

Red and Green but Religiously Right: Religious Naturalism and the Menace of Evil

Monday, September 21, 2009
7-8 PM BCLC Ballroom
Free to the Public

Dr. Donald A. Crosby is Professor Emeritus of Philosophy at Colorado State University and an adjunct instructor at Florida State University. Crosby's interests focus on metaphysics, American pragmatism, philosophy of nature, existentialism, and philosophy of religion. He is a leader in discussions of Religious Naturalism.

ALSO: Monday, September 21, 2009

4-5 PM Orgill Room

Philosophy and Religion: Enemies or Friends?

A talk intended for the Rhodes campus, especially students

Rhodes College
— 1848 —

Co-sponsored by the Departments of Philosophy and Religious Studies, as well as the Search program