck a new note in originality for that sort of thing. On the whole, no one can deny forcibly that any other house decoration equalled the SAE's and everyone must admit that they fully deserved the award.

Missing Lynx From the Campus Chain

It is our opinion that when the Robb Hall Aztecs started taking up freewill offerings to build a pyramid between Palmer and Science Hall and the high priest (name omitted for obvious reasons) gave a certain freshman (name omitted for obvious reasons) the screaming twitches with the evil eye, they started more than they knew. For instance, that business of evil eyes. There is no doubt in our mind but that it is contagious and that Anne Potts, a Chi Omega, is putting it on us. The other day we spoke to her in the library, walked out with a feeling of social obligation fulfilled, tripped and fell flat, scattering books to the four winds. Much to the gratification of bystanders, it may be added. We wish Anne would stop.

How to End a Conversation:

When someone says, "Well, I was reading something by Dorothy Thompson the other day that said..." ask quietly if it was the book in which she said Hitler would never come into power in Germany? This will usually end the discussion.

Corny Joke of the Week (clipped):

And when the psychology prof asked, "what is a kleptomaniac?" we didn't answer, "It's a person who helps himself because he can't help himself."

Third Term Favored

—Head from Commercial Appeal (Rather a matter of opinion, we should say.)

Missing Persons Bureau:

To Mr. Jephtha S. Brock, if you are on the campus, get the two cards from "Laura Mae" that have been in the general delivery mail box in the Bookstore for some time. As she says, this is urgent.

Neatest Trick of the Week:

"While resting on the Robb Hall railing, Jac Covington Ruffin came rolling across the campus, chuckling to himself." From Missing Lynx, Nov. 17. (Purely a typographical error, we assure you, not ventriloquism or mirrors or wires.)

Miss Betty Jeanne Claffey, who left the cloisters of Fairmont in Washington, D. C., to brave the perils of co-education, is a critic of literature; in fact, we would go so far as to say she is sort of the creme de la creme of literary critics. We are in a class dubiously known as Advanced Composition, and it is here that she is always astounding us.

It always happens. While we are struggling for weighty adjectives and sparkling verbs to analyze a story, Miss Claffey sums it all up with "It's not nice."

Then again perhaps the light on the Tower is to guide alumni still wandering on the treacherous moors en route to last Saturday's "largest and most gala Homecoming in the history of the school," as advance publicity declared.

Statistics show that the biggest turnover in the automobile business is on Sundays.—The Teacola.

Lynx Chat

Your little lynx pussy suffered through Homecoming along with all the rest of youse bums. Never in all my life did I get so drenched as at the football game, and then later drifting from lodge to lodge to see all my little cronies. It was with a great deal of pleasure that I returned to the pent house apartment to get decked out in all my finery for the dance. Pandemonium had a wonderful cup of chocolate for all of us, so it was with renewed spirits that we set out again at eight-thirty.

Betty Orgill, Lockridge, and Icky spent Sunday at Minna Deen's plantation, and from all we have heard, the best word to describe Mr. Orenstein's ability as a horseback rider is ludicrous. . . . Dot Esch, Louise Howry, and Caroline Murphy were all showing off their Clemson dates at the dance. . . . And we had heard that Miss Esch had a secret passion for H. C. Robertson. . . . We were glad to see all the old grads back, not to mention the faculty out for their one function of the year. In fact, we believe that the out of school gals were having a bigger whirl than our own little Southwestern co-eds. Especially was Miss Susan Polk O'Brien, who left us last year to become a working girl, swirling from partner to partner.

We were relieved to see Kitty Bright Tipton come out of the football in a sober condition. What, with going round-and-round, we thought she would have been staggering. . . . New shoes seemed to be quite the rage Saturday night. Glimpsed on the floor was Elizabeth Hinkley, better known as "Goo-goo eyes," dancing in her stocking feet (where was Mrs. Townsend?) and dangling her shoes over her date's back. . . . Also Cary Eckert was suffering from the same torture. She sat down and took her's off and had great difficulty getting back in. . . . We think Screwball should bring out Wini Pritchard. . . . And we are all weeping copious tears now that Ki (whath that you thaid) Farnsworth has deserted us in order to spend all her time in making the debut.

One of the funniest things that we have heard in a long time is the hoax foisted off on the campus by Toni Noce and about four KA's. Miss Noce was seen to arrive Monday morning sporting a huge KA pin, sparkling with opals and diamonds. Be and Droop immediately went into a fit at the AOPi radiator to find whose it was. But Toni was not saying anything. While Fourmy, Hollis and Annie Few were snooping all over the campus trying to discover whose pin she had, Kay Ramsey and Mina Cavett, not to mention the rest of Miss Noce's biology lab, were doing their best to "worm" it out of her. Here's what really happened: McBurney, Gaither, Billy Murrach and Jac Ruffin had given the pin to Toni to wear for two days just to see what would happen. The funniest thing that did occur was when Betty Jean Claffey came up to Toni, surrounded by on-lookers, and said to those present, "Oh yes, I've known about this for some time." Now, Betty Jean.

We have finally discovered why John Gibson has been seen so little of late. The answer is Elinor Boothe.

. . . But we never have understood about Maurice Miller. . . . And at this time let us congratulate the Sigma Alpha Epsilons on winning the plaque at Homecoming (in spite of their electricity going off just as the judges came around). . . . Ask Ann Worten how she enjoyed playing "Doctor" the other night. . . . Have you seen all the football purses that girls are using on the campus. Add smiles: Eager as a boy on his first date. . . . The Stylus Club at its last meeting degenerated into a bridge party with three tables rapidly organizing before refreshments.

Dr. Davis confessed in biology lab the other afternoon that there were a number of students on the campus who were better at making home brew than he. . . . And we do wonder where Chuck Guthrie and Don Woolsey were the other night that made them sleep all through classes the next day. Said Don naively: "We went to the show, then came home and studied so late, that the next morning we were too tired to go to class." . . . And don't ask Coach High about how he fed the Clemson cadets if you want to save him embarrassment. Here he had invited them all out to dinner and forgot to tell Mrs. Hill, so off they had to troup back to their hotel. . . . And what do you think of Miss Lloyd Talley, Chi Omega, who was with us this year, and who is getting married shortly? . . . And we forgot to bid adieu to Shirley Woods, ZTA, who only came to school a few weeks and then got married. . . . And we hear that an announcement will be made in Sunday's Commercial about the engagement of two former Southwestern students. We could scoop them, but that wouldn't be fair.

Some people seem to be born busy-bodies. They have the interfering complex.—Quoted.

Echoes From The Morgue

Three years ago this week—

Joe Williams, nationally sports writer, spoke at the annual football banquet.

Jim Merrin, editor of the annual, announced that individual pictures of all classes will be included in the 1937 annual. This is the first time that such pictures have been used.

Journal editors announced consolidation of the customary two issues into one, to appear in the spring.

Two years ago this week—

Orley Nettles, junior end, was elected to captain the Lynx team next year. Gaylon Smith was elected alternate captain.

The Lynx Cats closed their season by losing to Centre College, 7 to 6. Gaylon Smith scored his fourteenth touchdown of the year.

Anne Potts won the women's ping pong tournament.

One year ago this week—

"The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde, was presented by the Southwestern Players.

Gaylon Smith was elected captain of the basketball team.

The SAE's won their sixth straight intramural championship by copping the volleyball tournament.

Steve Frazier, Thomas McLemore, and George Humphrey were initiated into ODK.

Lynx Roll Of Special Mention

Special mention this week goes to two of the bulwarks of the Southwestern line. Both men are familiar faces on the campus and all of you will doubtless agree with us in our choice. Both were standouts in last Saturday's game with Clemson.

First on the list is Bernard Lockridge. Lockridge, or Lock, as he is more familiarly known on the campus, is a junior from Albertville, Alabama. His father is engaged in the hardware business (MY! MY! Isn't that a coincidence?) in Albertville. His high school education was received at the Albertville High School. While in high school he played on the baseball, basketball and football teams. He was captain of his football team his senior year. Other athletic honors came to him when he was chosen on two all-star baseball teams, and when he was given honorable mention for the all-state football team.

Lock came to Southwestern in the fall of '37. In that, his freshman year, he played in the backfield of the freshman team and also played on the freshman basketball team. Last year he played a good deal in the varsity backfield and on the varsity basketball team.

Up until the Clemson game, Lockridge had seen little service. He did not get into the game then until the last quarter when he went in to replace Tony Canzoneri. This was Lock's first real assignment at the end position. If he was inexperienced, the fact did not make itself known while he was in the game. After he first went in Clemson tried to run two plays around him with the net loss of five yards. From then on out they tried to run around the other end, but Luke Dawson stopped them there. Several times Lock pulled the runner down when the said runner was trying to break through on the other side of the line. From the looks of his performance, Southwestern is going to have another good man to replace senior Luke Dawson at the terminal position next year. He is 21 years old, weighs 187 pounds and is 5'10" tall.

Bernard also holds one of the most important and creditable positions on the campus. For two years he has been on the honor council and is president of the council this year.

Next and last on today's list is Hays George Heaton. "Porky" hails from Science Hill, Kentucky, where his father is employed by one of the railroad companies. He attended Somerset High School at Somerset, Kentucky. In prep school he played football for three years, basketball one year, and was on the track team for two years. He received honorable mention on the all-star Central Kentucky Conference team two years, and was given honorable mention on the all-state team his senior year.

Hays is a sophomore, having come to Southwestern a year ago this fall. Last year he played tackle on the freshman team. This year he started out as second string tackle and was elevated to the first string in the middle of the year. Heaton was one of the "Iron Lynx" who played all of the Loyola game.

"Porky" is a pillar of strength in the middle of the line. He is one of the biggest men on the squad, weighing two hundred and twenty-four pounds and standing six feet one inch in his stocking feet.

Hays' work has been notable all year, but he reached his peak against

KELSO SPEAKS TO BIBLE CLASS

The Bible Class, at its meeting last Sunday evening, heard an interesting talk by Dr. A. P. Kelso on the subject, "Puritanism." Next Sunday, Dr. J. H. Davis, professor of history, will speak to the class concerning the life of the great composer, Bach. His talk will be supplemented by the playing of several recordings of Bach's compositions. All students are invited to attend.

Clemson last Saturday. Time and again he broke through the line to spill Clemson's runners behind the line of scrimmage. His offensive play was well done also, for very few gains were made over him or on either side of him. His best defensive work of the year came when Clemson had the ball on the Lynx' one yard line. Two plays were tried on his side of the line and both tries went for no gain. If that isn't great line play then what is?

SAE Leads In Intramurals

Downs Sigma Nu Team 1-0 In Soccer Finals

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity chalked up its second win in branches of intra-mural sports with the defeat of a fighting Sigma Nu team in the soccer finals by a score of 1-0.

The single goal of the SAE's was made in the second extra period of play by Bud McCraney. The defensive work of Cotton McGrady and Stubby Brown was exceptional, stopping the Sigma Nu drives spearheaded by Dub Worthington and Barney Gallagher.

The badminton tourney has gotten under way, but no accurate results could be obtained from Walter Costello, intra-mural scorekeeper.

Lynx Lose To Clemson, But Play Fine Game

Stop McFadden And Tigers Cold After Bad First Quarter

By DOROTHY McGEHEE

The Southwestern Lynx ended the home season with a loss to Clemson, 21-7, last Saturday, but they played three quarters of the best football that has been seen here this year, in spite of a drizzling rain and a muddy field. The great Banks McFadden of the Clemson team was completely stopped and the whole Tiger squad was baffled at the strength shown by a team that they considered a breather. Ickey Orenstein displayed his best form, and Leon Underwood's punting was superb.

The Lynx surprised everyone including themselves with their offensive and defensive passing attack. Southwestern completed three passes from Orenstein to Luke Dawson and only missed two, while Clemson completed one and missed four.

In the first of the game the Lynx got off to a bad start and gave away three touchdowns in one and half quarters; one to McFadden, who galloped 45 yards untouched for the first score, one to Floyd, and one to Bryant. Bryant kicked all three extra points. Then the Lynx seemed to get on to themselves and they began to play real football. Orenstein worked from the Lynx 38 downfield to the Clemson 7 then on a trick play he lateraled to Underwood, who dashed over the goal as Jimmy Andrew faked a plunge at the line. Andrew missed the extra point but no one cared much because the Lynx had at least scored.

The rest of the game was a draw as both teams locked time and again. In the whole second half there were only two first downs for each side registered, and most of the show was the superb punting of McFadden and Underwood, who averaged 40 yards apiece.

Clemson, of course, was the more powerful team, but there is no doubt about the fact that Southwestern is no push over. The Lynx fought, and fought hard. Every man on the team did his job well. Luke Dawson and Tony Canzoneri played the ends magnificently, Bernard Lockridge later substituting brilliantly for Canzoneri. Doyle Fuller, Capt. Harry Morris, and Dumpy Bailey did beautiful jobs in the line and Baxter Pouncey filled Will Rhea Winfrey's shoes well at fullback.

The Clemson drill platoon took the field between halves and entertained the crowd with wide-flung maneuvers. The cadets marched into squad segments, walked off by themselves, and then came together again in drill movements that were military perfection.

But when I asked what do you do?
She answered with a wink

And when I saw she scarce demurred,
Again I asked, "What do you do?"
She closer to me bent
And smiling said, "I chew."

Joe Smith had drowned in the Blackstone River, and a policeman was sent to his house to break the news to his wife.

"Don't scare her to death," his superior officer warned. So the officer wended his way to the Smith house.

When Mrs. Smith answered the summons the officer spoke: "Is this where widow Smith lives?"

"I am Mrs. Smith," said the lady, "but I'm not a widow."

And the officer simply said, "What will you bet?"

A big buck Indian had just ordered a ham sandwich at a drug counter and was peering between the slices of bread when he turned to the waiter: "Ugh, you slice 'em ham?"

The waiter looked up and replied, "Yes, I sliced the ham." "Ugh," grunted the Indian, "you damn near miss 'em."

Do Students And Faculty Look Alike Or Are We Crazy?

Have you ever noticed that there are quite a few "birds of a feather" on the campus? Between the members of the faculty and the students, especially the boys, there are some amazingly striking likenesses. These qualities of affinity even promise to be more than skin-deep. For instance there's Dr. Townsend and Robert Price. Both are rotund, wear glasses, are extremely quick-witted and literarily inclined, preferring Shakespeare to all other poet-playwrights. Dr. Townsend is noted for his dramatic ability, and it is rumored that Robert aspires to follow in the Doctor's illustrious footsteps.

There is another professor-student similarity which has possibilities—that of J. History Davis and Little Bobby McCrary. They like scarfs in lieu of neckties, love to jitterbug, prefer shady to funny jokes, and furthermore, cheerleading is the secret favorite hobby of both.

In appearance, Senor Storn and Charlie Orto are very much alike. From the rear view of their heads, they're hard to tell apart. And have you ever noticed that Jim Cogswell and Rothrock Miller's voices are too, too alike—(eg. "Waal, Mrs. Townsend").

Another combination which has already caused much comment is the physical similarity between Dr. Liston and "Shipwreck" Kelly. . . . You know, the shaggy, strong, idealistic men.

Last year, it was Dr. MacQueen and Billy Kelly, but this term's best pair is C. P. Lee and Curtis Hurley. Now there is something. . . . Don't get me started.

Women generally tend to remember the pleasant experiences in their lives and forget the unpleasant ones, while men remember the unpleasant ones, forgetting the pleasant ones.—Popular Science.

There are 75 people employed by Southwestern, including 58 members of staff and faculty, 10 porters and janitors, 5 chefs, and 2 maids.

Students Prefer Dewey To Roosevelt In 1940 Election

By JOE BELDEN

Student Opinion Surveys of America, Austin, Texas, Nov. 10.—Thomas E. Dewey, youthful New York district attorney, is first choice for the United States presidency among the nation's college and university students, less than a third of whom want Franklin D. Roosevelt to run again.

Six months ago the Student Opinion Surveys of America, sounding board of U. S. college youth, found in its first poll on presidential possibilities that Paul McNutt, Democrat, held the lead with a popularity of 17.7 per cent, only 2.1 per cent over Dewey. Today the racket-busting Republican has climbed ahead and has with him over a third of those collegians who declare they have made up their minds on a candidate for 1940. McNutt has dropped to second place, Vice-President John N. Garner following a close third.

The poll represents the opinions of students without including President Roosevelt as a possible candidate. Staff interviewers also asked a cross-section of students including all age, sex, geographical, and political groups, "Would you like to see Roosevelt run for a third term?"

Only 31.8 per cent said yes. But since last January the President has increased his third-term approval among collegians from 28.2 per cent, the continuing polls of the Student Opinion Surveys show. The Surveys are published weekly by student newspapers the nation over, which cooperate by conducting local interviews that are mailed to the headquarters at the University of Texas for tabulation.

To the question, "If Roosevelt is not a candidate in 1940, whom would you like to see elected president?" these answers were given:

	May '39	Today
1. Dewey (R)	15.6	33.8
2. McNutt (D)	17.7	11.0
3. Garner (D)	9.7	9.4
4. Vandenberg (R)	3.8	8.3
5. Hull (D)	8.3	7.9
All Others		29.6

In both polls it has been found that most college youth apparently pay no attention to political party lines. Many who say their or their parents' sentiments lie with the Republican party select a Democrat, and vice versa. Therefore, in the results above there is no attempt to separate Democrats, Republicans, or any others.

Comparisons with the polls of the American Institute of Public Opinion show that possible candidates leading among the nation's voters are the same among college students. With Republican voters Dewey is a favorite. With Democrats, Garner is the leader, and McNutt, who has been gaining consistently, is second only to the vice-president. Among students, however, Garner leads only in the South. In every other section of the country Dewey and McNutt are more popular.

The answers above represent opinions only of those students who have decided on a possible candidate. There is a large number—about 4 out of every 10—who say they do not yet have any particular choice.

An adventure is an inconvenience rightly considered. An inconvenience is an adventure wrongly considered.—G. K. Chesterton.
