LEARNING COMMUNITY DESIGN:

Learning communities present students with the opportunity to maximize the college course experience by enrolling in complementary classes, living in close proximity with each other, and participating in co-curricular activities outside the classroom. While each class has its own learning strategies, assignments, grading policies, and deadlines, the instructors work together to maximize opportunities to study children and to provide an enriched learning environment.

As of the beginning of classes, 4 special activities have been planned. Others may present themselves as the semester continues.

Thur, Sep 1 or 8: “Conversations with course alums” 6:30-8:00 pm  Dr. Walton’s home
Thurs, Sep 15: “Babies” - film viewing & discussion  TBA
Sat, Nov. 5: field trip to the Nat’l Civil Rights Museum  TBA  written assignment
Tues, Nov. 29: “Merchants of Cool” – film viewing and discussion 6:30-8:00  Dr. Murray’s home

CLASS POLICIES:

+PLAGIARISM: The Rhodes Honor Code demands scrupulous citation of all sources used in a research paper, including sources of ideas and critical assessment. Bear in mind that critical ideas, approach, strategy, and structure – as well as direct quotes – must be cited each and every time the source is used. Ignorance of correct form is not an acceptable excuse. Papers that do not follow the guidelines found in the Rhodes College Guide to Effective Paper Writing will be returned ungraded.

+ATTENDANCE & PARTICIPATION: The quality of the course is highly dependent on your personal involvement. In order to fully participate, you must read assigned material before coming to class, think about how it relates to previous readings and discussions, and be prepared to raise questions with other members of the class. A missed class – for whatever reason – requires a typed summary of the readings with a discussion of how the material relates to previous class discussion or raises questions about previously discussed themes. Due within one week of the absence.
+COMPLETION: Students who fail to complete any of the evaluative measures listed will fail the course. Students who consistently miss class or fail to complete their service-learning assignment will be asked to withdraw from the course.

+COLLEGE POLICIES: This class conforms to all Rhodes policies regarding non-discrimination, learning accommodations, honor system, and non-sexual harassment policies.

+DEADLINES: Essays are due and tests are given according to the dates on the syllabus. Late papers will be penalized one letter grade for each calendar day late. Students may make up exams or assignments only if arrangements are made well ahead of time.

CLASS REQUIREMENTS:

+ ANALYTICAL ESSAYS: Students will submit three readings-based analytical essays in response to specific prompts provided by the instructor. Essays should be double-spaced and include citations to material. Because your essays do not involve research outside of the course readings, we will use parenthetical citations. Cite the author, text, and page number. For articles on Moodle, cite the author, title, and date accessed. For example, (Linda Gordon, “Child Abuse...,” Major Problems, 270). After the 1st citation, you can use simply author and page the next time. (Gordon, 275)

Essays will be evaluated on quality of analysis, organization, and grammar/style. Late papers will be penalized one letter grade per day late; students not turning in papers on time will not be allowed to participate in class until the paper is received.

+ORAL HISTORY: The 3rd essay will be based on an interview with one of your parents or care-givers, either in person or over the phone. We will have a short class on how to prepare questions for the interview, how to conduct follow up, and how to use oral histories in constructing your essay. The focus will be the philosophy or ideals that guided their parenting, specific difficult parenting issues, their use of parenting books, etc.

+TESTS: The exams will include short-answer identification of terms and ideas and perhaps an essay question that requires synthesizing materials around a central theme. The questions will be drawn from readings, lectures, and class discussions. See reading calendar for the dates of the in-class examinations.

+HOMEWORK and CLASS PARTICIPATION: All students are expected to participate fully in classroom discussions based on thorough reading of assignments and attention to the questions raised by the readings assigned. Homework will be recorded as complete, partially correct, or incomplete. Combined with class participation, one grade is assigned for both.

SUMMARY of STUDENT ASSESSMENT:
3 Analytical essays @ 15%  = 45%
Oral history project 10
Midterm Exam 15
Participation/Homework 15
Final Exam 15
100%

A Word about Essay Grading: An “A” essay will have a clear interpretive or analytical argument set forth in the first paragraph. That argument will be supported by specific information, correctly cited, in the body of the paper. The author will use multiple sources (depending on the wording of the prompt) and will approach the sources critically. Paragraphs will have a clear focus and will be logically linked. Originality and creativity make the “A” essay stand apart from the “B” Correct grammar and punctuation are imperative.

The College’s Writing Center, located on the 1st floor of Barret Library, is a great resource for brainstorming an argument and getting help with organization and support for a claim. They will not, however, proof read your paper!

STRATEGIES FOR STUDENT SUCCESS: -actively engage the assigned readings; come to class with questions for discussion
-be prompt and conscientious about your community-based learning project
-meet deadlines
-alert instructor to any personal issues or college activities that interfere with your course work before your work suffers

BOOKS FOR PURCHASE All are widely available in paperback, often in used editions:
    Ann Moody, Coming of Age in Mississippi (Dell, 1968) Moody

Many assigned readings are found on the college’s free Moodle site. These are noted on the syllabus with an asterisk () Print out copies and bring to class.
