PRICE - SIX CENTS

$500 Prize For New Year's Day Twins Born Here

Twin girls born here between midnight and noon New Year's Day will be in line for $500 in gifts in the Ninth Annual Toni Twin Baby Derby.

On New Year's Day this year twin girls were born at John Gaston to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jones of 1562 Rayburn. The twins, Bobbie Ann and Betty Ann, were awarded $500 in gifts by the cosmetic firms which sponsor the affair.

Lucky twin girls who beat the deadline will receive a year's supply of Gerber's baby food, Trundle Bundle infants' wear, a special selection of Love dresses, Storkline cribs, Kantwet mattresses and Tour-A-Beds, an assortment of Playskool educational toys, and a Hedstrom twin baby carriage.

The odds are surprisingly favorable in this race with the stork. If you, or someone you know, expects a New Year's Day arrival, the chances are one in 528 that it will turn out to be Derby-winning twins. In the last three baby derbies, however, the long-legged bird proved generous by delivering 122 winners, when only 102 were forecast.

Last year's winners were most numerous in Pennsylvania, where four sets qualified Michigan had three, and others were scattered all over the nation.

Winners will be announced New Year's Day. Parents of eligible newcomers should send collect wires to the Toni Twin Baby Derby, Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Illinois. Wires must reach Baby Derby headquarters by 2 p. m., CST, on January 1. Announcements must be received by January 15. No entries will be accepted after that date.

CITED AT MALLORY - Eleven years ago Fred Hardy, 2984 Broad, went to work as a forklift operator at Mallory Air Force Station. In the Transportation Division, he moves thousands of pounds of freight to and from warehouse and truck each month. On the front of his cap, there are ten buttons, one for each year of driving without an accident. His eleventh button is due in April and Fred Hardy is holding his breath but keeping his eyes wide open.

26 Cited By Memphis Army General Depot

Twenty-six employees of the Memphis General Depot who have driven a total of 125 years or more than 5-million manhours without a preventable accident were presented safe-driver pins today. It was announced by Colonel Otmar P. Kotick, Commanding Officer.

The shield shaped, gold plated safety pins were conferred by the National Safety Council through the Depot, along with a wallet size certificate, bearing a registered number, signed by Ned Dearborn of the National Safety Council, and the Depot's commanding officer.

Others receiving the "Nation's Highest Award for Professional Safe Driving" were:

Nine-year pins - John W. Pleasants, 1742 Hays.

Eight-year pins - Otis Holloway, 2235 Charjean and Frank Jones, 2742 Park.

Seven-year pins - Horace Knight, 3794 Whittier; Johnson Saulsberry.

Operation Permits Boy To Eat First Christmas Dinner

CHICAGO - (INS) - A six-year-old Rockford, Ill., boy will eat his first Christmas dinner Tuesday at his home -- thanks to surgery performed at the University of Illinois hospital.

The boy, Kim Carlson, was allowed to return home for the holidays today when the operation was termed a complete success.

Kim was born with a stub of an esophagus that did not connect with his stomach. Since birth, his mother had fed him a liquidized diet direct into his stomach through an opening in his abdomen.

A week ago, surgeons provided the boy with a new esophagus fashioned from a six-inch section of his large colon, and for the past week he has been able to eat like a normal person.

Despite his handicap, Kim is of normal weight and height and has perfect teeth.

He will return to the hospital Jan. 7 for a checkup.

The rise in heart disease in U. S. tied to rich fat diet.

Southern Bell Appoints Davis

Jefferson Davis, of Atlanta, a native of Mississippi, has been appointed General Counsel of the Southern Bell Telephone Company at its Atlanta headquarters.

He assumes his new position after serving the company as Attorney from 1947 to 1949, General Attorney from 1949 to 1952 and General Solicitor from 1952 to the present.

Mr. Davis lives at 70 Montgomery Ferry Drive, N. E. Atlanta. He and Mrs. Davis, the former Jerdone Kimbrough, of Memphis, have three children, Jefferson, Jr., a student at Vanderbilt, and Kimbrough and Jerdone.

After graduating from Southwestern University at Memphis in 1931 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and from Cumberland University Law School in 1932 with the degree of Bachelor of Law, Mr. Davis entered private practice in his home town of Indianola, Miss. In 1941 he became Assistant Attorney General at Jackson, Miss. and with the exception of Navy service in World War II, held that office until June, 1946. He was then appointed Executive Assistant to the late Governor Thomas L. Bailey, later continuing in the same capacity under the late Governor Fielding L. Wright until he joined Southern Bell in June 1947.

He is the son of Mrs. S. F. Davis of Indianola, and the late Judge O. W. Davis, at the time of his death in 1948 was Judge of the Fourth Judicial District for over 20 years. A brother, Howard Q. Davis, practices law in Indianola.

Mr. Davis has been active in the professional bar organizations—American Law Institute, American Bar Association, Mississippi Bar Association, American Judicature Society, Atlanta Bar Association and Atlanta Lawyers Club. He is a Mason and a member of the Ansley Golf Club. He is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church in Atlanta and served two terms as president of the Henry Grady High School P-T-A. He has also been active in YMCA and other civic organizations.

Prisoner Relutes Gov.'s Statement

PARCHMAN, MISS. - (ANP) - A Negro inmate of the Mississippi State penitentiary last week reluted Governor J. P. Coleman's statement that there are only "about five whippings" a month with heavy leather belts at the prison.

The inmate, who asked that his name be withheld, said that contrary to Coleman's annual inspection statement about the treatment of inmates in the prison, "there are about a hundred lashings a week."

Parents Urged To Give Bibles And Not Bottles

EVANSTON, ILL. - (INS) - American parents were urged today to "give Bibles instead of bottles" to their young married children and friends this Christmas.

The suggestion came from Mrs. Glenn G. Hays, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. Hays said:

"Many youngsters drink at Christmas will have a profound effect on their young married children and friends this Christmas."

White House Staff Gets Surprise Christmas Gift

WASHINGTON - (INS) - Members of the White House staff received a surprise Christmas gift today - twin pictures of the President and the first lady.

The Eisenhower personally presented the pictures at their annual reception for some 600 staff members, from secretaries and house maids to ranking presidential aides.

There was another surprise for the children of the guests. The Eisenhower presented toys to be passed on to children under 12 years of age.

The President departed from the custom he has followed for the past three years of presenting prints of one of his paintings as a Christmas gift to his staff.

This time the picture was a smiling photograph of the President taken as he made his first television address of his campaign for re-election last Sept. 19.

Beneath the pictures, mounted side by side in a white Christmas folder, was the greeting: "With best wishes for a happy holiday season."

Autographs of the President and the First Lady were engraved beneath the holiday greeting.

The Christmas pictures also were presented to members of the White House news corps, whose children

MONTGOMERY BUSES RIDDEN WITHOUT USE OF SEGREGATION LAWS

MASS DIGNITY MEETS ALL OPPOSITION FACED

MONTGOMERY, Ala. - Negroes rode city buses in great numbers in Montgomery for the first time in one year and ten days. A few of them sat at the front usually reserved for whites. Several white passengers sat at the rear of the trolleys.

Passenger traffic on the buses in the Alabama capital was light even during the big Christmas rush, but the boycott, which had been in effect for over a year was noticeably at an end.

The only example of physical violence occurred when a Negro woman, Mrs. Janie Ruth Wilson, was slapped by a white man as she stepped off a bus. The man quickly got back in the car which had been following the bus and drove away.

Negroes, fully organized during the boycott gave evidence that they were equally well coached for the end of segregated seating on the buses. Under urging "not to be arrogant" they took seats from the front of the bus to the rear, while during the rush hour white passengers rode - as usual in the front section of the vehicles.

The Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., who has been prominent in the fight to gain equal seating was sworn at by a white man as he joined his followers in a return to the buses.

"This is what we expected," he said, "and what we'll have to put up with."

King reported other instances of Negroes "being cursed." He said, "I told them they would just have to take it for a while -- this is a period of great social change."

Rev. King said, "Our people have suffered a great deal. They have withstood abuse before; they will put up with it now, if that be necessary and we pray that this change to new dignity of our race can be affected in peace and goodwill between all men."

Meanwhile, circuit judge Walter B. Jones forced to dissolve his order restraining Negroes from riding the buses by the Supreme Court order delivered Thursday, said, "the U. S. Supreme Court has made its decision and decisions which have stood for almost 100 years, with the approval of all races. It has not only been away, without rhyme or reason, the state law and city ordinance, but it has also abolished the common law of the state and the wise and ancient custom of both races."

Appeal Hearing On Desegregation

NEW ORLEANS - (ANP) - A hearing has been set for Jan. 9, on an appeal by the Orleans Parish School Board of a federal court order against segregation of Negro students in the city's public schools. The Jan. 9 hearing will be before the United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

The school board will be trying to remove Judge J. Skelly Wright's February 17, decree which ordered the board to end its segregation policy.

CHRISTMAS REMINISCENCE

Charming Yvonne Henning is the daughter of Rev. H. W. Henning, pastor of the New Tyler A.M.E. Church of Memphis, Tenn. A senior co-ed at Wilberforce University, she enjoys pleasant thoughts as she contemplates activities during the Christmas holiday season. Miss Henning who expects to finish her four years undergraduate college training in June of 1957 is among the active Wilberforce University students. Primary on her holiday list is attendance at the Delta Sigma Theta National Convention in Detroit, Michigan. Miss Henning hails from Memphis, Tenn.

and is a major in elementary education. Her very busy college career is indicated by the fact that she is secretary of the Senior Class, treasurer of the Student Council, assistant editor of the school newspaper, parliamentarian of the Delta Sorority; member of the Pan Hellenic Council and Future Teachers of America, student assistant in the office of the president, and one of the campus Big Chums. Together with this, the attractive co-ed has an accumulated average of B-plus, and has made the dean's list for high averages throughout the school year.

New Social Security Coverage Set

Effective dates in 1957 on Federal social security legislation enacted this year were emphasized by J. W. Eanes, Manager of the Memphis social security office, in a statement on the new provisions.

First cash benefits for disabled children over 18 will be payable under the old-age and survivors insurance program for January. However, applications for disabled children filed any time in 1957 will protect benefit rights beginning in January. The child must have been disabled before age 18, must be unmarried and dependent on a parent entitled to old-age benefits or dependent on a parent who died after 1939. Under the new provisions adult children disabled since childhood may qualify for benefits regardless of whether they have ever worked.

January 1957 also marks the first month for compulsory coverage of active military service members of the uniformed services will now receive protection afforded civilian workers.

By the end of January the second annual wage reports on farm workers will be due from all farmers who paid at least $100 cash in 1956 to one or more farm workers.

Beginning January 1, a new test of coverage for farm work goes into effect. In 1957 farm workers are covered if they earn $150 cash from one farmer or work on 20 or more days for the same farmer and the pay is figured on a time basis.

Self-employed lawyers, dentists, osteopaths, veterinarians, chiropractors, naturopaths and optometrists will make their first self-employment reports for 1956. Returns are due in January for those reporting on calendar year 1956. Returns must be made to the District Director of Internal Revenue and the social security tax paid by April 15, 1957.

Farm operators, including owners, shareholders and tenants, were brought under social security beginning in 1956 and their second self-employment reports will be due in January. Farmers who have land farmed by someone else will make their first self-employment reports when filing 1956 income tax returns provided they took an important part in the production or management of the crop.

All self-employed farmers who grossed between $600 and $1800 in 1956 may report and take credit for two-thirds of their gross for social security purposes whether or not they make this much. Farmers who netted $400 or more are required to report.

Mr. Eanes said the first cash benefits for severely disabled workers between 50 and 65 years of age will not be payable before July 1957. Disabled workers of any age who have worked five years under social security before becoming disabled for work should contact the social security office if they have not already done so to inquire about protection of benefit rights.

Women at age 63 who qualify for benefits may apply to receive them now instead of waiting until age 65. Benefits for women workers and wives are reduced if they start before 65.

The new year also ushers in new social security tax increases commencing with earnings in 1957. Employers and employees will each contribute 2 1/4 percent on the first $4200 of wages. The self-employed who have a net profit of $400 or more in 1957 will pay a tax of 3 3/8 percent on the first $4200 of net earnings. The increase will be used to pay the added cost of disability insurance protection. Social Security tax rates on 1956 earnings up to $4200 are 2 percent each for employers and employee and 3 percent on net earnings of the self-employed.

For more information on how the new provisions apply in individual situations, Mr. Eanes advised contacting the social security office at 188 Jefferson Avenue, Memphis, Tennessee. Free pamphlets are available.

ABE SCHARFF YMCA PRESENTS YULETIDE BENEFIT CONCERT

Abe Scharff Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association presented its annual Benefit Tea and Concert Sunday afternoon of last week between the hours of four and seven. Members of the newly organized Y.M.C.A. Ensemble were presented for the first time in concert during the program in the auditorium of the Branch building. The singers, who offered a series of selections under the direction of Mr. Thomas E. Doggett, were Mrs. Bernice Stroud Williams, pianist; Mr. Lucius Vessell, Mr. Albert Jones, Mr. William Whitfield, Mr. C. A. Lucas, Miss Jean Brown, Mrs. Mervis Jones Ewell, Miss Maylene Williams and Mrs. Aromalee Williams Cumby. The ensemble did a group of Christmas Carols and Spirituals.

GUEST ARTIST

Guest Artist for the concert was the Reverend G. Linwood Fauntleroy, new minister at Warner Temple A. M. E. Zion Church, who comes to Memphis with a rich background in the field of music. He has served as director of the Cathedral Hour, a program which he originated for the National Broadcasting Company in Charlotte, N. C., where he was pastor of the 160-year-old Clinton Chapel A. M. E. Zion Church. Rev. Fauntleroy served as artist for the Community Concert Association. The talented new minister included in his repertoire selections by Clara Edwards, Tchalokowsky, Hall Johnson, Florence Price, Sigmund Romberg and Gruber.

Mr. L. O. Swingler, Executive Director of the Branch Y, presented

DENTAL AND MEDICAL AUXILIARY MEMBERS HONOR HUSBANDS AT DINNER PARTY

The Lella Walker Club House was the setting for a gala affair Friday evening when members of the Dental Auxiliary of which Mrs. Fred Rivers is president and members of the Medical Auxiliary of which Mrs. Marie L. Adams is president, honored their husbands with an elaborately planned dinner party.

The party, served by Mrs. U. Holmes and her caterers, began at 8 and dinner was served buffet style from the long dining table. Small tables, centered with Christmas decorations, took on the same tones of the dining table that was centered with vivid colored decorations carried out throughout the entire home.

During the evening there were Christmas Carols headed by Mrs. B. F. McCleave who was accompanied by Mrs. J. H. Seward.

After dinner Mrs. Adams presented Dr. Leland Atkins, president of the Bluff City Medical Society. Liberties Union Backs Plan To End South's Bias

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Calling for the guarantee of full civil rights for every American the "number one civil liberties issue before the nation," the American Civil Liberties Union announced today a major organizational effort in the South to provide new support for the national campaign to eliminate discrimination.

The Union's decision was disclosed in a statement commemorating the 165th celebration of Bill of Rights Day, the anniversary of the final adoption of the first ten amendments to the Constitution. The statement was released by Patrick Murphy Malin, ACLU executive director.

Malin declared that the focus of the ACLU effort would be to build a larger corps of volunteer lawyers who would be available promptly to handle all kinds of civil liberties cases for all groups in the community. Special attention also will be given to establishing new ACLU units in Southern states and localities. The immediate objectives, he said, are North Carolina and Texas, where interest in ACLU activity is mounting. The Union in the last year and one-half has established affiliates in Louisiana, Kentucky and Florida. "While many civil rights advances continue to be made in the South," Malin said, "the opposition to the Supreme Court's decisions has caused serious civil liberties problems. The denial of voting rights in the last election to large numbers of Negroes and the barriers set up to block the work of the National Association of Colored People and the Urban League mean that the First Amendment rights of free speech and association are threatened."

As a result of these attacks, the ACLU head said, there is need for other groups to build local organizations which will stress the full observance of the Bill of Rights. As local violations of civil liberties occur, he said, ACLU volunteer lawyers on the scene will be available to give legal aid as needed.

"Our effort will not be a North-South imposed campaign," Malin continued. "There are great numbers of people within the South itself who want to uphold the Bill of Rights. Some of them have asked our organizational aid, and we are responding to this need."

According to official National League averages for 1956, Hank Aaron of the Braves and the batting champion of the league, Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Redlegs, and recipient of the Rookie of the Year Award, and Willie Mays of the New York Giants are among the slugging leaders for the year.

Duke Snider of the pennant-winning Brooklyn Dodgers, who batted .292 for the season was the league's leading slugger with a slugging percentage of .598, based on total bases of 324 in 542 times at bat. He was the top home run hitter with 43 round trippers despite his below .200 batting average. Joe Adcock of the Braves was runner-up in slugging percentage with a .567 average, one point below Snider's. Adcock connected for 38 homers and had a batting average of .291, on 132 hits to 158 for Snider. He appeared in 137 games while Snider appeared in 151 and led Snider in RBI's 103 to 121 for Snider.

Aaron was tops in total bases with 340, and finished in a third-place tie with Frank Robinson in the slugging averages with .558. Willie Mays was fifth in slugging percentage with .557. Mays collected 26 homers, with Robinson knocking 33 out of the lot while Mays was good for 35.

The records show a number of new records for the year which might be good fuel for the coming hot stove league. Snider drew the most bases on balls with 99, 26 of which were intentional, a new league record. It beat by one the former record of 25 held by Ted Kluszewski made in 1955. Wally Post of Cincinnati fanned the most, times 124, to lead the league, with Don Mueller of the Giants striking out the fewest, seven.

Other records and averages: Frank Robinson was hit the most times by pitched balls, 29. Apparently a good target for the pitchers Carl Furillo of the Dodgers, grounded into the most double plays, 27, while rookie Don Blasingame of the St. Louis Cardinals hit into the least twin-kills, 3. Stan Musial collected 300 or more total bases for the 12th year, extending his own league record. His 1956 total was 310. A record which may stand for some time was set by Dale Long of the Pittsburgh Pirates who hit eight home runs in eight consecutive games. Robin Ro-

Central State Wins Over Findlay College And West Virginia State

WILBERFORCE, O. — Central State College pushed its season record above the 500 mark to 4-2 with a 96-76 victory over Findlay College, and by taking West Va. State 94-64.

In the Findlay game four men of Central State had 16 points or more, with William Fox scoring 29 and Elzie Lewis getting 25. Al Cahill and George Keller paced the Findlay Oilers with 25 and 24 points respectively.

Central's William Fox scored 22 points while Phillip Payne and Roland Bolds hit 19 points each to lead the way to victory over the West Va. State Yellow Jackets. Tom Young scored 24 points for West Va. State.

Midway the second half, Coach Gibbs injected a squad composed of 5 fine freshmen who worked very effectively.

Bandits Terrorize Home; Take $3,000

PAWTUCKET, R. I. (INS) — Two armed bandits Saturday invaded the home of a factory owner and terrorized five persons, including two small children, for 15 minutes while they quickly ransacked the house.

The victim was Irving Bob, who said the robbers took about $3,000 worth of jewelry and $60 in cash.

Bob was pistol whipped when he moved to comfort his wife, Mary Anne, who was on the verge of hysterics. His injuries were not serious.

In the house at the time were Mr. and Mrs. Bob, Mrs. Bob's father, Samuel Block, 86, and the Bobs two children Lisa 5, and Jeffrey 2.

The bandits shrouded a bed sheet to tie the hands of the adults, but they did not molest the children.

Members of the Phillies gave up 46 homers, a single season record.

Ernie Banks, the hard hitting shortstop of the Chicago Cubs played in his 424th consecutive game. He hasn't missed a game, since breaking in with the Cubs.

It was this same Banks for whom it is stated that the Cardinals offered the astounding sum of a half million dollars. A lot of money in any business.

Fisk Jubilee Singers Return From European Goodwill Tour

NASHVILLE, TENN. — Fisk University's globe-trotting Jubilee Singers returned to their campus this week, a little weary but still exhilarated from their triumphant two-month goodwill concert tour of Europe that carried them to nine countries and the leading cities of the continent.

"This has been a fabulous tour," Prof. John W. Work, the renowned director of the group, reported.

"We sang in the most important concert halls of Europe, and everywhere received ovation after ovation. My fondest expectations were exceeded."

Rave notices followed each of the 56 concerts given by the Singers. In Rome, an audience of over 2,000 demanded -- and got -- eight encores. According to one Jubilee Singer, "We'd still be on that stage singing encores, if that audience had had its way."

For the 17 students who comprise the group, the tour will be their major topic of conversation for many months to come. Opinion is divided between Rome and Paris as a favorite city, but for Betty Nowlin of Houston, Texas, "Just seeing St. Peter's in Rome was worth all the trip."

Orlando Lightfoot of Chicago states that "an enthusiastic minority of the men, at least, talk quite a bit about Paris." According to Mr. Work, some persuasion had to be used to get one of these enthusiasts to board the ship home, so enamored did he become of the

Surprise! The Bomb's Just A Vacuum Cleaner

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. — (INS) — City police and FBI men wondered what was going on when a package in the Ormond Beach Post Office began humming.

It could be a bomb, they thought, so it went into a tub of water.

After an all-night guard had stayed with the package to make sure the "bomb" was not going to explode, police opened the package — postmarked Washington, D. C. — and found:

Nothing but a portable vacuum cleaner, resembling a flashlight, that had been accidentally turned on en route.

City of Light. Several of the Singers have already expressed the desire to visit Europe again.

The contemporary Jubilee Singers are related to the group organized in 1871 by an unbroken line of succession. The original Singers raised $150,000 during their first seven years to purchase the site of the present campus and to erect famous Jubilee Hall, and are credited with introducing the Negro Spiritual to the musical world. The present-day group's tour was undertaken to promote interracial and international goodwill.

A & I's Robert Crawford And Fay Mitchell Picked

Two Memphians, Robert Crawford and Fay Mitchell, have been named to the All Midwest Athletic Association All Star squad in the balloting which took place at the Association's annual meeting in Chicago recently.

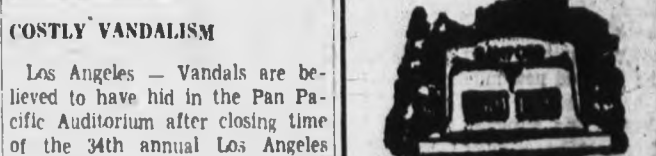

Crawford and Mitchell were among the five named from Tennessee State University which, along with Grambling College which placed three on the All-squad, dominated the All-Star eleven.

from Memphis at quarterback; and Fay Mitchell, 6' 1" 205-pound junior from Memphis at one of the halfback slots. Leon Larce, 5' 11" 215-pound senior from Grambling was given the nod at center. Alvin Richardson, 6' 3" 240-pound Grambling senior was installed at the right tackle slot. Both Larce and Richardson are from New Orleans.

Robert Banks, 6' 205-pound Jackson State right guard, returned to the All-Star line-up for the third year. Banks is from Starkville, Mississippi. Edward Murray, who gained 1,418 yards in nine games for Coach Eddie Robinson's Grambling Tigers took over one of the halfback posts. Mur-

Senators To Join Ranks In Fight On Filibuster

WASHINGTON, D. C. (NNPA) - Senator-elect Joseph S. Clark, Democrat of Pennsylvania, has already notified Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, and five other liberal Democrats that he will join with them on the opening day of the next Congress in voting to change the Senate rule on cloture.

The existing cloture rule requires a vote of two-thirds of the entire Senate membership, or 64 Senators to limit debate but it does not apply to any resolution to change existing Senate rules.

Filibusters, which the cloture rule permits, or threats of filibuster have been the strongest weapon of Southern Senators in blocking civil rights legislation.

Senator-elect Clark also has indicated that he will vote against Senator James O. Eastland, Democrat of Mississippi, retaining the chairmanship of the powerful Senate Judiciary Committee. Eastland, in the last session, used his chairmanship to bottle up in committee civil rights legislation and to delay votes on confirmation of Judge William Brennan as a Supreme Court justice and Simon E. Sobeloff as a judge of the Fourth United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Senator Lynden B. Johnson, of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, frowns upon the moves with which Senator-elect Clark has identified himself. Senator Johnson has a powerful voice in committee assignments and he is taking the risk of getting a less favorable committee assignment than he would have received if he went along with Johnson.

As for the Eastland matter, Senator-elect Clark says he has nothing personal against the spokesman for White Citizens Councils.

"But it's a matter of principle with me," says Clark. "The Judiciary Committee should not have a chairman who stands in opposition to the Constitution of the United States."

PANCAKES 2 cups plain Pancake Mix 1 cup Fat Evaporated Milk 1 cup water Put pancake mix into a 2-quart mixing bowl. Add, all at once, a mixture of milk and water. Stir well, but do not overmix, as overmixing toughens pancakes. Small lumps in batter disappear during baking. Using 1-4 cup batter for each pancake, pour onto a hot lightly greased griddle. Bake until bubbles appear and edges are cooked, then turn and brown on other side. If desired, serve with syrup and crisp bacon or browned sausage. Makes 3 1-2 to 4 cups batter or enough for 14 to 16 four-inch pancakes.

Plain Pancake batter just before baking. Use 1-3 cup batter for each pancake. Makes about 12 five-inch pancakes, or 4 servings of 3 each. Especially good served with mushroom or raisin sauce.

For Jelly Dessert Stacks. Makes 5 large Plain Pancakes, using about 3-4 cup batter for each. Stack, spreading jelly between each. Sprinkle top with powdered sugar. Cut into four pie-shaped wedges for serving.

NEW YORK (INS) - Mrs. Indira Gandhi daughter and official hostess for New York's most-honored guest, India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, is the kind of person who usually gets what she wants.

She's been proving it all her young political life, but especially when she appeared at the Broadway show, "My Fair Lady," with the Prime Minister just 12 hours after the party flew into New York.

Mrs. Gandhi - accompanying Prime Minister Nehru and party - winds up a two-day stay in New York this evening.

Aside from participating in some of the official functions for her famous father, Mrs. Gandhi has been the guest of honor at a number of events planned especially for her.

Yesterday, between engagements, the charming lady politician evaded newsmen to go shopping.

"Two days is just not enough for New York," she said in a soft-spoken English accent.

Looking at her, no one would suspect that this woman spoke out boldly for India's independence in 1941, and spent a year in jail for the privilege of doing so.

AID TO ASIA Of the $1,500,000,000 obligated in non-military United States foreign aid during the last fiscal year, the Far East received almost half. Of this amount, $726,500,000 was for "defense support" and went to South Korea, Nationalist China and South Viet Nam.

Recipe of the Week by Louise R. Prothro

PANCAKES Golden-brown pancakes hot off the griddle are always a welcome treat at breakfast time - at least that's true at our house! But we like our special "pancake treats" at other times, too, and I believe your family will enjoy them as much as mine does. You see, I start with those rich, tender extra-delicious pancakes made with my Pet Evaporated Milk recipe... then add an extra touch or two that makes pancakes a main dish or a dessert. Dinner Pancakes, made with meat, are a hearty, satisfying main dish - Jelly Dessert Stacks are unusual, but a delicious way to serve pancakes as dessert. Of course, the pancakes you make with Pet Evaporated Milk are especially good themselves, whether you serve them plain or as a start for these pancake specials. Next time you plan to have pancakes, try them one of these ways - guarantee they'll get a royal welcome!

Gloria In Excelsis

The eve of a great day of triumph and jubilation is upon us; the voices of the Saints surround, and there is being relived in the traditional legend of "Peace on Earth and Goodwill to men."

The warm milk of human kindness so far - searching and wholesome in its inquiry into human thirst, flowing from the breast of the New Testament, affords that rich nutrition for the growth of the spirit of fellowship and love.

We have come a long way up the road of a universal brotherhood; the country and the world at large have occasioned upon those problems arising from the malnutrition of our systems and finding no visible excuse for such a situation in which we find ourselves, are turning to the doctrine of redress in an effort to recapture that genuine spirit extolled in the sermon on the Mount.

It is befitting that we come upon the Christmas stage, set with its garlands and song, suggesting on every hand that love of one's fellows, yea that love which surpasses understanding.

In one generation twice we have seen the blood-red flower of war reach its poisonous flames into the elements of human suffering and disaster. We have heard the groaning of the dying and those who languor and hunger for food - and yea - after righteousness. We have seen in the aftermath the refusal of man to learn a lesson from the terrible rigors infesting the realm of human occupation; we have seen those wicked resorts unkindly and unseemly, leveled by brother against brother, and in open defiance of the laws of the land which seek to inquire into and redress the inhuman wounds inflicted upon those held responsible for their creeds, their color and even their previous condition of servitude!

This day, incidentally, the birthday of our Lord, appeals in all its candor of an abiding faith and regimented charity, to a cold cruel world.

"Sowing the tares when it might have been wheat; Sowing the moles of spite and deceit; We might have sown roses amid life's sad cares When we were so cruelly, sowing the tares."

May this Christmas unfold in its boundless blessings that hope which lifteth in its climb the lowly broken spirits of those who have felt the deep wounds of transgression and privation and "have not bowed to Baal," nor turned to the weakness of the flesh.

A new occasion for the revival of one's strength and courage for the ordeals bound to make their advents across the path of human activity. Such is meet - for there is nothing like an opportunity to burn the records of a baffling past in order that a new beginning and a new philosophy might have a new inning!

Ours is an enviable opportunity; "ye are the salt of the earth" and the light not to be placed under a bushel, but proclaimed from the housetop, that such might be a "lamp unto their feet and a light unto their pathway" who struggle along this thorny maze of unrest, racial disturbances and economic privation.

Fervently we do pray and hopefully we do long for the coming upon this earth that peace prayed in Gethsemane and vouched for on Calvary.

Everywhere - Goodwill to Men: "Glory be to God in the highest."

Montgomery Gets A Christmas Gift

It is certain there is genuine rejoicing this day, in that the citizens of Montgomery, Alabama get a handsome Christmas package. The court hands down a final decree declaring to the city authorities, the Public Service Commission and all other commissions clinging on to the buggy-shafting of "separate but equal" philosophy, that segregation on city buses is unconstitutional and, therefore, illegal.

Not only so is this true with the Negro citizens, but all those who felt that the strange phenomena of a year's boycott battle had to be the medium by which man's humanity to man was to be realized.

But, old orders for the most never give up without a struggle; power is sweet and men seldom sell or compromise power. But here, the power to discriminate meant the power to destroy, and such, once broken, frees not only the Negro but this white man who has been precisioned and conditioned into the doctrine of racism, a scheme designed to limit the freedom of both races.

From the very beginning to the final decree of the court, and the resolve of the citizens to use the buses, there was never a display or resort to violence by the Negro citizens. This is commendable conduct.

A new chapter in this brand of battle comes upon the horizon for mankind; righteousness sometimes feels that such a procedure is ample weapon for combat in many of the wars infesting the world.

Be it said to the everlasting credit to Dr. M. L. King, Jr., and those around him, that honor was richly conferred upon the cause of those who struggle all over the world for human justice and equality in the eyes of the law.

Surely, there is left on the rich pages of human advancement a brilliant chapter in achievement. It will be thought and implemented on down time when the clash of causes and the brunt of brushes come upon the scene of human endeavor for a sane and sensible settlement.

In the light of the Supreme Court's action in refusing to reconsider the Montgomery case and the action already taken by U. S. Attorney General Herbert Brownell, let us hope that the question of bus segregation has not only been settled for Montgomery, but the issue is resolved for all concerned everywhere in the nation.

Miss McDaniel Brings Honor To Nation

REVIEWING THE NEWS BY WILLIAM GORDON Managing Editor Atlanta Daily World

Those Who Rise Above Handicaps

A small man on crutches moved across to the dinner table. He was warmly greeted by those assembled. Many of the people present were heads of industrial firms, some of them very famous nationally.

But this small man, with the broad smile and warm handshake, spoke easily to them, and from all indications, he knew his business very well.

Crippled almost from the day of his birth, this man had considered this to be no handicap. The fact is, he had used what some would refer to a handicap as an advantage.

Like the young minister advised a few days ago, this man had taken some of the hidden resources given him by the Creator and put them to work. He had refused to stand by complaining about a slight physical defect. Instead, he had gone into the public relations field, put his own personality to work and made friends with many of the giants of industry over the nation.

The fact is, God has given man many talents. Some of us utilize these talents; others refuse to do so. Instead, we stand about, complaining about conditions and problems created out of our own imagination.

The great men of the world were those who threw off the disguised shackles of handicaps and mastered whatever came before them.

When we think of the great changes in our social order, and about the benefits we enjoy today as a result of the New Deal, we think of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. But even behind Mr. Roosevelt was a little lame man by the name of Howe who helped to shape the strategy for the Roosevelt campaign, which ultimately led to the White House. There was Roosevelt himself, a victim of Infantile Paralysis.

We can point to all of the great world figures and come up with some type of handicap which plagued them during their lifetime.

Churchill had a speech impediment, Paul, the man who later sold Christianity to the world was an epileptic. The story of the trip to Damascus is a vivid account of a man whose heart and mind were poisoned with bitterness and hate. It took a spell of blindness and suffering to bring him around to reality.

We all know the story of Helen Keller; Joe Louis who was born in remote and humble circumstances, and many others whose lives have been filled with misgivings and disappointments. There have been the blind, the lame, the disease-ridden souls whose life's patterns have been nothing short of tragic.

There is the Negro, who by no reason of his own has long been the victim of the artificial color barrier. Pigmentation has and still is a stigma which haunts him. But even this is no handicap in the sense that some may view it. The man who told the Negro, "You have to run twice as fast to get half as far," had a valuable point. A handicap, it seems, remains to be one, so far as we permit it to be. We have only to look at the achievements of others to get the true story.

Time For Moral Courage

Legal segregation on public carriers is now dead law. This should be recognized. Legal law is catching up with moral law. That, too, should be recognized.

National law in the United States of America applies to all of the states alike. That should be recognized by all of those who subscribe to law and order and who understand the American process.

This brings us down to a suggestion made by the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights. It has addressed letters both to City Hall and the Birmingham Transit Company asking that both recognize the new law. Both should have expected no less, we think.

It is asking too much to suggest that any group which has been so long deprived of the full enjoyment of constitutional guarantees waive or wait out their newly-won opportunity to occupy any vacant seat on the Birmingham intra-city buses. No leader of the group who counsels a wait-and-see philosophy can expect any following in this city. Hence all persons of goodwill and understanding should face the reality of the situation.

Therefore, we urge City Hall to face the reality of the situation with moral courage and a passion for obedience to the highest law of the land. We know not what course they will take but for us there is but one honorable position to take. Recognize the fact that the old law is dead and move immediately into the new reality. This is a time for moral courage.

Chancellor Caldwell Of The University Of Georgia Takes A Position

(From The Atlanta Daily World) Those who felt that some clarification should obtain in the Horace Ward case for admission to the University of Georgia Law School have it fully now in a forthright statement made by Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, the Chancellor of the University System who stated clearly his position in the matter to the extent he would admit Negro students if they were eligible.

There we have it from the top executive; he is the chief administrator - and not the Board of Regents, a policy making body. It is not the Board of Regents' place to have the last word on the question of a student's eligibility.

It is felt from here that this is the logical and proper position to be taken.

The question of the admission of Negroes to professional schools was settled back in 1938 in the Gaines case and since that time the structure of racial discrimination has been on jitters. Now that the top administrative officer has had his say and the women's games. Her's was fierce pride and titanic determination. Her superlative triumph in international competition merits a joyful outcry from millions who have read of her achievement.

Miss McDaniel shows the spirit of her people. She grew up in the Southland. She has watched the grim patterns of race relations which chained their progress but not their competitive spirit. She refused to bow to the mandates of second class citizenship and bridled competition. She first flashed championship form in the Tuskegee Relays. Then in the Pan American Games in Mexico she came into her own, topping all previous records with a high jump of 5 feet 6 1/2 inches. She bettered that mark in a qualifying jump for the American team scaling 5 feet 9 inches.

Miss McDaniel is a senior in physical education and was coached by Tuskegee's Nell Jackson who competed in the 200 meter dash in the 1948 Olympics in London. She joins such illustrious Georgia Olympic Gold Medal winners as Forrest (Specs) Towns, Alice Coachman and Paul Anderson. Georgians are proud of Miss McDaniel and her achievement in sports and as an ambassador of global goodwill.

It in with matchless pride that we note that Miss McDaniel was among the six athletes who broke world records in their specialties.

U. S. athletes participated in 24 men's event, 12 women events and left unbroken only six Olympic standards. The U. S. captured 32 gold medals, 25 silvers and 17 bronzes.

This rich harvest of world track and field acclaim has been borne by one of Georgia's own.

SYNOPSIS Casson Duker, a well-to-do amateur detective, is intrigued when Henry Lockyer, a stolid banker, tells him he had been blackmailed by an ordinary looking little man named Bagot who threatened to ruin his reputation. Bagot promises not to bother him again. One thing distinguishes the insignificant Bagot: He paused to admire a piece of Roman sculpture in Lockyer's house. Casson thinks this interest may trap him. Casson goes to his friend, George Strutt, a police superintendent, for help. Strutt becomes interested in the case. Later, Casson meets another friend, Nigel Willington, an antique dealer, and asks him to check his files for records of Roman sculpture for possible leads. Meanwhile, Strutt has dug up a similar case from the police files—the Greenhouse case, in which the blackmailer called himself Martin. On a visit to Willington's, Casson sees a man answering Bagot's description buy two bronze statues. He follows him to his home in Bickersteth Street, and rents a room across the street. He discovers that the suspect frequents the Shepley Arms, a local tavern. The bartender tells Casson that the man's name is John Perry.

CHAPTER 10 CASSON had just sat down to write his story of the Bagot case from the night of his meeting with the drunk Lockyer up to his own first pint in the Shepley Arms when the door of No. 51 reopened and Perry emerged. Casson, taken by surprise, dived for the camera but he was too late.

Casson stood there, looking at his wristwatch, giving Perry a minute and a quarter to get most of the way down the street. Then he slipped downstairs and followed.

To Casson, the pattern had altered drastically. Never had he heard of Bagot or Martin being clothed in anything but the same nondescript brown suit that Perry habitually wore. Now he was in a black City coat and striped trousers. He carried a neatly rolled umbrella and wore a bowler hat. He looked like a clerk on his way to the office in Moorgate.

But why at half-past eleven in the morning? Casson followed him to Ravenscourt Park Station and, choosing the carriage behind him, boarded an eastbound train. Perry might be going to his lawyer's, or to some respectable office from which he had retired and to which he returned two days a week in order to keep himself busy. Indeed, the only things against him, the only two threads which linked him to the shadowy Bagot and the still more remote Martin of Hatfield, were his personal appearance and his purchase of antiques.

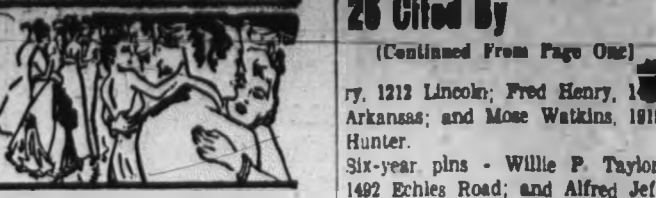

They changed trains at South Kensington and Perry took the eastbound Circle train. Casson followed him. The young man was tall, well built, and had fair hair. He had a pleasant, humourous face and seemed to be no companion for a blackmailer. But, from his experiences in Bath, Casson distrusted appearances. During his investigation of the "Witch" one of the nicest old women in the village had displayed a startling aptitude for cruelty.

After half-an-hour the young man looked at his watch, finished his Guinness, and he and Perry left the bar. They walked down Threadneedle Street to the Bank, shook hands, and parted, Perry turning towards the Underground station and the young man continuing westwards.

Without hesitation Casson followed the young man. He wished to trace every tentacle of Perry's outdoor life.

In Poultry the young man turned into a large building. As Casson strolled past he saw that it was Gamman's Bank.

Erco! And Lockyer was a director of Gamman's. The coincidences mounted into the region of inevitability. Casson's excitement grew. He gave the young man ten minutes, during which time he could have washed his hands and returned to his post in the Bank. Then he went in, walked up the long hall, and asked a question about currency exchange. While he was waiting for the reply he looked along the counter. As the far end, obviously in the junior position, was the fair hair and pleasant face. Casson waited. The answer came back: 996 francs to the pound sterling, 1,680 lire. Casson thanked the teller and strolled out, glancing as he went at the silver-and-black name-plate before the young man's place. Mr. Macfarlane, it stated. The fair head never looked at him as he passed through the tall swing-doors.

From a call-box Casson telephoned Strutt. The fat Superintendent sounded irritable. "Have you got him?" he said. "Oh, no," Casson replied. "I'm just amusing myself."

"Well, I'm not," snapped back the voice. "And I will tell you why. Kent is playing Middlesex tomorrow afternoon and I was going to watch. Now I'm not. And I'm not because some blasted burglar called Soap-fingers or Twinkle-toes or some idiot name has pinched a mink coat from some idiot actress and I've got to find him. See?"

"In this weather," Casson observed, "a burglar in a fur coat will look obvious. You should find it easy to catch him. Do you know anything about a Mr. John Perry of 51, Bickersteth Street, W.6?"

Strutt's voice altered. "Is that Bagot?" "I don't think so," Casson replied evenly. "It may be a clue."

"Clue!" snorted the Superintendent. "Clue! You sound like the gutter press. Why don't you find me a decent fingerprint and then bring me the finger that made it? All right, I'll ring you back."

"I'd rather you sent a note to my flat," said Casson. He had no desire to let Strutt know where he was spending his days. If Strutt knew that, he would horn in on the game too soon.

"All right. All right. What about two tickets for the first Test Match?" "Certainly not," said Casson, who could get them easily. "You should be spending your time guarding honest citizens." He rang off.

In tomorrow's exciting chapter, Perry again resumes his Bagot role.

Letters To The Editor

Tri State Bank Express Thanks Editor Memphis World Gentlemen: On behalf of Tri State Bank of Memphis, I wish to express appreciation for the news coverage given our Tenth Anniversary Program by your paper.

Except for the inability of our speaker to get here, our celebration was a success and we desire to thank you for the part you played by your firm.

Yours Truly, JESSE H. TURNER, Cashier

that in line with the spirit of the Supreme Court, it is apparent from here that there need be any further call for clarification. The position is plain; the top executive has spoken and there is left no logical ground upon which lesser lights could stand.

A great moment is at hand. It took the University many years to gain the proud statue it possesses. Among the things which cannot be outlived, none rises to more importance than that of consistency. Surely the high prestige at stake and the principles involved could not afford to risk for the record the statement that Horace Ward's color did militate against him in what is plainly an unprecedented situation involving the admission of students to the University of Georgia.

Those who have repeatedly stated that their desire was to preserve segregation between the races, are now met face to face in a situation where one of two positions must be taken - one of these being integrity, the other is left for anybody's guess!

I know we can count on you for your editorial help in telling the unfinished story to your readers. Wishing you and yours a Merry Christmas, I am Sincerely Yours,

CHARLES H. BYNUM Director Interracial Activities
