came out with his hands clasped together on top of his head. Jones looked at him for a second or so, and shot him in the stomach. Payne fell to the ground and Jones began to kick him as if to see whether or not he was dead.

By this time the youth's mother had come and Jones ordered her to get back. She fainted and Jones started waving the gun telling everyone to get back and leave. The patrolman was said to have taken his time about calling an ambulance. Payne died within minutes after being shot by Jones. The knife was found in the basement, but apparently, Payne wasn't aware of it.

This is an eye witness report of how 17 yr. old Larry Payne was slain by Patrolman L. D. Jones on March 28, 1968 during the looting of Sears Roebuck & Co., Third St. Branch.
