Course Description
This course offers an introduction to the cultural variety of the Western European Middle Ages through a series of paired medieval texts representing diverse genres and cultural traditions. Following a brief foray into medieval lyric verse, we will begin our in-depth study with the adventures of dragon-slaying Germanic heroes in the Old Norse Saga of the Volsungs and the Middle High German Nibelungenlied. Next, we will enter the realm of Arthurian romance as portrayed in Chrétien de Troyes’ Yvain and the Middle English Sir Gawain and the Green Knight. Our third and final unit will involve the study of medieval story collections, including the Anglo-Norman Lais of Marie de France and the medieval Welsh Mabinogi. All texts will be read in modern English translation. In addition to its function as a comparative survey of medieval literature, English 219 is designed to develop and strengthen skills in reading, writing, and critical analysis. To this end, course requirements will also include close reading of numerous secondary sources and a substantial amount of formal and informal writing. Prerequisite: FYWS 131 or permission from the instructor. F21, F4.

Texts and Readings
- Das Nibelungenlied: Song of the Nibelungs (trans., Yale UP; Raffel)
- Chrétien de Troyes, Yvain: The Knight of the Lion (Yale UP; trans., Raffel)
- Sir Gawain and the Green Knight (Norton Critical Edition; trans., Marie Borroff)
- The Saga of the Volsungs (Penguin; trans., Byock)
- Lays of Marie de France (Penguin; trans., Burgess and Busby)
- The Mabinogion (Oxford World Classics; trans. Davies)
- Rhodes College, Guide to Effective Writing (available online, linked from Moodle)

Please note that translations vary greatly, and it is crucial that you have the assigned texts. If the bookstore is out of any of these books, please contact the textbook office as soon as possible to request copies. In addition to these primary texts, assigned scholarly articles and book chapters relevant to these works will be available through our class Moodle site.

Course Requirements
- three papers (5-7 pages, approx 1500 words, each) 50%
  - Each of our three units will conclude with the submission of a critical paper (worth 15% each).
  - Each of these papers should offer close textual analysis, engage two or more relevant secondary sources, and develop a clearly articulated and well-supported thesis. A detailed assignment sheet will be provided prior to each paper.
  - Prior to each paper submission, one day will be devoted to writing workshops. Preparation and participation in these writing workshops will determine 5% of your grade. Preparation might include such activities as draft writing, online and in-class peer review, or related activities. Other paper-related work such as topic proposals or progress reports will also fall under this portion of your grade.
  - Turnitin.com offers useful features for grading and online peer review, and all students will be required submit through this site. For other modes of submission, any special arrangements must be made ahead of time and outside of class. To use turnitin, create a user account for yourself (if you do not already have an account) and enroll in our class with the ID 8493925 and password “dragons.”
Late papers submitted more than 5 minutes after the beginning of class and within a week of the original due date and time will be subject to a 10% late penalty. Please note that the late submissions of the final revision assignment cannot be accepted. Any special arrangements must be made ahead of time and outside of class.

Revision: While drafting and revision will be an integral component of every unit and paper, at the end of the semester, you will submit a revision of the paper of your choice along with a cover letter detailing your goals and changes. The grade of the revised paper will be averaged with the original submission for a new grade. Keep in mind, however, that revision is mandatory and failure to submit a revised paper will result in a 5% reduction of your last paper. Your revision will be submitted by or at the scheduled time of the final examination. Late revisions cannot be accepted. (To help ensure that students have ample time for revision, the final exam will not be cumulative and will be designed to take only 50 minutes.)

- daily online writing and assessment 20%
  - Daily writing assignments or quizzes are intended to stimulate in-class discussions, to serve as starting points for formal papers (where appropriate), and to offer additional writing practice throughout the semester.
  - All daily online assignments will be due by 7am before each class period.
    - Keep in mind that on most days daily assignments will involve writing full paragraphs (approximately 200 words), and you will thus need to plan your time accordingly and start work early.
    - On some days, daily online assignments will take the form of quizzes, so be sure to have completed all assigned reading before beginning daily assignments.
  - Late work will not receive credit.
  - The two lowest scores will be dropped to allow for occasional illness and emergencies. Any special arrangements must be made ahead of time and outside of class and should be recorded in the "special arrangements" box on Moodle.

- examinations (three, including the final) 30%
  - All examinations will include a combination of objective questions and essays. On review days, some class time will be devoted to the skills of in-class essay writing.
  - Keep in mind that your mandatory paper revision will be due by or at the time of the final examination. To compensate for the time taken in revising, the final examination will not be cumulative, covering only material since the last exam. It will be designed to take no more time than a regular class period. Any special arrangements must be made ahead of time and outside of class.

Additional Notes

Class preparation: Please read all materials carefully before you come to class. Bring questions about what is difficult or confusing to you. Also come prepared to share your thoughtful insights and responses. It is your responsibility to notify me before class time of any problems completing readings or assignments. While time spent completing readings and assignments will no doubt vary from student to student and from day to day, you should expect to spend several hours preparing for each hour that you are in class. See helpful tips on time management at http://www.rhodes.edu/counselingcenter/12089.asp.

Honor code: All work must adhere to the honor code: "As a member of the Rhodes community, I pledge I will not lie, cheat, or steal, and that I will report any such violation that I may witness."

Plagiarism and academic integrity: The Rhodes College Honor Council Constitution defines plagiarism as follows: "Cheating includes plagiarism; specifically, it is the act of using another person's words or ideas and representing them as one's original work. This includes, without limitation, using information from any source without proper reference, getting ideas or words from a classmate's paper, failure to properly punctuate direct quotes, and obtaining a paper from someone else. Ignorance is not an excuse for these violations. It is the student's responsibility to consult the professor, an Honor Council member, or writing handbooks for procedure for properly acknowledging sources." Barret Library offers the following advice for avoiding possible plagiarism:

- Acknowledge and cite all sources properly.
- Use quotation marks around words that are not your own.
- Properly introduce and indent longer quotations that are not your own.
• Use footnotes or endnotes to acknowledge another's words or ideas.
• Do not paraphrase too closely.

Please note also that all writing in English 219 must be original work produced specifically for this course. No paper or portion of a paper—even if revised—may receive credit if it has already received or will receive credit in another class. Please ask me or a Writing Center staff member if you have any doubt about even a small portion of a paper that you have produced.

Attendance: As the official Student Handbook explains, Rhodes College “considers interactive engagement with other students and the professor, in a structured setting, to be one of the essential and central components of the academic program. . . . Absenteeism is not to be taken lightly” (http://www.rhodes.edu/collegehandbook/10372.asp). Regular attendance is thus expected and counts as a part of your participation grade. Three tardies will be treated as one absence. In addition to the effect of absences on your participation grade, after three unexcused absences, your overall grade may automatically be reduced by 2 percentage points each day, down to 60%. (In other words, a student will not fail on the basis of attendance alone, but poor attendance could theoretically reduce a grade as low as D-.) For example, if your course average at the end of the semester is an 80% and you have 4 unexcused absences, your course grade will be lowered to 78%. I will take roll or distribute a roll sheet at the beginning of each class. I will have a sign-in sheet for late arrivals at the front of the room. Please note that it is your responsibility to sign the sheet if you arrive late in order to avoid recorded absences. Absences and tardies may be excused only if I have been notified ahead of time and outside of class. If you miss class, be sure to check the course website for missed material or assignments. Students whose reasons for absence raise privacy concerns should seek assistance from the Office of Student Affairs: http://www.rhodes.edu/campuslife/1186.asp.

Computer problems: Please be aware that computer and printing problems will not serve as an excuse for late assignments. Back up your hard-drive files frequently, and always keep copies on flash drives or saved to a server.

Extenuating Circumstances: If you need to discuss extenuating circumstances, please arrange a time to meet with me or contact me by email. Please avoid using the time immediately before and after class to ask for special arrangements. Any special arrangements should be made ahead of time and outside of class and should also be recorded in the Moodle “special arrangements” box. Information on late penalties can be found under course requirements.

Special Accommodations: If you require any disability-related accommodations, please contact me as soon as possible. I am more than happy to help make any necessary arrangements. If you have not already done so, please contact the Office of Disability Services: 901-843-3885. For further information, go to http://www.rhodes.edu/disabilityservices/default.asp.

Additional Resources: Success in this course and others is likely to be enhanced with careful time management, good study habits, and a general sense of well-being. The Counseling Center offers free and confidential counseling to Rhodes students: http://www.rhodes.edu/counselingcenter.asp. In addition, helpful links and information on such issues as test anxiety, procrastination, homesickness, study skills, and stress are available at http://www.rhodes.edu/counselingcenter/12077.asp
