

ENGL 151-09, First Year Writing Seminar: The New Yorker, Fall 2012

Item Type	Syllabus
Authors	Finlayson, Rebecca
Publisher	Memphis, Tenn. : Rhodes College
Rights	Rhodes College owns the rights to the archival digital images in this collection. Objects are made available for educational use only and may not be used for any non-educational or commercial purpose. Approved educational uses include private research and scholarship, teaching, and student projects. Original copies of the programs are stored in the Rhodes College Archives. In all instances of use, acknowledgement must be given to Rhodes College Archives Digital Repository, Memphis, TN. For information regarding permission to use this image, please email the Archives at archives@rhodes.edu
Download date	2025-02-10 22:28:24
Link to Item	http://hdl.handle.net/10267/15253

FYWS 151-09: THE NEW YORKER

Professor Finlayson: Palmer 317; 843-3293; finlayson@rhodes.edu

Writing Fellow: John Cerrito; cerjj@rhodes.edu

CRN 13560, Fall 2012 Class: Tu/Th 9:30-10:45 am; Barret 216

Office hours: T and 1-3 PM; Th 2-3 and by appt.

Course Description. The goal of this course is to develop your ability to read, think, and write critically, to employ discussion and writing as a means of exploring and refining ideas, and to express those ideas in effective prose. 151 will emphasize successive stages of the writing process, including pre-writing, drafting, and revision. At least one of your papers will involve the use of the library and research material and proper documentation.

---

- Week 1      Th, Aug 23:    Information class.
- Week 2      Tu, Aug 28:    The New Yorker. What makes writing good?
Select a piece of writing that you consider “good” and bring a ½ page excerpt of it to class. You may choose anything: a letter, a novel, a blog, an article, etc. The excerpt you bring should exemplify the qualities of the writing that make it “good.”
HW: Write one paragraph describing what makes your excerpt “good” writing.
- Th, Aug 30:    The New Yorker. Read Malcolm Gladwell’s “Big and Bad” (in my public folder) \\Fileserver1\acad\_dept\_pgm\English\Finlayson\_Rebecca\Public\FYWS\_151
HW: In your own words, state both the topic and the thesis of this article (they are different). You can do this assignment in 2 sentences. ~ 50 words
- Week 3      Tu, Sept 4:      The New Yorker. Argumentation.
HW: Generally examine your first two copies of the magazine, paying particular attention to the visual design and the article topics. Write/type a 1-page assessment of The New Yorker based on your experience with these issues (and not based on assumptions you might have about the magazine). Make some sort of argument regarding who the intended audience of the New Yorker is and what kind of general message the magazine’s editor seems to be projecting. Avoid generalizations. Instead, use specific examples (detailed descriptions) of aspects such as the cover image, the table of contents, the categories, the writing styles (please avoid discussion of the advertisements). You should address at least three separate categories (in other words, don’t spend your entire time critiquing the cover). ~300 words
- Th, Sept 6:      The New Yorker. The Rhetorical Triangle.
HW: Write one paragraph describing your reaction to the article. Does it seem aggressively argumentative? Simply exploratory? Informative? Creative? ~ 150 words
- Week 4      Tu, Sept 11:     Speed editing for Paper 1.
Read “Rhetorical Essay” handout and RC Handbook 12-14
HW: Bring to class 2 proposed thesis statements (typed) on separate sheets of paper (i.e., for two potential, different papers). ~ 50 words
- Th, Sept 13:     Mini Workshop for Paper 1. Read RC Handbook 20-24.
HW: Drop in my Faculty Inbox your draft (at least 600 words) by 8 AM before class and bring a hard copy to class for the WF, who will return drafts with feedback to you by Sunday night.
- Week 5      Tu, Sept 18:     The Reader & Experience
Paper 1 due ~1000 words. Include with your final paper your HW from Speed Editing day, your draft with comments, and your Writer’s Review.

- Th, Sept 20: The New Yorker. The Reader & Values
HW: What values or emotions or experiences of yours does the writer appeal to? ~150 words.
- Week 6 Tu, Sept 25: The New Yorker. The Writer & Authority
HW: Pay attention to the “sources” the writer uses, whom s/he quotes or describes in order to provide evidence. How does the “character” or ethos of those sources affect the writer’s argument. ~ 150 words.
- Th, Sept 27: The New Yorker. The Writer & Style
HW: What about this writer is different than other writers we’ve read? Does this writer have a special voice? Use unique language? Employ a particular tone? ~150 words.
- Week 7 Tu, Oct 2: The New Yorker. The Text & Logic
HW: Locate three places where the writer “reasons” with us by using logic or evidence. ~150 words
- Th, Oct 4: Workshop for Paper 2, Group A.
Drafts (at least 1000 words) due in my INBOX Wednesday before at 5 PM.
HW for Group B: Bring to class 2 copies of your introduction with thesis and 3 main supporting points. ~300 words
- Week 8 Tu, Oct 9: Workshop for Paper 2, Group A. Read RC Handbook 14-20
- Th, Oct 11: Paper 2 due ~ 1300 words. Read RC Handbook 20-26 as you revise Paper 2. Include with your final paper all materials associated with your writing process as well as your Writer’s Review.
- Week 9 Tu, Oct 16: No class. Fall Break.
- Th, Oct 18: The New Yorker. The Text & Structure
HW: Retype three argument statements from the article, then identify the claim and reason for each. ~100 words
- Week 10 Tu, Oct 23: The New Yorker. The Text & Evidence.
HW: Locate 3 pieces of evidence (or reasoning) the author uses. ~50 words
- Th, Oct 25: The New Yorker. The Text & Language.
HW: Identify and re-type 6 figures of speech or language you find in the reading (or any reading we’ve done so far (except the SUV one). Your 6 examples should come from at least a few different articles. ~50 words
- Week 11 Tu, Oct 30: The New Yorker. The Text & Expression.
HW: Locate and retype 2 sentences from the NY article that you find particularly satisfying and identify/explain why the sentences are well-crafted.~50 words
- Th, Nov 1: Workshop for Paper 3, Group B.
Drafts (at least 1000 words) due in my INBOX Wednesday before at 5 PM.
HW for Group A: Bring to class 2 copies of your introduction with thesis and 3 main supporting points. ~300 words
- Week 12 Tu, Nov 6: Workshop for Paper 3, Group B.

	Th, Nov 8:	Research Paper Instructions Paper 3 due ~ 1500 words. Include with your final paper all materials associated with your writing process as well as your Writer's Review.
Week 13	Tu, Nov 13:	Researching (Online Databases). RC Handbook 3-9 There will be a series of HW assignments due each class period as detailed in the Research Paper instructions.
	Th, Nov 15:	Library Computer Lab
Week 14	Tu, Nov 20:	Library Computer Lab
	Th, Nov 22:	No Class. Thanksgiving Break.
Week 15	Tu, Nov 27:	Using &amp; Documenting Sources. RC Handbook 35-40
	Th, Nov 29:	Intellectual Property HW: Paraphrasing worksheet.
Week 16	Tu, Dec 4:	Last Class. Paper 4 due.

Department of English Expectations and Policies

---

A college course is more than simply a set of assignments; it is an intellectual process, one which requires active engagement from beginning to end in order to achieve its intended results. With this in mind, the Department of English has formulated a number of expectations and the policies that support them. If you have questions about how these policies relate to the syllabus for a particular course, you should address them to the instructor.

Attendance: The success of a course depends to a significant extent upon the presence of students alert and prepared to address the subject under discussion. Unavoidable absences should be discussed with the instructor, ideally before they occur. Excessive absences will result in a lowering of grade, in some cases to an F.

Deadlines: Writing assignments, tests, etc., are carefully scheduled as stages toward the fulfillment of the course's goals and cannot be indefinitely deferred without frustrating those goals. Brief extensions for good reasons may be permissible with the instructor's prior approval; otherwise, late assignments will be penalized and may result in their not being accepted for credit.

Submission of all work: All major assignments are integral to the goals of the course. Failure to complete any major assignment will result in a grade of F for the course.

Intellectual honesty: All work is assumed to be the student's own and produced exclusively for the course in which it is submitted. Papers written for one course, even if revised, are not to be submitted in another without the instructor's prior approval. Borrowing of ideas or language from other sources (including published material, other student papers, the internet or other electronic resources, etc.) must be carefully documented. Students are advised against posting their work on the internet since doing so may lead to suspicion of plagiarism. Students are advised to maintain drafts of their work to verify its originality. Cases of suspected plagiarism will be referred to the Honor Council, and the student if convicted will receive a grade of F in the course in addition to sanctions assigned by the Council. Clear evidence of plagiarism (failure to use quotation marks around verbatim or copied language, failure to adequately paraphrase, and failure to cite the source of quoted, paraphrased, or borrowed text and ideas), regardless of the Council hearing outcome, may likewise result in failure of the course. Carelessness in documenting sources, even if not technically plagiarism, will be penalized as the instructor deems appropriate. If you are uncertain about how or whether to document sources, consult your teacher.

TEXTS

The text for this class is The New Yorker magazine, which I will distribute on Thursdays for the following week's reading. If the NYS do not arrive in time, I will leave them outside my office for you to pick up asap (check your email). Periodically, I will assign an article from a previous issue, and you will receive this as an email attachment or in class. You will read 2 (sometimes 3) essays per week and we typically will decide as a class which essays we'll read. The New Yorker is an intellectual magazine, known for its accomplished writing. As such, it is sometimes challenging to read. You'll want to set aside at least 6 hours each week outside of class for reading and responding. Your magazine pages should be marked with your notes and questions because you'll be expected to contribute your comments in class (and you will need these notes when you later write your paper).

Because of the nature of the weekly text, I often make spontaneous announcements in class or via email (for example, which essays or chapters to read for the following week). Make sure that you get this information and write it down as it may differ from the original syllabus. If you miss class, ask a classmate (not me) to fill you in. You are responsible for knowing what we are reading and what your written homework assignments are (they are subject to change from the syllabus). Please check your Rhodes email daily.

PAPERS—70%

There are 4 formal papers for this class. They should be typed with approximately 330 words per page (i.e. Times Roman 12; 1" margins), double-spaced, pledged in full, and must include a word count, your name, my name, and an analytical title. Proofread your papers for typos and grammar errors. For every error, your paper grade will suffer 0.1 point on a 4.0 scale. (A=4.0, A-=3.7, B+=3.3, etc.). All paper formatting, including spacing, quoting, etc, should follow MLA style, which can be found in your copy of the Rhodes College Guide to Effective Writing. Submit only hard copies of final drafts and always keep a spare hard copy of your paper. Please also submit a Writer's Review:

The Writer's Review functions as a cover letter of sorts and will be submitted along with every final draft. This brief (~200 words) write-up is a required element of each formal paper assignment and will be graded as a homework assignment. The WR is unique in that it invites you to reflect carefully and honestly on the actual process of writing that led up to your paper rather than simply dwelling on the state of your final product. The format of the WR is entirely up to you and should address issues such as challenges faced during the writing process, questions regarding any element of the paper, writing strengths/strategies evident in the piece, etc. The WR is useful to you as the writer because it promotes a greater awareness of the rhetorical situation of each paper. Additionally, the WR helps your readers (Professor and Writing Fellow) better understand and address the individual moments of growth and struggle each of you experiences throughout the semester.

Please plan ahead; if your computer is known to crash or if you need to go to Barret for printing, give yourself plenty of time to accommodate potential last minute crises. Late papers: All papers are due in class on the day stipulated on the syllabus. Any unexcused late paper will be penalized a full letter grade for every day late (A becomes B, B+ becomes C+ and weekends count as two days). I will grant extensions in special circumstances. If you need an extension, you must contact me at least one class period before the paper is due. Failure to complete any of the four major papers for this class will result in failure of the class per the English Department's Policies (attached). Failure to properly cite your sources—ideas, language, data—in your formal paper final drafts will also result in failure of the class.

- Paper 1: 10% (1000 words ~ 3 pages)
- Paper 2: 15% (1300 words ~ 4 pages)
- Paper 3: 20% (1500 words ~ 5 pages)
- Paper 4: 25% (3000 words ~ 9 pages)

Your first two papers will examine/critique and/or expand on an essay we've read for class from The New Yorker. The last two papers will produce original arguments using the rhetorical strategies of the essays. Each class period will be devoted to discussing these essays, so I encourage you to take notes that you may later use for writing your paper. When grading your papers, I will focus primarily on your ability to construct a viable and supported thesis from the text or issue you are analyzing. This means that I'll want to see a thesis that is, in fact, arguable, followed by a good deal of evidence (i.e. quotations) that proves your position. I'll also be looking for stylistic elements like helpful transitions (connections made between ideas), word choice, use of metaphor and tone, etc. I deduct 0.1 points from your final paper grade for each grammatical error (including typos); in other words, proofread carefully.

WORKSHOPS AND DRAFTS

For the first paper, we will workshop only your introduction and thesis, and your Writing Fellow will give you feedback on your entire draft. For the second and third papers, we will workshop half the class (8 drafts for Paper 2 workshop and 8 drafts for Paper 3 workshop). Paper 4 will not be workshopped. You will sign up for Paper 2 and Paper 3 workshop early in the semester.

Keep in mind that, if your draft is in workshop, you must drop the file in my faculty inbox on the day (and time) specified on the syllabus. Because time for reading is tight, this is a strict requirement. If it's late, your paper grade will suffer significantly. Once the drafts are in, I will create a packet and send it to the entire class to read for the day of the workshop. After the 2-day workshop, the writers must revise and turn in both the draft and final paper on the due date. Failure to revise the draft will dramatically affect the final paper grade.

HOMEWORK ASSIGNMENTS—20%

For most class days in addition to your reading, you will have a brief writing assignment, identified "HW," of 50-300 words. All of these assignments must be typed and brought to class on the day stipulated on the syllabus. For example, Thursday, Sept 1 notes the HW as "In your own words, state both the topic and the thesis of this article (they are different). ~ 50 words," and so that assignment is due in class on Sept 1. Because of the spontaneous nature of our class text and the unpredictability of the New Yorker readings, I or your fellow periodically may assign outside reading or change the topic of the writing assignment for a particular class. Please check your Rhodes email daily.

The purpose of these assignments is to hone your analytical reading skills, develop your rhetorical objectivity, and prepare you for writing your papers. Grades on these assignments will vary, depending on their subject. Some will be Pass/Fail, others will be check +/-, and still others A/B/C and so forth. I may collect the assignment on its due date or may ask that you retain it for a later due date as part of a collection of HW (so bring your folder of work to each class). Your final 20% grade will be an average of your semester total.

PARTICIPATION—10%

Class participation is an integral part of FYWS 151, and it is formally included as a part of your final grade. Actively participating means the following: completing thoughtful written homework assignments, engaging in in-class writing (group or individual), joining frequently in class or group discussions with provocative and articulate comments and questions. Anyone not prepared to participate will be counted as absent. Furthermore, if you sleep, text, work on non-class tasks or entertainment, fail to bring your text, or distract other members of the class from participating, you will be counted absent. I encourage you to take this aspect of the course seriously because your grade will reflect it.

ABSENCES

You are expected to be at every class. I am willing to excuse up to two absences (please email me with your "excuse" either prior to or after class). Beyond those two, each additional absence will cost your final course average one grade tier (or .33 points). If you would like to appeal for additional excused absences beyond the two I'm willing to grant, you will need to go through the Dean of Students office and file a formal request, which may or may not be granted, depending on the circumstances. If you physically miss more than six classes, you will fail the course. If you miss class on the day a paper is due, please leave it outside my office door no later than 11 AM that day, otherwise it will be considered late. Note: you are responsible for finding out from a classmate what happened in class the day you were absent or late. Chronic tardiness will affect your final grade. Do not bother coming at all if you are more than 10 minutes late.

Each day it will be your responsibility to sign the attendance notebook. If your signature is not there for a particular day, you will be counted absent. If you are late, you will need to find the notebook, sign it, and document your tardiness. If you have perfect attendance, you will receive bonus points at the end of term.

MATERIALS

I will periodically save documents (handouts, paper instructions, etc) in my faculty folder on the Academic Volume. You can access it here: [\\Fileserver1\acad\_dept\_pgm\English\Finlayson\_Rebecca\Public\FYWS 151](\\Fileserver1\acad_dept_pgm\English\Finlayson_Rebecca\Public\FYWS 151).