Introduction

This course is a study of Jesus of Nazareth and what can be learned about him from history literature, and culture. After an investigation of the so-called third quest for the historical Jesus and its results, the course will turn to a survey of images of Jesus that have been prominent in the history of human culture. Finally, the course will consider the various uses to which Jesus has been put in modern literature since the eighteenth century. We will focus on retellings of the life of the historical Jesus, as well as literary Christ-figures of various kinds.

Explanations

Attendance, Preparation and Participation--These are crucial aspects of a student's involvement in a course such as this one. Attendance means being present in class on time and remaining until class is concluded; Preparation means coming to class having actively read the assignment and noted questions, puzzles or learnings to be shared on request. Participation means contributing regularly to discussions in a critical, searching and honest way, always remaining respectful of the viewpoints of others--especially your classmates.

N.B.: Students may miss class three times during the semester for any reason. Students who miss class four or more times will have their A&P grades lowered accordingly.

Papers: Students will write two short papers (4-5pages), with due dates noted on the schedule of topics and readings. These papers should demonstrate integration of and thoughtful responses to course material. They will be graded on content, style and mechanics and should conform to Kate L. Turabian, Student's Guide for Writing College Papers or some other standard writing manual. Paper assignments will be announced in class.

Exams There will be a mid-term and a final examination. Both exams will be take-home and will consist of objective and essay questions. The final examination will be due at the end of the exam period specified by the College for D hour courses. The mid-term exam will due on the date noted in the syllabus.

Quizzes. There will be five pop quizzes administered at the beginning of class over the course of the semester. The best four of these will be averaged to comprise a student's quiz grade. Performance on quizzes will also inform the instructor's impression of students' preparation for class.

Other Activities: Periodically, students will be asked to participate in small group discussions or complete in-class writings assignments. These activities will help inform the instructor's impression of students' preparation for class.

Late Work: Without an explicit extension from the professor, papers, exams, quizzes, etc. will not be accepted after the due date.

Percentages for Tabulating Grades:

Attendance, Preparation and Participation 20%
Examinations 40% (20% each)
Papers 30% (15% each)
Quizzes 10%
