WATERED-DOWN CIVIL RIGHTS PLANK ADOPTED-DEMOCRATS

Liberals Lose Bitter Fight For Strong Plank

CHICAGO — A water-logged Democratic Civil Rights plank which disenchanted Northern liberals and kept Southern forces beleaguered and which avoided a party split was adopted Wednesday night after a bitter off-stage, on-stage battle.

Ala. NAACP Eyes U. S. High Court

The Alabama Supreme Court refused Monday to review the injunction imposed on the NAACP in that state by a state circuit court on June 1st. In addition to the injunction which cancels its activities in Alabama, the NAACP was fined $100,000 on July 30th for failing to produce its records on order from the circuit court.

Robert L. Carter, assistant special counsel for the organization, has indicated that the Alabama Supreme Court may be asked for a rehearing. On the other hand, he suggested that the next legal move may be directly to the U. S. Supreme Court.

In the hearing before the Alabama Court on Monday, Carter alleged that Judge Walter B. Jones of the circuit court had erred in ordering both the injunction and the fine. He further prayed that the State Supreme Court would grant an NAACP petition for a review of the records. In all, the petition claimed ten legal errors had been made by Jones.

The Court denied the petition on a claim that the errors cited were "insufficient evidence to warrant the issuance of a writ (for review).

Bro., Sister Held On Theft Charges

Miss Mary Horton and her brother, Johnny Lee Horton, both of 976 James, at presstime were being held on charges of grand larceny and disposing of stolen property respectively stemming from an incident where Miss Horton allegedly stole jewelry from a home where she worked.

According to police Mrs. Jack Long White, of 1834 Shadowlawn, recently returned from a vacation and missed a wrist watch later, after a fruitless search of the house she made out a search warrant on Miss Horton.

Miss Horton allegedly admitted taking the watch and also earlier taking Mrs. Long's wedding band. She claimed that her brother, Johnny Lee, took the ring from her. He according to police, claimed he lost the ring at a dance.

Mrs. Long, a Perel and Lowenstein employee and wife of detective Jack Long, told the Memphis World that she would like to get her ring back if possible, because of its sentimental value and offers a reward (see advertisement - this issue) for its return.

She describes the ring as size 4, yellow gold band set with 10 small diamonds. She may be reached at Wh 6-1209.

Negro Arrested In Kentucky For Posing As Adolph Hitler

LEXINGTON, Ky. (SBS) — The arrest here Tuesday of a part time Negro preacher brought to light a money making legend of Adolph Hitler being alive in the mountains of Kentucky.

Mr. Cook said Will H. Johnson had obtained thousands of dollars to aid a "new revolt," presumably by persons who admired the policies of the former German dictator.

Johnson was charged with using the mails to defraud and received an estimated $10,000 to $15,000 in contributions since 1944. Johnson is being held at Pineville for action by a Federal grand jury.

Mr. Cook said investigation began after more than 100 letters concerning the "new revolt" were handed to Federal agents following the death of a former United Army officer of German descent.

LET EASTLANDS, BYRDS, THURMONDS GO SEPARATE WAYS, DEMOCRATS URGE

WASHINGTON — (ANP) — It is better for the Democratic party to let the Eastlands, the Byrds and the Thurmonds go their separate ways than to field them if they "urge the party to throw away its chances of victory rather than hew to its traditional liberalism."

This was the conclusion reached by the Americans for Democratic Action in the eve of the Democratic National Convention. In a letter sent to each of the delegates to the Democratic convention, Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., national chairman of ADA, stated that the only answer which the party can give to the charge that "a vote for any Democrat is a vote for Eastland," is to write a strong civil rights plank in the platform.

Rauh urged the delegates to "stand firm" for a platform carrying out the party pledge "to executive and legislative action in support of the school desegregation decisions of the Supreme Court" and "the selection of Congressional leadership and committee chairman committed to allow civil rights legislation to come to a vote" in Congress.

If the Eastlands, Byrds, and Thurmonds oppose such plank, then let them go their separate ways, he insisted.

PRAYER Oh Lord the Saviour of us all Do near us while we pray: Look down in tender mercy, And guide us day by day.

We need Thy loving watchful care, To steer us through the night; That we group not in darkness, But in Thy heavenly light.

Oh God how very weak we are, We often stray away, When Thou hast bid us follow Thee, And in Thy pathway stay.

Thou art a Father full of love, Full of compassion too, Forgive us for our many wrongs That we so often do.

Help us to put all faith in Thee, Through every stormy way; The fight will sure bring victory We trust without dismay.

Now help us to surrender all, They will help me be done, And love will reign within our hearts, The battle then is won. By Mrs. Mable Kelly Wright (widow of the late Fr. E. M. M. Wright)

"Sea Invasion" Brings Arrest For Negroes SARASOTA, FLA. -- (ANP) - The chief of police here said last week that he would issue a warrant for the arrest of a boat carrying Negro passengers because he violated a city ordinance by speeding within 1,000 yards of shore where there were bathers. Police Chief Robert Wilson said the warrant would be issued in connection with a "Negro sea invasion." However, apparently no action will be taken against the 25 to 30 Negro bathers who visited a white beach on Lidy Key. They arrived at the beach in five cars. Nell Humphrey, local president of the NAACP, led the group to the beach. He had asked for police protection.

TEEN-AGE SOCIETY HIGHLIGHTS

BY BOBBY HALL

TEENAGERS URGED TO SUPPORT CHARITY "Your Columnist," along with the Deborette Social Club, is urging all teenagers to attend the benefit dance September 12 at the Flamingo Room from 9 until 1. This affair is being sponsored by the Debs and all proceeds will go toward purchasing a radio-record player combination for the Keel School for Handicapped Children.

In their last effort (for the same purpose), the crowd was unusually small for the setting, but the Debs haven't given up. So, won't you support the next dance?

Music will be by Bob "Honey-moon" Garner and his orchestra featuring Hal Conner as vocalist. A floor show at intermission usually brings on top entertainment. For instance at the last Deb dance, the Don Juans, a sensational teenage male quintet from Detroit was featured. The crowd was limited

Spiritual Babes

BY REV. E. C. TIPPETT As we know that in a literal sense, babe means "infant," but babes in Christ are "spiritual infants" and as birth by generation brings faith in the natural babe in possession of all the members of the body.

Though these members are feeble birth by regeneration brings forth the spiritual babe," possessing of all the parts of a new man, but needing spiritual diet, exercise, strength and development in regeneration, then the new creature is formed comes into being and exhibits all the conditions of a babe, while sanctification nourishes the babe and promotes its growth to spiritual maturity. Sanctification is therefore a progressive work going on by degrees until finally accomplished. Regeneration breaks the power of sin and destroys the love of sin so that whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin. 1 John 3:9.

In the sense of being the slave thereof it does not free the soul from the presence and the pollution of sin. Alas! The regenerated know full well that sin is in their hearts and that it stamps with imperfection whatever they do.

This accounts for the christian warfare which begins in regeneration and is carried on in Sanctification. The flesh lusteth against the spirit and the spirit against the flesh. These are contrary one to the other so that ye cannot do the things ye would. (GAL. 5:17).

This conflict implies the remains of sin in the believer, while the fact itself must be taken into account in any consistent interpretation of the much controverted passage in Roman 7:14-25. These verses are true of a regenerated man. This of course is not the place for critical expositions, but I may say the things which follow: No regenerated man, perfectly sanctified can say in truth: for that which I do I love not, for what I would that I do not, but what I hate that I do not, for the good that I would I do not.

Telephone Equipment Makes Convention Coverages Easy

The greatest audience in history — about 150 million Americans — will have a chance to be "Roving Delegates" at the two 1956 National Political Conventions in Chicago and San Francisco.

The public will be "Box Seat" spectators due to the largest press and Television hook-up in history. For the press, telephone companies have installed nearly 600 additional teletypewriters in the convention cities and a network of 760,000 miles of teletypewriter circuits will be read to carry the news to press outlets for distribution to newspapers and to radio and TV news commentators.

Over 1,500 radio stations can receive the program from the convention halls via the Bell Telephone System's radio program network.

The 50 TV channels to be available when the Democratic National Convention opens in Chicago on August 13 are an increase of 72 per cent over the number used for the 1952 conventions. Record amounts of public telephones, private lines, switchboards, telephoto circuits and other communications equipment are also being installed. A good idea of the size of the communications job is the special telephone center in the convention hall which requires 110 uniformed telephone men and women to serve delegates and visitors 24 hours a day. The center will take and relay messages to delegates on the floor and also handle long distance messages through a battery of telephone booths.

At the Republican Convention, beginning August 20 at the Cow Palace, 40 TV channels will be in operation instead of the three or four normally needed for a public

Rights Plank Has Changes From 1952

CHICAGO — (INS) — The recommended Civil Rights plank of the 1956 Democratic platform differs in three major respects from the plank adopted four years ago.

One change is an omission and two are additions.

The omission is the failure to propose enactment of any legislation to secure civil rights for everyone. The 1952 plank urged new legislation as well as measures to perfect and strengthen existing laws.

The additions reflect developments since 1952. First is the Supreme Court's decision to desegregate public schools. Second is the operation of the Federal employes "security" program under the Republican administration.

Neither, of course, was in the 1952 platform. On the Supreme Court decision, the recommended plank says recent verdicts of the high tribunal on school segregation have "brought consequences of vast importance" to the nation. But it adds that the party rejects all proposals for use of force to carry them out.

The plank then reaffirms the principle that the courts' decisions are the law of the land and condemns what it calls "Republican efforts to make it appear that the tribunal is a part of the Republican party."

The GOP also gets a lambasting on the security issue. The plank condemns the Republican administration's "violation of the rights of government employes by a heartless and unjustified confining of 'security' and 'loyalty' for the sole purpose of political gain."

85 Southerners Awarded Interracial Fellowships

NEW YORK — Eighty-five southern Negro students now enrolled in interracial colleges were awarded $27,500 this week in supplementary scholarships by the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students. It was announced by State Rent Control Commissioner Robert C. Weaver, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the NSSFNS Supplementary Scholarship Fund.

These awards supplement $46,850 in college scholarships which the students have been awarded by each of their colleges and bridge the financial gap between college awards and the student's total financial needs.

The outstanding records of these students, from southern segregated high schools and, for the most part, from low income families, now attending a nation-wide group of 54 colleges and universities (including Harvard, the University of Chicago, Dartmouth, Michigan State, Radcliffe and Rockmart) have now proved the promise they showed as high school seniors has not only been met but in many cases exceeded.

Alabama recipients led the Deep South with eight awards. Georgia has two students who receive grants. Both are from Atlanta.

Georgia students receiving awards were Oaji Kendrick a junior at Ohio Wesleyan, (Delaware, Ohio) and Victor Partridge, who is a sophomore at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa.

HOW BIG DOES AN AD HAVE TO BE TO REACH PEOPLE WHO BUY?

Doesn't that depend on where you put the ad? In a big stadium the answer would be about eight feet by twenty . . . provided you could hire the stadium, and the show to collect your audience. On the highway the answer would be about the same . . . provided you could get people in a reading mood at sixty miles an hour.

And, of course, if you wanted to sell today's goods today . . . your message would be stale before the paint was dry. How big does an ad have to be to reach the people? In the Memphis World the answer is anywhere from one line up to a full page, depending on what you are selling. In fact, if you are selling a sort-of-hard-to-get-item like a hunting lodge in September and use a World Want Ad your phone will probably ring before you've had a chance to open the paper to see if we've really printed your ad.

Or . . . let's say you run a store. A display ad about the size of your hand will probably pay for itself many, many times over if you're promoting a fully collapsible golf cart at $9.95.

And it isn't reaching these people between the halves of a show—stadium or T.V.—when they've got something else on their minds. It isn't competing with highway traffic when the man or woman you are paying to reach has half an ear partway open to hear what you have to say.

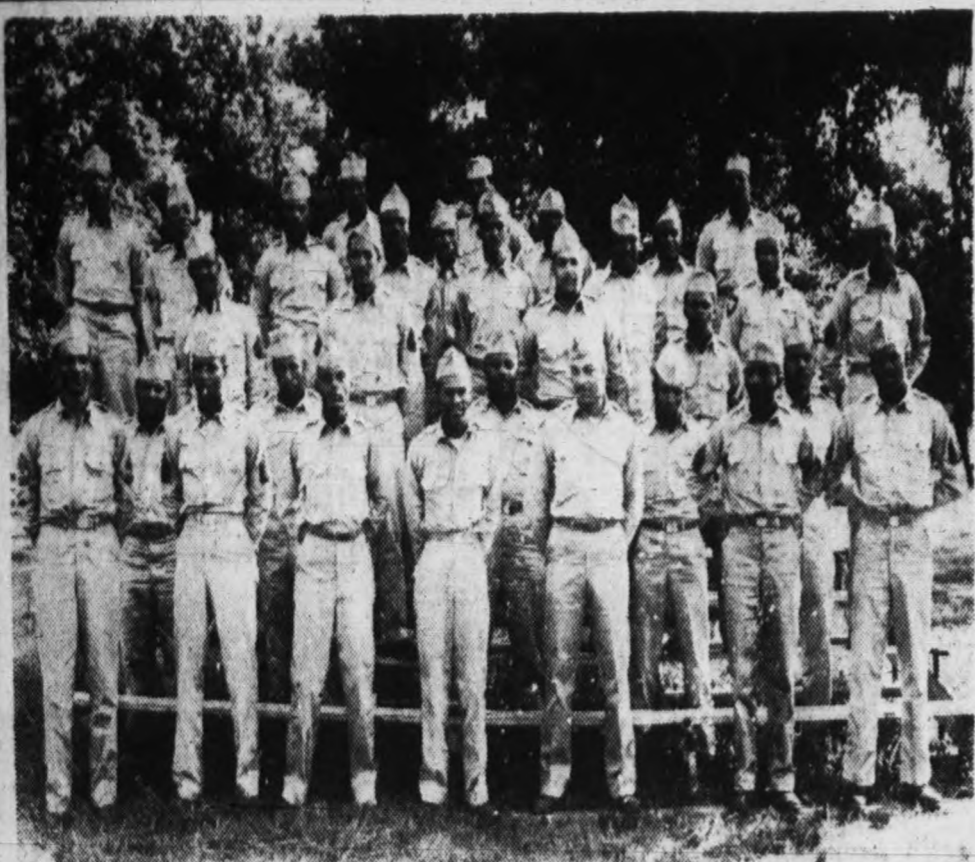

No . . . your ad in the World reaches folks when they are relaxed and open to buy. You can say as much as you want to and they'll read it. And act on it; That's what makes an ad in the World so doggone cheap for the results it gets that sometimes even we are amazed.

Republicans Made Deal On Rights Back In 1877

CHICAGO — (NNPA) — Running true to form, ex-President Truman Thursday accused Republicans of entering into an agreement to do nothing about civil rights if Southern Democrat did not press their contest of the election of President Rutherford B. Hayes in 1877.

As a result of the deal made at that time, he said, nothing was done about civil rights until the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt became President in 1933.

Mr. Truman appeared before the platform and resolutions committee of the Democratic national convention Thursday afternoon.

The former President was in a fighting mood, but the recommendations he made on civil rights were equivalent to a pledge to support the Constitution.

The biggest part of his statement was devoted to a discussion of the "deal" over the Hayes-Tilden contest and a recital of the facts leading to his sending to Congress the report of the Civil Rights Committee which he appointed.

Nowhere in his statement on civil rights did he say the 1936 Democratic platform should pledge the party to "unequivocal enforcement" of the Supreme Court decision outlawing racial segregation in the public schools.

Mr. Truman said he thought the 1948 or 1952 civil rights plank was good, but he was partial to the 1948 plank because he ran on the 1948 plank and won. He would offer no specific recommendations as to how the civil rights plank should be worded. Instead he suggested that the platform of 1948 and 1952 be studied. He said that he felt "this committee is perfectly capable of writing a platform that will accomplish the purpose in which we are interested, and that is being fair to all the people of the United States as the Constitution provides."

Ducking the question, Mr. Truman replied that his particular suggestion was that the civil rights planks of 1948 and 1952 were good, but he was partial to the 1948 plank on which he ran and was elected.

Mr. Truman then brushed off further discussion of specific recommendations on civil rights by saying he had been the first head of state to propose internationalizing important waterways.

Mr. Truman told the committee that he is "very much interested in the civil rights situation, and with your permission I will discuss that, I fear, maybe at too much length, because I think I know something about the history of it, and its background."

As he moved from his seat to the witness chair, Mr. Truman carried with him a copy of the report of the President's Civil Rights Committee, entitled "To Secure These Rights."

After discussing briefly the questions of the Eisenhower Administration's foreign policy, the domestic financial policy of the Government, and the conservation of natural resources, Mr. Truman said: "Now, I am perfectly willing to discuss with you that most controversial subject known as civil rights, and with your permission, Mr. Chairman, I will be glad to go head and call your attention to a few things that are history and a few things in which this great nation of ours should be vitally interested."

"On October 29, 1947, I sent a document to the Congress of the United States entitled, 'To Secure These Rights.' That document contained a survey, a history of the civil rights program.

"And in that document which I sent to the Congress, I said to them at that time, just a paragraph or two, 'In times past when our American freedoms were threatened, groups of our citizens banded together and set out on paper and principles they felt should preserve freedom, and the kind of action that would defend freedom.

"The Declaration of Independence was that kind of a document, and whenever anything is right, it makes no difference how controversial it is, we ought to make an effort to put it through.

"For your interest and information, in 1868 or 1869, an amendment to the Constitution was passed, called the Fourteenth Amendment, and that amendment guaranteed everything that we have been fighting for in this day and age as civil rights.

"And it is just as great now as it was at this moment in 1947.

"Men of goodwill everywhere are stirring under great difficulties to create a world-wide moral order firmly established in the life of nations for us here in America, a new charter of human freedom will be guide for action."

"And I want to say to you that there have been a great many steps taken based on this document which I sent to the Congress in 1947, and a great many of those actions have been exceedingly controversial but I want to say to you that they have been right, and whenever anything is right, it makes no difference how controversial it is, we ought to make an effort to put it through.

"It is a part of the fundamental law of the land, and it has not been enforced, and I will tell you why it hasn't been enforced.

"In 1876—I am going to read a little history to you now—there was a man, a Democrat from New York. He was elected President of the United States and there was some doubt about the vast majority of the electoral votes, and they appointed a commission to decide who should be President of the United States, and they counted this gentleman out.

"He was one of the greatest lawyers of his time, but they elected Rutherford B. Hayes, to be President of the United States by one electoral vote, and they did it absolutely contrary to the provisions of the Constitution of the United States.

"Before that event took place on the next day, the people who were interested in Samuel J. Tilden who had been legally elected, were very much perturbed.

"I can remember when I was a boy, when my father told me that if the general run of the people had their way, they would have taken over the Government and made Tilden the President.

"Well, the people who are most interested in Samuel Tilden's election were sent for to come to the White House, and an agreement was made between those people and General Grant, that if Mr. Hayes was allowed to be President of the United States without interference, the troops would be withdrawn from the South, and the Reconstruction program would be stopped, and the 14th Amendment would not be officially enforced.

"Remember, that was a Republican President, two of them who made that promise on civil rights way back there in 1877, and that situation prevailed until a man by the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected President of the United States.

"And he was very much interested, as was Woodrow Wilson, in the peace of the world and the foreign policy of the United States. He knew very well if we did not perform at home those things which we were asking the people of the world to perform, we would have not very much influence.

"So this thing went on and on, and the President—I always refer to Mr. Roosevelt as the President and never to myself in that capacity—didn't live his term out, and I succeeded him.

"As a result of my historical information on this subject and on several other subjects in which the Government of the United States is very much interested, I set up a commission to go into this situation and make certain recommendations to me and to the Congress of the United States, and that commission was headed by Charles E. Wilson as chairman. Now that is the 'Electric' Charlie Wilson, not the 'General Motors' Charlie Wilson.

"And it had a wonderful number of most important people on it, and they went into this situation in detail, and they came up with one of the most wonderful reports you have ever read, and if you haven't read it, I want to say to you that the subject of that report is 'To Secure These Rights' which had been a part of the Constitution since the late 1860's.

"That document is a Government document, printed by the United States Government Printing Office at Washington in 1947, and I think that for a quarter you can get a copy of it.

"It would do you good to get it and read it. You would find out then that all these proceedings which have taken place, including the decision of the Supreme Court, about which there is so much controversy, was only an enforcement of the law which has been a part of the fundamental and basic law of this United States since the late 1860's.

"When Mr. Truman completed the reading of his lengthy statement, in which he discussed several platform topics, he submitted himself to questioning by members of the platform committee.

"Mr. McCormack recognized Mr. Diggs.

"Mr. President, your record in the field of civil rights is known to all people all over the world," Mr. Diggs said, adding: "It is certainly a refreshing thing to have you recite that history, because certainly the Republican party has attempted to take credit for many of the things that President Roosevelt inaugurated, and that you so ably carried on and implemented.

"Could you for the benefit of the drafting and platform committee give us some guides as to how the program, that was started by President Roosevelt and implemented by yourself, how that program should be carried forward so that we can

Ranking Awaits Word From Pres. Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (ANP) — After being selected the next solicitor general of the United States, J. Lee Rankin, chief of the Justice Department's Office of Legal Counsel, is awaiting the President's announcement of the appointment.

But observers here share the feeling that due to his stand on racial segregation, he may run into Senate trouble when his name goes there for confirmation.

Rankin argued for the government in the basic case that led to the Supreme Court ruling against school segregation. Southern Congressmen objected to this, just as they did to former Solicitor General's Simon E. Sobeloff's actions on the school issue.

Sobeloff, the first solicitor general of the Eisenhower administration, was appointed last month to become a judge of the U. S. Court of Appeals in the face of strong Southern objections.

However, since Congress is not in session, Rankin will receive a recess appointment. If President Eisenhower is re-elected, he will send the nomination to the Senate for confirmation next year.

Rankin is 49 and a Nebraskan, continue to progress in this important field, especially in consideration of the experiences and events since you were in that particular office."

"Well, my suggestion has been right along that the platform plank of 1948 and 1952 were good civil rights planks," Mr. Truman replied.

"Of course, I was a little bit partial to the 1948 plank because that is the one on which I got elected, and I like it very much.

"But your statement that the Republicans had been trying to take credit for everything that is done is right in line with what has been happening in one or two of the foreign things."

Mr. Truman then said that at the Potsdam Conference he had suggested that the Panama Canal and the Suez Canal, and the Black Sea straits (the Hellespont and the Bosphorus), the Rhine-Danube Canal, and the Kiel Canal be made international waterways.

Bus Boycott Atty. Appeals Draft Notice

MONTEGOMERY, Ala. (ANP) — Atty. Fred D. Gray, 26, who has been active in the Negro boycotts of the city buses, gave notice last week that he may ask President Eisenhower to review a ruling by the National Selective Service Appeals Board upholding his 1-A classification.

Gray was ordered to report for induction into the armed forces August 16.

The young lawyer, who is also an ordained minister, had been classified 4-D until he began handling the case of five Negro women who filed suit to outlaw Montgomery and Alabama segregation laws. Shortly after the suit was filed, the local draft board reclassified him 1-A. He appealed the case to the national board, which ruled on it last week.

While the review was pending in Washington, Gray was given a pre-induction physical examination and found acceptable.

"I feel that the only reason my draft status was changed was because of my activities in the bus boycott," Gray said.

"Since 1946, I have been classified as 4-D by the local draft board. There never was any objection by the board to that classification, given to me as assistant pastor of Holt Street Church of Christ.

"Then only a few days after I became active in the boycott, I was called in by the draft board and told I was classified 1-A. No reason was given.

Chairman F. A. Miller of the board said that the deferment was originally given Gray, because he was "active pastor" of the church, but that the church since has acquired a pastor.

"That isn't the case," Gray said to reply. "I am still assistant pastor and have been conducting services each Sunday this summer."

The young lawyer was married last month. If he is inducted there will be only one Negro lawyer left in Montgomery, Charles D. Lang-

Nine Mentioned In V. Pres. Speculation

BY ALVIN SPIVAK CHICAGO — (INS) — The line of vice-presidential contenders formed to the right, left and center today as Democrats devoted more thought than ever before to picking the number two man for their 1956 ticket.

A varied and varying vigorous field of prospects was available to delegate who, at the outset of their nominating convention, were more confused about the bottom half of their slate than the top.

Although a list of senators, governors and one mayor dominated pre-convention speculation, there still was a possibility that the man ultimately chosen would be someone unmentioned in advance guessing.

Neither Adlai Stevenson nor Averell Harriman was expected to be willing to be the other's running mate or to have the other on his own ticket.

However, whether Stevenson wants Estes Kefauver or whether the Tennessee lawmaker would like to run under Stevenson, a drive for such a slate was rolling.

Moving in a direction which could head off such a drive was the bandwagon of Sen. Hubert Humphrey. Taut-tongued Minnesotan who announced early that he was willing to run, while Kefauver in listed he was "not a candidate."

Out of the running as far as many observers were concerned were Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas, and Stuart Symington, Missouri, who had been prominently named as "dark horse" possibilities but were considered unlikely for second spot.

Here, in no particular order, was the way the way the lineup appeared as the Democratic Convention got ready to launch its nominating sessions:

1. HUBERT M. HUMPHREY, 45, boomed as a "Northeastern Liberal" whom the South could accept because of his ability to compromise and because of stands on farm and resources policy which would offset, from a southern viewpoint, his staunchness as a civil rights advocate. Hailed by his backers as a sharp-witted, outspoken orator, he is pointed to as the Democrat best able to "take on" vice president Richard M. Nixon.

2. KEFAUVER, 53, whose withdrawal from the presidential race threw delegate support to Stevenson, and who is glorified by supporters as "a winner" with demonstrated vote-getting ability in primaries in 1952 and again this year. While some powerful southerners oppose him, his admirers insist he is more popular than any other candidate in farm, labor and minority circles.

3. SEN. JOHN F. KENNEDY, 39, a world War II Naval hero from Massachusetts, with a "moderate" bent in politics, and a reputation for courage and integrity. Some feel this being a Roman Catholic would make him "too risky" as a candidate in some areas of the South and Midwest, others, however, believe that if Stevenson, a divorced man, is to win, he should have a Catholic as his running mate.

4. MAYOR ROBERT F. WAGNER, 44, of New York, also a Roford, Langford worked with Gray in the bus boycott and a recent court suit filed against the NAACP.

Explaining to a Justice of the Peace that he had "all sorts of farm work to do and couldn't waste any more time about getting married, Bluford Eddington, who lives near here and his fiancée purchased a wedding license Saturday and were married at 5:30 a. m. by a sleepy magistrate.

Eddington told the Justice that he wanted to get married and could not wait until later in the morning. The Justice crawled sleepily out of bed and performed the ceremony while most of the city slept.

Not wishing to start a fad of early weddings, the magistrate refused to give his name saying: "People get the habit."

Louisville U. Prexy Tells How Kentucky Ended Bias

BUFFALO, N.Y.—Addressing the 50th Anniversary Convention of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity meeting this week at the Hotel Statler in Buffalo, Arthur D. Shores of Birmingham, Alabama, told more than a thousand delegates that the "protection of civil rights is the duty of every government which derives its powers from the consent of the people."

The attorney who defended Autherine Lucy in her tilt with the University of Alabama called upon the Federal government to provide the constitutional guarantees that could see that every citizen enjoyed equal protection of the laws and warned that the ideals of this nation could never be realized until discrimination had disappeared.

Shores traced progress that had been made in the elimination of discrimination in public housing, interstate commerce and in armed president Harry S. Truman. He stated that Eisenhower had also accelerated the pace of progress by executive action which had not only stimulated some of the states to act on school desegregation but had been material in improving conditions in the armed forces and in the removal of discriminations in our nation's capital.

While the Supreme Court decision abolishing segregation in public schools has resulted in favorable action in some states, Shores said that five states have passed nullification acts designed to ignore the actions of White Citizens Councils as using economic pressure and intimidation in preserving the "traditions" of the south.

Shores said that the vice of the NAACP had been all but stilled as a result of repressive action on the part of states such as Alabama and Louisiana.

In a session, yesterday, Mrs. Autherine Lucy Foster told the Alpha Phi Alpha convention that progress was the product of the hands and the hearts of many persons, not just those who might, by accident become its symbol.

Described by Mrs. William H. Hale, who introduced Mrs. Foster, as a "symbol of new leadership", Mrs. Foster described the events that led up to her flight to gain admission to the University of Alabama and the great aid that had been given her effort to pursue a college career in the school that expelled her after a stormy week of events whose repercussions are still echoing.

As principal speaker in a program to women's activities connected with the fraternity, Mrs. Foster pleaded for a world which would no longer observe racial standards but, instead, would be governed by world standards.

At the conclusion of her remarks, Mrs. Foster was given one of the Alpha Fraternity Awards. In response, she said, "I have decided that if there is any good I can do I am going to do it this day."

Another speaker, Robert Schermer, president of the Curtis Candy Company of Chicago, said "We cannot draw up a double, contradictory set of standards for our national conduct. We cannot have one set of principles for one and deny the same to others. We cannot defer or postpone putting brotherhood into action to a later time no matter how difficult may be the case at hand."

The industrialist advised that, as a nation, we are dependent upon the health and growth of our fellow-citizens if we desire it for ourselves.

The meeting was one of the sessions of the 50th Anniversary Convention being held at Buffalo in the Hotel Statler.

Dr. Phillip Davidson, president of the University of Louisville, told approximately 1500 delegates to the convention of the Alpha Fraternity the story about the integration of the University and the ease with which it had been accomplished in the "Gateway To The South."

The educator credited four factors for the absence of a single racial incident in this first college south of the Ohio River to fully integrate its program. They were: 1) The change in Louisville to an industrial community; 2) The influx of new citizens with new ideas; 3) An enlightened and helpful press; and 4) A cooperative mayor and city government.

Davidson commented that the move had first been considered for purely economic reasons when it was discovered that there was not enough money to continue operating the University of Louisville and the segregated Louisville Municipal College for Negroes.

Once the step was taken, however, there was complete and immediate acceptance on the part of the student body, the faculty and the community. He illustrated the lack of conflict by comparing the change to that experienced by the Louisville library.

Davidson said "One day, about 1949, they decided to paint the library. In finishing the work, the painters forgot to replace the signs that had designated certain areas for Negroes. From that time on people went where they pleased, sat where they wanted to and nothing happened." He said that it was such the experience of the University.

The two hundred Negro students participate full in the campus life such as sports, parties, dances, dormitories, etc. and there has never been racial incident. One Negro professor is on the faculty.

He attributed much of the success to the fact that they had made the switch without fanfare and publicity and without the helpful cooperation of many community leaders, aid which he termed "quite help."

Davidson offered the opinion that changes in attitudes were taking place in the South more rapidly than many persons assumed. He felt that great improvements were in the immediate offering with reference to school integration and attitudes in general because of "a sense of essential justice and fair play that is part of being an American." He felt that this characteristic would help to solve many of the problems of human relations that face the nation today.

Church Congregations Expect Too Much Of Clergy, Says Writer

MINISTER'S IMPOSSIBLE ROLE RESULTS IN GROWING NUMBER OF BREAKDOWNS, DIVINITY SCHOOL PROFESSOR CHARGES

NEW YORK, August 18—The number one problem of American clergymen today is that of their own mental health, it was stated today by Dr. Wesley Strader, an ordained minister and professor at Yale Divinity School. Mental and emotional breakdowns among our ministers are occurring in increasingly large numbers every year, Dr. Strader claims, and he places the blame squarely on church congregations who expect the minister to fill six different roles at once—organizer, pastor, preacher, priest and teacher. The conscientious minister tries to fulfill all these obligations without sufficient training as a specialist. His shortcomings plus the enormous strain produced by shortage of time, frustration and fear and case after case of breakdowns, Dr. Strader says.

Though large numbers of our parish ministers are cracking up, Dr. Strader writes in the current August 20 issue of Life Magazine, "the problem is almost never discussed, the public almost never hears about it, the church itself is loath to acknowledge the danger. The reason for this most people—clergyman and laymen alike—think that a minister of the gospel, a man of faith, a man of God, should be immune from any such breakdown."

ADMIT THAT PROBLEM EXISTS—The tension between congregations and their ministers, arising out of the impossible ministerial role, are not going to be resolved without honest, realistic appraisal on the part of the clergy and earnest, cooperative effort on the part of the lay people, according to Dr. Strader. He offers these specific suggestions to help solve the problem:

1. The National Council of Churches or some other responsible

HOLLYWOOD, -- (INS)—Billy Anderson, 28-year-old son of comedian Eddie (Rochester) Anderson was sentenced Tuesday to five years in Federal Prison for possession and sale of marijuana.

The sentence became mandatory on conviction after Anderson admitted before Federal Judge Thurmond Clarke to an earlier conviction in Kentucky on a narcotics violation charge.

Actually, a five-year term was imposed for each count, but Judge Clarke directed they be served concurrently.

Young Anderson was arrested last March during a roundup of nearly 200 suspected dope peddlers and addicts.

Religious body should study carefully a research report now being compiled on the role that lay people expect of their ministers and the role that ministers expect of themselves.

2. A representative committee composed of prominent psychiatrists, educators and church leaders should immediately begin a nationwide survey -- and the complete findings made public -- admitting the problem exists.

3. Local congregations can keep the church membership smaller. No one pastor can minister properly to a church with a membership over 500. When it is not feasible to reduce the membership, additional full-time ministers should be added to the church staff.

4. When a local church adopts the multiple minister system, the church must clearly define the separate roles of the various ministers.

"Superior strategies in church administration will not, by themselves, solve the pressing problem confronting today's ministry. Lay people, no matter how devout and sincere Christians they may be, have unwittingly created the tragic situation through their ignorance of the complex work of the modern minister. Only when these people know the nature of the problem will there be any progress toward a solution," Dr. Strader says.

MINISTER'S ROLE IMPOSSIBLE

Dr. Strader believes the explanation for emotional breakdowns among the clergy lies in the fact that the minister's role has become impossible. "It is a role that no human being, including the 12 Apostles could adequately fill," he says in the LIFE article.

"Today's congregations place the highest value upon the minister's roles as administrator and organizer. They regard less highly the roles of preacher, teacher and priest (administering the sacraments performing wedding and funerals). The minister, on the other hand, places the greatest emphasis on his roles as preacher, teacher and priest and puts less emphasis on his roles as administrator and organizer. The result is unresolvable conflict and frustration."

Dr. Strader tells of a questionnaire one minister prepared for a congregation asking them to fill in how much time they thought he should give each week to his various jobs -- studying and preparing his sermons and addresses, personal counseling, administering the affairs of the church (board meetings, committee meetings, budget planning, building programs, financial campaigns), calling on members of the congregation, calling on newcomers to the community, conducting young people's activities, preparing people for marriage and performing weddings, comforting the bereaved and conducting funerals, taking part in denominational work, aiding community activities such as the Community Chest, Red Cross civic clubs, YMCA, Boy Scouts.

Eleanor

Write your problem to Eleanor at 210 Auburn Ave. N. E.

Dear Eleanor:

I have been to several doctors about my headaches. Various tests have not yet revealed their causes. Doctors say that they are emotional headaches. I follow a rather reasonable physical and mental schedule everyday. What do you advise?

Mrs. Parham

Dr. Van Dellen recently published an article in one of our local daily papers. It follows:

8 COMMANDMENTS TO CUT EMOTIONAL HEADACHES

BY DR. VAN DELLEN

Headaches are common among persons who are emotionally disturbed, under stress, tired, allergic or addicted to alcohol and tobacco. We have long believed that nervous impulses produce painful spasms of the blood vessels of the brain or the muscles of the scalp and neck.

But a group of Philadelphia physicians did experimental work that casts doubt on the muscular origin of pain. They placed electrodes on the muscles of the neck and scalp and turned on the current. The stimulation threw the muscles into spasm but headaches did not ensue.

When the same stimulation was applied while the individual was suffering from earache, the additional spasm did not aggravate distress. Some of the patients stated the stimulation had a soothing effect. On the other hand complete relief occurred when persons with tension headache were given drugs like nicotine acid, gynergen, cafegot, or penlegot, to relax vessels.

The researchers in question are convinced that pain stems from the vessels inside the brain rather than from the muscles outside this structure. But all this does not alter the basic cause such as fatigue, allergy, tension, anxiety, or emotional stress.

Since the emotional aspect of headache is so important, Dr. Raymond L. Hilsinger offers his patients a sheet on which is printed the following commandments:

1. This is not a perfect world. Perfection is rarely attained, so be satisfied with less.

2. Tolerance makes understanding of the other fellow easier.

3. Don't be a slave to the clock. Work at your own pace. Trying to meet too many deadlines only creates tension.

4. You cannot please everybody, so stop trying.

5. Be efficient, yes but not to the extent that perfection becomes a burden.

with many difficulties. There were many about him, who, while professing to believe in Jesus Christ, were teaching a mixture of Christian truth and pagan philosophy. John realized that if their attack on the person of Jesus succeeded, the basis of Christian faith would be imperiled.

ASSURANCE TO ALL.—As one writer points out, too many Christians try to measure their religious experiences in terms of feeling. He declared that our feelings are too unreliable, too variable, too dependent upon ourselves and our circumstances. Our assurance of Christian salvation can rest upon the fact of Christ, the fact of God's infinite grace, the fact of Christ's promise to receive and save, and keep, all who receive him as their Savior. And this is the only basis for any assurance at all.

How can we know that we are saved? Certainly not by our superior knowledge, not by our perfect living, not our professions, but by the confidence that we love God, abide in Him and He in us through the Holy Spirit. Then, and only then, can we say, with Paul, "I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day" (2 Tim. 1:12).

What are some of the evidences of a genuine experience of salvation and the bases for spiritual assurance? Among these we find obedience to God's commandments, love for others, victory over sin.

John recognized that if we are to have faith in God, we must have evidence for our faith. Eighty times in his writings he refers to this idea of witnessing. John points out the witness of the Holy Spirit coming from God, and say that one who believes not God's testimony classifies God as a liar.

The message given to man by the divine witness is the gift of eternal life. "This is the message of the Christian gospel," declared Rev. Robert Law, "the greatest, gladdest and best of all messages because eternal life is the greatest, gladdest and best of all things. Eternal life is not a life hereafter, not a future and distant felicity, not a crown to be received at the end, but a present reality, and immediate possession. It is not primarily a length of life, but a kind of life, the highest quality of life, the life that has in it the sovereign elements -- knowledge, love, joy, power -- for which we are made. Life that is eternal, inexhaustible in its meaning and value. It is the eternal life in us now that reaches out to the eternal life to come."

John recognized that if we are to have faith in God, we must have evidence for our faith. Eighty times in his writings he refers to this idea of witnessing. John points out the witness of the Holy Spirit coming from God, and say that one who believes not God's testimony classifies God as a liar.

The message given to man by the divine witness is the gift of eternal life. "This is the message of the Christian gospel," declared Rev. Eternal life is not a life hereafter, not a future and distant felicity, not a crown to be received at the end, but a present reality, and immediate possession. EDUCATIONAL PROBLEM COMMITTEE TO STUDY

SUB-COMMITTEE MEETS THE PRESIDENT'S COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION BEYOND THE HIGH SCHOOL

WASHINGTON—Devereux C. Josephs, Chairman of the President's Committee on Education Beyond the High School, announced today that plans had been formulated for convening meetings of its four subcommittees to point up some of the major problems that will confront post-high school education in the next ten to fifteen years.

A first meeting of Subcommittee I on the demand for post-high school education was held on August 8 in Los Angeles under the chairmanship of Dr. Arthur O. Coons, president of Occidental College. It studied estimates of the numbers of young people who will be seeking education beyond the high school to 1970 and considered the kinds of education they will be seeking.

The three other subcommittees, on resources, modifications and improvement, and Federal relationships, have scheduled meetings before September 15 and all will report to the full Committee at its next meeting on October 5.

Mr. Josephs said that immediate stimulus to planning and action throughout the Nation to meet adequately the needs of education beyond the high school had been given by Public Law 813 enacted in the closing days of the 84th Congress. In commenting on this Act, Marion B. Folsom, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, stated to Mr. Josephs that "I am sure that the President is as pleased as I am that you and your associates are continuing these efforts to develop a solution for one of the truly important problems of these days. And I am delighted to have your assurance that, with the legislative support now won, these efforts can be prosecuted without serious curtailment along the lines already planned."

Rev. Skinner: Only Negro Lutheran Minister In City

The Rev. John T. Skinner, 1483 South Parkway East, is pastor of Calvary Lutheran church at 826 Edith, the only congregation of Negro Lutherans in Memphis. Pastor Skinner is a veteran of 18 years in the Lutheran ministry, coming to Calvary church after seven years as pastor of Mount Calvary Lutheran church at Kannapolis, N. C.

Pastor Skinner is also Principal of the Lutheran Cooperative school at the Edith address. He holds a Bachelor of Divinity degree from Immanuel Lutheran College at Greensboro, N. C.

Pastor Skinner has the assistance of his wife in the operation of the school. Mrs. Skinner, a native of Selma, Ala., teaches religion and serves as her husband's secretary. She is a graduate of Camden Academy, Camden, Ala. The Skinners have no children.

LARGE MEMBERSHIP

Although the Lutheran church is not numerically strong in the Memphis area, it is the largest and oldest Protestant church. It dates from its founding in 1517 by Dr. Martin Luther at Wittenberg, Germany. World membership is said to be at least 70 million, and is probably much higher than that figure, depending on the fate of the approximately 30 million Lutherans who were natives of countries now behind the Iron Curtain.

The church was founded as a Christ-centered, Bible-teaching, conservative organization, and has remained so throughout the whole of its existence. This fundamentalist approach has been so successful that approximately one in every three Protestants throughout the world is a Lutheran.

Pastor Skinner's church is a member of The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, the oldest and second largest Lutheran body in America, with more than 2,300,000 members. The Missouri Lutheran church requires its pastors to have a general college education, plus three years in theological school plus one year as a vicar serving a congregation under the guidance of an ordained minister. There are seven Missouri Lutheran congregations in Memphis and vicinity.

TEACHING THE FOUR R's

The Lutheran Cooperative School headed by Pastor Skinner, like all other Lutheran schools, operates on the theory that the student's education is not complete unless a fourth R, Religion, is added to the traditional three R's. In addition to classes teaching the specific facts about religion, the entire curriculum is presented in a Christ-centered manner. Special effort is made to integrate at all times the facts of religion into the facts of general education.

All Lutheran schools are private church schools which meet or exceed the state and local standards where they operate. All are open to public enrollment, the only restriction being that children of the sponsoring congregation are naturally given first preference. This is a necessary safeguard to the congregation, because, most Lutheran schools operate to the full limit of their physical capacity. One of the problems at Lutheran Cooperative as well as at the other Memphis Lutheran school, Immanuel, at North Highland and Tutwiler, is to try to take care of the applicants in a manner fair to all.

"Proclamation of Foolishness"

Churches Should Not Segregate Says Kelsey

By SAMUEL L. ADAMS

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—

Although the "Negro Church" is segregated by "historical accident," it must not be a segregating church and should issue a proclamation stating its desire to serve the spiritual needs of all Christians regardless of race, declared Dr. George D. Kelsey at Morris Brown College Wednesday.

Dr. Kelsey, noted minister and professor of social ethics at Drew University, was delivering the keynote sermon in connection with the three-day meeting of the Georgia State Christian Leadership Education Congress. The Congress, with some 2,000 delegates from African Methodist Episcopal churches all over the state and elsewhere, began at 10 a. m. in the Joe Louis Gymnasium with Bishop W. R. Wilkes presiding.

"The so-called Negro church must take the initiative to effect church integration," the minister said. It is by historic accident a segregated church, but it must not be a segregating church. He said this is not the exclusive problem of the Negro because they are victims of the set-up. However, the A. M. E. church should issue a proclamation stating its desire to serve mankind.

Preaching from what he called "The Proclamation of Foolishness," Dr. Kelsey scoffed at preaching which teaches nothing and motivates emotions by mere use of rhythm and sound without the benefit of thought and reason. He said the cults of the East and Mid-west like that operated by Father Divine is made up in part by former Methodists and Baptists of the south who were not taught well while being preached to.

NEED TEACHING

"We need a teaching evangelism," current struggle was not so much the control of matter as it was the self-control of men.

Stanley predicted that the spiritual hunger of men would allow them to seek early solutions to the hates and prejudices that have caused deep rifts in our civilization. He charged the fraternity with the job of building a society where there are "no unimportant people."

The meeting, held at the Hotel Statler in Buffalo, took place during the 50th Anniversary Convention of Alpha Phi Alpha, oldest of the Negro Greek-letter fraternities.

Approximately 2,000 persons crowded the gymnasium for the keynote service.

Bishop Wilkes told the large audience that "Christianity must become a living operative thing in our lives." Chiding politicians at the National Convention in Chicago for their insincerity, he said "It's not what we say, but what we do."

Others speaking on the program were: Rev. George A. Sewall, Dr. Frank Cunningham, Rev. Frank Rogers, Rev. J. A. Middleton, Rev. A. R. Cooper, and a baritone soloist from Trinidad, Rev. Ulrich George with Miss Charlotte Giles at the piano.

Today at noon, a former dean of Turner Theological Seminary at Morris Brown College, and the present president of Wilberforce University, Dr. Charles L. Hill will be the featured speaker. A talent program will be staged tonight, with selected youth from all over the state participating.

The Weather

Soda Pops Won't Chase Woes Here

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—

It's not going to get any cooler today. Whether or not this means the weather is trying to keep pace with the boys in Chicago or not can't be told.

But unless afternoon, thunder-showers slow things down Atlanta ought to be sweltering in 95 degree heat about 2 p. m. today.

But one thing is sure.

The situation in Georgia is different from Chicago in one respect at least. When things get too hot here we may call "coke time" and walk from where we are standing. But different from the convention we can't walk out on the heat. It'll just follow us and remind us that even down here on one or two people really run the world."

Also featured on the program were remarks by the A. M. E. Church's senior bishop, Dr. Sherman L. Greene of the 12th Episcopal District and president of the General Board of the A. M. E. Church. Bishop Greene said the church is moving toward equalization of districts. He predicted greater church unity as he pointed to the general church's new practice of self-examination and the policy of discovering and correcting faults.

Approximately 2,000 persons crowded the gymnasium for the keynote service.

Mississippi Loses Woman To Chicago

JACKSON, MISS.—(ANP)— In Chicago for the fatal stabbing of Edward Kelly last Sept. a Negro woman was freed on $500 bond after the State of Illinois failed to follow up their earlier request for her extradition.

Mrs. Annie Laurie O'Neill, who was arrested in Columbia May 29 on federal charges of fleeing from justice, was originally placed in Hinds County jail without bond.

Federal authorities in Jackson released custody of Mrs. O'Neill earlier this week so Gov. J. P. Coleman could extradite her if he wished.

She was still being held on Illinois charges that she fatally stabbed Edward Kelly in Chicago last September.

Jesse Stennis, executive counsel for Gov. Coleman, reported earlier this week that a request for extradition by the Illinois governor had not been followed up in a hearing on the matter in mid-July.

No further action has been taken by Illinois state authorities on the extradition request, Stennis said.

Meanwhile, Robert Nicholas, Jr., district attorney in Jackson, set the Mrs. O'Neill's bond at $500 because Illinois had not backed up their extradition request.

The bond was posted and she was released.

15 Killed In Utah Blast; 40 Injured

MONTICELLO, Utah.—(INS)— Five hospitals Tuesday cared for 40 persons injured in a Monticello cafe explosion as fire officials tried to find the cause of the blast that killed 15 persons.

The blast during the dinner hour last night as more than 60 persons sat eating at tables was believed caused by a natural gas accumulation in the basement of the structure.

Monticello fire chief Robert F. Bryan began examining the flattened cafe yesterday to determine definitely the cause. A new natural gas line from Cortez, Colo., began serving Monticello only Monday morning.

Witnesses said the building puffed up, pushed out all four sides and fell flat as the explosion occurred. Steve Hazelwood, 47-year-old truck driver from Monticello, prevented further holocaust by quick action. He grabbed a wrench and turned off a gas valve leading into the demolished lariat cafe. There was no fire.

The list of dead included: Rex L. Miller and his wife, both 34, and daughter Jacquelin, 9, of Deerfield, Kas.

Robert S. Bayles of Newcastle, Ind., and an unidentified 12-year-old boy believed to be his son.

Better Relations With Africa Are Urged For Demos

In a "Statement on United States Policy on Africa," presented to the Platform Committee of the Democratic Party convention in Chicago by the American Committee on Africa, the United States government is urged to establish "a positive and vigorous policy aimed at replenishing that fund of goodwill" toward Africa in Africa which was "once vast but now rapidly dwindling."

"Because of supposed strategic considerations, the United States has refused to take a clearcut stand against racial oppression and economic exploitation in Africa, the last stronghold of colonialism," it was stated.

Further, the Statement pointed out, it would appear that a tacit agreement exists between the United States on the one hand and the Union of South Africa and the European, colonial-power allies on the other, that the United States will not interfere in their handling of native populations in return for the privilege of establishment of strategic bases and the free flow of strategic minerals.

L. O. Swingler Cited At Alpha Convention

L. O. Swingler, longtime Memphis newsman now executive secretary of the Abe Scharif branch YMCA, was cited for many years of faithful service to the fraternity at the 50th anniversary convention of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity held Aug. 7 thru Aug. 11 in Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. Swingler, now Alpha southern vice president, was cited for his many years as editor of The Sphinx official organ of the fraternity. Swingler, who was accompanied by his wife Mrs. Edna Swingler, presided over the fifth session of the convention, Aug. 9, at which time Mrs. Atherine Lucy Foster, first Negro admitted to the University of Alabama, was guest speaker.

Teachers Sought For Africa Jobs

In an effort to foster goodwill between the United States and the people of Africa, the Institute of African-American Relations, a private organization in Washington, D. C., announces it is undertaking a program to help African nations in their urgent quest for qualified teachers and technicians.

With Africa rapidly shedding the title "Dark Continent" her need for teachers and specialists is becoming acute, according to E. Jefferson Murphy, the Institute's director of programs.

To help alleviate the problem, the Institute, located at 1234 20th St. N. W., has set up an African Placement Service, which acts as a clearance bureau through which persons seeking employment in Africa can apply and be referred to interested African organizations.

Already more than 40 personal applications and nearly 100 preliminary inquiries are being processed by the Institute. Because of the lack of extensive overseas representation, communication difficulties and the like, the service is expected to be invaluable to African schools and other agencies seeking competent, well trained Americans able to contribute something of value to African economic and educational progress.

Americans in turn are afforded an opportunity to live and work with people of a culture entirely different from their own, with locally approved salaries and working conditions.

Mr. Murphy stressed that the Institute conducts a thorough investigation of applicants holding degrees or specialized training in fields where the need is thought acute before a referral is made. The Institute undertakes to protect both school and applicant in the initial stages of referral, but does not pre-

Rickey Blasts "Hypocrisy Of Democracy" At Alpha Meeting

BUFFALO, N. Y.— In an address to more than a thousand delegates to the convention of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Branch Rickey, baseball magnate, said, "Today, a man's performance is much more important than the pigmentation of his skin."

The colorful owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates and the man responsible for the entry of Negroes into organized baseball told the convention of the Greek letter group that no man was entitled to special credit simply because he gave another fellow American an opportunity to do that which he was best equipped to do.

Touching on the present state of human relationships, Rickey observed that a major problem was the extent to which some of the more damaging effects of discrimination were not visible and seldom even talked about. He described the accumulated humiliations that rob men of assurance and character.

DEPLORES HYPOCRISY

Describing the "hypocrisy of democracy," Rickey said that our nation, was, too often, the "land of the free but the prison of many of our citizens' aspirations." He claimed that the Emancipation Proclamation might have freed the body of the Negro but that no proclamation had been devised to free the souls and prejudices of the white man.

"The value of the human being and the rights of the individual will never be secure in the face of racial discrimination," stated Rickey. Rickey was given an award by the

At the conclusion of his address the audience gave Rickey a standing ovation following the speech, fraternity for "outstanding contribution to democracy in the field of sports and business."

In another address to the gathering, A. Maceo Smith, former president of the fraternity told the audience that the purpose of the fraternity had remained constant since the first preamble to the constitution had been written in 1906.

Describing the brotherhood as being "born on the heels of slavery and on the lap of discrimination," Smith observed that the concerns of the group were still centered on the development of "integrity, character and scholarship."

General president Frank L. Stanley told the gathering that the fraternity would continue to devote its efforts to teaching men how to live together. He commented that our

'No Peace Without Justice Says Geo.

BY ALICE A. DUNNIGAN FOR ANP

There used to be an old saying around that "there's something rotten in Denmark." This certainly meant no reflection on the country, nor did it mean that everything in Denmark is rotten. Just as the latter is true so it is true that every white person born in the South is definitely not bad.

The attitude of the south is usually judged by those rabble rousing speeches frequently made in the Congress of the United States by a handful of race baiting representatives.

Too little attention, and certainly too little credit is given to that group of southerners who are fair in their judgment and firm in their convictions.

Such a person is Senator George of Georgia. It was not until Senator Walter F. George of Webster County, Georgia gracefully bowed out of the U. S. Senate and accepted the position as President Eisenhower's personal ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, that this writer began to analyze the true character of the individual.

GEORGE'S TRUE CHARACTER
His true character was revealed in the simple good-bye speech which he made to his colleagues, other high ranking politicians and personal friends at the "George of Georgia Appreciation Dinner," held at the Mayflower just prior to the adjournment of Congress.

In this speech the 78-year-old statesman kept emphasizing "justice." Peace and justice go hand and hand, he said. We cannot have one without the other. "We have just got to establish justice in the world," he continued. "That is the standard policy of every civilized state. Justice fortifies peace. When we say we want peace, we want peace with justice. If we establish justice we will perform the high mission of free men and women of America. If we fail in that high quest we are failures. If we succeed we will have made a contribution of a great people."

In his new assignment, George said he would "represent men and women of every race and nation who want peace and who live it just as you and I."

All of the talk about "justice and peace" inspired this writer to look back over George's past record. Here it was discovered that during his 34 years in the Senate he became a figure whose resoluteness and fearlessness made him a force to be reckoned with.

NO POLITICAL LABEL
He was never "bracketed" or "labeled" because the character of his standards and service defied newspaper people of cataloging his characteristics. Some called the Senator conservative, some liberal, and some middle-of-the-road. But the truth is that none of these labels described his convictions.

George is a student of history of people as well as law. He joined no clique, had partnership in no bloc and applied stringent rules to each issue according to its own weight.

It was because of this independent attitude that he is reported to have so seriously objected to the Southern manifesto signed by 101 Southerners defying the Supreme Court ruling on school integration. Rumors around Capitol Hill were that Senator George was very unhappy when the Southern delegation selected him to spearhead this manifesto movement. According to reports George signed the document as a matter of loyalty to his section then retired to the cloak room where he sadly stated that if the Senate of the United States has come to this it is time for him to get out. This, they say, is the reason for the Senator's decision to retire from this office.

MOVE FORWARD
It was further noted that shortly after the Supreme Court had made the historic decision regarding segregation in the public schools, it was the Georgia Senator who made a more sensible statement than any of the other southern lawmakers.

While the other Southern Representatives were condemning the Supreme Court and lambasting the justices for the decision, Senator George was quoted in a Georgia paper as saying: "We must go forward - maybe slowly - but we must move forward!"

The Senator's last victory in the Senate of the United States was the successful passage of a social security bill with broader benefits for women and disabled persons.

POLITICAL RECORD
But Walter George's record for liberal legislation dates back to the early days of Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration. He helped to write many of the New Deal laws and became chairman of the committee which safeguarded, and continually sought to strengthen the social security system.

George also helped write the laws to give an even break to rural families, to bring light and power to American farms, soil conservation, support prices and has supported every farm benefit bill.

The Senator never wrote such far-reaching Fair Deal laws as those establishing veterans' benefits, farm price supports and scores of other domestic measures.

As chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, he made a public declaration favoring talks with the potential enemy. He further forced the administration to agree to the "summit" talks - the conference of the major powers at Geneva last summer. As a result of this conference the world took another step toward peace. It was this action which stamped Senator George of Georgia the "Man of Peace in the World."

South Africa Bars 1st Native Lawyer
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (ANP)—The first African lawyer in the history of the Transvaal was barred last week from taking chambers in a building occupied by 160 whites.

The lawyer, Philemon Nokwe, was faced with the racial blockade after 20 white barristers opposed his entry because he would be able to take tea in their common room.

Mordecai Johnson Rips Segregation And Colonialism

HAMPTON, Va. — Dr. Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard University, blasted segregation and colonialism in an address delivered at the National Dental Association at Hampton Institute tonight. He said that in the past sixty years some 1,250,000,000 colored people in the world have become free or partially free and that Great Britain, France, Spain, Portugal, Germany, Holland and other nations that fostered colonialism in international policies are no longer the great world powers they once were.

Johnson pointed out that colonialism suffered its downfall because of bitterness and strife among the colonial nations. He made it clear that none of these nations combined is still a poor third to that of the United States and Russia.

The great educator said that the nations awoke too late to find the injustices rendered on the colored people of the world left them incapable of trusting each other.

In striking a blow against segregation, Johnson said, "Those of us who would hold on to segregation would hold on to a system which has failed all over the world. The price of maintaining segregation in the United States will be the loss of the leadership of the world." He pointed out that the balance of power in the struggle for world leadership rests in the hands of the colored nations and that they cannot trust us as long as we have Georgias, Mississippis and Virginias. "The only way we can bring them on our side," he said, "is to convince them that we are rapidly beginning to get rid of it." Dr. Johnson said his sentiments are similar to those of Thomas Jefferson when he said, "When I consider slavery and remember that my God is just, I tremble for my country." The Howard president added, "Segregation is the most tragic dilemma of human faith in the history of the human race."

Negroes Not Using Vaccine, Reports Say

NEW YORK (ANP) — The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said last week that Negro children and expectant mothers are not taking full advantage of the Salk vaccine, a r o v e n protection against polio.

In a widely-circulated letter, Charles H. Bynum, director of the Interracial Activities Division, said: "I have reports from scattered areas across the nation that Negro children and expectant mothers are not taking full advantage of the Salk vaccine. The gravity of the situation is underscored in Chicago. You may know from your local papers that Chicago is experiencing a severe flare-up of polio. I was shocked to know that more than half of all polio cases so far reported in this city are Negroes. This is true despite the fact that Chicago has more than one hundred clinics administering free vaccine."

Ralph Bunche Kin Is Slain

WASHINGTON (INS) — While delegates to a convention milled around on the floor below, Roscoe W. Harris, 66, a brother-in-law of Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations official, was strangled to death Monday.

The body of Harris, a real estate man, was found by his wife, Alice, Deputy Coroner Richard M. Rosenberg said his death resulted from "asphyxiation due to strangulation." The body bore no marks of violence. The head was wrapped in twine and the hands and feet tied with rope. Harris' wife said her husband usually carried $100 to $200.

The deputy coroner said Harris was apparently killed an hour after he reported for work in his office. On the floor below, delegates to an Odd Fellows Convention milled about, possibly drowning out any cries he may have made for help.

Mrs. Harris is the sister of Dr. Bunche. United Nations Undersecretary and Nobel Peace prize winner. The couple was married in 1930.

STANDOUTS FOR DEMOCRATIC V-P NOMINATION

ESTES KEFAUVER, Tennessee senator who withdrew from presidential nomination race. He is 53, a familiar figure all over the U. S.

GEORGE M. LEADER, 38, Pennsylvania governor but an "unknown nationally." New in big league politics. Might win as "compromise."

ALBERT GORE, senator from Tennessee. Gore is 48, a "non-controversial" personality held in high esteem in inner Democrat party circles.

JOHN F. KENNEDY, only 39 and senator from Massachusetts. A moderate, a Catholic, a War II vet. Unseated Henry Cabot Lodge.

HUBERT HUMPHREY, Minnesota senator, is "boy governor" of Tennessee. He is convention keynoter, may "set the delegates on fire," has many southern friends.

FRANK CLEMENT, 36, bachelor governor of New Jersey. He won his state from a strong GOP machine, slowed Kefauver's campaign.

ROBERT B. MEYNER, 45, late Senator Wagner.

ROBERT F. WAGNER, 44, late Senator Wagner.

THESE EIGHT men are considered standouts for the Democratic vice presidential nomination at the convention in Chicago. All are believed "acceptable" to Adlai Stevenson, presidential nomination front-runner. Stevenson told friends he would make a declaration after nomination. (International)

1952 Civil Rights Not Good For Now---Wilkins

CHICAGO — The Democratic party plank on civil rights of 1952 will not meet today's need, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has warned the resolutions committee of the Democratic National Convention.

Appearing on behalf of 30 national organizations affiliated with the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, Mr. Wilkins called for party approval of a six-point civil rights plank urging implementation of the U. S. Supreme Court anti-segregation decisions, enactment of anti-violence laws, protection of the right to vote, enactment of an FEPC law, revision of Senate Rule 22 to curb the filibuster, and selection of congressional committee chairmen on the basis of merit and party responsibility rather than seniority alone.

Mr. Wilkins' statement stressed the need for forthright endorsement of the Supreme Court's ruling in the public school segregation cases, for federal guaranty of the "precious right to vote," and for providing "protection of the security of the person."

"These states are defying the Court and the Constitution. They have passed legislation to circumvent the Court's ruling. They have threatened to abolish the public school system rather than comply with the Constitution. They have taken -- as state governments -- punitive action against persons and organizations who have urged compliance. They have encouraged widespread disrespect for our Constitution, our Supreme Court, and for law and order. Leading spokesmen for these states, running the gamut from governors and United States senators to lowly constables, have publicly counseled defiance of the nation's highest court."

WHY A PLANK ON SUPREME COURT?

Answering the question: Why is it necessary to include in the party platform an endorsement of the Supreme Court ruling? the spokesman for the civil rights organizations said:

"Ordinarily, there would be no need for such an expression in a party platform because, generally, Supreme Court ruling are accepted and promptly implemented even though there may be segments of the population which disagree with the decision. The situation today is tragically different. A hard core of eight states is in open rebellion against the Supreme Court's anti-segregation ruling.

"The issue is no longer one between Negro and certain white Americans; it has become one involving obedience to law, reverence for the democratic tradition, support for the institutions and ideals that distinguish the United States as a free nation."

Scholarship Fund Begun By Alphas

ITHACA, N. Y. — A check for $12,500.00 as an initial payment towards the establishment of a $25,000.00 Memorial Scholarship Fund at Cornell University was presented to the University by Frank L. Stanley, Sr., President of the Alpha Phi Alpha, to highlight the Fraternity's 50th Anniversary pilgrimage to the campus where Alpha was founded.

A throng of 920 Alpha men, their wives and sweethearts, witnessed the ceremonies in the swank Statler Club on the University campus. Dr. Lloyd Elliot, executive assistant to the president of Cornell, accepted the memorial scholarship.

MEDALS PRESENTED
Another highlight of the day's activities was the presentation of 50th Anniversary Medallions to the Jews' founders of the fraternity. Three surviving members of the founding chapter, Henry A. Callis of Washington, D. C.; George B. Kelley of Troy, N. Y.; and Nathaniel A. Murray of Los Angeles, California, were recipients. Families of the deceased founders, Robert Ogilvie, Verner W. Tandy, Eugene Kinckle Jones and Charles H. Chapman received the other medallions.

Georgia, Fla. Moonshine Ring Smashed

MACON, Ga. (INS)—Authorities in Macon announced Wednesday that they have smashed a 67-man moonshine liquor ring operating between Georgia and Florida.

A Macon grand jury indicted 31 defendants and 36 co-conspirators on eleven counts in a 17 page sealed document returned two weeks ago.

The Federal Government said that the two-state ring operated several stills and reported that they had confiscated hundreds of gallons of bootleg whiskey, most of it stored in the barn of a justice of the peace.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Floyd Buford named the seven alleged ring leaders as: justice of the peace Charles Hamaley, James T. Knight and his mother, Mrs. Hattie Knight, all of Houston County, Ga.; Robert and William Gainey, 528 From Montic, Gann and Lester Alligood and Curtis Farmer, of Bibb County, Ga.

All are free on $1,000 bail, except William Gainey who is currently serving three years on a whiskey charge.

The ring, which allegedly operated from September, 1955, to June 30, 1956, brought on its own downfall when it hired a Federal agent to run the illicit liquor from Florida to Georgia.

Mayor C. Ryan of Ithaca welcomed the entourage that traveled from Buffalo via 15-car train.

Serving as toastmaster was Dr. G. Alex Galvin, a prominent physician of Ithaca, an Alpha man and a member of the medical faculty at Cornell.

FORMER PRESIDENT

Roscoe G. Giles, a former national president of Alpha Phi Alpha and the first Negro to graduate from the Medical School of Cornell introduced the founders.

Accepting the Memorial Scholarship, Dr. Elliot said that the award was another significant chapter in the life of Cornell University.

President Stanley in presenting the scholarship said that it would be available to any qualified student "regardless of race, creed or sex."

Segregation Doomed Rev. M. L. King, Jr. Tells Morticians

CLEVELAND, Ohio—Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., national famous Baptist minister from Montgomery, Ala., termed racial segregation the "tired old man who must now move aside and make way for the birth of a new age," when he gave the main speech at the 19th annual meeting of the National Negro Funeral Directors Association, last week.

"Desegregation is inevitable the rumbling you hear in the air against desegregation these days is only the death grunts of the dying old man segregation," said the eloquent young minister, who became international news when he headed the famous Montgomery

Big 3 Map Suez Canal Strategy
LONDON (INS)—The Western Big Three powers mapped final strategy moves Wednesday on the eve of the 22-nation Suez Conference at which Russia is expected to speak for Egypt in the canal seizure dispute.

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred with British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau after his arrival in London for the parley opening today.

Dulles also met with Soviet Foreign Minister Dimitri Shepilov who is expected to resist Western plans for internationalizing the Suez Canal. Egypt is boycotting the parley.

Arab leaders planned a strike of 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 persons today to protest the start of the conference. Egypt has refused to attend the meeting on the ground it is not competent to deal with Suez matters. However, Egypt was reportedly sending an observer to the talks.

Dulles, who was in London two weeks ago for Big Three talks on the Suez said on his arrival from Washington he hoped that the conference will settle the crisis. He declared that a solution was "vital to the peace and well being on the world."

The U. S. Secretary then called on Eden at his Ten Downing Street residence and met with the British and French Foreign Ministers. He was accompanied by U. S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich.

We Now Have Come To See Just What We See

One of the dramas enacting a like setting in our time is now being filmed from reality in the big city of Chicago as the National Democratic Convention meets.

The fact that two conflicting ideas have come to seize upon this important occasion as a clearance for their differences, makes this one of the most important settings of a body politic on this continent.

From the keynote speaker on down to the present, the eve of the nomination of a candidate for a standard-bearer for the Democratic Party, the thread of the Supreme Court decision of May 17th, 1954 has been interwoven in nearly every caste. That powerful subject, already decided by the highest court in the land, will not down itself for resolution and activation, but continues to strut and fret its hour on the stage.

Many of us bemoaned the fact that at the local level, politicians who seized upon the question and fused it into a campaign issue, were spending their energies and opportunities at a fruitless game. We insisted then as we do now, that such had no place in a political arena as something to still be decided by a vote of the people, but the die was cast and the practice mounted from the ward-level to an untenable position around the table of national and world events.

We now see the chickens come home to roost. Those who kept the question alive in hot protests, instead of going about as the court ordered in seeing how soon could the question be resolved, now see that those who sowed the wind are coming in to reap the whirlwind.

It is indeed a regrettable spectacle to see a political party wrangling to a near split over something already settled and those segments of that party making their first inquiry as to how and where will certain citizens fare in this combine intent upon seating a President of the United States.

Yes, the court decision and its hand-maid Civil Rights have come to roost at Chicago. They brought these here for this inning. This inning will bring closer the final solution of what has been splitting churches, public forums, political parties and even the union itself.

While we bemoaned the practice of bringing legal questions upon political horizons, maybe this will prove a healthy situation in the end. If all is well that ends well, a contribution might be in the making.

Anyway Chicago forms an important setting for the Democratic Party; from that windy city, once destroyed by Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicking over a lantern in a barn, we await another important decision.

Another lantern is reposing in a barn and it seems that before the adjournment of this body, it also may be kicked over.

MEALTIME MELODIES!

BUTTERMILK MAKES A DELICIOUS STROGONOFF

Cubes of meat browned in flavor tubber, are served as Strogonoff in a sauce seasoned to perfection with onion, a bit of garlic, Worcestershire sauce and buttermilk. When most of us think of Strogonoff, we think of thick cultured dairy sour cream as the important ingredient that gives this dish its distinctive flavor. Buttermilk, which also is cultured, can be used instead of the usual sour cream. One of the wonderful virtues of this dairy food is the low calorie count: it adds to foods, for buttermilk is made from skim milk. It contains the important nutrients of milk except the Vitamin A found in butterfat.

Strogonoff cooks by itself most of the time. It only needs your attention at the very last when the buttermilk is added. Serve it over bread, butter and tossed salad, with noodles. Accompanied by French have an ideal menu for back porch entertaining. An additional suggestion - serve milk with the meal and coffee later.

BUTTERMILK STROGONOFF
6 servings
1-4 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1-2 pounds beef, cut in cubes
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup sliced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1-2 cup water
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoon tomato catsup
1 4-oz. can button mushrooms

3-4 cup buttermilk
Combine flour, salt and pepper. Coat cubes of meat with this mixture. Brown meat slowly in butter in a large pan. When brown on all sides, add onion, garlic, water, Worcestershire sauce, catsup, and liquid drained from canned mushrooms. Cover and simmer for about 2 hours. Stir in mushrooms and buttermilk and cook only until heated through. Serve over noodles or rice.

Nat'l Baptist To Discuss Freedom At Denver Session

DENVER, Col. (ANP)—Fifteen thousand delegates representing 25,000 churches from every state in the Union are expected to converge on Denver September 5-9 for the 76th annual session of the National Baptist Convention, U. S. A., Inc.

Theme of the convention is "Freedom Through the Christian Religion."

An outstanding array of speakers, including Dr. Howard Thurman, Dean of the Marsh Chapel, Boston University, who will be the annual Booker T. Washington Night speaker on Friday evening, and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., head of the Montgomery Ala. Improvement League, will address the body in what promises to be one of the most historic sessions in the long life of the convention.

According to Dr. J. H. Jackson, president of the group, the convention will give considerable attention to four vital questions facing Negro Baptists, and particularly the part the church should play in areas where the NAACP has been outlawed: the matter of integration and the Baptist Convention - shall it be moderation, gradualism, or pressure for immediate action; the development of an overall educational program, the purpose of which will be to coordinate as far as possible the educational activities of Baptist schools and colleges, and a program report on the Ministerial Retirement Fund.

The annual Booker T. Washington night will feature the nation oratorical contest which is open to high schools students. The subject of the orations will be "America's Best Answer to the Challenge of Communism." Contestants from all the state conventions are eligible to participate for prizes which total $1,750.00 as scholarships for college education for the top three winners.

SYNOPSIS
Priscilla Paige is bored with her job in a New York office, yet doesn't want to get married. An opportunity to escape presents itself in a trip to Apalachicola, Florida, to settle the estate left unexpectedly to her by a great-aunt. Priscilla's friend—older wiser Rita Lambert—drives with her to claim the mysterious mansion Lookout House, which is rumored haunted and has a secret passage. They decide to keep the purpose of their visit to themselves because three strange men seem curiously interested. They are Bill Todd, who says he is a writer, Red Gallagher, a fisherman, and Luis Alvarez, a wealthy yachtman. Attorney Todd takes the two girls to the old mansion and reluctantly leaves them with the key. They explore the dust-laden rooms and Rita finds $500 on the floor in a roll of brand-new bills.

CHAPTER 9
As Priscilla and Rita drove away from Lookout House, they noticed on the other side of the street, a few doors down, an attractive garden cottage with a "For Rent" sign on it. The larger house faced the other street and seemed to be closed, although the grounds appeared to be well kept. Rita slowed the car, an idea forming in her mind. "I wonder—Priscilla, if we're to be here several days, it would be fun to rent that little dollhouse. It's practically across the street from Lookout House. Perhaps they would rent it for a week anyway, since it's vacant. It would be so convenient if you're going to try to do anything with those antiques. The sign says it's furnished."

"And we can watch for the haunts," Priscilla laughed. They saw a real estate office and went inside to inquire about the cottage. While they were there, Rita remembered the money she had found and telephoned Mr. Todd. "We found some money at Lookout House, Mr. Todd. Did you lose it?" She didn't say how much it was, or just where she had found it. She had been so sure it was his, she was astonished to hear him say he hadn't lost any money. He hadn't had any with him. In fact, just that morning he had said he'd have to be sure to get to the bank before noon.

Mr. Todd didn't seem particularly interested. Probably supposing that it was a small amount, he said he guessed finders were keepers. Rita replaced the telephone thinking, How on earth will I find who lost it? I can't keep that much money. Was it possible it had been there a whole year? Who had been in the house since then? Perhaps they should communicate with the woman who had lived with Aunt Rachel. But the money was too new. It was crisp and unused. Of course if they couldn't find the owner, she would turn the money over to Priscilla. After all, it had been found on her property.

At the real estate office they learned that the people who owned the little cottage, the Glass family, were in Europe. The cottage was fully equipped, and they couldn't see any objection to renting it for a week if the girls wanted it.

They moved into the cottage that afternoon. There was a sitting room, a bedroom with twin beds, a small, adequately equipped kitchen with a built-in booth for dining. Everything was scrupulously clean.

"Look, Rita! There's coffee here, salt, pepper, sugar. Let's go out and buy groceries. This is going to be fun! There's even a telephone—let's see if it's working. It is! How nice."

They telephoned Mr. Todd and told him of their move. He sounded quite excited. He had called them at the hotel to tell them that he had a prospect for the house, but they had already checked out. Luis Alvarez had just heard that Lookout House was on the market and he was interested. What Alvarez didn't say was that Red Gallagher, cruising around town, had seen them visit the house and had reported it. Then Alvarez had lost no time in calling on Mr. Todd. He said he had decided it would be a good site for the hotel he proposed building. He wasn't particularly interested in the furniture, but said he would buy the place intact. The main thing was he wanted it right away. Priscilla, who took the message, turned and relayed it to Rita. Her first impulse was to tell Mr. Todd to take whatever Alvarez offered, but something clicked in her mind. How had this man known that Mr. Todd was in charge of the house? Why hadn't he contacted a real estate firm instead of a lawyer? Had he seen them go there? The place had been vacant a long time. Luis Alvarez had been in town for some time. Why had he suddenly become interested in the place? And why hadn't he asked the price, instead of saying he would make a good offer? Rita advised her to wait. In the meantime, they would visit some real estate people and get an idea of the value of the place so that Priscilla could talk more intelligently about it.

They went back to King Realty Company, from whom they had rented the cottage. Mr. King looked from one girl to the other. He said, "I hadn't heard that Lookout House was for sale. I thought they were still trying to locate the heir."

"I'm the heir," Priscilla explained. "Mrs. Porter was my great-aunt. She left Lookout House to me and of course I want to sell it. I'd like to dispose of it while I'm here, if I can."

"It would take considerable restoring," Mr. King said promptly. "I don't suppose you could find a purchaser interested in doing that. About the only thing valuable would be some of the furnishings and the lot. There are several lots involved and it's a bay-front property. Should bring a pretty good price," he paused and laughed, "without the house."

Priscilla smiled. "And the haunts?" "Oh, so you've heard that? Well, of course there's no such things as haunts, but these tales get around. Guess they'd disappear, with the house gone. Yes, I should say the best thing was to tear down the house and offer the lots for sale."

Priscilla told him that Mr. Todd had a client who was considering the property for a hotel site.

Mr. King shook his head. "Don't believe they'd let anyone put a hotel there. Some of the best old homes in town are in that neighborhood and the people wouldn't want a hotel so near. Of course I'll be glad to investigate for you, if you like." He suggested that they call him the next day and he would try to give them an appraisal.

As they were leaving the real estate office, the red Buick passed by and Priscilla said, "That red-Buick man again. He didn't see us, though."

"Yes, he did," Rita said. "It would have been impossible for him not to. And I saw him look over here, then look away. There's something in the air." Priscilla. "We're being followed. But why?"

Southern Race Students At Mixed Colleges Get NSSFNS Scholarships

MEMPHIAN GWEN WMS IS AMONG Awardees
Eighty-five southern Negro students, including Memphian Gwendolyn Williams, a junior at Evansville (Ind.) College, now enrolled in interracial colleges were awarded $27,000 this week in supplementary scholarships by the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students.

These awards supplement $64,850 in college scholarships which the students have been awarded by each of their colleges and bridges the financial gap between college awards and the student's total financial needs.

The outstanding records of these students, from southern segregated high schools and, for the most part, from low income families, now attending a nationwide group of 554 colleges and universities, (including Harvard, the University of Chicago, Dartmouth, Michigan State, Radcliffe and Rockford) have now proved that the promise they showed as high school seniors has not only been met but in many cases, exceeded.

Richard L. Plaut, Executive Vice-Chairman and Director of the NSSFNS extensive two-year "Southern Project" talent search, financed by the Fund for the Advancement of Education, feels that the Project has made college a reality for these students. He also stressed that these students have shown that good college material can be found off, as well as on, the beaten track and not always where cultural and educational advantages exist. "The same talent searching tools and methods we developed during our Southern Project," Mr. Plaut said.

Amend paragraph 4 to read: "Recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States relating to segregation in publicly supported schools and elsewhere have brought consequences of vast importance to our nation as a whole and especially to communities directly affected. tion, however. Whereas Kefauver could boast approximately 360 delegates bound to him for the Presidential nomination until he threw in the towel two weeks ago.

Many of these can be recaptured for a formidable show of strength for the Vice Presidential spot, if a knock-down fight is allowed to develop on the convention floor.

Key strategists, after a secret huddle late Wednesday, reported that Stevenson is "about convinced" that Kefauver would give better balance than any other man to his ticket.
