Course Description and Goals
This course will examine the depictions of – and occasionally by – women in the art of the ancient world, with the primary focus being on the cultures of Greece and Rome. The course will explore the impact of the role of gender in ancient art, as well as its treatment within modern scholarship.

Required Materials

Evaluation
Class Attendance and Participation: 10%
Exam #1 (Friday, February 24th): 30%
Exam #2 (Wednesday, April 26th): 30%
Presentation and Paper (individually determined): 10%
Comprehensive Final Exam (Friday, May 5th at 5:30 p.m.): 20%

Grading
All work is evaluated on the grading scale outlined in the Rhodes College Catalogue: A, excellent; B, good; C, satisfactory; D, passing; and F, failure (with pluses and minuses where appropriate). The American Heritage Dictionary definition of “excellent” highlights its rarefied state, defining it as something “of the highest or finest quality; exceptionally good of its kind.” Thus, only a student that demonstrates a real command of the subject, integrating and even extrapolating from the course materials to craft creative and compelling arguments that are articulated and supported in a consistently outstanding manner will earn an A; while excellent students typically dedicate significant time and effort to their coursework, only the results of that time and effort are evaluated.

Attendance and Participation
In order for students to make meaningful contributions to class discussion, it is expected that all assigned readings will be completed in advance of the week in which they will be addressed, as outlined in the “Weekly Topics and Readings” section. The professor reserves the right to use a variety of methods to evaluate student participation and preparation for class. Such methods include – but are not limited to – unannounced quizzes, in-class exercises, short take-home assignments and/or having a randomly chosen student answer a particular question in class or even lead class discussion; some of these methods may be graded by the professor or fellow students, while others are not formally graded at all; all are intended to help students prepare for the format and content of the exam. While there is no strictly applied mathematical formula that corresponds to student success in such events, repeated failures clearly demonstrate a lack of meaningful engagement with course material that will be reflected in a student’s participation grade.
Of course, students cannot participate in class in any way if they are not present. Therefore, students will be monitored in regard to their regular and prompt attendance in class. Because late arrival is so disruptive to a discussion class, any student arriving more than five minutes late to class will be marked late, which will effectively count as half of an absence. Occasionally, a student may find that some compelling need arises that causes them to miss class completely; such matters are at the discretion of the student and the professor requires no explanation. However, missing more than three classes will result in a five-point deduction in the student’s final attendance and participation grade, with every additional absence thereafter resulting in an additional one-point deduction.

If the student has a serious illness or other crisis that will cause the student to miss class, it is important to promptly notify the professor and be prepared to provide written documentation upon the student’s return. If the professor feels that the absences were unavoidable, any missed classes will be considered as excused when they are figured into the attendance portion of the final grade.

Ultimately, it is the responsibility of the student to stay current with the course. Students are responsible for all of the lecture and discussion material presented in class, as well as any audio-visual materials shown. However, these are all one-time only events: none of these materials will be repeated. Therefore, if you are absent – even if you absence is “excused” – you should first contact other students for notes and then read about that material in the text. If any of the missed material still remains unclear to you, contact the professor, who will then be pleased to answer any lingering questions.

Late Work and Missed Exams

Any required materials that are not turned in at the start of the class for which they are due are immediately lowered by five points. Further late materials are lowered by ten points for each day after the due date; no late papers will be accepted more than four days after the original deadline.

Make-up exams are given only at the discretion of the professor. In addition to timely notification, the professor may require written documentation from the student before allowing a student to attend a make-up exam. If the student has a valid, documented excuse that causes them to miss a substantial portion of the course, such as an extended hospital stay, the professor may then decide to remove an exam or paper from the evaluation method of the course, effectively increasing the percentage value of the other course requirements. Incompletes are very rarely allowed.

Computer Use

Several different elements of the course require computer access. Course documents are available through the professor’s virtual class folder, which is located on the Art Department files server on the Rhodes website (consult ITS for information on how to access this on and off campus). Required journal readings can be accessed through the “Knowledge Portal” of the Rhodes College Library as part of the collection of “Online Journals in Licensed Databases.” Other useful sites may include: Diotima, Materials for Study of Women and Gender in the Ancient World (http://www.stoa.org/diotima/); Perseus Project (http://www.perseus.tufts.edu); FORVM ANTIQVVM (http://www.sas.upenn.edu/~ekondrat/ForumAntiquum.html); College Art Association Proper Citation of Sources in the Electronic Age (http://www.collegeart.org/caa/news/2004/March/ProperCitation.html); or the Rhodes Writing Center (http://www.rhodes.edu/writingcenter/).
Possible Objectionable Material
This class includes images that contain nudity, violence, and other imagery that may be offensive to some viewers. If you are unwilling to examine and discuss such works in an academic context then you should reconsider enrollment in this course.

Academic Honesty
All work in this course must be completed in accordance with the Honor System at Rhodes College. In keeping with this policy, students are required to sign the Honor Pledge on every exam and paper submitted for this course.

Special Needs
If a student has a documented disability and which to receive academic accommodations, the student should first contact the Office of Student Disability Services (x3994) and then provide the professor with an accommodation form as soon as possible.

WEEKLY TOPICS AND READINGS (Subject to Change)
Note that all readings should be completed before the class for which they are assigned!

Week One
Wednesday, January 11: Introduction to Course
Friday, January 13: Introduction to Subject

Week Two
- Text: Begin Chapter 1
  Wednesday, January 18
  Friday, January 20

Week Three
- Text: Finish Chapter 1 and Chapter 2
  Monday, January 23
  Wednesday, January 25
  Friday, January 27

Week Four
- Text: Begin Chapter 3
  Monday, January 30: Student Presentations Begin
  Wednesday, February 1
  Friday, February 3
Week Five
- Text: Finish Chapter 3 and Chapter 4

Monday, February 6
Wednesday, February 8
Friday, February 10

Week Six
- Text: Chapters 5 and 6

Monday, February 13
Wednesday, February 15
Friday, February 17

Week Seven
Monday, February 20: Finish Week Six Material
Wednesday, February 22: Review
Friday, February 24: EXAM#1

Week Eight
- Text: Chapter 8
Monday, February 27
Wednesday, March 1
Friday, March 3

Week Nine
- Text: Chapters 7 and 9

Monday, March 6
Wednesday, March 8
Friday, March 10

Week Ten
- Text: Begin Chapter 11

Monday, March 20
Wednesday, March 22
Friday, March 24
Week Eleven
- Text: Finish Chapter 11

Monday, March 27
Wednesday, March 29
Friday, March 31

Week Twelve
- Text: Chapter 13

Monday, April 3
Wednesday, April 5
Friday, April 7

Week Thirteen
- Text: Chapters 10 and 12

Monday, April 10
Wednesday, April 12

Week Fourteen
- Finish Material from Weeks Twelve and Thirteen

Monday, April 17
Wednesday, April 19
Friday, April 21

Week Fifteen
Monday, April 24: Review
Wednesday, April 26: EXAM#2

Comprehensive Final Exam: Friday, May 5th at 5:30 p.m.